Much practice in crime and justice, as in fields like medicine and education, is based on long-term traditions and clinical experience. Although tradition and experience often provide the only guidance for criminal justice practitioners, there is a growing consensus among scholars, practitioners and policy makers that crime control practices and policies should be grounded as much as possible in the results of scientific research (Cullen and Gendreau, 2000; MacKenzie, 2000; Sherman et al., 2006). Support for evidence-based policy in criminal justice may be seen as part of a more general trend toward utilization of scientific research for establishing rational and effective practices and policies in many fields. This trend is perhaps most prominent in the health professions where the idea of evidence-based medicine has gained strong government and professional support.

A central component of the movement toward evidence-based practice and policy is the reliance on systematic reviews of prior research and evaluation studies. Such reviews -- rigorous and explicit syntheses of scientific research -- allow policy makers and practitioners to identify, when possible, what programs and practices are most effective and in which contexts. An important model for the development of systematic reviews has come from the Cochrane Collaboration, which seeks to prepare, maintain and make accessible systematic reviews of research on the effects of health care interventions (see www.cochrane.org). The Cochrane Library, with over 1,200 completed and maintained reviews on a variety of treatments, is now widely recognized as the single best source of evidence on the effectiveness of health care and medical treatments, and has played an important part in the advancement of evidence-based medicine.

In 1999, the founder of the Cochrane Collaboration, Sir Iain Chalmers, organized an effort with University of Pennsylvania Professor Robert Boruch to create a similar infrastructure for reviews on what works in areas such as education, social welfare, and criminology. This resulted in the establishment of the Campbell Collaboration, named after the influential methodologist, psychologist and evaluation theorist, Donald T. Campbell. The Campbell Collaboration was inaugurated in February 2000 to prepare, maintain and make accessible systematic reviews of research on the effects of social and educational interventions (www.campbellcollaboration.org). In a short period it has attracted significant attention and funding from both private foundations and government agencies. For example, the Campbell Collaboration is now a joint partner with the American Institutes of Research (AIR) in an $18.5 million dollar investment by the U.S. Department of Education to create the “What Works Clearinghouse” (www.wwc.org). In 2005, the Campbell Collaboration became affiliated with the AIR, which now provides infrastructure and other support for Campbell organizational and scientific activities.

AROUND THE ASC

Aaron Kupchik, an Assistant Professor in the Department of Sociology and Criminal Justice at the University of Delaware has published a new book titled: Judging Juveniles: Prosecuting Adolescents in Adult and Juvenile Courts (NYU Press, 2006).
The Campbell Collaboration Crime and Justice Group has a noble aim: to complete high quality systematic reviews of the effectiveness of criminological interventions and to make them available on the internet, so that everyone (including scholars, practitioners, policy makers, the mass media, and the general public) has immediate access to the best evidence on “What Works”.

Systematic reviews are more detailed than the more usual narrative reviews. They use rigorous methods for locating, appraising, and synthesizing evidence from prior evaluation research. They contain Methods and Results sections and are reported with the same level of detail that characterizes high quality reports of original research. For examples of 13 systematic reviews carried out under the aegis of the Campbell Collaboration Crime and Justice Group, see Preventing Crime: What Works for Children, Offenders, Victims, and Places, edited by Welsh and Farrington (2006).

Systematic reviews have explicit objectives, explicit criteria for including studies in the review, and explicit details of how searches for potentially eligible studies were conducted (in order to minimize potential bias). Attempts are made to obtain all potentially relevant studies, not just those reported in easily accessible journals and books. Each potentially relevant study is screened to determine if it meets the criteria for inclusion in the review, and excluded studies and justifications for exclusion are listed. All information relevant to the objectives of the review is extracted from each included study and is carefully coded and computerized. Quantitative techniques such as meta-analysis are used, where appropriate, to analyze and summarize results. The final report of the systematic review is structured and detailed so that readers can understand each phase of the research, the decisions that were made, and the conclusions that were reached. The aim is that each systematic review should be transparent and replicable.

Decisions about what studies to include in a systematic review can be highly controversial, because they involve assessments of methodological quality. Authors of excluded studies may feel that their research has been negatively assessed or even “cast into outer darkness” (as one person has told us). Methodological quality standards for evaluation research have been discussed by Farrington (2003) and Weisburd (2003). We hope that Campbell Collaboration reviews will lead to an improvement in the quality of the primary evaluation research. In general, randomized experiments have the greatest internal validity. However, randomized experiments that evaluate criminological interventions are relatively uncommon (Farrington and Welsh, 2006). If Campbell Collaboration reviews were restricted to randomized experiments, they would be relevant to only a small fraction of the key questions for policy and practice in criminology. Therefore, for topics where there are few or no randomized experiments, reviewers also select high quality quasi-experimental evaluations for inclusion. The aim is to reach the most defensible conclusions based on the best available research, with “health warnings” if applicable.

The information that is extracted and coded from each included study comprises at least the following: principal investigators, full citations to all evaluation reports, funding, publication dates, design of the study, characteristics of experimental units (for example, age and gender of participants, prior crime rates of areas), sample size, hypotheses tested, interventions, implementation details, how extraneous variables were controlled so that it was possible to disentangle the impact of the intervention, who were the program delivery personnel, what were the control conditions (since it is rarely possible to have a truly untreated control group), who knew what about the intervention (since double-blind trials are desirable), measurement of outcome variables (for example, official records and/or self-reports of crime), before and after measures of offending, length of follow-up period, and measures of effect size and variability of effect size. Authors of reviews are encouraged to code all variables independently, so that the reliability of coding can be assessed.

The Crime and Justice Group has six reviews published on the Campbell Collaboration website, on Scared Straight, boot camps, counter-terrorism strategies, prison-based drug treatment programs, effects of custodial versus noncustodial sentences, and effects of employment programs on ex-offenders. Five other reviews have completed all the refereeing processes and should shortly be published: on hot spots policing, closed-circuit television, cost-benefit analysis of sentencing, cognitive-behavioral programs for offenders, and interventions for victims of crime. Five other reviews are completed and undergoing the refereeing processes: on restorative justice, neighborhood watch, institutional violence, programs for institutionalized juvenile offenders, and police-led drug enforcement strategies. It is hoped that all 16 of these reviews will be published on the Campbell Collaboration website within the next year. In addition, about 10 other reviews have completed protocols and about 10 others have titles registered.

We encourage criminologists to conduct systematic reviews under the aegis of the Campbell Collaboration Crime and Justice Group. The first step is to submit a proposed title to the Managing Editor, Charlotte Gill (gillce@sas.upenn.edu). This is refereed and, if accepted, is registered in the Campbell Collaboration Reviews of Intervention and Policy Effectiveness (C2-RIPE). The main reason for not accepting a proposed title would be overlap or duplication with an existing title. The second step is to complete and submit a draft protocol (a detailed description of how the systematic review will be completed). This should include the background to the review (hypotheses tested, operational definitions of interventions and outcome variables), the objectives of the review, strategies for searching the literature, selection criteria for including or excluding studies, and strategies for data extraction, coding, and analysis. This is also refereed and revised in the light of referees’ comments, before it is published on C2-RIPE.
The third step is to complete the systematic review. This is also refereed (by the Campbell Methods group as well as by criminologists) and again is likely to require revisions before it is published on C2-RIPE. These rigorous refereeing processes are designed to ensure that the published reviews are of high quality. Once a review is published on the Campbell website, anyone can post comments on it, and authors are expected to update the review every 2-3 years. Campbell Collaboration policy is that each review should have at least two authors, in order to facilitate tests of the reliability of inclusion/exclusion decisions and coding of key features of evaluation studies.

The Campbell Collaboration Crime and Justice Group is overseen by a Steering Committee, consisting of 16 scholars from 11 different countries, of which we are co-chairs. From the beginning, the aim has been to review high quality evaluation studies conducted in all countries, although up to the present time the reviews have focussed on Western industrialized countries. Our strategy initially was to solicit reviews from leading scholars, but we soon broadened out to include unsolicited proposals. The institutional base of the Crime and Justice Group is at the Jerry Lee Center of Criminology at the University of Pennsylvania, under the direction of Lawrence Sherman. David Wilson is Editor-in-Chief of the refereeing processes and, together with Charlotte Gill, attempts to shepherd each review through all the processes as expeditiously as possible.

We have to admit that the publication of systematic reviews has not been achieved as speedily as we initially had hoped. This is partly because of lack of adequate funding, partly because of the problem of providing incentives for reviewers, and partly because the refereeing processes have taken longer than we expected. We have been very grateful for funding received from the Jerry Lee Foundation, the UK Home Office, the US National Institute of Justice, the Smith-Richardson Foundation, the Canadian Department of Justice, and the UK National Center for Policing Excellence. However, we have never had adequate funding to pay for systematic reviews (which, because of all the extensive searching for, obtaining, and screening of possibly relevant studies, might cost $50,000 each), or for meeting expenses, refereeing, administrative and organizational support, translation costs, etc. A crucial reason for the success of the Cochrane Collaboration is its generous funding by the UK National Health Service.

To a considerable extent, participants in the Campbell Collaboration have donated their time voluntarily. However, the problem with this is that leading scholars have many competing calls on their time, and completing Campbell protocols and systematic reviews (or refereeing these) rarely comes to the top of their list of urgent priorities. In general, academics need publications in scholarly journals and their own research grants in order to achieve tenure, promotion, and fame, and it has been difficult for the Campbell Collaboration to provide competing incentives for reviewers and referees (Farrington and Petrosino, 2001). However, we hope that, as the fame of the Campbell Collaboration increases, the completion of a Campbell systematic review will come to be regarded as a prestigious publication. We also hope that the refereeing process will be carried out more expeditiously under the guidance of our current Editor-in-Chief and Managing Editor.

Although few reviews have been officially approved by the Campbell Collaboration, many reviews in progress have been published. In addition to the Welsh and Farrington (2006) showcase mentioned earlier, reviews presented at the annual Jerry Lee Crime Prevention Symposia have been published in issues of the Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science and in the Journal of Experimental Criminology. The Sixth Annual Jerry Lee Crime Prevention Symposium was held in May 2006, and the Seventh will be held on April 23-24, 2007, at the University of Maryland and in Washington D.C. These symposia, generously funded by the Jerry Lee Foundation, have been crucial in encouraging scholars to present and write papers based on their systematic reviews, and to work on and complete their reviews. All interested criminologists are invited to attend the next symposium.

We hope and expect that systematic reviews will become more widely conducted in criminology, not only for evaluating the impact of interventions but also in other areas such as assessing the adequacy of theories and the strength of predictors of offending or recidivism. We expect that only a minority of systematic reviews will be conducted under the aegis of the Campbell Collaboration Crime and Justice Group. Nevertheless, we hope that in due course Campbell reviews will be widely regarded as providing the most rigorous, high quality, easily accessible, and up-to-date evidence on the effectiveness of criminological interventions. We invite all criminologists to join us in this exciting venture.

New Editor Sought for Criminology

The American Society of Criminology invites applications for the position of Editor of Criminology, one of its official journals. The new Editor will be responsible for three volumes beginning with the February 2009 issue. It is anticipated that manuscript submissions will transfer to the new Editor by December 2007.

In addition to supervising the peer review process and selecting articles for publication, the Editor is responsible for the production of the journal. The American Society of Criminology now pays for copy-editing, printing, and mailing of the journal and for a half-time Managing Editor. The Editor’s supporting institution normally provides office space, file storage, equipment, and funds to cover office expenses such as postage and phone for editorial correspondence, copying, graduate student assistance, and release time for the Editor. Supporting institutions may propose to assume some of the expenses now provided by the ASC. ASC will provide a $5,000 honorarium to the Editor each year.

