WHAT IS THE ROLE OF CRIMINOLOGISTS IN INFORMING UNITED NATIONS PUBLIC POLICY?

Cindy Smith, Chair of the Division of International Criminology of the American Society of Criminology.

As I sit in the annual United Nations Commission on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice (Crime Commission)¹ meetings in the conference room of the UN building in Vienna, Austria, I feel the magical energy of high level bureaucrats drafting crime resolutions using the consensus model. Most of the week is filled with discussion among the representatives of the 40 Member States, as well as country representatives that attend as spectators, about whether the word invite should replace encourage in the opening paragraphs of the draft resolution.² This negotiation, however trivial it seems, is very important to ensure support and the resulting action by the countries throughout the world. This level of word-smithing is even more amazing to me when I look around the theatre style room at the roughly 100 countries represented at a typical meeting, each wearing a headset and listening to or speaking one of six official UN languages. The interpreters, two to a booth, are housed in the glass enclosed private boxes over-looking the floor from the second level of the theatre. Which word will interpret the best? Which word will give each country the same meaning and the same feeling? Which word will elicit the response intended?

In the halls surrounding this semi-circular room, the non-governmental organizations (NGOs), representing civil society, discuss their latest report or program, while standing in line at the coffee bar with a representative from one of the Member States who (they think) might agree to request the selected word be enhanced by adding strongly to encourage. Each NGO is an advocate for an agenda, a bias, to promote resolutions that will favor their constituency. Each government official has an agenda, a bias, to find consensus that favors their citizens. But, who is promoting data driven policy?

In a perfect world, crime theory would allow policy makers to anticipate crime and know what to do about it before it happens. They would not need researchers to translate the volumes of literature on each topic because the theory would be the summary. In a slightly less perfect world, policy makers would anticipate crime and actively seek out the prominent researchers on each topic to provide guidance and wisdom on prevention and intervention prior to developing a resolution. Researchers would develop theories that would not only explain crime globally, but identify potential crime, conduct research, and enable the development of prevention and intervention models that account for the intended and unintended consequences of particular policies. This would permit policy makers and researchers ample opportunity to examine a problem from all angles before making a final policy decision; thereby avoiding policies that create new problems or are not effective in reducing the current problem. When an inadequate policy is implemented, it takes years to adjust it, leaving victims of unintended consequences in the wake; thus the importance of basing policy on good research. However, the world is not perfect, nor slightly less than perfect. Therefore, someone needs to assemble the volumes of knowledge into something that is usable by policy makers to create data driven policy.

AROUND THE ASC

J. Mitchell Miller has accepted the position of Professor and Chair of the Department of Criminal Justice at the University of Texas at San Antonio. The Journal of Criminal Justice Education has been relocated to UTSA from the University of South Carolina where Miller was on the faculty from 1996-2006.

Expecting policy makers to assemble and digest the volumes of academic literature is problematic for two reasons. First, much of the high quality research is held only in the peer reviewed journals that are full of academic jargon, statistics, and difficult to obtain. This is particularly true in a global society where reports are written in various languages, albeit more dominant in English, across the almost 200 member nations in the UN. Secondly, many of the cutting edge research reports are housed in government offices and not easily obtainable. These reports are more likely to be in the native language of the country, including those languages outside the six UN languages.

This problem begs for a discussion of the research community's responsibility. Is it within the purview of the field of international criminology/criminal justice to research policy relevant issues? Should we do more than pure research? If so, is it our responsibility to make that research accessible to outside readers?³ The ASC has taken a position on this issue and developed its second journal, Criminology and Public Policy. However, a review of the topics included in the journal reveals a focus on crime issues that have been researched for many years (i.e., prison population growth). The legislation is already passed, the policies are in place, and the research lags behind. This does not make this research unimportant, but it is reactive instead of proactive.

Is it possible for researchers to be on the cutting edge of a new crime problem? This question has been discussed peripherally in the crime literature for many years. Blumer (1971) suggests that researchers do not become aware of social problems until government or civil society raise awareness about them. According to Blumer's model, this results in researchers entering the process at the third stage of problem definition, which is often too late to impact the initial legislation⁴. In this model it is more likely that the researcher will be called in to conduct a program evaluation years after the program has been in operation, but little to no data have been collected. To research a problem before the legislation means the researcher must be involved at the level of initially identifying the problem.

In the international arena, there is at least one way for researchers to anticipate the up-coming legislative topics and to begin their research at least one year prior to the sessions of the Crime Commission. For many years, a summary report has been posted on the web page of the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC) under the Crime Commission (see, for example, http://www.unodc.org/unodc/en/crime_cicp_commission.html). In this final report of the session, the work for the next Commission meeting is outlined. For example, the Commission meeting in 2005 (E/2005/30) summary report identified that the topics of discussion for spring of 2006 included economic crime with an emphasis on money-laundering and the financing of terrorism and combating transnational crime (http://www.unodc.org/unodc/en/crime_cicp_commission_session_15.html, E/2006/30, E/CN.15/2006/20).

If this information has been available to researchers for many years, why have more not taken advantage of it? Why is this issue so important today? The first question might be answered by examining the number of researchers who have been interested in international issues. The ASC membership has remained relatively constant with approximately 20 percent of its membership being non-US citizens. Currently the ASC membership is 2993, with 678 non-US citizen members. The number of US and international members conducting international research is small, which results in a small number of protégé being developed in the area. However, as the world shrinks, more crime is linked to its international dimensions, and criminology/criminal justice education fully integrates the international and transnational nature of crime, this number should increase.

The second question is more complex. Recent changes in the Crime Commission working structure have raised concern among civil societies. Two of the three Crime Commission working groups appear to have changed in the overall structure. Although this happened over time, the retirement of Executive Director Eduardo Vetere of the Secretariat of the Crime Commission focused attention on the structure as the field waited for his replacement to be announced.

Three main groups participate in the Crime Commission work; the Secretariat, Member States, and non-governmental organizations (NGOs). The Secretariat staff is primarily composed of business-oriented professionals (i.e., MBA, PhD. in Economics), although there continue to be some crime experts. In the past, the Secretariat employed numerous well known criminologists (i.e., Gerhard Mueller) and the research division of the UNODC was vibrant with specialists who informed the Member States on many topics. But, as we fast forward to 2006, we find a different Secretariat. Under this new lean and mean business model structure, the Secretariat is planning the Think Tank model. In this model, the UNODC will have the specific expertise of a limited number of staff and fill in the gaps with consulting experts as funding permits.

Secondly, 40 of the 191 UN Member States are elected to serve on the Crime Commission for two year terms. They are composed of primarily foreign ministry political types that address all topics (i.e., professional law makers, general foreign policy). Some do have expertise in criminology, but the vast majority does not and does not have the funding to hire consultants to review documents for them prior to or at the Crime Commission meetings.

Finally, the NGOs represent civil society, some of whom have criminology expertise, others of whom have extensive expertise in related issues (i.e., victimology). These groups are the topical experts upon whom the Member States rely. NGOs sometimes participate behind the scenes (i.e., in the hallway) as discussed previously, helping Member States draft legislation, encourage grass roots topics to be considered on the Commission floor and they have some ability to speak from the floor after all Member States have completed their comments.

In addition to these three groups, there are other groups, such as intergovernmental groups, the fourteen institutes, and special experts called upon for their expertise and perspectives. Many of these experts are known to and members of the ASC. However, the pool is limited to funding availability and the perspective presented can be narrowly focused. Under the current conditions, the concern was eloquently posed by the US representative in the closing comments of one of the key sessions at the 2006 Crime Commission meeting. The representative pleaded with the NGO community to be active in informing the Member States in the details of the issues because often the representatives lack criminology/criminal justice expertise. It is this plea, from the US delegation, that makes the issue so timely. It is the first time the NGOs have heard the US support their involvement.

If Member States are relying on the expertise of the NGO community, what information will they learn? Who are these NGOs and what are their biases? NGOs include a variety of organizations, such as the World Society of Victimology, Pax Romano, and the Soroptimists. In fact, there are over 1500 NGOs with special consultative status to the Economic and Social Council (ECOSOC) of the UN (See http://www.unodc.org/unodc/ngos_database.html for a brief description of their missions). Some are more active than others, but each brings its own bias and advocacy agenda. Not all bias is negative to the process. The ASC has this consultative status, reported in the November 2003 Criminologist, and it has a biased agenda. This ASC agenda is found in the second section entitled Purpose and Objectives of the ASC Constitution (<http://www.asc41.com/const.htm>). The ASC's bias stems from our purpose of disseminating knowledge from research results. We want policy to be based on this knowledge.

In response to the question, "Why is this issue so important today?" I offer the following thoughts: The Secretariat of the UNODC and the related staff are primarily business people, ensuring the work is completed in a timely and efficient manner. Many of the Member States are developing recommendations for crime related resolutions to ECOSOC without the benefit of crime expertise input from the Secretariat or from their own ranks. This results in the majority of the expertise coming from the NGO community. Recognizing that the majority of the NGOs are advocates for a specific cause, if the general attending group of NGOs provides guidance to the Member States, the results will be biased toward their agenda. The direction of the bias can be anticipated by the list of regular attendees found at the end of each report on the Crime Commission (See, for example, http://www.unodc.org/unodc/en/crime_cicp_commission_session_15.html, E/2006/30, E/CN.15/2006/20).

Attendance at the Crime Commission in Vienna each year yields a much clearer understanding of what is said, by whom, and in response to whom. This interaction places the data in context. While supporting the Member States to develop resolutions begins long before the Crime Commission meeting, attendance is an important dimension for each stakeholder. First, as the word-smithing occurs, the meaning of the resolution can be changed considerably. Having crime experts in attendance allows Member States immediate or last minute consultation. However, this generally does not occur unless personal rapport has been fully developed between the representative of the Member State and the NGO participant. Second, merely having the presence of civil society provides one check and balance on the governmental process. Finally, having NGO statements offers moral and technical support to the Secretariat personnel. Thus, the NGO community must attend and participate in the process to fully support the process. The nature of participation is dependent on the mission of each NGO.

The ASC takes very few policy positions, most notably limited to the death penalty at this time. However, the Member States do not want opinions or NGO policy statements from the supporting NGOs. Instead, they want reliable research results in a usable format. One good example of how this has been implemented occurred in 2004. The papers published on the death penalty in Criminology and Public Policy were reproduced for the Member States for the 2004 Crime Commission meeting. The presence of these papers, along with other informal discussions by ASC members attending the meeting, resulted in the discussion of the death penalty being allowed to occur on the Crime Commission floor. The Member States were informed and it was evident that they had received and at least perused the documents, albeit doubtful they had time to read them. These documents were peer reviewed journal articles, not opinion or advocacy papers, bundled in a package with the ASC policy paper summary. It is this unbiased knowledge that the ASC promotes. It is unimportant that the ASC takes a position on the death penalty. What was important was the research evidence that the ASC members could provide to the Member States so they could make informed decisions.

If the ASC – the world's largest and most productive group of criminologists - does not offer the Member States and Secretariat unbiased research results in a format that is easily digestible, then who will? And with what result? I suggest it will be the biases of those who regularly attend and have developed a rapport with the delegates of the Member States. These same organizations will provide the technical assistance to developing countries. Researchers who are interested in learning more will find informative sessions at the annual ASC meetings.

New Editor Sought for Criminology

The American Society of Criminology invites applications for the position of Editor of Criminology, one of its official journals. The new Editor will be responsible for three volumes beginning with the February 2009 issue. It is anticipated that manuscript submissions will transfer to the new Editor by December 2007.

In addition to supervising the peer review process and selecting articles for publication, the Editor is responsible for the production of the journal. The American Society of Criminology now pays for copy-editing, printing, and mailing of the journal and for a half-time Managing Editor. The Editor's supporting institution normally provides office space, file storage, equipment, and funds to cover office expenses such as postage and phone for editorial correspondence, copying, graduate student assistance, and release time for the Editor. Supporting institutions may propose to assume some of the expenses now provided by the ASC. ASC will provide a $5,000 honorarium to the Editor each year.

Application materials should include (1) a statement of editorial philosophy, (2) resumes of all proposed personnel, including the Editor, Managing Editor, Copy Editor, and Associate Editors, and (3) assurances and details of institutional support.