Application materials should include (1) a statement of editorial philosophy, (2) resumes of all proposed personnel, including the Editor, Managing Editor, Copy Editor, and Associate Editors, and (3) assurances and details of institutional support.

Interested applicants may contact the current Editor, Denise Gottfredson (301-405-4717) for additional information regarding the logistics or operational details of editing and producing the journal. Applicants are also encouraged to contact Steven Messner, Chair, ASC Publications Committee, (e-mail: s.messner@albany.edu, phone: 518/442-4674), to discuss their applications before submission. Applications (ten copies) should be sent to:

Steven Messner
Chair, ASC Publications Committee
University at Albany
Arts and Science 351
1400 Washington Avenue
Albany, NY 12222

Applications must be received by March 15, 2007.
2008-2009 ASC ELECTION OF OFFICERS

The following slate of officers, as proposed by the Nominations Committee, was approved by the ASC Executive Board for the 2008-2009 election:

President-Elect
Todd Clear, John Jay College
Franklin Zimring, University of California, Berkeley

Vice President-Elect
Barry Feld, University of Minnesota
Wayne Osgood, Penn State University

Executive Counselor
Karen Heimer, University of Iowa
Steve Mastrofski, George Mason University
Bob O’Brien, Oregon State University
Cassia Spohn, Arizona State University

Additional candidates for each office may be added to the ballot via petition. To be added to the ballot, a candidate needs 50 signed nominations from current, non-student ASC members. If a candidate receives the requisite number of verified, signed nominations, their name will be placed on the ballot.

Fax or mail a hard copy of the signed nominations by Friday, March 30 (postmark date) to the address noted below. Email nominations will not be accepted.

IN THE NEWS: NEW DOCTORAL PROGRAM INITIATED AT THE UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS AT DALLAS

On October 27, 2006, The University of Texas at Dallas received approval from the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board to add master’s and doctorate degrees to its criminology offerings as of January 2007. The doctoral program in Criminology will be the first in the state of Texas. The mission of the new program will be threefold, 1) Deliver high-quality education to a diverse body of graduate students regarding the etiology, control, and variation of criminal and deviant behaviors across time and space 2) serve the local, regional, and national communities through professional development programs, public policy analyses and evaluation research, program and policy design, and set a regional standard for the dissemination of new approaches to the study of crime, and 3) advance the understanding of criminology through a multidisciplinary mix of theoretical and applied research. Faculty members include Timothy Bray, Denise Paquette-Boots (who recently joined the faculty as a new Assistant Professor from the University of South Florida), Karen Hayslett-McCall, Bruce Jacobs, Kimberly Kempf-Leonard, Danielle Lavin-Loucks, James W. Marquart, Paul Tracy, and John Worrall (who recently joined the faculty from California State University—San Bernardino). Inquiries about the new program should contact: Dr. Jim Marquart (Program Director. 972-883-4948, or marquart@utdallas.edu).

DIVISION NEWS

DIVISION OF CRITICAL CRIMINOLOGY

CALL FOR PAPERS – CRITICAL CRIMINOLOGY: AN INTERNATIONAL JOURNAL

Critical Criminology is the official journal of the Division of Critical Criminology of the American Society of Criminology. The journal deals with questions of social, political and economic justice. Critical Criminology is for academics and researchers with an interest in anarchistic, cultural, feminist, integrative, Marxist, peace-making, postmodernist and left-realist criminology. The journal does not limit the scope of the inquiry to state definitions of crime and welcomes work focusing on issues of social harm and social justice, including those exploring the intersecting lines of class, gender, race/ethnicity and heterosexism. The journal is of interest for all persons with an interest in alternative methodologies and theories in criminology, including chaos theory, non-linear analysis, and complex systems science as it pertains to the study of crime and criminal justice. The journal encourages works that focus on creative and cooperative solutions to justice problems, plus strategies for the construction of a more inclusive society.

Manuscripts should be approximately 6,000 to 8,000 words (including tables, illustrations, notes and references). Please send four hard copies of manuscripts, as well as an electronic copy (on 3.5 diskette or on CD-ROM) to Dr. Shahid Alvi, Editor-in-Chief, Faculty of Criminology, Justice & Policy Studies, University of Ontario Institute of Technology, 2000 Simcoe St. N, Oshawa, Ontario, Canada L1H 7K4.

Prior to submission, please access the following URL and follow the posted author’s guidelines. http://www.critcrim.org/journal.htm (NOTE: this link will lead you to the Springer website with links to author instructions.)

For our colleagues outside the U.S. and Canada, electronic submission is available, and should be sent to: Shahid.alvi@uoit.ca.

For markets outside the U.S., please consider working with either Mark Israel, Editor for the Pacific Rim (mark.israel@finders.edu.au) or Joanna Goodey, European Editor (jo.goodey@eumc.eu.int).

Our Book Review Editor, Mindy Bradley, is looking for book recommendations as well as individuals willing to review them. You may contact her at: mwbradl@uark.edu.
DIVISION OF WOMEN & CRIME

CALL FOR PAPERS – FEMINIST CRIMINOLOGY

Editor: Susan F. Sharp, University of Oklahoma

Official Journal of the Division on Women and Crime of the American Society of Criminology

Feminist Criminology – an innovative new journal that is dedicated to research related to women, girls, and crime within the context of a feminist critique of criminology – will unveil its premier issue in January 2006. Published quarterly by Sage Publications as the official journal of the Division on Women and Crime of the American Society of Criminology, this international publication focuses on research and theory that highlights the gendered nature of crime. The feminist critique of criminology incorporates a perspective that the paths to crime differ for males and females. Therefore, research that uses sex as a control variable often fails to illuminate the factors that predict female criminality. Feminist Criminology provides a venue for articles that place women in the center of the research question, answering different questions than the mainstream approach of controlling for sex.

Feminist Criminology features research utilizing both quantitative and qualitative methodology and includes insightful topics such as:

- Race, Ethnicity, and Gender Diversity in the Study of Women and Crime
- Cross-Cultural / International Perspectives on Women and Crime
- Women Working in the Criminal Justice Profession
- How Women Offenders Are Treated in the Criminal Justice System
- Women as Victims
- Feminist Theories of Crime

Feminist Criminology welcomes academics, practitioners, and researchers interested in studies that incorporate a feminist critique to the study of gender and crime to submit articles, reviews, or special issues proposals to the editor. Manuscripts involving empirical research, theoretical analysis, and practice-oriented papers will be considered as will essays on teaching, social action agencies, and book reviews on issues of gender and crime. Manuscripts will be peer-reviewed by the diverse and distinguished multi-disciplinary editorial board and should be submitted in electronic format, not exceeding 30 double-spaced typed pages, with a 100-word abstract and a brief autobiographical sketch. Figures, tables, and references must be on separate pages and should follow the format specified in the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association (5th Edition).

Submissions to Feminist Criminology should be sent directly to the editor via email. A $10.00 submission fee, made payable to the American Society of Criminology, should be mailed to: Susan F. Sharp, Ph.D., University of Oklahoma, 780 Van Vleet Oval, KH 331, Norman, OK 73019 Email: ssharp@ou.edu
ATTENTION AUTHORS!!

Many classic books in Criminology and Criminal Justice are out-of-print and difficult to access. ASC has been considering ways to make these books more accessible to the field.

Google has recently announced a program aimed at increasing accessibility of books in general. Google is working with several major libraries to include their entire collections in its “Google Book Search.” Users will be able to search on authors, titles, topics, or snippets of content to find books. They will be able to view the full-text versions of books whose copyrights have expired. For works still copyright protected, users will see a few snippets from the book so that they can confirm that the book meets their needs, and they will be directed to information about how to order the book. However, under this program, authors can give Google permission to make the full text of a copyrighted book available so that users can have access to the full text. If such permission is granted, users will pay a fee for immediate access to its full contents. The copyright holder decides if a book should be available online, and what the access price should be.

This service may prove to be a convenient avenue for making books that are important to the field more easily accessible. For more information about the entire project, see: http://books.google.com/googleprint/library.html

For more information about how to make a copyrighted book available for online access, see: http://books.google.com/support/partner/bin/answer.py?answer=34596&hl=en_US

Change of Editorship for
Criminology & Public Policy

The American Society of Criminology is pleased to announce that beginning with Volume 7, Issue 1 (February 2008), the new editors of Criminology & Public Policy will be Thomas G. Blomberg and Michael D. Reisig. Following its successful inception under the leadership of Todd Clear and Natasha Frost, the editorship of Criminology & Public Policy will move to Florida State University’s College of Criminology and Criminal Justice. Manuscript submissions will transition to the new Editors in the Spring of 2007.

Until March 1, 2007 submit manuscripts to:
Natasha A. Frost
Criminology & Public Policy
College of Criminal Justice (415CH)
Northeastern University
360 Huntington Avenue
Boston, MA 02115
cpp@neu.edu

After March 1, 2007, submit manuscripts to:
Thomas Blomberg
Criminology & Public Policy
College of Criminology and Criminal Justice
Florida State University
Hecht House
634 W. Call Street
Tallahassee, Florida 32306-1127

The new Editors are enthusiastic about continuing Criminology & Public Policy’s growth as a major publication outlet for research in this area. They will be assisted by an outstanding 21-member editorial board of established scholars. For more details, please visit the FSU College of Criminology and Criminal Justice website at www.criminology.fsu.edu.
The ASC Email Mentoring Program

The ASC email mentoring program for ASC students is thriving and offers a range of services. We now have a search feature that allows ASC students to search the site for mentors by specialization. So, type in the word theory (for instance) in the search bar and, voila, up pops all the mentors who do theory. Also, the site is more accessible than ever as well as being password protected.

Please take a look at the web site at http://ascmentor.anomie.com (or access it via the ASC main page).

Current Mentors

If you have changed your affiliations, email addresses, or areas of specialization, please let me know and I’ll make the updates. Also, if you want off the list, tell me and I’ll remove you.

Call for New Mentors

If you’re an ASC non-student member and you’d like to sign up for the ASC email mentoring program as a mentor, please email me the following information (below). The program has been a very rewarding experience for those of us serving as mentors and we always welcome new people. We seek not only university faculty but also those working in research institutes (private or public), practitioners, and administrators in any field related to the discipline of Criminology. Students need mentors from a variety of specializations as well as various ages, races, and genders. Interested? Email me your:

Name
Affiliation
Email address
Areas of specialization (e.g., women and crime, technology, community corrections, etc.)
Month and year of birth (optional)
Gender
Race/ethnicity

Students

The program is available and free to all ASC student members. We encourage you to make use of our over 80 top-notch national and international experts. The ASC developed the mentoring program in 1994, with the purpose being to link ASC students with experts in the field of Criminology outside their own universities. Students may ask mentors about career choices, research and theoretical issues, personal-professional concerns (such as what it’s like to be a minority Criminologist in a variety of work settings).

The ASC Email Mentor of the Year Award

Students, please nominate the mentor who has been most helpful to you via the ASC email mentoring program. I will forward your recommendation to the ASC Board. The award is then delivered at the ASC annual meetings, along with a very impressive plaque. Please make your nominations to me by September 1 of every year.

Let me know if you have any questions or suggestions for improvement.

Students and Mentors are encouraged to contact me at:

NOMINATIONS FOR 2007 ASC AWARDS

The ASC Awards Committee invites nominations for the following awards, to be presented at the Annual Meeting. In submitting your nominations, provide the following supporting materials: a letter evaluating a nominee’s contribution and its relevance to an award, and the nominee’s c.v. (short version preferred) by March 1 to the appropriate committee chair. The awards are:

EDWIN H. SUTHERLAND AWARD, which recognizes outstanding scholarly contributions to theory or research in criminology on the etiology of criminal and deviant behavior, the criminal justice system, corrections, law or justice. The distinguished contribution may be based on a single outstanding book or work, on a series of theoretical or research contributions, or on the accumulated contributions by a senior scholar.

OTHER ASC AWARDS
(Nomination submission dates and rules may differ)

OUTSTANDING ARTICLE AWARD (Established in 2006) honors exceptional contributions made by scholars in article form. The award is given annually for the peer-reviewed article that makes the most outstanding contribution to research in criminology. The 2007 Committee will consider articles published during the 2005 calendar year. To nominate articles, please send full citation information for the article and a brief discussion of your reasons for the recommendation to the Article Award Committee Chair, noted below. The Award will be presented during the annual meeting of the Society. The Executive Board may decide not to give an Article Award in a given year. The deadline for nominations is March 1.

MICHAEL J. HINDELANG AWARD is given annually for a book, published within three (3) calendar years preceding the year in which the award is made, that makes the most outstanding contribution to research in criminology. For this year, the book must have been published in 2004, 2005, or 2006. To be considered, books must be nominated by individuals who are members of the American Society of Criminology. The Committee will not consider anthologies and/or edited volumes. To nominate a book, please send the title of the book, its authors, the publisher, the year of the publication, and a brief discussion of your reasons for the recommendation to the Hindelang Award Committee Chair, noted below. The Executive Board may decide not to give the Hindelang Award in a given year. The deadline for receiving nominations is February 15.

ASC FELLOWS The title of “Fellow” is given to those members of the Society in good standing who have achieved distinction in the field of criminology. The honorary title of "Fellow" recognizes persons who have made a scholarly contribution to the intellectual life of the discipline, whether in the form of a singular, major piece of scholarship or cumulative scholarly contributions. Longevity alone is not sufficient. In addition, a Fellow must have made a significant contribution to the field through the career development of other criminologists and/or through organizational activities within the ASC. Newly designated Fellows will be recognized at the upcoming Annual Meeting. In your nominating letter, please describe the reasons for your nomination and include a copy of the nominee’s curriculum vitae (or make arrangements to have it sent to the Committee Chair). All materials should be sent to the Committee Chair, noted below. Any questions should be directed to the Committee Chair. The deadline for nominations is March 1. A list of ASC Fellows can be found at www.asc41.com/felsnom.html.

UNDERGRADUATE FELLOWSHIP FOR ETHNIC MINORITIES

The ASC Minority Scholars/Mentors Research Grant program was established by the American Society of Criminology in order to increase the number of scholars in criminology and criminal justice who are members of historically disadvantaged and under-represented ethnic and racial groups. Undergraduate students who are members of these under-represented ethnic and racial groups and are near the end of their sophomore year of study are eligible. The goal of this initiative is to facilitate the advancement of academically talented students into graduate (especially doctoral) study in criminology (or criminal justice). Faculty members who are mentoring students will co-apply for the grant with the student. Applications are submitted during the student’s sophomore year, with funding beginning in the student’s junior year. Nominations must be received by May 1st preceding the student’s junior year. Grantees will be selected by the Board of the American Society of Criminology, upon the recommendation of the Ad Hoc Committee on Minority Scholar/Mentor Research Grants. Grantees receive $10,000 in research scholarship funds, which is divided into awards of $5,000 for the student during his or her Junior and Senior years of undergraduate study. Grantees also receive a grant of up to $1,500 to support travel to the annual meetings of the American Society of Criminology during November of the student’s Senior year of undergraduate study. At that annual meeting, the student will present a research paper (developed during in the previous year) under auspices of a faculty mentor (who may be a co-author). Awardees begin their work on the paper during the junior year of study.

Students selected for this award will receive:
$5,000 research grant each year for the junior and senior year of study
Up to $1,500 travel grant to attend the annual meetings of the American Society of Criminology
Guidance in the development of a research paper on a topic in criminology
Guidance in the scholarly area of criminology
Guidance in the application process for graduate school

The mentoring relation is expected to involve the following areas:
Mentoring the student in a collaborative research project that will yield a paper presented at the ASC meeting in the student’s senior year.
Mentoring the student in the field of criminology during the student’s two years of funding. This might involve weekly meetings, readings/independent study courses, courses, work on other projects, or attendance at local criminology conferences.
Mentoring of the student that will facilitate the student’s preparation for and successful application to graduate study in criminology/criminal justice.

The proposal to ASC for the award is a collaborative effort. The primary criteria for allocating the awards are (1) the student’s potential for completing doctoral work in criminology and (2) the quality of the proposed mentoring relationship. In this proposal, the faculty member should do the following:
Provide a written recommendation for why the potential grantee has the academic potential and career aspirations to successfully complete graduate study in criminology (or criminal justice) leading the student into an academic (or related) career.
Provide student transcripts and any other supporting materials demonstrating the student’s promise as a scholar (these may include ACT, SAT, and/or GRE scores).
Provide a description of the proposed collaborative research project that will result in a presentation at the ASC meeting in the student’s senior year.
Provide a description of other mentoring activities and proposed contact with the student over his or her junior and senior years.

In this proposal, the student should do the following:
Provide a personal statement on his or her career goals in criminology.
Provide a statement on how the Mentoring Grant would enable the student to focus more time on his or her academic work and better achieve his or her career goals (e.g., lessen time spent on a job).

Nomination proposals should be sent by May 1 to:

GRADUATE FELLOWSHIP FOR ETHNIC MINORITIES

Eligibility: The fellowships are designed to encourage African American, Asian American, Latino, and Native American students to enter the field of criminology and criminal justice. Applicants need not be members of the American Society of Criminology. Individuals studying criminology or criminal justice issues are encouraged to apply. The recipients of the fellowships must be accepted into a program of doctoral studies. Generally three (3), $6,000 fellowships are awarded each year.

Application Procedures: A complete application package must be sent to the Committee Chair no later than March 1. A complete application must contain (1) up-to-date curriculum vita; (2) indication of race or ethnicity; (3) copies of undergraduate and graduate transcripts; (4) statement of need and prospects for financial assistance for graduate study; (5) a letter describing career plans, salient experiences, and nature of interest in criminology and criminal justice; and (6) three letters of reference.

The Society reserves the right not to award the fellowships in a given year.

GENE CARTE STUDENT PAPER COMPETITION, Sponsored by McGraw-Hill
This award is given to recognize outstanding scholarly work of students.

Eligibility: Any student currently enrolled on a full-time basis in an academic program at either the undergraduate or graduate level. Persons who are previous first place prize winners of this competition are ineligible.

Paper Specifications: No paper may be submitted to more than one ASC student competition for the same year. Any paper that has previously won any prize in any ASC competition is ineligible for submission to another ASC competition. Papers may be conceptual and/or empirical but must be directly related to criminology. Papers must be typewritten, double-spaced on 8-1/2x11 white paper, and no longer than 7,500 words. The CRIMINOLOGY format for the organization of text, citations and references should be used. Authors’ names, departments and advisors (optional) must appear ONLY on the title page, since papers will be evaluated anonymously. The next page of the manuscript should include the title and a 100-word abstract. The author must submit EIGHT copies of the manuscript, accompanied by a letter indicating the author’s enrollment status and co-signed by the dean, department chair or program director.

Judging Procedures: The Student Awards Committee will rate entries according to criteria such as the quality of the conceptualization, significance of the topic, clarity and aptness of methods, quality of the writing, command of relevant work in the field, and contribution to criminology.

Awards: The 1st, 2nd, and 3rd place papers will be awarded prizes of $500, $300, and $200, respectively and will be eligible for presentation at the upcoming Annual Meeting. The 1st prize winner will also receive a travel award (generally hotel accommodations) to help defray costs for attending the Annual Meeting. The Committee may decide that no entry is of sufficient quality to declare a winner. Fewer than three awards may be given. Prize-winning students will be acknowledged at the Annual Meeting Awards Ceremony.

Submission Deadline: Papers must be submitted with a postmarked on or before April 15 to:

IN MEMORIAM

DENNIS J. PALUMBO, 76, Regents' Professor Emeritus of Arizona State University, died at his home in Tempe on November 16, 2006 from complications of liver failure. A leader in the study of public policy, Palumbo was born on November 18, 1929 to Richard and Nora Palumbo of Chicago, Illinois. He served in the U.S. Air Force Intelligence from 1950-1954, and after an honorable discharge, went on to earn a M.A. and a PhD in Political Science from the University of Chicago. Palumbo served as the first director of the Morrison Institute for Public Policy at ASU, and was one of the first scholars to focus on implementation, rather than administration, of public policy. During the later years of his career, he co-authored the first textbook on a public policy approach to criminal justice. He conducted a number of major studies that examined how criminal justice agencies implemented policy reforms, including evaluations of programs for the Arizona Department of Corrections, the Department of Economic Security and the Arizona Supreme Court. Palumbo is survived by his wife of 52 years, Sachiko; his children Jean, Dennis, and Linda; and grandchildren Ryan, Erin, Juliann, and Dylan. In lieu of flowers, the family suggests contributions be made to Hospice of the Valley, or to the ASU Foundation.

DONAL E. J. MACNAMARA, the firebrand criminologist who served four terms as president of the American Society of Criminology, died in October at the age of 90. MacNamara’s interest in criminology was as long as it was broad, dating to his enlistment in the U.S. Army in the 1930s, and covering such fields as police administration, corrections, sex crimes and much more. Along the way, he carved out a distinguished career as a teacher, author and advocate that won him acclaim throughout the United States and in such countries as Ireland, Israel, Denmark and Australia. In the midst of the Great Depression, following his graduation from high school in 1933, MacNamara enlisted in the Army at age 17, and he served for 20 years, retiring at the rank of major in the Military Police. His service included postings in North Africa, Italy, Greece, France, Austria and Germany. It was during his Army service that he earned two bachelor’s degrees and a master of philosophy degree from Columbia University, paving the way for what would become a half-century-long career in academia. He also earned a master’s in public administration from New York University. The long list of teaching positions MacNamara held includes assistant director of the New York Institute of Criminology; lecturer on police administration at NYU; head of the law enforcement program at the University of Southern California School of Public Administration; assistant director of USC’s Delinquency Control Institute, and professor of correctional administration at John Jay College of Criminal Justice in New York. He retired from John Jay College in 1985 with the rank of University Distinguished Professor of Criminology and Criminal Justice. Never one to sit still for long, MacNamara went on to hold visiting professorships at Bar-Ilan University in Israel, the University of Melbourne in Australia, and California State University, Long Beach, in addition to lecturing worldwide on a range of criminal justice issues. MacNamara was consistently ahead of the curve on numerous criminal justice issues. Long before the world had heard of The Innocence Project, he was speaking and writing on the issue of wrongful conviction and its public policy implications. He was exploring questions pertaining to transnational crime before the term was widely known. He was a longtime foe of the death penalty (serving 11 years as president of the American League to Abolish Capital Punishment), and of misuse of the insanity defense. MacNamara was elected to four consecutive terms as president of the American Society of Criminology, from 1960 to 1963, and it was during his tenure that the ASC newsletter Criminologica was created. He was also one of the founding scholars behind the Academy of Criminal Justice Sciences. He was the author or editor of at least 13 books on criminology and criminal justice, including: Corrections: Problems of Punishment and Rehabilitation; Problems of Sex Behavior; Sex, Crime and the Law (all co-edited with Edward Sagarin); Police: Perspectives and Problems (edited with Marc Reidel); New Dimensions in Transnational Crime (edited with Philip John Stead); Deviants: Victims or Victimizers (edited with Andrew Karmen), and Crime, Criminals and Corrections (edited with Lloyd McCorkle). MacNamara, who received the Herbert Bloch Award from ASC and the Bruce Smith Sr. Award from ACJS, did his part to encourage scholarship on the part of younger colleagues. In 2000, he donated funds to John Jay College to endow an annual Donal E.J. MacNamara Junior Faculty Award, presented to an instructor or assistant professor who has made a significant contribution to criminal justice or criminology. In addition, the Academy of Criminal Justice Sciences presents the Donal MacNamara Award each year to recognize an individual for outstanding journal publication. MacNamara’s son, Dr. Brian Scott MacNamara, is an assistant professor in the Department of Law, Police Science and Criminal Justice Administration at John Jay College. His nephew, Joseph D. McNamara, is a retired police chief and currently a Research Fellow at the Hoover Institution at Stanford University.