Interested applicants may contact the current Editor, Denise Gottfredson (301-405-4717) for additional information regarding the logistics or operational details of editing and producing the journal. Applicants are also encouraged to contact Steven Messner, Chair, ASC Publications Committee, (e-mail: s.messner@albany.edu, phone: 518/442-4674), to discuss their applications before submission. Applications (ten copies) should be sent to:

Steven Messner
Chair, ASC Publications Committee
University at Albany
Arts and Science 351
1400 Washington Avenue
Albany, NY 12222

Applications must be received by March 15, 2007.

Master of Science in Criminal Justice

The Department of Criminal Justice at Fayetteville State University is proud to announce our new Master of Science degree program in Criminal Justice. The program consists of 33 semester hours, with both a thesis and a non-thesis option, and is offered both on campus and online. Our curriculum serves the needs of:

- Criminal justice professionals and researchers who want to advance in their careers.
- Justice advocates who seek to improve the quality of justice in their communities.
- Individuals who want to teach criminal justice at the high school or community college level.
- Students who want a strong foundation for pursuing a doctoral degree in criminal justice.

Division of International Criminology (DIC)

Invites you to become a valued member*
($20 Existing ASC member, $15 Students)

Our membership comprises one of the largest divisions within ASC and continues to grow both in prominence and importance.

Benefits of Membership

- Inter-News (DIC newsletter). This professional newsletter is packed with information about DIC activities, research opportunities, member's news, publications, calls for papers, funding, international conferences and much more. Published quarterly. Examine archived issues: <http://www.asc41.com/dir1/divintcrime.htm>
- Subscription to the DIC journal: International Journal of Comparative and Applied Criminal Justice. Two issues per year scheduled. An excellent outlet for international research.
- Discounts for the DIC Luncheon at the ASC annual meeting. About 100 people attend our luncheons, including regional menus, the DIC Awards Ceremony, time to meet old and new friends.
- Opportunities to learn about developments in international/comparative criminology—in areas of research, teaching, policy, and funding options; to meet with colleagues from around the world to discuss our current work; and to think about collaborative projects with scholars and students.

And things to know:

- The ASC has been granted special consultative status as an NGO with the Economic and Social Council of the United Nations. We invite you to participate!
- The DIC is committed to globalizing crime research. We foster international partnerships.
- The DIC membership is FREE to ASC members from developing countries. Email barbstolz@aol.com for details.

And we invite you to participate:

- Committees to fit everyone! Information committee, Publication committee, International research methods committee, Membership committee, International perspective in the classroom committee, Awards committees and more! Join with your colleagues and make a difference in international criminology.
- Nominations please! Each year we recognize a student for an outstanding paper and then it is published in our Journal after peer review. Please consider encouraging your students to submit their papers. Consider nominating someone you know that would fit the category of Distinguished International Scholar. After reading the book that gave you a whole new understanding of a particular international issue, nominate it for the Distinguished Book Award.
- We want to hear from you during the year!

DIVISION NEWS

DIVISION OF CRITICAL CRIMINOLOGY

CALL FOR PAPERS – CRITICAL CRIMINOLOGY: AN INTERNATIONAL JOURNAL

Critical Criminology is the official journal of the Division of Critical Criminology of the American Society of Criminology. The journal deals with questions of social, political and economic justice. Critical Criminology is for academics and researchers with an interest in anarchistic, cultural, feminist, integrative, Marxist, peace-making, postmodernist and left-realist criminology. The journal does not limit the scope of the inquiry to state definitions of crime and welcomes work focusing on issues of social harm and social justice, including those exploring the intersecting lines of class, gender, race/ethnicity and heterosexism. The journal is of interest for all persons with an interest in alternative methodologies and theories in criminology, including chaos theory, non-linear analysis, and complex systems science as it pertains to the study of crime and criminal justice. The journal encourages works that focus on creative and cooperative solutions to justice problems, plus strategies for the construction of a more inclusive society.

Manuscripts should be approximately 6,000 to 8,000 words (including tables, illustrations, notes and references). Please send four hard copies of manuscripts, as well as an electronic copy (on 3.5 diskette or on CD-ROM) to Dr. Shahid Alvi, Editor-in-Chief, Faculty of Criminology, Justice & Policy Studies, University of Ontario Institute of Technology, 2000 Simcoe St. N, Oshawa, Ontario, Canada L1H 7K4.

Prior to submission, please access the following URL and follow the posted author's guidelines.

<http://www.critcrim.org/journal.htm> (NOTE: this link will lead you to the Springer website with links to author instructions.)

For our colleagues outside the U.S. and Canada, electronic submission is available, and should be sent to: Shahid.alvi@uoit.ca.

For markets outside the U.S., please consider working with either Mark Israel, Editor for the Pacific Rim (mark.israel@finders.edu.au) or Joanna Goodey, European Editor (jo.goodey@eumc.eu.int).

Our Book Review Editor, Mindy Bradley, is looking for book recommendations as well as individuals willing to review them. You may contact her at: mwbradl@uark.edu.

DIVISION OF WOMEN & CRIME

CALL FOR PAPERS – FEMINIST CRIMINOLOGY

Editor: Susan F. Sharp, University of Oklahoma

Official Journal of the Division on Women and Crime of the American Society of Criminology

Feminist Criminology – an innovative new journal that is dedicated to research related to women, girls, and crime within the context of a feminist critique of criminology – will unveil its premier issue in January 2006. Published quarterly by Sage Publications as the official journal of the Division on Women and Crime of the American Society of Criminology, this international publication focuses on research and theory that highlights the gendered nature of crime. The feminist critique of criminology incorporates a perspective that the paths to crime differ for males and females. Therefore, research that uses sex as a control variable often fails to illuminate the factors that predict female criminality. Feminist Criminology provides a venue for articles that place women in the center of the research question, answering different questions than the mainstream approach of controlling for sex.

Feminist Criminology features research utilizing both quantitative and qualitative methodology and includes insightful topics such as

- Race, Ethnicity, and Gender Diversity in the Study of Women and Crime
- Cross-Cultural / International Perspectives on Women and Crime
- Women Working in the Criminal Justice Profession
- How Women Offenders Are Treated in the Criminal Justice System
- Women as Victims
- Feminist Theories of Crime

Feminist Criminology welcomes academics, practitioners, and researchers interested in studies that incorporate a feminist critique to the study of gender and crime to submit articles, reviews, or special issues proposals to the editor. Manuscripts involving empirical research, theoretical analysis, and practice-oriented papers will be considered as will essays on teaching, social action agencies, and book reviews on issues of gender and crime. Manuscripts will be peer-reviewed by the diverse and distinguished multi-disciplinary editorial board and should be submitted in electronic format, not exceeding 30 double-spaced typed pages, with a 100-word abstract and a brief autobiographical sketch. Figures, tables, and references must be on separate pages and should follow the format specified in the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association (5th Edition).

Submissions to Feminist Criminology should be sent directly to the editor via email. A $10.00 submission fee, made payable to the American Society of Criminology, should be mailed to: Susan F. Sharp, Ph.D., University of Oklahoma, 780 Van Vleet Oval, KH 331, Norman, OK 73019 Email: ssharp@ou.edu

ATTENTION AUTHORS!!!

Many classic books in Criminology and Criminal Justice are out-of-print and difficult to access. ASC has been considering ways to make these books more accessible to the field.

Google has recently announced a program aimed at increasing accessibility of books in general. Google is working with several major libraries to include their entire collections in its "Google Book Search." Users will be able to search on authors, titles, topics, or snippets of content to find books. They will be able to view the full-text versions of books whose copyrights have expired. For works still copyright protected, users will see a few snippets from the book so that they can confirm that the book meets their needs, and they will be directed to information about how to order the book. However, under this program, authors can give Google permission to make the full text of a copy-righted book available so that users can have access to the full text. If such permission is granted, users will pay a fee for immediate access to its full contents. The copyright holder decides if a book should be available online, and what the access price should be.

This service may prove to be a convenient avenue for making books that are important to the field more easily accessible. For more information about the entire project, see:

<http://books.google.com/googleprint/library.html>

For more information about how to make a copy-righted book available for on-line access, see:

Change of Editorship for Criminology & Public Policy

The American Society of Criminology is pleased to announce that beginning with Volume 7, Issue 1 (February 2008), the new editors of Criminology & Public Policy will be Thomas G. Blomberg and Michael D. Reisig. Following its successful inception under the leadership of Todd Clear and Natasha Frost, the editorship of Criminology & Public Policy will move to Florida State University's College of Criminology and Criminal Justice. Manuscript submissions will transition to the new Editors in the Spring of 2007.

Until March 1, 2007 submit manuscripts to:

Natasha A. Frost
Criminology & Public Policy
College of Criminal Justice (415CH)
Northeastern University
360 Huntington Avenue
Boston, MA 02115
cpp@neu.edu

After March 1, 2007, submit manuscripts to:

Thomas Blomberg
Criminology & Public Policy
College of Criminology and Criminal Justice
Florida State University
Hecht House
634 W. Call Street
Tallahassee, Florida 32306-1127

The new Editors are enthusiastic about continuing Criminology & Public Policy's growth as a major publication outlet for research in this area. They will be assisted by an outstanding 21-member editorial board of established scholars. For more details, please visit the FSU College of Criminology and Criminal Justice website at www.criminology.fsu.edu.

Confessions of a Dying Thief: Understanding Criminal Careers and Illegal EnterprisesDARRELL STEFFENSMEIER

Darrell Steffensmeier received his MA and Ph.D degrees from the University of Iowa and is a Professor Sociology and Crime/Law/Justice at Pennsylvania State University. He is past president of the International Association for the Study of Organized Crime, recipient of Distinction in the Social Sciences award of The Pennsylvania State University and a Fellow of the American Society of Criminology. He has authored articles on a range of law/criminology topics in American Sociological Review, American Journal of Sociology, Social Forces, Criminology, and other social science and criminology journals. He is co-author of Examining Deviance Experimentally and author of The Fence: In the Shadow of Two Worlds which received the Outstanding Scholarship Award from the Crime and Delinquency Division of the Society for the Study of Social Problems. He also served as project director, chief analyst, and writer for the Pennsylvania Crime Commission's report, Organized Crime in Pennsylvania—A Decade of Change: The 1990 Report. His current research and writing focuses on applying multiple methods and data sources into examinations of the effects of gender, age, and race-ethnicity on patterns and trends in crime; further developing (with colleagues) the “focal concerns” theory of case-process decision making and the “gendered paradigm” of female offending; and expanding upon key themes raised in Confessions of a Dying Thief. Additional info: Conducted research and published on range of law/criminology topics – this includes: gender and crime, age and crime, race and crime, criminal careers and life-course criminality, trade in stolen goods, organized crime and illegal enterprise, communities and crime, cross-national crime, and trends in the Nation's crime rate; and the effects of gender, age, and race-ethnicity on criminal punishment and case-process decision making.

JEFFERY ULMER

Jeffery T. Ulmer is Associate Professor of Sociology and Crime, Law, and Justice at Penn State University. He earned his Ph.D in sociology in 1993 from Penn State University, and spent six years as an assistant professor of sociology at Purdue University before returning to Penn State in 2000. He has published 27 refereed journal articles, including seven in Criminology, on topics such as courts and sentencing, criminological theory, symbolic interactionism, recidivism, fear of crime, criminal enterprise, and the integration of ethnographic and quantitative methods. In addition, he is the author of Social Worlds of Sentencing: Court Communities Under Sentencing Guidelines (1997 State University of New York Press), and editor of three volumes of Sociology of Crime, Law, and Deviance. He is currently involved in a large quantitative and qualitative research project on federal courts and sentencing, funded by the National Science Foundation

NOMINATIONS FOR 2007 ASC AWARDS

The ASC Awards Committee invites nominations for the following awards, to be presented at the Annual Meeting. In submitting your nominations, provide the following supporting materials: a letter evaluating a nominee's contribution and its relevance to an award, and the nominee's c.v. (short version preferred) by March 1 to the appropriate committee chair. The awards are:

EDWIN H. SUTHERLAND AWARD, which recognizes outstanding scholarly contributions to theory or research in criminology on the etiology of criminal and deviant behavior, the criminal justice system, corrections, law or justice. The distinguished contribution may be based on a single outstanding book or work, on a series of theoretical or research contributions, or on the accumulated contributions by a senior scholar.

Committee Chair:	JEFFREY FAGAN School of Law Columbia University 435 W. 116 th Street New York, NY 10027	212-854-2624 (P) 212-854-7946 (F) af45@columbia.edu

AUGUST VOLLMER AWARD, which recognizes a criminologist whose research scholarship has contributed to justice or to the treatment or prevention of criminal or delinquent behavior, either through a single outstanding work, or a series of theoretical or research contributions, or on the accumulated contributions by a senior scholar.