2007 ANNUAL FULBRIGHTERS CONFERENCE IN PANAMA

Fulbright grantees, alumni and friends are invited to the Fulbright Academy's 2007 Fulbrighters in Science Conference. This 3½ day conference will be held in Panama City, Panama in March 2007.

The 3½ day conference will have panels and discussions on many topics, including criminology. Alumni from the region and around the world are involved in the planning. If you would like to propose a panel, please visit the Academy's website.

If you would like to propose a panel, help with the planning or sponsor the conference, please contact us at info@FulbrightAcademy.org. The conference language is English. Situated at Central America’s narrowest point, Panama City has been a center for the movement of people and goods between the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans for centuries. The Academy’s program will include private tours of parks, scientific research stations, and the Panama Canal.

Data Analysis Workbooks for use in your Classroom

Then National Consortium on Violence Research (NCOVR) at Carnegie Mellon University provides various data workbooks for use by students. The workbooks introduce students to data resources available on the web and to basic statistical data analysis techniques. Problem sets in each workbook provide students with an opportunity to apply the techniques to real-world data.

VIOLENCE IN THE U.S. — DATA WORKBOOKS

INTRODUCTION
The Violence in the United States Workbooks provide students with an opportunity to explore various features of violent offending in the United States using a number of national data resources. The aim is to introduce students to data resources available on the internet and provide hands on experience in basic data analysis. Each workbook introduces a violence-related topic, provides links to online data, and provides a series of problem sets based on that data.

Data and analyses are organized around individual violence topics.

POSITION ANNOUNCEMENTS

THE CRIMINOLOGIST will regularly feature in these columns position vacancies available in organizations and universities, as well as positions sought by members of the Society. A charge of $175.00 with the absolute maximum of 250 words allowed will be made. Institutional members of ASC can place a position announcement in the newsletter for half price. It is the policy of the ASC to publish position vacancies announcements only from those institutions or agencies which subscribe to equal education and employment opportunities and those which encourage women and minorities to apply. Institutions should indicate the deadline for the submission of application materials. To place announcements in THE CRIMINOLOGIST, send all material to: asc2@osu.edu. When sending announcements, please include a phone number, fax number and contact person in the event we have questions about an ad. The Professional Employment Exchange will be a regular feature at each Annual Meeting. Prospective employers and employees should register with the Society no later than three weeks prior to the Annual Meeting of the Society. The cost of placing ads on our online Employment Exchange is $200 for the first month, $150 for the second month, and $100 for each month thereafter. To post online, please go to www.asc41.com and click on Employment. Dr. Ken Adams (kenadams@mail.ucf.edu) is in charge of the website Employment Exchange.

COLLEGE OF MOUNT ST. JOSEPH Pending final budget review and approval, the College of Mount St. Joseph, a Catholic college that provides more than 2,200 students with a liberal arts and professional education that emphasizes values, integrity, and social responsibility, and is ranked by U.S. News & World Report as one of the best master's level universities in the Midwest, is accepting applications for a full-time tenure-track faculty member in Sociology and Criminology beginning August, 2007. The College has an interdisciplinary core curriculum, and offers a major in Sociology, a dual major in Sociology/Criminology, and minors in anthropology, non-profit leadership, and political science, among others (see www.msj.edu/academics/majors/undergrad/sociology and www.msj.edu/academics/majors/undergrad/crimsoc) and is currently hosting an international Fulbright Scholar. Successful candidates must have an earned Ph.D. in Sociology or Criminology. Expertise in comparative or international issues is a plus. To apply, please visit www.msj.edu/employment.

COLLEGE OF MOUNT ST. Our rapidly-growing program resides within a multi-disciplinary department offering a dual major in Criminology/Sociology, among others (see www.msj.edu/academics/majors/undergrad/crimsoc) and is currently hosting an international Fulbright Scholar. Consideration will be given to candidates who have an earned PhD in Criminology (or a related crime-study field) or an earned PhD in Sociology with expertise in Criminology. Preference will be given to those candidates who have demonstrated a scholarly interest in the comparative and international areas of criminology. The successful candidate will be expected to direct the program, contribute to the further development of the major by developing new courses, and oversee the development of an accredited internship program. Candidates will be evaluated on their potential to be outstanding teachers, researchers, and colleagues. Rank and salary will be dependent upon the candidate's qualifications. EASTERN CONNECTICUT STATE UNIVERSITY Department: Sociology, Anthropology and Social Work. Position: Assistant Professor – Sociology. Qualifications: Ph.D. in Sociology preferred; ABD in Sociology near completion considered. Faculty are expected to be outstanding teachers, possess sensitivity to a diverse population, and demonstrate commitment to creative activity and scholarship, professional development and professional service. Position Description: The successful candidate will teach courses in criminology and contribute to the major by teaching either the capstone writing-intensive senior seminar or statistics, as well as teach non-majors in the liberal arts curriculum. Application Procedure: Screening will begin immediately and continue until positions are filled. Applications should include current curriculum vitae, a transcript of all graduate work, a statement of teaching philosophy and research interest, documentation of teaching ability, and three current letters of recommendation. Send these to the search chair at the following address: William Lugo, Search Chair, Department of Sociology, Anthropology and Social Work, Eastern Connecticut State University, Willimantic, CT 06226

FAYETTEVILLE STATE UNIVERSITY Due to extraordinary growth, the Department of Criminal Justice at Fayetteville State University invites applications for three tenure-track assistant or associate professor positions to begin August 2007. Fayetteville State University is a constituent institution of the University of North Carolina and the second-oldest public institution of higher education in the state. The Department of Criminal Justice offers a bachelor’s degree with approximately 400 majors and a Master of Science program that began in Fall 2006. Responsibilities of faculty include teaching at the undergraduate and graduate levels, research, and service to the university and to the community. Applicants must have a PhD in criminal justice, criminology, or a closely related field. Strong preference will be given to applications with a PhD in criminal justice or criminology. ABDs may apply, but we will consider only individuals who can reasonably expect to have their doctoral degree in hand by Fall 2007. The JD alone is not an appropriate degree for this position. Area of specialization is open. Candidates with an interest in web-based instruction are strongly encouraged to apply. Salary and rank are negotiable and commensurate with qualifications and experience. Review of applications will continue until positions are filled. To apply, send a letter of application, current vita, official graduate and undergraduate transcripts, and three letters of reference to: Dr. Lori Guevara, Search Committee Chair, Department of Criminal Justice, Fayetteville State University, 1200 Murchison Road, Fayetteville, NC 28301.
FLORIDA ATLANTIC UNIVERSITY. The Department of Criminology and Criminal Justice invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor at our Davie campus beginning September 2007. The campus is located on the eastern coast of southern Florida and is one of the 5 FAU campuses stretching from Broward to Port St. Lucie county. A Ph.D. in Criminology, Criminal Justice or a related field is required. Candidates will be expected to teach 2 undergraduate and/or graduate courses per semester, including criminology, criminal justice systems, justice policy, research methods and other core courses. Candidates at the Assistant level should demonstrate potential for scholarship and an active research agenda. ABDs will be considered, but Ph.D. must be completed by the time of appointment. J.D.s without a Ph.D. will not be considered. Please visit our website at www.fau.edu for more info on FAU, our campuses, our department and our graduate and undergraduate degree programs. MINOT STATE UNIVERSITY The Criminal Justice Department at Minot State University is seeking to fill two positions at the assistant or associate rank as well as one position at the associate or full professor level (with the latter position probably becoming departmental chair). All three are tenure track positions. PhD or equivalent is required, although ABDs will be considered for the two junior level positions. The Department has approximately 250 undergraduate majors, an active master’s degree program, and offers doctoral level courses in criminal justice as part of a PhD program with the University of North Dakota. Fields of interests are open, and may extend to sociology, psychology, and political science as long as there is some focal interest in criminal justice/criminology. Salaries are competitive. Applications should be sent to Dr. Lee Ellis, Search Committee Chair, Department of Criminal Justice, Minot State University, Minot, ND 58707 or lee.ellis@minotstateu.edu. Candidates will begin to be considered November 1, but the search will continue until all three positions are filled. Application material should contain a letter outlining major teaching and research interests, curriculum vitae, and email addresses of at least three references. Objective evidence of teaching capabilities should also be included if at all possible. Minot State is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer.

MOUNT IDA COLLEGE Located eight miles west of Boston, Mount Ida College is a diverse learning community that emphasizes baccalaureate degrees that blend the liberal arts with professional preparation and prepares graduates for graduate study. More than twenty-five areas of study are offered within four schools and one institute: the School of Arts and Science, School of Business, School of Design, School of Animal Science, and the New England Institute of Funeral Service Education. A teaching institution with an expectation that faculty are actively engaged in scholarship and/or creative work and service, Mount Ida College is currently accepting applications for full-time faculty positions, with terminal qualifications preferred, in a number of disciplines. The School of Arts and Science seeks applicants for a full-time faculty position in Criminal Justice at the Assistant/Associate Professor level, beginning in the 2007-2008 academic year. CALL FOR PAPERS

CRIME AND JUSTICE: IN THE GLOBAL AND IN THE LOCAL

Program Co-Chairs:

CANDACE KRUTTSCHNITT
University of Minnesota
ROSS MACMILLAN
University of Minnesota

asc2007@umn.edu

SUBMISSION DEADLINE: MARCH 16, 2007

SUBMISSIONS: All abstracts must be submitted here. On the site you will be asked to indicate the type of submission you wish to make. Your choices are the following:

Panel Submissions: For a panel, you must submit titles and abstracts for all papers and all author information together. In order to encourage more interaction with session audiences, each panel should contain either four (4) papers or three (3) papers and a discussant.

Individual Paper Presentations: Submissions for a regular session presentation may take one of two forms. First, you may submit a title and abstract and approximately 5 pages of your paper (a brief description of theory, methods, and findings). These presentations will be given priority in scheduling and panel composition. Second, you may submit a title and abstract (approximately 200 words). In the latter case, you must indicate whether you prefer to present your paper in a standard panel or in a roundtable.

Poster Presentations: Require only the submission of a title and abstract. Posters should display data, policy analysis, or theoretical work in a visually appealing poster format to encourage interactive communication. All poster sessions will be held late Thursday afternoon.

Roundtable Sessions: These sessions consist of three to six presenters on related topics. ASC provides no AV equipment for these sessions, which are generally less formal than standard panels. If you expect large attendance for a session, a thematic panel might provide a better setting.
APPEARANCES ON PROGRAM

You may submit ONLY ONE FIRST AUTHOR PRESENTATION and make only one other appearance as either a chair or discussant on a standard panel. Appearances on the program as a co-author, a poster presenter, or a roundtable participant are unlimited.

The meetings are Wednesday through Saturday. Participants should plan to attend the entire time. ASC cannot honor personal preferences for day and time of panel presentations.

Program participants are expected to pre-register for the meetings by September 30th, 2007. Pre-registration materials will be sent to you by September 2007. Failure to pre-register may result in the removal of your paper from the program.

Only papers that are original and have not been published or presented elsewhere may be presented. Submissions are interpreted as meaning that the proposed presentation satisfies these conditions.

SUBMISSION DEADLINE

March 16, 2007 is the absolute deadline for thematic panels or regular panel presentations. Any submissions after that date can be considered only for poster or roundtable sessions, and may not be included in the printed program.

ABSTRACTS

All submissions must include abstracts. For regular submissions, abstracts are limited to 200 words and should describe the general theme of the presentation and where relevant, the methods and results. The fuller submissions should be approximately five pages and briefly describe the theoretical issues, methods, and findings of your research.

EQUIPMENT

LCD projectors will be available for all panel and paper presentations to facilitate computer-based presentations (especially Power Point). However, presenters will need to bring their own personal computers or arrange for someone in your panel to bring a personal computer. In addition, all meeting rooms for paper and panel sessions will include overhead projectors. Please note that ASC cannot provide either LCD or overhead projectors for roundtable sessions.
GUIDELINES FOR ONLINE SUBMISSIONS

When you go online to submit your paper or panel, you will need to select a single sub-category in one of 27 broader categories listed below. Your choice will be important in determining the kind of panel on which you are placed, and it will also assist the program chairs in avoiding time conflicts for panels on similar topics to the extent possible.

Here are a few guidelines that may help you in selecting the most appropriate category and subcategory:

1. Please go through the entire list of categories, noting the sub-categories within each category, before making your selection. If you review the entire list, you are more likely to find your best fit than if you select the first category that seems appropriate.

2. In making your selection, focus on the aspect of your paper that you would describe as your primary concern in selecting the broad category. For example, if you would like to present a paper titled, "Police Responses to Domestic Disturbances in African American Neighborhoods," you might submit under:

<thead>
<tr>
<th>Category</th>
<th>Sub-Category</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Policing (XVIII)</td>
<td>Problem-Oriented or Community Policing(73)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Women (VII)</td>
<td>Gender and Victimization (30)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Race/Ethnicity (VIII)</td>
<td>Race/Ethnicity &amp; Offending/Victimization (31)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Social Institutions (VI)</td>
<td>Communities (23)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Violence (XIII)</td>
<td>Intimate Violence (55)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Victimization (XVI)</td>
<td>Victim-Related Programs and Policies (66)</td>
</tr>
</tbody>

The most important choice for you is the choice of broad category. As the author of the paper, you should consider whether you are most interested in interacting with scholars who are involved in research on policing, on women, on race/ethnicity, on social institutions, on criminal justice policy, or on violence. Your broad category choice will determine the pool of papers into which your paper goes for panel formation, and therefore the kind of researchers with whom you will be presenting. The broad categories will also be considered when scheduling panels, in order to avoid having too many similar panels scheduled at the same time. Therefore, category selection is important even if you are submitting a fully formed panel. The sub-categories will be used to help program committee members refine the fit for panels.

3. If you find a category on the list that seems to be the appropriate choice for your paper, but do not find a sub-category that seems to fit, then you should choose "other" within the broad category. When your abstract is reviewed, your paper will be assigned to an appropriate panel within that category.

CALL FOR PAPERS

JOURNAL OF CONTEMPORARY CRIMINAL JUSTICE NEW

The Journal of Contemporary Criminal Justice invites individuals to submit manuscripts for consideration for inclusion in a planned special issue on Empirical Research on the Impact of Sentencing Reforms. This volume will focus on the impact of sentencing reforms that have been enacted during the past 25 years, including sentencing guidelines, mandatory-minimum sentences, three-strikes-and-you’re-out legislation, and truth-in-sentencing statutes. The journal is particularly interested in empirical research that investigates whether the reforms have resulted in more punitive sentences, less crime, or reductions in disparity and discrimination. Also of interest are studies that focus on sentencing outcomes in the post-reform era. Inquiries about the appropriateness of topics should be directed to one of the two guest editors: Cassia Spohn, Arizona State University can be reached via email (at cassia.spohn@asu.edu) or telephone (602-543-0023); Pauline Brennan, University of Nebraska at Omaha can be reached via email (pkbrennan@mail.unomaha.edu) or telephone (402-554-2205). All manuscripts will be peer reviewed. Manuscripts should be no more than 25 typed, double-spaced pages, including tables, figures, and references. Manuscripts must be received no later than April 1, 2008. Please send four manuscript copies, along with the manuscript on disk, to Cassia Spohn, School of Criminology and Criminal Justice, Arizona State University, PO Box 37100, Phoenix, AZ 85069-7100.

JOURNAL OF CONTEMPORARY CRIMINAL JUSTICE NEW

Special Issue: Assessing the Ability of Nationally Available Police Data to Illuminate the Crime Problem (February 2008)

The Journal of Contemporary Criminal Justice is soliciting manuscripts for consideration in a special issue, entitled Assessing the Ability of Nationally Available Police Data to Illuminate the Crime Problem. Inquiries about the appropriateness of particular manuscript topics should be directed to James Lynch via email at jlynch@jjay.cuny.edu or telephone (212-484-1107). All manuscripts will be peer reviewed. Manuscripts should be no more than 25 typed, double-spaced pages including tables, figures and references. Manuscripts must be received no later than June 1, 2007. Please send four manuscript copies, along with the manuscript on disk, to: James Lynch, John Jay College of Criminal Justice, 899 Tenth Avenue, New York, NY 10019, jlynch@jjay.cuny.edu, 212-484-1107

CRIMINAL JUSTICE POLICY REVIEW

Submission Deadline: May 1, 2007

Criminal Justice Policy Review (SAGE Publications) is a multidisciplinary peer-reviewed journal publishing articles written by scholars and professionals committed to the study of criminal justice policy through experimental and non-experimental approaches. The journal is published quarterly and accepts appropriate articles, essays, research notes, and book reviews. It also provides a forum for occasional special issues on notable topics in crime and justice. The journal appeals to criminologists, criminal justice researchers, sociologists, public administrators, scholars, and practitioners with an interest in criminal justice policy. For general information about Criminal Justice Policy Review, please go to http://cjpr.sagepub.com.

The journal is currently soliciting manuscripts for a special issue on the “accountability” movement in juvenile justice. During the 1990s, following a number of years of rising juvenile violent crime rates, significant public and political attention was directed at juvenile court reform. Increasing public protection and youthful offender accountability became the prominent goals of many pieces of federal and state legislation. Manuscripts considered for publication in this special issue could focus on a variety of topics, including (but not limited to): (1) subjecting serious and violent juvenile offenders to adult court prosecution; (2) expanding the graduated sanctions available to juvenile courts; (3) holding parents responsible for their child’s actions; (4) establishing appropriate juvenile drug testing policies and procedures; and (5) improving juvenile record-keeping systems to parallel those for adult offenders.

For style and submission guidelines for Criminal Justice Policy Review, please go to http://www.hhs.iup.edu/ct/CJPR. For additional information, contact Phil Stinson, Managing Editor of Criminal Justice Policy Review, at p.m.stinson@iup.edu or (724) 357-1247.
CALL FOR PAPERS

THE JOURNAL OF ETHNICITY IN CRIMINAL JUSTICE SPECIAL EDITION
Editor: Janice Joseph, Ph.D., Richard Stockton College of New Jersey, Pomona

The Journal of Ethnicity in Criminal Justice invites scholars to submit manuscripts for a special issue of its journal on Blacks, Crime, and Justice, focusing on policing, courts, and corrections. Four copies of the manuscript should be submitted. The manuscript should be approximately 20-25 pages double-spaced with a one-inch margin on all four-sides and should include an abstract of 100 words, a title page, and a brief biographical sketch of author(s). References, citations, and general style of manuscripts for this Journal should follow the APA style (as outlined in the latest edition of the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association). References should be double-spaced and placed in alphabetical order. The use of footnotes within the text is discouraged. Words should be underlined only when it is intended that they be typeset in italics. We would like to encourage international scholars to submit manuscripts to this special issue. The deadline for submissions is July 15, 2007. All manuscripts submitted for publication to the Journal of Ethnicity in Criminal Justice are peer-reviewed. Please send manuscripts to: Dr. Shaun L. Gabbidon, School of Public Affairs, Penn State Harrisburg, 777 W. Harrisburg Pike, Middletown, PA 17057, slg13@psu.edu. The Journal of Ethnicity in Criminal Justice is indexed in Criminal Justice Abstracts, Social Services Abstracts, Sociological Abstracts, and other major abstracting and indexing services.

JOURNAL OF CONTEMPORARY CRIMINAL JUSTICE
Special Issue: Evidence-Based Practices for Responding to Victimization (May 2008 issue)

The Journal of Contemporary Criminal Justice invites individuals to submit manuscripts for consideration for inclusion in a planned special issue on the topic, Evidence-Based Practices for Responding to Victimization. This volume will focus on assessments of programs developed for the purpose of assisting persons with some of the consequences of victimization. Such research may include programs designed to alleviate emotional distress, provide financial assistance, prevent re-victimization, or inhibit retaliatory offending. It may also include assessments of efforts to involve victims in the criminal justice system -- for example, through victim impact statements, restorative justice panels, or statements at parole board hearings. Inquiries about the appropriateness of topics should be directed to Janet Lauritsen, JCCJ Guest Editor, via email (at Janet_Lauritsen@umsl.edu) or telephone (314-516-5427). All manuscripts will be peer reviewed. Manuscripts should be no more than 25 typed, double-spaced pages including tables, figures and references. Manuscripts must be received no later than September 1, 2007. Please send four manuscript copies, along with the manuscript on disk, to Janet Lauritsen, Department of Criminology and Criminal Justice, University of Missouri-St. Louis, One University Boulevard, St. Louis, MO 63121.

JOURNAL OF CONTEMPORARY CRIMINAL JUSTICE
Special Issue: Empirical Studies of Gender Responsive Approaches to the Classification and Treatment of Women Offenders (November 2007)

The Journal of Contemporary Criminal Justice is soliciting manuscripts for consideration in a special issue, titled Empirical Studies of Gender Responsive Approaches to the Classification and Treatment of Women Offenders. The Journal is particularly interested in empirical studies of the efficacy of gender-responsive programming and assessments. This would include, but not be limited to, evaluation studies, validation studies of risk and needs assessments, and empirical tests of relevant theories. Patricia Van Voorhis, Emily Salisbury, and Emily Wright, from the University of Cincinnati will serve as guest editors for this special issue. Inquiries about the appropriateness of topics should be directed to Patricia Van Voorhis via email at pat.vanvoorhis@uc.edu or telephone (513 575 2221). All manuscripts will be peer reviewed. Manuscripts should be no more than 25 typed, double-spaced pages including tables, figures and references. Manuscripts must be received no later than March 15, 2007. Please send four manuscript copies, along with the manuscript on disk, to Patricia Van Voorhis, Division of Criminal Justice, PO 210389, University of Cincinnati, Cincinnati, OH 45221.
CALL FOR PAPERS

NATIONAL CONFERENCE ON RESTORATIVE JUSTICE
“Real Life, Real Problems, Real Answers”
June 24-27, 2007, Schreiner University, Kerrville, Texas

We invite you to participate in a national conference on restorative justice to be held on the campus of Schreiner University in Kerrville, Texas, about 80 miles from the San Antonio International Airport in the beautiful Texas Hill Country. The conference will bring together academicians, educators, community leaders, politicians, practitioners, judges, policymakers, faith leaders, and concerned citizens to explore the application of restorative justice principles and practices within communities to meet local needs. Keynote speakers for the conference will include some of the leading scholars in the field – Howard Zehr, Mark Umbreit, Gordon Bazemore, Kay Pranis, Elaine Enns, Ched Myers, Mike Dooley, and Leigh Garrett.