Committee Chair:	BARRY KRISBERG National Council of Crime & Delinquency 1970 Broadway, Suite 500 Oakland, CA 94703	510-208-0500 (P) 510-208-0511 (F) bkrisberg@aol.com

ASC FELLOWS The title of "Fellow" is given to those members of the Society in good standing who have achieved distinction in the field of criminology. The honorary title of "Fellow" recognizes persons who have made a scholarly contribution to the intellectual life of the discipline, whether in the form of a singular, major piece of scholarship or cumulative scholarly contributions. Longevity alone is not sufficient. In addition, a Fellow must have made a significant contribution to the field through the career development of other criminologists and/or through organizational activities within the ASC. Newly designated Fellows will be recognized at the upcoming Annual Meeting. In your nominating letter, please describe the reasons for your nomination and include a copy of the nominee's curriculum vitae (or make arrangements to have it sent to the Committee Chair). All materials should be sent to the Committee Chair, noted below. Any questions should be directed to the Committee Chair. The deadline for nominations is March 1. A list of ASC Fellows can be found at www.asc41.com/felsnom.html.

UNDERGRADUATE FELLOWSHIP FOR ETHNIC MINORITIES

The ASC Minority Scholars/Mentors Research Grant program was established by the American Society of Criminology in order to increase the number of scholars in criminology and criminal justice who are members of historically disadvantaged and under-represented ethnic and racial groups. Undergraduate students who are members of these under-represented ethnic and racial groups and are near the end of their sophomore year of study are eligible. The goal of this initiative is to facilitate the advancement of academically talented students into graduate (especially doctoral) study in criminology (or criminal justice). Faculty members who are mentoring students will co-apply for the grant with the student. Applications are submitted during the student's sophomore year, with funding beginning in the student's junior year. Nominations must be received by May 1st preceding the student's junior year. Grantees will be selected by the Board of the American Society of Criminology, upon the recommendation of the Ad Hoc Committee on Minority Scholar/Mentor Research Grants. Grantees receive $10,000 in research scholarship funds, which is divided into awards of $5,000 for the student during his or her Junior and Senior years of undergraduate study. Grantees also receive a grant of up to $1,500 to support travel to the annual meetings of the American Society of Criminology during November of the student's Senior year of undergraduate study. At that annual meeting, the student will present a research paper (developed during in the previous year) under auspices of a faculty mentor (who may be a co-author). Awardees begin their work on the paper during the junior year of study.

Students selected for this award will receive:

$5,000 research grant each year for the junior and senior year of study

Up to $1,500 travel grant to attend the annual meetings of the American Society of Criminology

Guidance in the development of a research paper on a topic in criminology

Guidance in the scholarly area of criminology

Guidance in the application process for graduate school

The mentoring relation is expected to involve the following areas:

Mentoring the student in a collaborative research project that will yield a paper presented at the ASC meeting in the student's senior year.

Mentoring the student in the field of criminology during the student's two years of funding. This might involve weekly meetings, readings/independent study courses, courses, work on other projects, or attendance at local criminology conferences.

Mentoring of the student that will facilitate the student's preparation for and successful application to graduate study in criminology/criminal justice.

The proposal to ASC for the award is a collaborative effort. The primary criteria for allocating the awards are (1) the student's potential for completing doctoral work in criminology and (2) the quality of the proposed mentoring relationship. In this proposal, the faculty member should do the following:

Provide a written recommendation for why the potential grantee has the academic potential and career aspirations to successfully complete graduate study in criminology (or criminal justice) leading the student into an academic (or related) career.

Provide student transcripts and any other supporting materials demonstrating the student's promise as a scholar (these may include ACT, SAT, and/or GRE scores).

Provide a description of the proposed collaborative research project that will result in a presentation at the ASC meeting in the student's senior year.

Provide a description of other mentoring activities and proposed contact with the student over his or her junior and senior years.

In this proposal, the student should do the following:

Provide a personal statement on his or her career goals in criminology.

Provide a statement on how the Mentoring Grant would enable the student to focus more time on his or her academic work and better achieve his or her career goals (e.g., lessen time spent on a job).

Nomination proposals should be sent by May 1 to:

GENE CARTE STUDENT PAPER COMPETITION, Sponsored by McGraw-Hill

This award is given to recognize outstanding scholarly work of students.

Eligibility: Any student currently enrolled on a full-time basis in an academic program at either the undergraduate or graduate level. Persons who are previous first place prize winners of this competition are ineligible.

Paper Specifications: No paper may be submitted to more than one ASC student competition for the same year. Any paper that has previously won any prize in any ASC competition is ineligible for submission to another ASC competition. Papers may be conceptual and/or empirical but must be directly related to criminology. Papers must be typewritten, double-spaced on 8-1/2x11 white paper, and no longer than 7,500 words. The CRIMINOLOGY format for the organization of text, citations and references should be used. Authors' names, departments and advisors (optional) must appear ONLY on the title page, since papers will be evaluated anonymously. The next page of the manuscript should include the title and a 100-word abstract. The author must submit EIGHT copies of the manuscript, accompanied by a letter indicating the author's enrollment status and co-signed by the dean, department chair or program director.

Judging Procedures: The Student Awards Committee will rate entries according to criteria such as the quality of the conceptualization, significance of the topic, clarity and aptness of methods, quality of the writing, command of relevant work in the field, and contribution to criminology.

Awards: The 1st, 2nd, and 3rd place papers will be awarded prizes of $500, $300, and $200, respectively and will be eligible for presentation at the upcoming Annual Meeting. The 1st prize winner will also receive a travel award (generally hotel accommodations) to help defray costs for attending the Annual Meeting. The Committee may decide that no entry is of sufficient quality to declare a winner. Fewer than three awards may be given. Prize-winning students will be acknowledged at the Annual Meeting Awards Ceremony.

Submission Deadline: Papers must be submitted with a postmarked on or before April 15 to:

Committee Chair:	NANCY RODRIGUEZ Dept. of Criminology & Criminal Justice Arizona State University West 4701 W. Thunderbird Road Glendale, AZ 85306	602-543-6601 (P) 602-543-6658 (F) Nancy.rodriguez@asu.edu

IN MEMORIAM

Dennis "Denn" Roncek

It is with deepest regret that the School of Criminology and Criminal Justice at the University of Nebraska at Omaha announces the passing of Professor Dennis "Denn" W. Roncek August 28, after a long, courageous battle with cancer.

Professor Roncek received his Ph.D. from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign in Sociology and became a member of UNO's School of Criminology and Criminal Justice in 1994. He was well known for his research in environmental criminology, particularly for his work on the relationship between urban structures and crime on city blocks. He also published numerous articles on statistical procedures and analysis, and was recognized for his innovative and creative approaches to solving complex statistical problems.

During his time at UNO, Professor Roncek taught all of the graduate statistics courses in the School of Criminal Justice. He was known for being an instructor dedicated to student progress, and for always providing an open door and an open ear to students, staff and fellow faculty. He was awarded the Annual Faculty Member of the Year Award in 2003 and 2005 by the Graduate Student Organization, which is presented faculty members who provide guidance, encouragement and who set an example for students in their goal of continued education in attaining their M.S., M.A., or Ph.D.

Professor Roncek is survived by his loving wife, Susan, an enrollment specialist in the UNO Office of Undergraduate Admissions, one son, Douglas, and two daughters, Jennifer and Andrea.

The family requests memorials to the American Cancer Society or the Boy Scouts of America. Sympathy cards can be sent to the family at 3225 S.112th Street, Omaha, NE 68144.

Call for Nominations

Florida State University College of Criminology and Criminal Justice

Gordon P. Waldo Fellowship
$20,000 per year plus tuition waivers

The Gordon P. Waldo Fellowship is intended to recruit top students across the country into a career in criminological research that informs and influences public policy. The award will go to a highly motivated doctoral student with the intellectual curiosity necessary to challenge popular ideas about the causes, consequences, and control of crime.

Faculty can nominate students at www.criminology.fsu.edu/waldofellow. The nomination deadline is November 30.

JSA PRESENTS AWARDS AT 2006 CONFERENCE

At their Eighth Annual Conference held at the University of California, Berkeley from June 8-10 Justice Studies Association presented awards to social justice activist Medea Benjamin and social justice songsters Pat Humphries and Sandy Opatow. Benjamin was presented with the 2006 Noam Chomsky Award and Humphries and Opatow with the JSA Social Activist Award.

Medea Benjamin, a tireless advocate for social justice for more than 20 years, is a co-founder of the international human rights organization Global Exchange and the high-profile women's peace group CODEPINK. She has been described as "one of America's most committed—and most effective—fighters for human rights" by New York Newsday, and called "one of the high profile leaders of the peace movement" by the Los Angeles Times, in June of 2005 Benjamin was one of 1,000 exemplary women from 140 countries nominated for the Nobel Peace Prize.

During the 1990s, Benjamin focused her efforts on tackling the problem of unfair trade as promoted by the World Trade Organization. Widely credited as the woman who brought Nike to its knees and helped place the issue of sweatshops on the national agenda, Benjamin was a key player in the campaign that won a $20 million settlement from 27 US clothing retailers for the use of sweatshop labor in Saipan. She also pushed Starbucks and other companies to start carrying fair trade coffee. In January 2005 she organized a trip to the Iraq-Jordan border with parents of fallen US soldiers, to take $650,000 worth of humanitarian aid to refugees from war-torn Fallujah.

Pat Humphries and Sandy Opatow are two of the most renowned songsters of peace and justice concerns in North America. They travel the globe inspiring action to social justice at the most basic levels of community. Roots Magazine has described them as "An acoustic, insightful delight in the tradition of Seeger and Guthrie." "If I Give Your Name," by Sandy and Pat was a Grand Prize Winner (one of 24,000 entries) in the Folk Category of the prestigious John Lennon Songwriting Contest (<http://www.jlsc.com>). The song sheds light on the silent suffering of family members of undocumented workers lost on 9/11 in the World Trade Center.

Those who have heard them sing at JSA conferences and at the 2006 ASC meeting in Toronto have described their performance as transforming. Their website for a catalog of their CD's and bookings is <http://www.pathumphries.com/>; they are magicians of the spirit without turning a slight of hand or word.

STUDENT FELLOWSHIP ONE YEAR MASTERS PROGRAM IN CRIMINOLOGY Centre of Criminology University of Toronto Canada

The Centre of Criminology at the University of Toronto invites applicants to its Masters program. The Centre of Criminology has available a fellowship for international students from outside Canada. This fellowship covers tuition fees and provides $13,000 (CAN) for living expenses (approximate value of scholarship=$28,000). The Centre of Criminology is a leading, interdisciplinary graduate Centre for the study of crime, criminal justice, social regulation and the interaction between law and society. Emphasis is placed on examining these issues from both national and international perspectives. The Centre takes a broad view of criminological and socio-legal research and welcomes applicants from any field within the social sciences and humanities. The Centre offers both a Masters and a Doctoral program.

THE STOCKHOLM PRIZE IN CRIMINOLOGY

The Stockholm Prize in Criminology is awarded for outstanding achievements in criminological research or for the application of research results by practitioners for the reduction of crime and the advancement of human rights.

The objectives of The Stockholm Prize in Criminology are to promote the development of

- improved knowledge on causes of crime on an individual and structural level
- more effective and humane public policies for dealing with criminal offenders
- greater knowledge of alternative crime prevention strategies inside and outside the judicial system
- policies for helping the victims of crime
- better ways to reduce the global problem of illegal or abusive practices that may occur in the administration of justice.

The main donor is The Jerry Lee Foundation of Philadelphia, in collaboration with the University of Pennsylvania. Other donors are: The Japanese Correctional Association, The Hitachi Mirai Foundation and Söderberg foundations of Sweden

The prize selection is conducted by a jury, an independent international body that selects and appoint the prize recipient(s) from the nominations submitted. The jury consists of distinguished criminologists and practitioners of criminology, such as internationally recognised scholars and law enforcement officials and former prize recipients. The jury has chosen Lawrence Sherman University of Pennsylvania (USA), and Jerzy Sarnecki Stockholm University to co-chair the jury.

The jury agreed on following definition of criminology: Criminology is the integrated, multidisciplinary study of the causes, predictions, and control of crime and other harmful behaviour constituting a breach of societal norms at a local, national, of international level. Criminology is guided by a commitment to human rights, democracy and equality.