This is a unique opportunity to meet and learn from leading researchers, educators, and practitioners of restorative justice. For detailed information about the conference see www.restorativejusticenow.org.

Scholars from any field are welcome to submit a proposal for a paper of original scholarship related to one of the following broadly defined areas:

- Teaching Restorative Justice Principles and Practices
- Restorative Justice as Community Crime Prevention
- Restorative Justice as an Alternative to Traditional Justice
- Restorative Justice as Correctional Treatment
- Restorative Justice as Reentry Preparation and Support
- Repairing Harms: Victims and Restorative Justice

Specific panels will be developed based on those proposal selected for presentation at the conference.

Paper proposals must include the following information: author(s), contact information (mail, phone, e-mail address), working title, and an abstract of 150 words or less. Paper proposals must be submitted electronically to Dr. Michael J. Gilbert, Coordinator of the Research and Teaching Track, at mgilbert@utsa.edu. He may also be contacted at (210) 458-2683.

Key dates:

- Proposals must be submitted by: December 1, 2006
- Notifications of Acceptance: January 31, 2007
- Submission of Working Papers: May 18, 2007

All conference papers must be submitted as “working papers” by May 18, 2007, so that they may be provided to panel chairs. Working papers may be collected into a proceedings document as part of the record for the conference.
CALL FOR PAPERS

JUSTICE SYSTEM JOURNAL

The Justice System Journal, sponsored by the National Center for State Courts, will be publishing a special issue on aspects of capital punishment; the likely publication date is late 2008. The journal’s editors would be interested in receiving proposals—from academics and practitioners alike—for possible articles for that special issue. A list of possible topics appears below; most relate to courts and actors in the courts, but suggestions for other topics will be considered. The journal does not publish normative or philosophical work nor extended analyses of case law. There are no restrictions on the types of methodology used, but use of elaborate statistics in the final articles is discouraged. Prospective authors are reminded that, although academics read the Justice System Journal, the journal’s primary audience is court administrators and other court practitioners. We specify no particular manuscript length but would prefer that articles be no longer than thirty (30) double-spaced pages, inclusive of tables and references; use of footnotes should be minimal. The likely deadline for submission of manuscripts will be early 2008. Anyone interested should communicate by e-mail with the present editor-in-chief, at wasb@albany.edu, and should indicate the proposed topic. It is preferable that prospective authors send a brief proposal/abstract/precis approximately two paragraphs in length, which should also indicate the proposed length of the article manuscript. An initial inquiry about topic appropriateness may be made and is welcomed. Prospective authors should provide some information about their training and experience. Stephen L. Wasby, Editor-in-Chief, Justice System Journal, Professor of Political Science Emeritus, University at Albany – SUNY; Robert M. Howard, Associate Editor-designate, Associate Professor of Political Science, Georgia State University, Atlanta

- Judges in capital cases: problems in managing capital cases, effect of changes in judge sentencing (e.g., Ring v. Arizona), challenges to judges in capital cases, Are there “hanging” judges?, effects on judges’ lives
- Courts and capital cases: special processes for handling (e.g., the Ninth Circuit death penalty en banc), impact on: consumption of time; other caseload effects, problems with proportionality review, use of expert witnesses, the role of victims and victim impact statements, media problems, how to deal with public, difficulties on appeal: massive records, stay requests (including last-minute), collateral attacks (e.g., AEDPA effects on fed court oversight of state capital cases), undoing wrongful convictions
- Lawyers and capital cases: private attorneys handling capital cases, special (dedicated) trial defense units, special (dedicated) appellate defense, the prose capital defendant, prosecution of capital cases, who does it, and is it specialized?, plea bargaining and the death penalty, procedures used in decision to pursue death penalty
- The Law of Capital Punishment: Has the law of capital punishment distorted criminal procedure?, changes in the law of capital punishment
- Judicial - Executive - Legislative interaction: the role of clemency and moratoria

CONTEMPORARY ISSUES IN CRIMINAL JUSTICE: A PROFESSIONAL JOURNAL (CICJ-PJ)

Contemporary Issues in Criminal Justice: A Professional Journal, is a newly established quarterly peer-reviewed journal that seeks to integrate the world of the practitioner with that of the scholar. CICJ-PJ places a strong emphasis on the professional practice of criminal justice while at the same time demonstrating how academic approaches can benefit the practitioner. With this in mind, both quantitative and qualitative submissions are welcomed. Evaluative research of new practitioner programs (court operation and administration as well as issues facing law enforcement and correctional agencies) are ideal submissions for this journal. Likewise, CICJ-PJ includes as a sub-theme, a variety of multinational issues in criminal justice and/or related topics. It is expected that many future volumes will illustrate the professional practice of criminal justice around the globe. CICJ-PJ has an established group of reviewers and our dedicated staff members are working to finalize the on-line design elements. At this time, the executive board is currently seeking submissions for this journal. If interested in submitting a manuscript to CICJ-PJ, please simply indicate interest and send your manuscript by e-mail to RHanser@kaplan.edu. The submission will be forwarded to the associate editors who will then submit the manuscript for review. Potential authors are asked to provide their name, title, affiliation, address, telephone number, and e-mail address. All papers should be submitted in current APA format. Manuscripts must not exceed 20 pages in length, including title page, abstract, and references. Please send to Robert D. Hanser, Ph.D., Editor-in-Chief, (CICJ-PJ), Kaplan University, 550 West Van Buren, Chicago, IL 60607, 318-342-1443, RHanser@kaplan.edu
CALL FOR PAPERS

SOUTHWEST JOURNAL OF CRIMINAL JUSTICE
The Southwest Journal of Criminal Justice (SWJCJ) is now accepting manuscripts for consideration. We are interested in receiving submissions of original work that have not been previously published. Diversity in theoretical and methodological approaches is encouraged as is the submission of policy-related research. The SWJCJ is the online, refereed journal of the Southwest Association of Criminal Justice, a regional affiliate of the Academy of Criminal Justice Sciences. Authors need not be members of the Southwest Association of Criminal Justice to submit a manuscript for consideration. Previous issues of the journal and submission information are located at http://swjcj.cjcenter.org/. Inquiries may be directed to the editors at swjcj@shsu.edu.

ICONS OF CRIME FIGHTING
Dr. Jeff Bumgarner of Texas Christian University is looking for chapter authors for Icons of Crime Fighting to be published by Greenwood Press in 2007. The publication will be a 2-book set comprised of 24 chapters in total, with each chapter approximately 10,000-12,000 words in length. Every chapter will present a balanced examination of an iconic individual or group of individuals in American crime fighting. The list of chapter topics is pre-set and covers a period of time from the 19th Century to the present day. Most of those profiled in the publication are from the later half of the 20th Century. The idea for the publication originated with the publisher; as such, Greenwood Press is firmly committed to bringing this project to completion. Anyone interested in learning more about the opportunity to publish in this edited work should contact Dr. Bumgarner at 817-257-6420 or j.bumgarner@tcu.edu

POLICE PRACTICE AND RESEARCH: An International Journal
Manuscripts are solicited for Police Practice and Research: An International Journal, which is published in five issues per volume. The journal presents current and innovative police research, as well as operational and administrative practices from around the world. Articles and reports are sought from practitioners, researchers, and others interested in developments in policing, analysis of public order, and the state of safety as it affects the quality of life everywhere. The journal seeks to bridge the gap in knowledge that exists regarding who the police are, what they do, and how they maintain order, administer laws, and serve their communities. Attention is also focused on specific organizational information about the police in different countries and regions, and periodic special issues are devoted to studying police policies and practices regarding a particular topic or issue. The editors aim to improve cooperation between those who are active in the field and those who are involved in academic research, as such a relationship is essential for innovative police work. To this end, the editors encourage the submission of articles co-authored by police practitioners and researchers that highlight a particular subject from both points of view. Submission of Manuscripts: Manuscripts should be electronically submitted to: Associate Managing Editor Hasan Buker (hasanbuker@wsu.edu). Manuscripts should normally be no more than 25 typed pages (Word, Times New Roman, 12 Font, Double-Spaced) in English. The manuscript should be accompanied by an abstract of no more than 100 words, up to six key words, and a brief biographical sketch. For complete Notes for Contributors, one should refer to www.tandf.co.uk/journals or visit www.ipes.info. EDITOR-IN-CHIEF, Dilip K. Das, Department of Criminal Justice, Grambling State University, Grambling, LA 71245, USA; dilipkd@aol.com; Tel (318) 274-2520; Fax (318) 274-3101. MANAGING EDITOR: John A. JOURNAL OF CRIMINAL JUSTICE EDUCATION (JCJE)
The Journal of Criminal Justice Education (JCJE) is an official publication of the Academy of Criminal Justice Sciences (ACJS). JCJE provides a forum for research and debate of a broad range of issues concerning post-secondary education in criminal justice, criminology and related disciplines. The aim of JCJE is the pedagogical enhancement of criminal justice and criminology higher education. Quality articles that address specific educational, academic, or professional development issues in these areas are encouraged and will be considered for publication. Articles that deal principally with applied training or practitioner concerns unrelated to criminal justice and criminology higher education are not likely to be considered or accepted for publication. All articles selected for publication will be subjected to peer review. JCJE will also feature book review essays devoted to thematic topics and a small number of individual book reviews per issue. For publication consideration, please submit four hard copies, a $10 check for processing made payable to ACJS, and a cover letter stating the originality of the work to: J. Mitchell Miller, Ph.D., Editor, Department of Criminology & Criminal Justice, University of South Carolina, Columbia, SC 29208.
CALL FOR PAPERS

JUSTICE STUDIES ASSOCIATION 2007 CONFERENCE
The members of the Justice Studies Association are pleased to announce that their Ninth Annual Conference will be held at Salve Regina University, Newport, Rhode Island from June 7-9, 2007. The theme of this year’s conference is “The Poor in the Lap of Luxury: Responding to Inequalities.” We welcome diverse participants: activists, care providers, policy-makers, and scholars from all academic disciplines. Those who have an interest in making a presentation are invited to submit a proposal before March 1, 2007. Participants are invited to make presentations on any topic dealing with poverty and the impact of being poor in an affluent society. We are particularly interested in reflections on these themes from the perspective of social, economic, political, restorative, and transformative justice. Presentations can focus on either the theoretical and/or the practical and might address:

- Investigations into the use of demonstration projects, peaceful conflict resolution measures, peace studies, and restorative justice practices to address issues of poverty, policy formation, access to resources, public voice, meanings of citizenship, and collaborative and cooperative social dynamics;
- Reflections on the effects of the criminal justice system on the well-being of the poor and the extent to which law alleviates or connives at the pain and suffering of the poor;
- Efforts to reveal and/or relieve the harm and suffering caused by poverty, racism, sexism, classism, homophobia, and oppressions of many in their struggle to survive and flourish;
- Themes reflecting visions of society in which poverty is eliminated through the creation of just social arrangements which might include the development of intentional communities; and
- Narratives (historical and personal) describing the struggle of the poor to survive in a world in which they are structurally excluded from their needs being met.

Each JSA conference has at least one keynote speaker and includes the presentation of the annual Noam Chomsky Award. Past speakers and awardees include: Daniel Berrigan and Liz McAllister, Arundanti Roy, and Medea Benjamin. At least one of the conference’s sessions consists of a panel of activists from the host community who address key justice concerns in their town or area, especially how they are addressing these concerns through social and restorative justice measures. Those interested in making a presentation should send a title and abstract of approximately 200 words to: Robin A. Robinson, Department of Sociology/Anthropology, University of Massachusetts Dartmouth, 285 Old Westport Rd., No. Dartmouth, MA. 02747 or to robinson@umassd.edu before March 1, 2007. Additional information might be obtained by contacting JSA President Susan Krumholz E-mail:skrumholz@umassd.edu, University of Massachusetts Dartmouth. For more information about Justice Studies Association feel free to visit the association’s website at http://www.justicestudies.org/

CRIMINAL LAW BULLETIN

West's Criminal Law Bulletin is an authoritative source for guidance and insight from renowned experts on the latest developments and trends in the field. Published six times per year, the Criminal Law Bulletin reports on all of the major federal, state, and Supreme Court decisions in every phase of criminal law. It also has peer-reviewed journal articles devoted to scholarship concerning any and all matters of criminal law, criminal procedure, and criminal/forensic evidence. Additionally, each edition of the journal contains book reviews and a column entitled "From the Legal Literature" which provides a summary and critique of two or three recent scholarly articles concerning a common theme or topic concerning criminal law, procedure, or evidence. The journal is available both in print and electronically on Westlaw, as well as various other databases. Submissions are now being accepted for upcoming "From the Legal Literature" columns. The column is much like a traditional book review, except it reviews recent pieces of legal scholarship rather than books. Submissions may be on any common theme or topic within the broad spectrum of criminal law, criminal procedure, or criminal/forensic evidence. Recent column topics have included reviews such as "Making Sense of the Proportionality Principle and the Eighth Amendment," "Continued Erosion of the Fourth Amendment Rights of Students," "Unraveling Crawford v. Washington in Abuse Cases," "Evolving Issues Under Miranda," and "Competing Views on the Quagmire of Synthetically Restoring Competency to Be Executed." Submissions should begin with a short summary (2-6 double-spaced pages) of the issue or topic being reviewed. Authors should then summarize and critique two or three recent pieces of legal scholarship (usually scholarly law review articles) that address the given issue or topic, preferably from different perspectives. The legal citation style of The Bluebook: A Uniform System of Citation (18th ed., 2005) must be used, and citations should be in footnotes that appear at the bottom of each page, rather than as endnotes. The total length of a "From the Legal Literature" column should be between 16 and 22 double-spaced pages, including footnotes. Manuscripts are only accepted electronically in either Corel WordPerfect® or Microsoft Word® format. Submissions from law students, graduate students, and exceptional undergraduate criminal justice students are encouraged. Send submission to Dr. Henry F. Fradella, the Legal Literature Editor, at CLB_Legal_Literature@cox.net. Please note the spaces in between the words in the email address above are underscores, not blank spaces. Editorial review normally takes less than a month. In the body of the email message transmitting your submission, please include your name, title, affiliation, address, daytime telephone number, and e-mail address.

As the discipline of Cyber Criminology approaches the future, facing the dire need to document the literature in this rapidly changing area has become more important than ever before. The IJCCCJ will be a nodal centre to develop and disseminate the knowledge of cyber crimes to the academic and lay world. The journal publishes theoretical, methodological, and applied papers, as well as book reviews. All manuscripts must be submitted in APA format. Please follow APA guidelines for Manuscript Preparation, including title page for blind review, referencing, and tables and figures. All manuscripts will undergo blind review by two or more reviewers. Each manuscript must be accompanied by a statement that it has not been published elsewhere and that it has not been submitted simultaneously for publication elsewhere. Authors are responsible for obtaining permission to reproduce copyrighted material from other sources and are required to sign an agreement for the transfer of copyright to the publisher. All accepted manuscripts, artwork, and photographs become the property of the publisher. IJCCCJ welcomes articles throughout the year. The IJCCCJ encourages quality scholarship articles from relevant academic disciplines as well as from practitioners in the private and public sector. IJCSJ is receptive to scholarship coming from a variety of theoretical perspectives and methodological approaches. All research should be understood and examined through a transnational perspective. Articles previously published or submitted for publication in any other journal will not be accepted. All articles must be grounded on relevant and recent scholarship in the fields of our interest. The maximum length should not exceed twenty five pages (6000 words), including notes and illustrations. Please avoid footnotes, however, endnotes are encouraged. References in the notes should conform to the mode specified in APA Style. Manuscripts should be submitted as MS Word attachment to the Editor-in-Chief at cybercrimejournal@gmail.com The Editor-in-Chief reserves the right to edit submissions if accepted for publication. Every effort will be made to inform contributors of the outcome of the peer review process in a timely manner. The review process is via e-mail, and should take no more than 4 to 6 weeks with the possible help of selected experts. This process is launched as and when papers are submitted to us. CRIMINAL JUSTICE STUDIES: A CRITICAL JOURNAL OF CRIME, LAW AND SOCIETY

A Critical Journal of Crime, Law and Society publishes articles that deal with substantive criminal justice and criminological issues relevant to the issues of criminal justice, as well as those that may be outside the field but have relevancy to the topic of criminal justice. We welcome articles from other fields, such as public administration, issues of public policy as well as public affairs issues. Literature reviews, research notes, and summary reports of innovative research projects in criminal justice are also considered. Qualitative and quantitative articles are sought mainly from academics and researchers in the field. All contributions must be sent on disk with four hard copies (three blind copies) as well as bios of all contributors. Please submit articles to: Roslyn Muraskin, Ph.D., Editor in Chief, Dept. of Criminal Justice, C.W. Post Campus of Long Island University, 720 Northern Blvd. – Riggs Hall 103, Brookville, NY 11548, (516) 299-3146 office, (516) 299-2640 FAX, Roslyn.Muraskin@liu.edu

AFRICAN JOURNAL OF CRIMINOLOGY AND JUSTICE STUDIES

The African Journal of Criminology and Justice Studies, a new interdisciplinary peer-reviewed online journal, invites contributions on issues relevant to criminology and justice systems of interest to Africans at home and the African Diaspora globally. Comparative studies or research on related fields, and pedagogical papers on how to develop criminology and criminal justice education in Africa are particularly welcome. The journal accepts research articles, policy analyses, commentaries or brief research notes. Particularly, it encourages articles on innovative theoretical, methodological and policy interventions that deepen the understanding of how to prevent or repair the crimes against humanity that people of African descent have suffered and how to reverse the crisis of over-representation that people of African descent continue to suffer in correctional institutions around the world. AJCJS is published at the University of Maryland Eastern Shore. The length of most articles is 5,000-6,000 words (in double-spaced pages) with a 100-word abstract. Commentaries and research notes should be approximately half this length. Limited number of reviews per issue will also be accommodated. Submission instructions to authors are posted at the journal’s website: http://www.umes.edu/ajcjs/. Publishers and authors who may want to send copies of their books for review should send 4-6 copies directly to the managing editor: Emmanuel Onyeozili, Dept. of Criminal Justice, 3015 Hazel Hall, University of Maryland Eastern Shore, Princess Anne, MD. 21853. For further information, please contact the editor, Biko Agozino at: bagozino@cheyney.edu or bagozino@yahoo.com All contributions should be sent electronically to: ajcjs@umes.edu
CALL FOR PAPERS

CRIME, PUNISHMENT, AND THE LAW

Aim and Scope. Crime, Punishment, and the Law is a refereed international and interdisciplinary journal published biannually and devoted to the study of crime, deviant behavior, punishment, and the law. The fields addressed in this journal are the social and behavioral sciences, law, criminal justice, and history. The journal publishes theoretical, methodological, and applied papers, as well as book reviews. Of particular importance is the impact of class, gender, race, ethnicity, and religion on crime, punishment, and the law.

Submission of Manuscripts. All manuscripts must be submitted in APA format. Please follow APA guidelines for Manuscript Preparation, including title page for blind review, referencing, and tables and figures. All manuscripts will undergo a blind review. Each manuscript must be accompanied by a statement that it has not been published elsewhere and that it has not been submitted simultaneously for publication elsewhere. Authors are responsible for obtaining permission to reproduce copyrighted material from other sources and are required to sign an agreement for the transfer of copyright to the publisher. All accepted manuscripts, artwork, and photographs become the property of the publisher. An original and four copies of the manuscript, of no more than 25 pages, should be submitted to Venessa Garcia, Ph.D., Editor-in-Chief, Department of Criminal Justice, 305-I Willis Hall, Kean University, Union, NJ 07083, vgarcia@kean.edu. Authors must also submit manuscripts on disk. The disk should be prepared using MS Word and should be clearly labeled with authors’ names, file name, and software program.

CONTEMPORARY JUSTICE REVIEW

The editors of Contemporary Justice Review would like to invite its readers, scholars from all disciplines, activists, practitioners of justice, and others interested in issues of justice to submit film reviews for publication in the journal. Reviewers might select any film that deals with issues of justice defined in the broadest sense. This might include films that depict people having their rights, needs, and well-being denied by others--individuals, the state, and corporate institutions. It might also include films that demonstrate how people's needs are met and personal well-being fostered through alternative primary social institutions such as the family, school, and community. Authors might also wish to examine the oeuvre of a particular director, illustrating the extent to which that director's work contributes to a sense of justice as equality, human development, and personal well-being. Or several films might be compared for how they differentially depict people being marginalized and denied voice, or on the contrary, included and listened to. This might involve clarifying the effects of popular culture and the media on how we view certain aspects of justice as important and others not. CJR has a keen interest in offering its readers insights into life portrayed in international films, especially those that bring to light the effects of globalization, oppressive regimes, and nation-state terrorism on the quality of life of individuals, families, schools, the workplace, and neighborhoods. With respect to harm, some of the reviews might deal with how a particular film casts some people as worthy victims--that is, people worthy of our attention--and others as not. Reviewers should keep in mind that the purpose of the reviews is not primarily to offer pedagogical tools to teachers but simply to clarify and expand upon particular aspects of justice within films. However, reviewers might choose to demonstrate how a particular film could be valuable to teachers for use in a classroom to illustrate a particular aspect of justice. The length of reviews should be between 750 and 1500 words. Longer reviews will be considered from time to time as Review Essays. For additional information on review specifications, please contact:

CALL FOR PAPERS

WOMEN & CRIMINAL JUSTICE
WOMEN & CRIMINAL JUSTICE is the only periodical devoted specifically to interdisciplinary and international scholarly research and criminal justice practice dealing with all areas of criminal justice in relation to women. It provides both scholars and practitioners with a single forum devoted to this critical specialty area in the fields of both criminal justice and women’s studies. The journal is refereed and features original research articles from academicians and professionals in the field that reflect its interdisciplinary and international focus. The manuscript should be approximately 20-25 pages double-spaced with a one-inch margin on all four sides and should include an abstract of 200 words, a title page, and a brief biographical sketch of author(s). References, citations, and general style of manuscript should follow the APA style (as outlined in the latest edition of Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association). References should be double-spaced and placed in alphabetical order. Please send 4 copies to: Dr. Donna C. Hale, Editor, Department of Criminal Justice, Shippensburg University, 1871 Old Main Drive, 317 Shippen Hall, Shippensburg, PA 17257-2299.