Criminological study includes, but is not limited to the following:

- The character of crime and other harmful behavior that breaches societal norms, such as its extent and the nature of variations in the distribution of such behaviour.
- The causes of crime and other harmful behavior that breaches societal norms, as well as of law-abiding behavior, from the individual to the structural levels.
- The politics of crime control including processes of criminalization, decriminalization, and other political processes related to punishment, treatment and other measures associated with the prevention of crime and responses to crime and other harmful behavior that breaches societal norms.
- The criminal justice system, including the work of policing, prosecution, defense, courts, prison, community supervision, other correctional efforts, and alternatives to criminal justice.
- Other societal institutions, groups, processes, and programs that work with crime-related questions, including the prevention of crime and the prevention of injustice.
- Victimology, including the study of victimization processes and societal efforts to provide reconciliation, redress and assistance to the victims of crime and of other harmful behavior.

In addition to the jury there is a steering body for strategic decision-making and financial management. The steering body decides on donor-related and financial issues.

2006 winners of The Stockholm Prize in Criminology are John Braithwaite and Friedrich Lösel. For their achievements in developing theory and evidence on the prevention of repeat offending, John Braithwaite of the Australian National University and Friedrich Lösel of Cambridge University in the UK have been awarded the Stockholm Prize in Criminology. They share the prize of one million SEK.

The 2006 Prize was presented to the winners during a ceremony at the City Hall in Stockholm on June 16, 2006, as part of the first three-day annual Stockholm Criminology Symposium, hosted by the Swedish National Council for Crime Prevention and the Stockholm University in conjunction with the International Society of Criminology and national societies of criminology from.

The Symposium 2006 was held June 15th-17th on the Stockholm University campus, in collaboration with the University. The theme for the symposium was "Recognizing Knowledge to Reduce Crime and Injustice".

Distinguished criminologists, widely recognized for their contributions within the field of criminology, were present to hold plenary speeches. Participants from Societies of Criminology as well as International Society of Criminology also attended.

Each year, the jury invites nominating bodies from around the world to suggest candidates for the prize.

The Prize Office received nominations until April 15, 2006 for the 2007 award. The nomination period for the 2008 award will be between January 1st and April 15, 2007. The jury reserves the right not to accept nominations that arrive late or are incomplete.

All nominations made in 2005 and 2006, will be considered for a Prize award in both 2007 and 2008.

Nominations may be made by: three individual criminologists, any society of criminology, or other organizations applying or producing criminology.

The winner/winners of The Stockholm Prize in Criminology for 2007 will be announced in the latter months of 2006.

Data Analysis Workbooks for use in your Classroom

Then National Consortium on Violence Research (NCOVR) at Carnegie Mellon University provides various data workbooks for use by students. The workbooks introduce students to data resources available on the web and to basic statistical data analysis techniques. Problem sets in each workbook provide students with an opportunity to apply the techniques to real-world data.

VIOLENCE IN THE U.S. — DATA WORKBOOKS

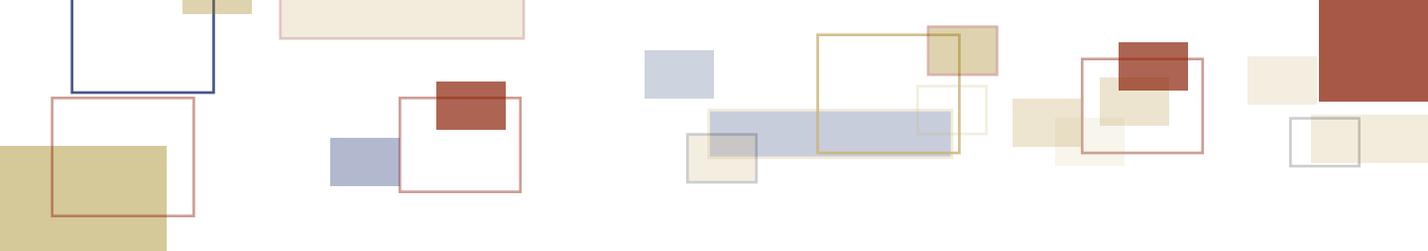

INTRODUCTION

The Violence in the United States Workbooks provide students with an opportunity to explore various features of violent offending in the United States using a number of national data resources. The aim is to introduce students to data resources available on the internet and provide hands on experience in basic data analysis. Each workbook introduces a violence-related topic, provides links to online data, and provides a series of problem sets based on that data.

Data and analyses are organized around individual violence topics.

- Counts and Population Rates
- Gender and Violence (forthcoming)
- Youth Violence (forthcoming)
- Communities and Violence (forthcoming)
- Violence and the Criminal Justice System—From Incident to Arrest

ICPSR Summer Program in Quantitative Methods of Social Science Research

Seminar on Quantitative Analysis of Crime and Criminal Justice

June 25–July 20, 2007

ICPSR's world-class Summer Program in Quantitative Methods is a comprehensive, integrated program of studies in research design, statistics, data analysis, and social methodology. In 2007, the National Archive of Criminal Justice Data (NACJD) is once again sponsoring its seminar in criminal justice data use.

This four-week seminar introduces participants to major surveys sponsored by the Bureau of Justice Statistics (BJS), such as the Uniform Crime Reporting System and the National Incident-Based Reporting System. The seminar focuses on innovative applications of survey methods and incident-based data in criminal justice. Issues of data collection and analysis are covered in depth. Each participant will design, conduct, and present a quantitative research project. The course is designed for early-career faculty and professionals as well as for graduate students in the social sciences who are comfortable with data analysis software and quantitative research.

Applicants must show evidence of intellectual interest in and commitment to this substantive area. BJS provides selected applicants with stipend support in the amount of $3,500, designed to cover the cost of travel to and living in Ann Arbor, Michigan, during the course, as well as course materials. All participants can take any other First Session ICPSR Summer Program Course at no additional charge. Applications must include a vita and cover letter describing the applicant's background and interest in using the resources of the National Archive of Criminal Justice Data.

Application materials and updated course information will be available in early 2007 on the Summer Program Web site: www.icpsr.umich.edu/sumprog.

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, IRVINE

Lecturer with Potential Security of Employment

The School of Social Ecology at the University of California, Irvine seeks candidates for the position of Lecturer with Potential Security of Employment (Lecturer PSOE) to join the faculty in UCI's highly-ranked Department of Criminology, Law & Society. Lecturer PSOE is a full-time faculty position designed for individuals who wish to focus their careers on teaching, professional activities, and University and public service. These individuals are not evaluated on their research. Lecturers PSOE are members of the University of California Academic Senate and have all the usual benefits of Senate membership, such as eligibility for UCI's attractive faculty housing programs, medical and retirement benefits. Like assistant professors, Lecturers PSOE are evaluated for reappointment and merit salary increases every two years and within eight years (or less) are evaluated for promotion to Lecturer with Security of Employment (Lecturer SOE), which has the permanence of a tenured position.

The School is seeking someone to teach a wide variety of criminology and law and society courses. In addition, the individual will be expected to teach a required interdisciplinary, undergraduate research and writing course, which features experiential learning, observation, assessment and evaluation. More information about the School of Social Ecology and the Department of Criminology, Law and Society can be found at <http://www.seweb.uci.edu/index.uci>.

Candidates must have a doctoral degree in a relevant field and evidence of teaching excellence.

Applications must be uploaded electronically and should include: a curriculum vita, evidence of teaching performance (including detailed syllabi for courses previously taught), and three letters of recommendation. Please refer to the following web site for instructions on how to apply: <http://www.seweb.uci.edu/employment/faculty.uci>

To receive full consideration, applications must be received by January 5, 2007. The University of California has an active career partner program, is an equal opportunity employer committed to excellence through diversity, and has an ADVANCE Program for Faculty Equity and Diversity.

UNIVERSITY OF CENTRAL FLORIDA DEPARTMENT CHAIR

Department of Criminal Justice and Legal Studies
College of Health and Public Affairs

The University of Central Florida (UCF) invites nominations and applications for the position of Chair of the Department of Criminal Justice and Legal Studies. The university seeks an innovative, energetic leader to build on the existing strengths of the Department in teaching, research and service. Candidates must have an outstanding record of teaching and scholarly achievement commensurate with a tenured faculty appointment at the rank of Full Professor; an earned doctorate in Criminal Justice or in a related field appropriate to the disciplines in the Department, and effective communication skills and administrative experience, preferably in a multidisciplinary environment. It is preferred that applicants possess a strong background in budgetary and enrollment management; graduate program experience, and contracts and grant activities. The Department has significant interaction with and strong support from Central Florida's law enforcement, legal, and professional communities and has developed numerous partnerships with local, state and regional agencies. Successful candidates will have the ability to communicate and collaborate with internal and external stakeholders and to sustain and expand upon the Department's community partnerships. Prior experience as a department chair or senior academic administrator with experience with branch campuses and distance learning is desirable.

The Department is housed in the College of Health and Public Affairs and occupies a state of the art facility with access to fully equipped multimedia classrooms. With 35 full-time and 30 adjunct faculty members, the Department offers both BA and BS degrees and minors in criminal justice and legal studies, with programs located on multiple campuses, including a virtual campus. Its 1700 undergraduate majors have opportunities for internships and advanced undergraduate research in the Honors in the Major program. Nearly 200 students participate in its Masters in Criminal Justice program, and seven certificate programs. Additionally, the Department offers graduate courses in criminal justice and legal studies for candidates in the Ph.D. program in Public Affairs.

The productive and diverse faculty has received national and regional recognition for their outstanding scholarly research. According to a survey in the Journal of Criminal Justice, the Department ranked among the top academic institutions in the nation in the publication of criminal justice research findings. The Legal Studies program has also been identified as a leading program that has consistently attracted and cultivated a diverse student population for success in law schools, graduate studies, and the legal profession. Collaborating with other university departments, the Department has garnered substantial external grants, including grants that involved interdisciplinary collaboration.

The University of Central Florida (UCF) is a doctoral intensive, metropolitan research university with over 45,000 students; it is the second largest public university in the state and the seventh largest in the nation. Along with its dramatic increase in enrollment has been a corresponding increase in average SAT/ACT scores and GPAs of incoming freshmen (for Fall 2005 1178/25 and 3.62). The University offers an impressive range of doctoral programs and the building of a medical school has been approved. Located in the dynamic city of Orlando, the university offers a vibrant academic community and many attractive new facilities. Its faculty also enjoy the region's mild climate, natural beauty, area attractions, numerous cultural activities, major and minor league sport franchises, and nearby beaches.

Consideration of applications will begin November 1, 2006, and continue until the position is filled. Please send curriculum vita and names, addresses and telephone numbers of at least three professional references to:

CALL FOR PAPERS

CRIME AND JUSTICE: IN THE GLOBAL AND IN THE LOCAL

Program Co-Chairs:

CANDACE KRUTTSCHNITT
University of Minnesota
ROSS MACMILLAN
University of Minnesota

asc2007@umn.edu

SUBMISSION DEADLINE: MARCH 16, 2007

SUBMISSIONS: All abstracts must be submitted here. On the site you will be asked to indicate the type of submission you wish to make. Your choices are the following:

Panel Submissions: For a panel, you must submit titles and abstracts for all papers and all author information together. In order to encourage more interaction with session audiences, each panel should contain either four (4) papers or three (3) papers and a discussant.

Individual Paper Presentations: Submissions for a regular session presentation may take one of two forms. First, you may submit a title and abstract and approximately 5 pages of your paper (a brief description of theory, methods, and findings). These presentations will be given priority in scheduling and panel composition. Second, you may submit a title and abstract (approximately 200 words). In the latter case, you must indicate whether you prefer to present your paper in a standard panel or in a roundtable.

Poster Presentations: Require only the submission of a title and abstract. Posters should display data, policy analysis, or theoretical work in a visually appealing poster format to encourage interactive communication. All poster sessions will be held late Thursday afternoon.

Roundtable Sessions: These sessions consist of three to six presenters on related topics. ASC provides no AV equipment for these sessions, which are generally less formal than standard panels. If you expect large attendance for a session, a thematic panel might provide a better setting.

APPEARANCES ON PROGRAM

You may submit ONLY ONE FIRST AUTHOR PRESENTATION and make only one other appearance as either a chair or discussant on a standard panel. Appearances on the program as a co-author, a poster presenter, or a roundtable participant are unlimited.

The meetings are Wednesday through Saturday. Participants should plan to attend the entire time. ASC cannot honor personal preferences for day and time of panel presentations.

Program participants are expected to pre-register for the meetings by September 30th, 2007. Pre-registration materials will be sent to you by September 2007. Failure to pre-register may result in the removal of your paper from the program.

Only papers that are original and have not been published or presented elsewhere may be presented. Submissions are interpreted as meaning that the proposed presentation satisfies these conditions.

SUBMISSION DEADLINE

March 16, 2007 is the absolute deadline for thematic panels or regular panel presentations. Any submissions after that date can be considered only for poster or roundtable sessions, and may not be included in the printed program.

ABSTRACTS

All submissions must include abstracts. For regular submissions, abstracts are limited to 200 words and should describe the general theme of the presentation and where relevant, the methods and results. The fuller submissions should be approximately five pages and briefly describe the theoretical issues, methods, and findings of your research.

EQUIPMENT

LCD projectors will be available for all panel and paper presentations to facilitate computer-based presentations (especially Power Point). However, presenters will need to bring their own personal computers or arrange for someone in your panel to bring a personal computer. In addition, all meeting rooms for paper and panel sessions will include overhead projectors. Please note that ASC cannot provide either LCD or overhead projectors for roundtable sessions.

GUIDELINES FOR ONLINE SUBMISSIONS

When you go online to submit your paper or panel, you will need to select a single sub-category in one of 27 broader categories listed below. Your choice will be important in determining the kind of panel on which you are placed, and it will also assist the program chairs in avoiding time conflicts for panels on similar topics to the extent possible.

Here are a few guidelines that may help you in selecting the most appropriate category and subcategory:

1. Please go through the entire list of categories, noting the sub-categories within each category, before making your selection. If you review the entire list, you are more likely to find your best fit than if you select the first category that seems appropriate.
2. In making your selection, focus on the aspect of your paper that you would describe as your primary concern in selecting the broad category. For example, if you would like to present a paper titled, "Police Responses to Domestic Disturbances in African American Neighborhoods," you might submit under:

Category	Sub-Category
Policing (XVIII)	Problem-Oriented or Community Policing(73)
Women (VII)	Gender and Victimization (30)
Race/Ethnicity (VIII)	Race/Ethnicity & Offending/Victimization (31)
Social Institutions (VI)	Communities (23)
Violence (XIII)	Intimate Violence (55)
Victimization (XVI)	Victim-Related Programs and Policies (66)

The most important choice for you is the choice of broad category. As the author of the paper, you should consider whether you are most interested in interacting with scholars who are involved in research on policing, on women, on race/ethnicity, on social institutions, on criminal justice policy, or on violence. Your broad category choice will determine the pool of papers into which your paper goes for panel formation, and therefore the kind of researchers with whom you will be presenting. The broad categories will also be considered when scheduling panels, in order to avoid having too many similar panels scheduled at the same time. Therefore, category selection is important even if you are submitting a fully formed panel. The sub-categories will be used to help program committee members refine the fit for panels.

3. If you find a category on the list that seems to be the appropriate choice for your paper, but do not find a sub-category that seems to fit, then you should choose "other" within the broad category. When your abstract is reviewed, your paper will be assigned to an appropriate panel within that category.

All conference participants need to make reservations by January 18, 2007. Information about the Radisson Fort McDowell Resort & Casino can be found on the hotel website (www.radisson.com/ftmcdowellaz) or by calling 1-800-333-3333 or directly at 480-836-5300. To receive the conference rate of $145+tax, you need to indicate that you are with the Western Society of Criminology Annual Conference. If you are making reservations via the web, to receive the conference rate, you will need to enter the following code: WESSOC.

STUDENTS

The Western Society of Criminology provides several opportunities for students in conjunction with the annual conference, including travel money and a paper competition. Please see the following for requirements and application information.

June Morrison Scholarship Fund: The WSC offers five ($100) student scholarships for participation in our annual conference. WSC student members who have had their papers selected for presentation are eligible to apply, and the funds are awarded on a first-come, first served basis. Applications must be received by January 1, 2007, and information can be obtained by consulting Student Information, which is in the Conference section of the WSC website (www.sonoma.edu/cja/wsc/wscpages/conference.htm)

Miki Vohryzek-Bolden (MVB) Student Paper Competition: Students are eligible to complete in a Student Paper Competition sponsored by WSC. One undergraduate and one graduate student paper (either sole authored or co-authored) will be selected. Papers co-authored by faculty will not be considered. Appropriate types of papers include but are not limited to policy analyses, original research, literature reviews, position papers, theoretical papers, and commentaries. Students selected for this award will be recognized at the conference and will receive a cash award and registration reimbursement. Information can be obtained by consulting Student Information, which is in the Conference section of the WSC website (www.sonoma.edu/cja/wsc/wscpages/conference.htm).

CALL FOR PAPERS

CONTEMPORARY JUSTICE REVIEW: ISSUES IN CRIMINAL, SOCIAL, AND RESTORATIVE JUSTICENEW!

“Unorthodox Criminologists and Their Criminologies”

The editors of Contemporary Justice Review are pleased to announce a Call for Papers that would provide a portrait of a contemporary person who through her or his life challenged existing definitions of crime, social harms, and justice. We would hope the articles would weave in, whenever applicable, quotations or references from that person's writings, speeches, and actions illustrating how this “Unorthodox Criminologist” offered conceptions of harm and well-being that varied from those of the state, the market, the media, conventional paradigms of criminology, and the “managers” of primary social institutions. Of course we are interested in as well the reactions of such institutions to the actions of these “criminologists” who challenged not only their practical but also assumptive world. In some instances it might be appropriate to compare the writings and other actions of these criminologists to their contemporary academic counterparts, weighing in on the significance of each for the well-being of individuals and communities throughout the globe. Among the personages who might be written about are: Nelson Mandela, Jane Addams, Aung San Suu Kyi, Russell Means, Dorothy Day, Peter Kropotkin, Rosa Parks, Gandhi, Noam Chomsky, Howard Zinn, Cesar Chavez, Malcolm X, Arundhati Roy, Philip and Daniel Berrigan, Frank Tannenbaum, Angela Davis, Denise Levertov, and Emma Goldman. Clearly these are only a few among many possibilities. Ironically the works, actions, and overall lives of such people rarely make their way into conventional criminology, criminal justice, and sociology courses or texts, the choice more often than not for academic perspectives that support the opposite. In part, therefore, we view these portraits as potential course materials for teachers and students at all levels of learning, the people chosen for portraits serving as demonstration projects for the lives of us all. Those wishing to focus on a group instead of an individual may do so by highlighting the work, for example, of Food Not Bombs, EarthFirst!, the Catholic Worker, PETA, National Coalition for the Homeless, the Shakers, and National Lawyers Guild. For those with an interest in the media, it is possible to provide an historical analysis of the origins, positions, and impact of alternative media criminologies such as “Democracy Now,” Mother Jones Magazine, Sojourners Magazine, The New York Review of Books among others. In each of the articles the editors will look for how well authors have kept center stage the stories of these persons and groups and demonstrated how such lives and actions show the human community ways to heal from and prevent the damage we do when we show our least favored selves to each other.

Titles and abstracts should be sent to CJR Assistant Editor, Diane Simmons Williams at dsw27@earthlink.net by October 1, 2006 [extended to December 15, 2006]. Inquiries about proposals might be made of Diane or CJR Editor-in-Chief, Dennis Sullivan (dsullivan6@nycap.rr.com). Notification of acceptance will be made by December 31, 2006. The finished essays should be no more than 30 typed double-spaced pages and will be due July 4, 2007 for inclusion in upcoming issues of CJR.

CRIMINAL JUSTICE POLICY REVIEWNEW!

Submission Deadline: May 1, 2007

Criminal Justice Policy Review (SAGE Publications) is a multidisciplinary peer-reviewed journal publishing articles written by scholars and professionals committed to the study of criminal justice policy through experimental and non-experimental approaches. The journal is published quarterly and accepts appropriate articles, essays, research notes, and book reviews. It also provides a forum for occasional special issues on notable topics in crime and justice. The journal appeals to criminologists, criminal justice researchers, sociologists, public administrators, scholars, and practitioners with an interest in criminal justice policy. For general information about Criminal Justice Policy Review, please go to <http://cjp.sagepub.com>.

The journal is currently soliciting manuscripts for a special issue on the “accountability” movement in juvenile justice. During the 1990s, following a number of years of rising juvenile violent crime rates, significant public and political attention was directed at juvenile court reform. Increasing public protection and youthful offender accountability became the prominent goals of many pieces of federal and state legislation. Manuscripts considered for publication in this special issue could focus on a variety of topics, including (but not limited to): (1) subjecting serious and violent juvenile offenders to adult court prosecution; (2) expanding the graduated sanctions available to juvenile courts; (3) holding parents responsible for their child's actions; (4) establishing appropriate juvenile drug testing policies and procedures; and (5) improving juvenile record-keeping systems to parallel those for adult offenders.

For style and submission guidelines for Criminal Justice Policy Review, please go to <http://www.hhs.iup.edu/cr/CJPR>. For additional information, contact Phil Stinson, Managing Editor of Criminal Justice Policy Review, at p.m.stinson@iup.edu or (724) 357-1247.

THE JOURNAL OF ETHNICITY IN CRIMINAL JUSTICE SPECIAL EDITION NEW!

Editor: Janice Joseph, Ph.D., Richard Stockton College of New Jersey, Pomona

The Journal of Ethnicity in Criminal Justice invites scholars to submit manuscripts for a special issue of its journal on Blacks, Crime, and Justice, focusing on policing, courts, and corrections. Four copies of the manuscript should be submitted. The manuscript should be approximately 20-25 pages double-spaced with a one-inch margin on all four-sides and should include an abstract of 100 words, a title page, and a brief biographical sketch of author(s). References, citations, and general style of manuscripts for this Journal should follow the APA style (as outlined in the latest edition of the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association). References should be double-spaced and placed in alphabetical order. The use of footnotes within the text is discouraged. Words should be underlined only when it is intended that they be typeset in italics. We would like to encourage international scholars to submit manuscripts to this special issue. The deadline for submissions is July 15, 2007. All manuscripts submitted for publication to the Journal of Ethnicity in Criminal Justice are peer-reviewed. Please send manuscripts to: Dr. Shaun L. Gabbidon, School of Public Affairs, Penn State Harrisburg, 777 W. Harrisburg Pike, Middletown, PA 17057, slg13@psu.edu. The Journal of Ethnicity in Criminal Justice is indexed in Criminal Justice Abstracts, Social Services Abstracts, Sociological Abstracts, and other major abstracting and indexing services.

JOURNAL OF CONTEMPORARY CRIMINAL JUSTICE NEW!

Special Issue: Evidence-Based Practices for Responding to Victimization (May 2008 issue)

The Journal of Contemporary Criminal Justice invites individuals to submit manuscripts for consideration for inclusion in a planned special issue on the topic, Evidence-Based Practices for Responding to Victimization. This volume will focus on assessments of programs developed for the purpose of assisting persons with some of the consequences of victimization. Such research may include programs designed to alleviate emotional distress, provide financial assistance, prevent re-victimization, or inhibit retaliatory offending. It may also include assessments of efforts to involve victims in the criminal justice system -- for example, through victim impact statements, restorative justice panels, or statements at parole board hearings. Inquiries about the appropriateness of topics should be directed to Janet Lauritsen, JCCJ Guest Editor, via email (at Janet_Lauritsen@umsl.edu) or telephone (314-516-5427).

All manuscripts will be peer reviewed. Manuscripts should be no more than 25 typed, double-spaced pages including tables, figures and references. Manuscripts must be received no later than September 1, 2007. Please send four manuscript copies, along with the manuscript on disk, to Janet Lauritsen, Department of Criminology and Criminal Justice, University of Missouri-St. Louis, One University Boulevard, St. Louis, MO 63121.

CALL FOR PAPERS

NATIONAL CONFERENCE ON RESTORATIVE JUSTICE NEW!

“Real Life, Real Problems, Real Answers”

June 24-27, 2007, Schreiner University, Kerrville, Texas

We invite you to participate in a national conference on restorative justice to be held on the campus of Schreiner University in Kerrville, Texas, about 80 miles from the San Antonio International Airport in the beautiful Texas Hill Country. The conference will bring together academicians, educators, community leaders, politicians, practitioners, judges, policymakers, faith leaders, and concerned citizens to explore the application of restorative justice principles and practices within communities to meet local needs. Keynote speakers for the conference will include some of the leading scholars in the field – Howard Zehr, Mark Umbreit, Gordon Bazemore, Kay Pranis, Elaine Enns, Ched Myers, Mike Dooley, and Leigh Garrett.