CRIMINAL JUSTICE REVIEW
The Criminal Justice Review is a quarterly scholarly journal dedicated to presenting a broad perspective on criminal justice issues. It focuses on any aspect of crime and the justice system, and can feature local, state, or national concerns. Both qualitative and quantitative pieces are encouraged, providing that they adhere to standards of quality scholarship. As a peer-reviewed journal, we encourage the submission of articles, research notes, commentaries, and comprehensive essays that focus on crime and justice-related topics broadly defined. Five copies of manuscripts should be submitted in English, follow APA style, be double-spaced throughout, including references, tables and indented quotations, and cannot be under consideration by another publication. An abstract not to exceed 200 words must be included with submissions. Send to: Richard J. Terrill, Editor, Criminal Justice Review, P.O. Box 4018, Georgia State University, Atlanta, GA 30302-4018, 404-651-3688, cjr@gsu.edu, www.gsu.edu/cjr

WOMEN’S POLICY JOURNAL OF HARVARD, JOHN F. KENNEDY SCHOOL OF GOVERNMENT
It is our great pleasure to announce that the Women’s Policy Journal of Harvard, John F. Kennedy School of Government, following a three-year hiatus, has been re-launched with the goal to publish a third volume in summer 2006. We are excited to resume the production of this important publication and invite you to assist with meeting our publishing goals. The Women’s Policy Journal is a nonpartisan, scholarly review dedicated to publishing interdisciplinary work on policy making and politics affecting women. It is our mission to educate and provide leadership that improves the quality of public policies affecting women with the intention of furthering communities’ economic, social and political empowerment. With the reintroduction of the journal we hope to provide readers with fresh insight into a wide range of policy topics ranging from HIV/AIDS to worldwide poverty to energy and environmental policy. To date we have assembled a dedicated staff and worked to build relationships in the Kennedy School community to ensure that this new volume is published and that the journal is sustainable in the future. In the coming year, we invite you to join the Women’s Policy Journal community. We are currently accepting submissions for Volume 3 and encourage you to submit work of your own or share your suggestions for potential contributors and interview subjects. You may also wish to subscribe or donate to the journal. Please visit our website at www.ksg.harvard.edu/wpj for information on the many ways you can assist the journal. Once again we thank you for your interest in the Women’s Policy Journal and hope that you will join us in this exciting new phase.

TRENDS IN ORGANIZED CRIME
Trends in Organized Crime offers a composite of analyses and syntheses from a variety of information sources to serve the interests of practitioners and policy makers as well as the academic community. It is both a stimulus to and a forum for more rigorous empirical research on organized crime, both nationally and internationally. Published four times a year, Trends in Organized Crime is the official journal of the International Association for the Study of Organized Crime (IASOC). It has a distinguished international editorial board. Trends publishes peer-reviewed, academically rigorous research, excerpts significant governmental reports; offers reviews of major new books, and, presents analyses and commentary on current issues in organized crime. Manuscripts must be submitted in English, in electronic form to jimfinckenauer@comcast.net as either ASCII, RTF or Word files. For further information, contact the Editor at the above addresses, or at 973-353-3301.

CRITICAL PERSPECTIVES IN CRIMINOLOGY
Critical Perspectives in Criminology will publish scholarly books and edited volumes that are critically conceived, theoretically animated, integratively focused, and policy oriented. We hope to identify and secure commitments from established authors and emerging talent in the field of criminology, including individuals whose disciplinary base is sociology, psychology, law, philosophy, history, psychiatry, political science, gender studies, and any of the other related social and behavioral sciences. Books in the Series will be aimed at the scholarly community, including library acquisitions and single purchases by academic researchers, as well as classroom adoption in upper division undergraduate and lower division graduate courses. volumes in the Series will NOT be intended for use as undergraduate textbooks. Questions about the Series or submissions should be sent to: Bruce A. Arrigo, Ph.D., Series Editor, Critical Perspectives in Criminology, Department of Criminal Justice, University of North Carolina at Charlotte, 9201 University City Blvd., Charlotte, NC 28223-0001; Barrigo@email.uncc.edu - or - Kerry P. CALL FOR PAPERS

JUSTICE POLICY JOURNAL
The Justice Policy Journal is up and running again and better than ever. One of the few on-line journals, it is sponsored by the Center on Juvenile and Criminal Justice in San Francisco, with editorial support from the University of Nevada-Las Vegas. Papers should focus on public policy issues, although other scholarly articles will be considered. Among the topics we are especially interested in include the impact of incarceration policies, prisoner "re-entry," sentencing reform, drug policy, and juvenile justice policies. Review our submission guidelines at http://www.cjcj.org/jpj/submission_guidelines.php. Submissions to the JPJ (Justice Policy Journal) should have a title page, abstract, brief biographical sketch, a statement of research interest and an e-mail address. Send the document via e-mail as an attachment to profrgs@cox.net or postal service on a disk, preferably as a MS Word document, to: Justice Policy Journal, Professor Randall G. Shelden, Editor, Department of Criminal Justice at UNLV, 4505 Maryland Parkway, Box 455009, Las Vegas, NV 80154, tel: 702-895-0251. (Manuscripts that are not submitted electronically will not be accepted.) Manuscripts submitted via e-mail should be sent to JPJ in original word processing format, preferably Microsoft Word. JPJ articles submissions should be prepared in accordance with the either the Modern Language Association or American Psychological Association documentation style for scholarly manuscripts and research papers. For information regarding the desired citation style, authors should consult the appropriate manual. Strict adherence to proper citation style is required. Papers that do not conform to one of the accepted styles will not be accepted.

THE JUVENILE AND FAMILY COURT JOURNAL
The Juvenile and Family Court Journal, published quarterly by the National Council of Juvenile and Family Court Judges, invites article submissions on the many issues facing our nation's juvenile and family courts. The Journal is a peer-reviewed, research-based publication; however, we also invite relevant essays and book reviews. Please contact the editor at (775) 784-6686 or by email at jruffin@ncjfcj.org for writer's guidelines. Submissions should be sent to Editor, Juvenile and Family Court Journal, NCJFCJ, P.O. Box 8970, Reno, NV 89507.

CANADIAN JOURNAL OF CRIMINOLOGY AND CRIMINAL JUSTICE
The Canadian Journal of Criminology and Criminal Justice invites contributions on any aspect of crime or delinquency, or criminal or juvenile justice. CJCCJ has been publishing continuously for almost 50 years, making it one of the oldest scholarly journals in the field. Preference is given to articles with particular relevance to Canada, but the Journal also welcomes comparative studies and work which is of general interest. The journal accepts research articles, research notes, commentaries, and book reviews. The length of most research articles is 20-30 double-spaced pages. Commentaries and research notes tend to be considerably shorter. An editorial decision is normally provided within three months of submission. Instructions to authors and book reviewers and the contents of recent issues are posted at the journal’s websites at: http://www.ccja-acjp.ca/en/cjc.html and http://www.utpjournals.com/jour.ihtml?lp=cjccj/cjccj.html. For further information, please contact the editor, Peter Carrington, at: pjc@uwaterloo.ca

INTERNATIONAL JOURNAL OF COMPARATIVE AND APPLIED CRIMINAL JUSTICE
Now in its 28th year, and newly adopted by the DIC, the International Journal of Comparative and Applied Criminal Justice has provided a forum for scholars, academics, and practitioners who are interested in comparative theory and empirical research in the field. The Journal focuses on two distinct but related concepts. First, papers should be comparative: i.e., comparative analysis of cross-cultural theories of crime, legal systems, policing, courts, juvenile justice, women offenders, and, minority offenders. Second, papers should include policy recommendations for applying research findings to the operations of criminal justice in a given country or region. We invite you to consider submitting your manuscript to this peer-reviewed journal for possible publication. Please send three copies of typewritten, double-spaced original manuscripts not published previously or currently under consideration to Mahesh Nalla, Editor IJCACJ, Michigan State University, School of Criminal Justice, 560 Baker Hall, East Lansing, MI 48824-1118. Guidelines for authors are available at www.cj.msu.edu/~international.
CALL FOR PAPERS

INTERNATIONAL CRIMINAL JUSTICE REVIEW
The International Criminal Justice Review is a quarterly scholarly journal dedicated to presenting system wide trends and problems on crime and justice throughout the world. Articles may focus on a single country or compare issues affecting two or more countries. Both qualitative and quantitative pieces are encouraged, providing they adhere to standards of quality scholarship. Manuscripts may emphasize either contemporary or historical topics. As a peer-reviewed journal, we encourage the submission of articles, research notes, commentaries, and comprehensive essays that focus on crime and justice-related topics in an international and/or comparative context broadly defined. Five copies of manuscripts should be submitted in English, follow APA style, be double-spaced throughout, including references, tables and indented quotations, and cannot be under consideration by another publication. An abstract not to exceed 200 words must be included with submissions. Send to: Richard J. Terrill, Editor, International Criminal Justice Review, P.O. JOURNAL OF CRIMINAL JUSTICE AND POPULAR CULTURE
The Journal of Criminal Justice and Popular Culture is a scholarly, peer-reviewed record of research and opinion on the intersection of crime, criminal justice, and popular culture. The journal is published on-line three times a year and its editorial board includes some of the leading researchers and academics in the field. JCJPC invites individuals to submit for publication consideration manuscripts and essays (reviews or commentaries) that address any aspect of the intersection of crime, criminal justice, and popular culture. This includes, among other topics, papers that explore the representations of crime and criminal justice in popular culture, the roots of those representations, and effects of those representations, as well as theoretical papers blending the study of crime and criminal justice with that of popular culture (e.g., viewing the two through a shared theoretical perspective). Submissions should be sent electronically to sunycrj@albany.edu and should closely follow the formatting requirements stipulated in the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association (5th edition). For more information, please see the journal’s website at http://www.albany.edu/scj/jcjcpc/submit.html.

SECURITY JOURNAL
The Security Journal provides a forum for the debate and analysis of key issues within the field of security. It brings together papers written by some of the world’s leading practitioners and academics with the aim of generating new ideas and improving the management and practice of security. The papers will aim to facilitate the exchange of knowledge and good practice, and bridge the various disciplines, professions and countries. The ultimate criteria for a paper’s acceptance are that the reader will learn something new from it and that it will advance learning in terms of generating ideas and/or improving practice. Contributors will include policy makers, professionals and academics. The journal will include research-based papers and case studies, as well as papers aimed at developing theory and good practice (3,000 - 5,000 words) and where appropriate, shorter pieces describing work under consideration or in progress (1,000 - 2,500 words). For more information about the journal, please visit the website: http://www.perpetuitypress.com/acatalog/Perpetuity_Press_Security_Journal_22.html. For inquiries concerning submission guidelines and requirements, please contact co-editor Professor Bonnie Fisher at: Bonnie.Fisher@uc.edu

JOURNAL OF SCHOOL VIOLENCE
From playground bullying to mass murder, the Journal of School Violence tracks the causes, consequences, and costs of aggressive or violent behavior in children from kindergarten through twelfth grade. It presents up-to-date research, practice, and theory with a focus on prevention and intervention. The Journal of School Violence offers tested information on such urgent matters as threat assessment, hostage situations, stalking behavior, and teacher safety, as well as articles on longer-range strategic planning. This peer-reviewed journal shows teachers and counselors how to deal with immediate problems and helps administrators and policymakers plan effectively to ensure school security. Four copies of the manuscript should be submitted. The manuscript should be approximately 15-20 pages double-spaced with a one-inch margin on all four sides and should include an abstract of 100 words, a title page, and a brief biographical sketch of author(s). References, citations, and general style of manuscript should follow the AA style (as outlined in the latest edition of Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association. References should be double-spaced and placed in alphabetical order. Send all requests and manuscripts to: Edwin R. Gerler, Jr., EdD, Department of Educational Research, Leadership & Counselor Education, College of Education & Psychology, North Carolina State University, Box 7801, Raleigh, NC 27695-7801; Tel: (919) 515-5975; Fax: (919) 515-6891; E-mail: Ergerler@gw.fis.ncsu.edu or edwin_gerler@ncsu.edu.