This is a unique opportunity to meet and learn from leading researchers, educators, and practitioners of restorative justice. For detailed information about the conference see www.restorativejusticenow.org.

Scholars from any field are welcome to submit a proposal for a paper of original scholarship related to one of the following broadly defined areas:

- Teaching Restorative Justice Principles and Practices
- Restorative Justice as Community Crime Prevention
- Restorative Justice as an Alternative to Traditional Justice
- Restorative Justice as Correctional Treatment
- Restorative Justice as Reentry Preparation and Support
- Repairing Harms: Victims and Restorative Justice

Specific panels will be developed based on those proposal selected for presentation at the conference.

Paper proposals must include the following information: author(s), contact information (mail, phone, e-mail address), working title, and an abstract of 150 words or less. Paper proposals must be submitted electronically to Dr. Michael J. Gilbert, Coordinator of the Research and Teaching Track, at mgilbert@utsa.edu. He may also be contacted at (210) 458-2683.

Key dates:

Proposals must be submitted by:	December 1, 2006
Notifications of Acceptance:	January 31, 2007
Submission of Working Papers:	May, 18, 2007

All conference papers must be submitted as “working papers” by May 18, 2007, so that they may be provided to panel chairs. Working papers may be collected into a proceedings document as part of the record for the conference.

CALL FOR PAPERS

EUROPEAN CONSORTIUM OF POLITICAL RESEARCH (ECPR)

Deadline for submission of abstracts to individual panels: 19 January 2007

The European Consortium of Political Research (ECPR) is organising its fourth General Conference in Pisa in September 2007. The ECPR's standing group on organised crime is hoping to organise a section entitled "Representing a crisis: organised crime between new and old threats" which will oversee panels on different aspects of organised crime" ('The Measurement and Methodology involved in the study of Organised crime', 'Mafias in the World', 'Balkan' organised crime groups, organised crime in context: socio-cultural factors fostering 'Balkan criminality', 'The Sex Trade and other forms of Modern Slavery', 'Changing Perceptions of Criminal Organisations', 'Prevention of Organised Crime and Corruption: International Efforts in post-Communist Countries', 'Organised crime and the 'new order' within the global political arena'). If you are working in one of these areas and would like to offer a paper to one of these panels, please visit our special newsletter where all the information about the panels and conference is provided and explained: http://members.lycos.co.uk/ocnewsletter/2006/SGOC_SE-june2006.pdf If you have any questions please do not hesitate to contact: Felia Allum (ECPR SGOC co-convenor, mlsfsa@bath.ac.uk)

JUSTICE SYSTEM JOURNAL

The Justice System Journal, sponsored by the National Center for State Courts, will be publishing a special issue on aspects of capital punishment; the likely publication date is late 2008. The journal's editors would be interested in receiving proposals –from academics and practitioners alike– for possible articles for that special issue. A list of possible topics appears below; most relate to courts and actors in the courts, but suggestions for other topics will be considered. The journal does not publish normative or philosophical work nor extended analyses of case law. There are no restrictions on the types of methodology used, but use of elaborate statistics in the final articles is discouraged. Prospective authors are reminded that, although academics read the Justice System Journal, the journal's primary audience is court administrators and other court practitioners. We specify no particular manuscript length but would prefer that articles be no longer than thirty (30) double-spaced pages, inclusive of tables and references; use of footnotes should be minimal. The likely deadline for submission of manuscripts will be early 2008. Anyone interested should communicate by e-mail with the present editor-in-chief, at wasb@albany.edu, and should indicate the proposed topic. It is preferable that prospective authors send a brief proposal/abstract/precis approximately two paragraphs in length, which should also indicate the proposed length of the article manuscript. An initial inquiry about topic appropriateness may be made and is welcomed. Prospective authors should provide some information about their training and experience. Stephen L. Wasby, Editor-in-Chief, Justice System Journal, Professor of Political Science Emeritus, University at Albany – SUNY; Robert M. Howard, Associate Editor-designate, Associate Professor of Political Science, Georgia State University, Atlanta

Capital punishment special issue - topics

- Juries in death penalty cases: difficulties in selecting capital juries, deliberations by capital jurors, psychological effects on jurors, race in capital juries
- Judges in capital cases: problems in managing capital cases, effect of changes in judge sentencing (e.g., Ring v. Arizona), challenges to judges in capital cases, Are there "hanging" judges?, effects on judges' lives
- Courts and capital cases: special processes for handling (e.g., the Ninth Circuit death penalty en banc), impact on: consumption of time; other caseload effects, problems with proportionality review, use of expert witnesses, the role of victims and victim impact statements, media problems, how to deal with public, difficulties on appeal: massive records, stay requests (including last-minute), collateral attacks (e.g., AEDPA effects on fed court oversight of state capital cases), undoing wrongful convictions
- Lawyers and capital cases: private attorneys handling capital cases, special (dedicated) trial defense units, special (dedicated) appellate defense, the pro se capital defendant, prosecution of capital cases, who does it, and is it specialized?, plea bargaining and the death penalty, procedures used in decision to pursue death penalty
- The Law of Capital Punishment: Has the law of capital punishment distorted criminal procedure?, changes in the law of capital punishment
- Judicial - Executive - Legislative interaction: the role of clemency and moratoria

CALL FOR PAPERS

SOUTHWEST JOURNAL OF CRIMINAL JUSTICE

The Southwest Journal of Criminal Justice (SWJCJ) is now accepting manuscripts for consideration. We are interested in receiving submissions of original work that have not been previously published. Diversity in theoretical and methodological approaches is encouraged as is the submission of policy-related research. The SWJCJ is the online, refereed journal of the Southwest Association of Criminal Justice, a regional affiliate of the Academy of Criminal Justice Sciences. Authors need not be members of the Southwest Association of Criminal Justice to submit a manuscript for consideration. Previous issues of the journal and submission information are located at <http://swjcyjcenter.org/>. Inquiries may be directed to the editors at swjcyj@shsu.edu.

ICONS OF CRIME FIGHTING

Dr. Jeff Bumgarner of Texas Christian University is looking for chapter authors for Icons of Crime Fighting to be published by Greenwood Press in 2007. The publication will be a 2-book set comprised of 24 chapters in total, with each chapter approximately 10,000-12,000 words in length. Every chapter will present a balanced examination of an iconic individual or group of individuals in American crime fighting. The list of chapter topics is pre-set and covers a period of time from the 19th Century to the present day. Most of those profiled in the publication are from the later half of the 20th Century. The idea for the publication originated with the publisher; as such, Greenwood Press is firmly committed to bringing this project to completion. Anyone interested in learning more about the opportunity to publish in this edited work should contact Dr. Bumgarner at 817-257-6420 or j.bumgarner@tcu.edu

POLICE PRACTICE AND RESEARCH: An International Journal

Manuscripts are solicited for Police Practice and Research: An International Journal, which is published in five issues per volume. The journal presents current and innovative police research, as well as operational and administrative practices from around the world. Articles and reports are sought from practitioners, researchers, and others interested in developments in policing, analysis of public order, and the state of safety as it affects the quality of life everywhere. The journal seeks to bridge the gap in knowledge that exists regarding who the police are, what they do, and how they maintain order, administer laws, and serve their communities. Attention is also focused on specific organizational information about the police in different countries and regions, and periodic special issues are devoted to studying police policies and practices regarding a particular topic or issue. The editors aim to improve cooperation between those who are active in the field and those who are involved in academic research, as such a relationship is essential for innovative police work. To this end, the editors encourage the submission of articles co-authored by police practitioners and researchers that highlight a particular subject from both points of view. Submission of Manuscripts: Manuscripts should be electronically submitted to: Associate Managing Editor Hasan Buker (hasanbuker@wsu.edu). Manuscripts should normally be no more than 25 typed pages (Word, Times New Roman, 12 Font, Double-Spaced) in English. The manuscript should be accompanied by an abstract of no more than 100 words, up to six key words, and a brief biographical sketch. For complete Notes for Contributors, one should refer to www.tandf.co.uk/journals or visit www.ipes.info EDITOR-IN-CHIEF, Dilip K. Das, Department of Criminal Justice, Grambling State University, Grambling, LA 71245, USA; dilipkd@aol.com; Tel (318) 274-2520; Fax (318) 274-3101. MANAGING EDITOR: John A. CALL FOR PAPERS

JUSTICE STUDIES ASSOCIATION 2007 CONFERENCE

The members of the Justice Studies Association are pleased to announce that their Ninth Annual Conference will be held at Salve Regina University, Newport, Rhode Island from June 7-9, 2007. The theme of this year's conference is "The Poor in the Lap of Luxury: Responding to Inequalities." We welcome diverse participants: activists, care providers, policy-makers, and scholars from all academic disciplines. Those who have an interest in making a presentation are invited to submit a proposal before March 1, 2007. Participants are invited to make presentations on any topic dealing with poverty and the impact of being poor in an affluent society. We are particularly interested in reflections on these themes from the perspective of social, economic, political, restorative, and transformative justice. Presentations can focus on either the theoretical and/or the practical and might address:

- Investigations into the use of demonstration projects, peaceful conflict resolution measures, peace studies, and restorative justice practices to address issues of poverty, policy formation, access to resources, public voice, meanings of citizenship, and collaborative and cooperative social dynamics;
- Reflections on the effects of the criminal justice system on the well-being of the poor and the extent to which law alleviates or connives at the pain and suffering of the poor;
- Efforts to reveal and/or relieve the harm and suffering caused by poverty, racism, sexism, classism, homophobia, and oppressions of many in their struggle to survive and flourish;
- Themes reflecting visions of society in which poverty is eliminated through the creation of just social arrangements which might include the development of intentional communities; and
- Narratives (historical and personal) describing the struggle of the poor to survive in a world in which they are structurally excluded from their needs being met.

Each JSA conference has at least one keynote speaker and includes the presentation of the annual Noam Chomsky Award. Past speakers and awardees include: Daniel Berrigan and Liz McAllister, Arundanti Roy, and Medea Benjamin. At least one of the conference's sessions consists of a panel of activists from the host community who address key justice concerns in their town or area, especially how they are addressing these concerns through social and restorative justice measures. Those interested in making a presentation should send a title and abstract of approximately 200 words to: Robin A. Robinson, Department of Sociology/Anthropology, University of Massachusetts Dartmouth, 285 Old Westport Rd., No. Dartmouth, MA. 02747 or to rrobinson@umassd.edu before March 1, 2007. Additional information might be obtained by contacting JSA President Susan Krumholz E-mail: skrumholz@umassd.edu, University of Massachusetts Dartmouth. CRIMINAL LAW BULLETIN

West's Criminal Law Bulletin is an authoritative source for guidance and insight from renowned experts on the latest developments and trends in the field. Published six times per year, the Criminal Law Bulletin reports on all of the major federal, state, and Supreme Court decisions in every phase of criminal law. It also has peer-reviewed journal articles devoted to scholarship concerning any and all matters of criminal law, criminal procedure, and criminal/forensic evidence. Additionally, each edition of the journal contains book reviews and a column entitled "From the Legal Literature" which provides a summary and critique of two or three recent scholarly articles concerning a common theme or topic concerning criminal law, procedure, or evidence. The journal is available both in print and electronically on Westlaw,[®] as well as various other databases. Submissions are now being accepted for upcoming "From the Legal Literature" columns. The column is much like a traditional book review, except it reviews recent pieces of legal scholarship rather than books. Submissions may be on any common theme or topic within the broad spectrum of criminal law, criminal procedure, or criminal/forensic evidence. Recent column topics have included reviews such as "Making Sense of the Proportionality Principle and the Eighth Amendment," "Continued Erosion of the Fourth Amendment Rights of Students," "Unraveling Crawford v. Washington in Abuse Cases," "Evolving Issues Under Miranda," and "Competing Views on the Quagmire of Synthetically Restoring Competency to Be Executed." Submissions should begin with a short summary (2-6 double-spaced pages) of the issue or topic being reviewed. Authors should then summarize and critique two or three recent pieces of legal scholarship (usually scholarly law review articles) that address the given issue or topic, preferably from different perspectives. The legal citation style of The Bluebook: A Uniform System of Citation (18th ed., 2005) must be used, and citations should be in footnotes that appear at the bottom of each page, rather than as endnotes. The total length of a "From the Legal Literature" column should be between 16 and 22 double-spaced pages, including footnotes. Manuscripts are only accepted electronically in either Corel WordPerfect[®] or Microsoft Word[®] format. Submissions from law students, graduate students, and exceptional undergraduate criminal justice students are encouraged. Send submission to Dr. Henry F. Fradella, the Legal Literature Editor, at CLB_Legal_Literature@cox.net. Please note the spaces in between the words in the email address above are underscores, not blank spaces. Editorial review normally takes less than a month. In the body of the email message transmitting your submission, please include your name, title, affiliation, address, daytime telephone number, and e-mail address.

CALL FOR PAPERS

PROFESSIONAL ISSUES IN CRIMINAL JUSTICE (PICJ)

Professional Issues in Criminal Justice (PICJ), is a newly established quarterly peer-reviewed journal that seeks to integrate the world of the practitioner with that of the scholar. PICJ places a strong emphasis on the professional practice of criminal justice while at the same time demonstrating how academic approaches can benefit the practitioner. With this in mind, both quantitative and qualitative submissions are welcomed. Evaluative research of new practitioner programs (court operation and administration as well as issues facing law enforcement and correctional agencies) are ideal submissions for this journal. Likewise, PICJ includes as a sub-theme, a variety of multinational issues in criminal justice and/or related topics. It is expected that many future volumes will illustrate the professional practice of criminal justice around the globe. PICJ has an established group of reviewers and our dedicated staff members are working to finalize the on-line design elements. At this time, the executive board is currently seeking submissions for this journal. If interested in submitting a manuscript to PICJ, please simply indicate interest and send your manuscript by e-mail as a Microsoft Word attachment to RHanser@kaplan.edu, with an additional hardcopy sent to the editorial office at: Kaplan University ATTN: PICJ/Dr. Gene Scaramella, 550 W. Van Buren, Suite 700, Chicago, Illinois 60607. (312) 777-6437. The submission will be forwarded to the associate editor who will then submit the manuscript for review. Please note that all papers should be submitted in APA format. Manuscripts must not exceed 20 pages in length, including title page, abstract, and references. Potential authors are asked to provide their name, title, affiliation, address, telephone number, and e-mail address. Robert D. Hanser, Ph.D., Editor-in-Chief, (PICJ), Kaplan University, 550 West Van Buren, Chicago, IL 60607, Ph# 318-342-1443, E-mail: RHanser@kaplan.edu

CRIMINAL JUSTICE STUDIES: A CRITICAL JOURNAL OF CRIME, LAW AND SOCIETY

A Critical Journal of Crime, Law and Society publishes articles that deal with substantive criminal justice and criminological issues relevant to the issues of criminal justice, as well as those that may be outside the field but have relevancy to the topic of criminal justice. We welcome articles from other fields, such as public administration, issues of public policy as well as public affairs issues. Literature reviews, research notes, and summary reports of innovative research projects in criminal justice are also considered. Qualitative and quantifiable articles are sought mainly from academics and researchers in the field. All contributions must be sent on disk with four hard copies (three blind copies) as well as bios of all contributors. Please submit articles to: Roslyn Muraskin, Ph.D., Editor in Chief, Dept. of Criminal Justice, C.W. Post Campus of Long Island University, 720 Northern Blvd. – Riggs Hall 103, Brookville, NY 11548, (516) 299-3146 office, (516) 299-2640 FAX, Roslyn.Muraskin@liu.edu

AFRICAN JOURNAL OF CRIMINOLOGY AND JUSTICE STUDIES

The African Journal of Criminology and Justice Studies, a new interdisciplinary peer-reviewed online journal, invites contributions on issues relevant to criminology and justice systems of interest to Africans at home and the African Diaspora globally. Comparative studies or research on related fields, and pedagogical papers on how to develop criminology and criminal justice education in Africa are particularly welcome. The journal accepts research articles, policy analyses, commentaries or brief research notes. Particularly, it encourages articles on innovative theoretical, methodological and policy interventions that deepen the understanding of how to prevent or repair the crimes against humanity that people of African descent have suffered and how to reverse the crisis of over-representation that people of African descent continue to suffer in correctional institutions around the world. AJCJS is published at the University of Maryland Eastern Shore. The length of most articles is 5,000-6,000 words (in double-spaced pages) with a 100-word abstract. Commentaries and research notes should be approximately half this length. Limited number of reviews per issue will also be accommodated. Submission instructions to authors are posted at the journal's website: <http://www.umes.edu/ajcjs/>. Publishers and authors who may want to send copies of their books for review should send 4-6 copies directly to the managing editor: Emmanuel Onyeozili, Dept. of Criminal Justice, 3015 Hazel Hall, University of Maryland Eastern Shore, Princess Anne, MD. 21853. For further information, please contact the editor, Biko Agozino at: bagozino@cheyney.edu or bagozino@yahoo.com. All contributions should be sent electronically to: ajcjs@umes.edu

CONTEMPORARY JUSTICE REVIEW

The editors of Contemporary Justice Review would like to invite its readers, scholars from all disciplines, activists, practitioners of justice, and others interested in issues of justice to submit film reviews for publication in the journal. Reviewers might select any film that deals with issues of justice defined in the broadest sense. This might include films that depict people having their rights, needs, and well-being denied by others--individuals, the state, and corporate institutions. It might also include films that demonstrate how people's needs are met and personal well-being fostered through alternative primary social institutions such as the family, school, and community. Authors might also wish to examine the oeuvre of a particular director, illustrating the extent to which that director's work contributes to a sense of justice as equality, human development, and personal well-being. Or several films might be compared for how they differentially depict people being marginalized and denied voice, or on the contrary, included and listened to. This might involve clarifying the effects of popular culture and the media on how we view certain aspects of justice as important and others not. CJR has a keen interest in offering its readers insights into life portrayed in international films, especially those that bring to light the effects of globalization, oppressive regimes, and nation-state terrorism on the quality of life of individuals, families, schools, the workplace, and neighborhoods. With respect to harm, some of the reviews might deal with how a particular film casts some people as worthy victims--that is, people worthy of our attention--and others as not. Reviewers should keep in mind that the purpose of the reviews is not primarily to offer pedagogical tools to teachers but simply to clarify and expand upon particular aspects of justice within films. However, reviewers might choose to demonstrate how a particular film could be valuable to teachers for use in a classroom to illustrate a particular aspect of justice. The length of reviews should be between 750 and 1500 words. Longer reviews will be considered from time to time as Review Essays. For additional information on review specifications, please contact:

CALL FOR PAPERS

WOMEN & CRIMINAL JUSTICE

WOMEN & CRIMINAL JUSTICE is the only periodical devoted specifically to interdisciplinary and international scholarly research and criminal justice practice dealing with all areas of criminal justice in relation to women. It provides both scholars and practitioners with a single forum devoted to this critical specialty area in the fields of both criminal justice and women's studies. The journal is refereed and features original research articles from academicians and professionals in the field that reflect its interdisciplinary and international focus. The manuscript should be approximately 20-25 pages double-spaced with a one-inch margin on all four sides and should include an abstract of 200 words, a title page, and a brief biographical sketch of author(s). References, citations, and general style of manuscript should follow the APA style (as outlined in the latest edition of Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association). References should be double-spaced and placed in alphabetical order. Please send 4 copies to: Dr. Donna C. Hale, Editor, Department of Criminal Justice, Shippensburg University, 1871 Old Main Drive, 317 Shippen Hall, Shippensburg, PA 17257-2299.

CRIMINAL JUSTICE REVIEW

The Criminal Justice Review is a quarterly scholarly journal dedicated to presenting a broad perspective on criminal justice issues. It focuses on any aspect of crime and the justice system, and can feature local, state, or national concerns. Both qualitative and quantitative pieces are encouraged, providing that they adhere to standards of quality scholarship. As a peer-reviewed journal, we encourage the submission of articles, research notes, commentaries, and comprehensive essays that focus on crime and justice-related topics broadly defined. Five copies of manuscripts should be submitted in English, follow APA style, be double-spaced throughout, including references, tables and indented quotations, and cannot be under consideration by another publication. An abstract not to exceed 200 words must be included with submissions. Send to: Richard J. Terrill, Editor, Criminal Justice Review, P.O. WOMEN'S POLICY JOURNAL OF HARVARD, JOHN F. KENNEDY SCHOOL OF GOVERNMENT

It is our great pleasure to announce that the Women's Policy Journal of Harvard, John F. Kennedy School of Government, following a three-year hiatus, has been re-launched with the goal to publish a third volume in summer 2006. We are excited to resume the production of this important publication and invite you to assist with meeting our publishing goals. The Women's Policy Journal is a nonpartisan, scholarly review dedicated to publishing interdisciplinary work on policy making and politics affecting women. It is our mission to educate and provide leadership that improves the quality of public policies affecting women with the intention of furthering communities' economic, social and political empowerment. With the reintroduction of the journal we hope to provide readers with fresh insight into a wide range of policy topics ranging from HIV/AIDS to worldwide poverty to energy and environmental policy. To date we have assembled a dedicated staff and worked to build relationships in the Kennedy School community to ensure that this new volume is published and that the journal is sustainable in the future. In the coming year, we invite you to join the Women's Policy Journal community. We are currently accepting submissions for Volume 3 and encourage you to submit work of your own or share your suggestions for potential contributors and interview subjects. You may also wish to subscribe or donate to the journal. Please visit our website at www.ksg.harvard.edu/wpjh for information on the many ways you can assist the journal. Once again we thank you for your interest in the Women's Policy Journal and hope that you will join us in this exciting new phase.

CALL FOR PAPERS

JOURNAL OF CRIMINAL JUSTICE EDUCATION (JCJE)

The Journal of Criminal Justice Education (JCJE) is an official publication of the Academy of Criminal Justice Sciences (ACJS). JCJE provides a forum for research and debate of a broad range of issues concerning post-secondary education in criminal justice, criminology and related disciplines. The aim of JCJE is the pedagogical enhancement of criminal justice and criminology higher education. Quality articles that address specific educational, academic, or professional development issues in these areas are encouraged and will be considered for publication. Articles that deal principally with applied training or practitioner concerns unrelated to criminal justice and criminology higher education are not likely to be considered or accepted for publication. All articles selected for publication will be subjected to peer review. JCJE will also feature book review essays devoted to thematic topics and a small number of individual book reviews per issue. For publication consideration, please submit four hard copies, a $10 check for processing made payable to ACJS, and a cover letter stating the originality of the work to: J. Mitchell Miller, Ph.D., Editor, Department of Criminology & Criminal Justice, University of South Carolina, Columbia, SC 29208.

CONTEMPORARY ISSUES IN CRIMINAL JUSTICE: A PROFESSIONAL JOURNAL (CICJ-PJ)

Contemporary Issues in Criminal Justice: A Professional Journal, is a newly established quarterly peer-reviewed journal that seeks to integrate the world of the practitioner with that of the scholar. CICJ-PJ places a strong emphasis on the professional practice of criminal justice while at the same time demonstrating how academic approaches can benefit the practitioner. With this in mind, both quantitative and qualitative submissions are welcomed. Evaluative research of new practitioner programs (court operation and administration as well as issues facing law enforcement and correctional agencies) are ideal submissions for this journal. Likewise, CICJ-PJ includes as a sub-theme, a variety of multinational issues in criminal justice and/or related topics. It is expected that many future volumes will illustrate the professional practice of criminal justice around the globe. CICJ-PJ has an established group of reviewers and our dedicated staff members are working to finalize the on-line design elements. At this time, the executive board is currently seeking submissions for this journal. If interested in submitting a manuscript to CICJ-PJ, please simply indicate interest and send your manuscript by e-mail to RHanser@kaplan.edu. The submission will be forwarded to the associate editors who will then submit the manuscript for review. Potential authors are asked to provide their name, title, affiliation, address, telephone number, and e-mail address. All papers should be submitted in current APA format. Manuscripts must not exceed 20 pages in length, including title page, abstract, and references. Please send to Robert D. Hanser, Ph.D., Editor-in-Chief, (CICJ-PJ), Kaplan University, 550 West Van Buren, Chicago, IL 60607, 318-342-1443, RHanser@kaplan.edu

CONTEMPORARY JUSTICE REVIEW

The editors of the award-nominated Contemporary Justice Review wish to extend an invitation to all scholars to share your recent work on critical issues of crime, punishment, and justice. Generally we are looking for work that examines the harm that power-based social, political, economic, and religious arrangements cause to human and animal life. This might include work focusing on the gross human rights violations of nationstates as well as globalizing corporate entities; it might as well include a critique of criminological paradigms that support, wink at, or carelessly sidestep such violations of life and human dignity. We are also interested in critical assessments of the media with respect to their narrow-sightedness regarding who is and who is not a victim worthy of the attention of the human community. To what extent do the media target some kinds of persons and groups as singularly criminal while allowing others to their elite claim that they are beyond incrimination? Of course research and theories on alternatives to the criminal justice system such as restorative justice, which have been the signature of CJR, are welcome in all formats. In this regard we are always on the lookout for discussions of alternative social arrangements in the family, school, and workplace, arrangements that prevent violence by taking into account the needs of all involved in those arrangements structurally. We relish different formats as well; in addition to traditional articles and reviews, we invite our authors to address issues of justice in film, protest songs, historical narratives, and interviews. Those interested in submitting work to CJR should contact Assistant Editor, Diane Simmons Williams, at dsw27@earthlink.net for the journal's Managing Editor's Guidelines. We usually prefer articles around 25 typed, double-spaced pages but often enough accept larger pieces when appropriate. One full copy of the submission should be accompanied by a blind copy in anticipation of the reviewing process. Those with questions about the fit between their work and the philosophy of the journal can contact CJR Editor-in-Chief, Dennis Sullivan at dsullivan6@nycap.rr.com or any of the associate editors. We look forward to hearing from you. Incidentally, Contemporary Justice Review is the official journal of the Justice Studies Association (www.justicestudies.org).

CALL FOR PAPERS

JOURNAL OF CONTEMPORARY ETHNOGRAPHY

Scott A. Hunt is the editor-elect for the Journal of Contemporary Ethnography. JCE publishes theoretically, methodologically, and substantively significant studies based upon participant-observation, unobtrusive observation, intensive interviewing, and contextualized analysis of discourse as well as examinations of ethnographic methods. Submissions from all substantive areas and theoretical perspectives are welcomed. Email manuscript submissions (in Word or WordPerfect format) may be sent to sahunt00@uky.edu. THE SOUTHWEST JOURNAL OF CRIMINAL JUSTICE

The Southwest Journal of Criminal Justice (SWJCJ) is now accepting manuscripts for consideration. We are interested in receiving submissions of original work that have not been previously published. Diversity in theoretical and methodological approaches is encouraged as is the submission of policy-related research. The SWJCJ is the online, refereed journal of the Southwest Association of Criminal Justice, a regional affiliate of the Academy of Criminal Justice Sciences. Authors need not be members of the Southwest Association of Criminal Justice to submit a manuscript for consideration. Previous issues of the journal and submission information are located at <http://www.cj.txstate.edu/swajindex.html>. Inquiries may be directed to the editor at jon_sorensen@pvamu.edu.

TRENDS IN ORGANIZED CRIME

Trends in Organized Crime offers a composite of analyses and syntheses from a variety of information sources to serve the interests of practitioners and policy makers as well as the academic community. It is both a stimulus to and a forum for more rigorous empirical research on organized crime, both nationally and internationally. Published four times a year, Trends in Organized Crime is the official journal of the International Association for the Study of Organized Crime (IASOC). It has a distinguished international editorial board. Trends publishes peer-reviewed, academically rigorous research, excerpts significant governmental reports; offers reviews of major new books, and, presents analyses and commentary on current issues in organized crime. Manuscripts must be submitted in English, in electronic form to jimfinckenaer@comcast.net as either ASCII, RTF or Word files. For further information, contact the Editor at the above addresses, or at 973-353-3301.

CRITICAL PERSPECTIVES IN CRIMINOLOGY

Critical Perspectives in Criminology will publish scholarly books and edited volumes that are critically conceived, theoretically animated, integratively focused, and policy oriented. We hope to identify and secure commitments from established authors and emerging talent in the field of criminology, including individuals whose disciplinary base is sociology, psychology, law, philosophy, history, psychiatry, political science, gender studies, and any of the other related social and behavioral sciences. Books in the Series will be aimed at the scholarly community, including library acquisitions and single purchases by academic researchers, as well as classroom adoption in upper division undergraduate and lower division graduate courses. Volumes in the Series will NOT be intended for use as undergraduate textbooks. Questions about the Series or submissions should be sent to: Bruce A. Arrigo, Ph.D., Series Editor, Critical Perspectives in Criminology, Department of Criminal Justice, University of North Carolina at Charlotte, 9201 University City Blvd., Charlotte, NC 28223-0001; Barrigo@email.uncc.edu - or - Kerry P. CALL FOR PAPERS

JUSTICE POLICY JOURNAL

The Justice Policy Journal is up and running again and better than ever. One of the few on-line journals, it is sponsored by the Center on Juvenile and Criminal Justice in San Francisco, with editorial support from the University of Nevada-Las Vegas. Papers should focus on public policy issues, although other scholarly articles will be considered. Among the topics we are especially interested in include the impact of incarceration policies, prisoner "re-entry," sentencing reform, drug policy, and juvenile justice policies. Review our submission guidelines at http://www.cjcj.org/jpj/submission_guidelines.php. Submissions to the JPJ (Justice Policy Journal) should have a title page, abstract, brief biographical sketch, a statement of research interest and an e-mail address. Send the document via e-mail as an attachment to profrgs@cox.net or postal service on a disk, preferably as a MS Word document, to: Justice Policy Journal, Professor Randall G. Shelden, Editor, Department of Criminal Justice at UNLV, 4505 Maryland Parkway, Box 455009, Las Vegas, NV 80154, tel: 702-895-0251. (Manuscripts that are not submitted electronically will not be accepted.) Manuscripts submitted via e-mail should be sent to JPJ in original word processing format, preferably Microsoft Word. JPJ articles submissions should be prepared in accordance with either the Modern Language Association or American Psychological Association documentation style for scholarly manuscripts and research papers. For information regarding the desired citation style, authors should consult the appropriate manual. Strict adherence to proper citation style is required. Papers that do not conform to one of the accepted styles will not be accepted.

THE JUVENILE AND FAMILY COURT JOURNAL

The Juvenile and Family Court Journal, published quarterly by the National Council of Juvenile and Family Court Judges, invites article submissions on the many issues facing our nation's juvenile and family courts. The Journal is a peer-reviewed, research-based publication; however, we also invite relevant essays and book reviews. Please contact the editor at (775) 784-6686 or by e-mail at jruffin@ncjfcj.org for writer's guidelines. Submissions should be sent to Editor, Juvenile and Family Court Journal, NCJFCJ, P.O. Box 8970, Reno, NV 89507.

CANADIAN JOURNAL OF CRIMINOLOGY AND CRIMINAL JUSTICE

The Canadian Journal of Criminology and Criminal Justice invites contributions on any aspect of crime or delinquency, or criminal or juvenile justice. CJCCJ has been publishing continuously for almost 50 years, making it one of the oldest scholarly journals in the field. Preference is given to articles with particular relevance to Canada, but the Journal also welcomes comparative studies and work which is of general interest. The journal accepts research articles, research notes, commentaries, and book reviews. The length of most research articles is 20-30 double-spaced pages. Commentaries and research notes tend to be considerably shorter. An editorial decision is normally provided within three months of submission. Instructions to authors and book reviewers and the contents of recent issues are posted at the journal's websites at: <http://www.ccja-acjp.ca/en/cjc.html> and <http://www.utpjournals.com/jour.ihtml?lp=cjccj/cjccj.html>. For further information, please contact the editor, Peter Carrington, at: pjc@uwaterloo.ca

INTERNATIONAL JOURNAL OF COMPARATIVE AND APPLIED CRIMINAL JUSTICE

Now in its 28th year, and newly adopted by the DIC, the International Journal of Comparative and Applied Criminal Justice has provided a forum for scholars, academics, and practitioners who are interested in comparative theory and empirical research in the field. The Journal focuses on two distinct but related concepts. First, papers should be comparative: i.e., comparative analysis of cross-cultural theories of crime, legal systems, policing, courts, juvenile justice, women offenders, and, minority offenders. Second, papers should include policy recommendations for applying research findings to the operations of criminal justice in a given country or region. We invite you to consider submitting your manuscript to this peer-reviewed journal for possible publication. Please send three copies of typewritten, double-spaced original manuscripts not published previously or currently under consideration to Mahesh Nalla, Editor IJCACJ, Michigan State University, School of Criminal Justice, 560 Baker Hall, East Lansing, MI 48824-1118. Guidelines for authors are available at www.cj.msu.edu/~international.

CALL FOR PAPERS

INTERNATIONAL CRIMINAL JUSTICE REVIEW

The International Criminal Justice Review is a quarterly scholarly journal dedicated to presenting system wide trends and problems on crime and justice throughout the world. Articles may focus on a single country or compare issues affecting two or more countries. Both qualitative and quantitative pieces are encouraged, providing they adhere to standards of quality scholarship. Manuscripts may emphasize either contemporary or historical topics. As a peer-reviewed journal, we encourage the submission of articles, research notes, commentaries, and comprehensive essays that focus on crime and justice-related topics in an international and/or comparative context broadly defined. Five copies of manuscripts should be submitted in English, follow APA style, be double-spaced throughout, including references, tables and indented quotations, and cannot be under consideration by another publication. An abstract not to exceed 200 words must be included with submissions. Send to: Richard J. Terrill, Editor, International Criminal Justice Review, P.O. Box 4018, Georgia State University, Atlanta, GA 30302-4018, 404-651-3688, icjr@gsu.edu, www.gsu.edu/icjr

JOURNAL OF CRIMINAL JUSTICE AND POPULAR CULTURE

The Journal of Criminal Justice and Popular Culture is a scholarly, peer-reviewed record of research and opinion on the intersection of crime, criminal justice, and popular culture. The journal is published on-line three times a year and its editorial board includes some of the leading researchers and academics in the field. JCJPC invites individuals to submit for publication consideration manuscripts and essays (reviews or commentaries) that address any aspect of the intersection of crime, criminal justice, and popular culture. This includes, among other topics, papers that explore the representations of crime and criminal justice in popular culture, the roots of those representations, and effects of those representations, as well as theoretical papers blending the study of crime and criminal justice with that of popular culture (e.g., viewing the two through a shared theoretical perspective). Submissions should be sent electronically to sunycrj@albany.edu and should closely follow the formatting requirements stipulated in the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association (5th edition). For more information, please see the journal's website at <http://www.albany.edu/scj/jcipc/submit.html>.

SECURITY JOURNAL

The Security Journal provides a forum for the debate and analysis of key issues within the field of security. It brings together papers written by some of the world's leading practitioners and academics with the aim of generating new ideas and improving the management and practice of security. The papers will aim to facilitate the exchange of knowledge and good practice, and bridge the various disciplines, professions and countries. The ultimate criteria for a paper's acceptance are that the reader will learn something new from it and that it will advance learning in terms of generating ideas and/or improving practice. Contributors will include policy makers, professionals and academics. The journal will include research-based papers and case studies, as well as papers aimed at developing theory and good practice (3,000 - 5,000 words) and where appropriate, shorter pieces describing work under consideration or in progress (1,000 - 2,500 words). For more information about the journal, please visit the website: http://www.perpetuitypress.com/acatalog/Perpetuity_Press_Security_Journal_22.html. For inquiries concerning submission guidelines and requirements, please contact co-editor Professor Bonnie Fisher at: Bonnie.Fisher@uc.edu

JOURNAL OF SCHOOL VIOLENCE

From playground bullying to mass murder, the Journal of School Violence tracks the causes, consequences, and costs of aggressive or violent behavior in children from kindergarten through twelfth grade. It presents up-to-date research, practice, and theory with a focus on prevention and intervention. The Journal of School Violence offers tested information on such urgent matters as threat assessment, hostage situations, stalking behavior, and teacher safety, as well as articles on longer-range strategic planning. This peer-reviewed journal shows teachers and counselors how to deal with immediate problems and helps administrators and policymakers plan effectively to ensure school security. Four copies of the manuscript should be submitted. The manuscript should be approximately 15-20 pages double-spaced with a one-inch margin on all four sides and should include an abstract of 100 words, a title page, and a brief biographical sketch of author(s). References, citations, and general style of manuscript should follow the AA style (as outlined in the latest edition of Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association). References should be double-spaced and placed in alphabetical order. Send all requests and manuscripts to: Edwin R. Gerler, Jr., EdD, Department of Educational Research, Leadership & Counselor Education, College of Education & Psychology, North Carolina State University, Box 7801, Raleigh, NC 27695-7801; Tel: (919) 515-5975; Fax: (919) 515-6891; E-mail: Ergerler@gw.fis.ncsu.edu or edwin_gerler@ncsu.edu.
