AMERICAN SOCIETY OF CRIMINOLOGY POLICIES AND PROCEDURES MANUAL

1. INTRODUCTION

- 1.1 Purpose. The purpose of this manual is to set forth the general policies and practices that guide the operations of the American Society of Criminology (hereinafter referred to as the "Society"). These policies and practices have evolved since the Society's inception through the implementation of the Constitution and By-Laws, the ultimate guides for all Society members, and through the Executive Board's decisions and interpretations of these documents.
- 1.2 Intent of the Policies and Procedures Manual. The intent of this manual is to guide Executive Board members in building and maintaining a strong, well-organized Society. Given this intent, the manual is designed to provide current and future Board members with some understanding of the policies and practices in effect when each Board convenes. The intent is not to restrict the hands of incoming Officers or Counselors with cumbersome policies. Since every Executive Board has the prerogative and, indeed, the responsibility to set policies for the Society, the policies and practices noted herein will change. Thus, preparation of this manual is an iterative process that should be pursued continuously.

2. PURPOSE OF THE SOCIETY

The Executive Director shall serve as an ex-officio member of the Executive Committee.

3.1.2 By-Laws Provisions

Article 1. Executive Board Meetings

- Section 1. Executive Board Meetings shall be open to all members and shall be called at the discretion of the President with at least two (2) weeks written notice provided to all members by the Executive Director.

Section 3. Upon petition by at least five (5) members of the Executive Board to the Executive Director, a special meeting of the Executive Board shall be scheduled within four (4) weeks time.

As currently constituted, at least nine (9) members of the Board would need to vote in the affirmative. The Executive Board may not make policy statements on behalf of the American Society of Criminology. The latter requires a majority vote of the regular (non-student) members who vote in the said election.

3.1.4 Board Practice

3.1.4.1 During the Annual Meeting, the Executive Board meets twice, usually on Tuesday and again on Saturday. This procedure facilitates the transfer of the presidency from the outgoing to the incoming President, and allows for recognition of newly elected Officers and Executive Counselors. Only nominations from Nomination Committee members can be considered after the deadline and then only if an insufficient number of nominations have been received and/or an insufficient number of individuals agree to run for office (two candidates for each position, ie., two for President, two for Vice President, and two for each Executive Counselor position). The Chair of the Nominations Committee is to contact those nominated for Vice President and Executive Counselor and ascertain their willingness to run for office. That petition is due to the Society office by March 15. The Society office will verify the membership status of the petition signatories. The final slate, along with brief biographical information and a statement from each candidate, is to be provided to the membership. All non-student members in good standing as of April 1 shall be entitled to vote. Voting shall be by secret ballot. The ballot shall include a place for write-in candidates. The election shall be by ballot distributed at least twelve (12) weeks prior to the Annual meeting of the Society. The membership will be given 45 days to submit their ballots. The ballots are to be counted by at least two (2) persons. Candidates for President elect and Vice-President elect each receiving the larger plurality of 40 percent or more of votes cast shall be elected. In the event no person receives a 40 percent plurality or in the event of a tied election, a run-off election will be held between the two (2) candidates who received the most votes. For Counselors, the three (3) who receive the most votes shall be elected. Should resignation, removal or death require that more than three (3) Counselors be elected, the candidate(s) with the next highest number of votes shall be elected. Once having been elected to and having served a full term in an elected office (President, Vice President, Executive Counselor), individuals shall not be eligible for re-election to that same elected office. Individuals may, however, stand for election for a different elected office. 8.2.4.4 The Board wishes to identify and give appropriate credit to individuals and/or groups who collect data that are used in secondary analyses for articles published by the Society. The Board's intent is that when authors base their work on data collected by others, the original contributors of data should be identified and given appropriate recognition both by footnote and by citation.

8.2.4.5 In selecting the Editor, the Publications Committee shall:

- A. arrange for a discussion of the candidates as a group, rather than providing input to the Chair alone;
- B. ensure that candidates for Editor be invited to address the Executive Board in situations where the Publications Committee is not in agreement; and
- C. ensure that applicants for Editor submit information on the nature and extent of resources that the proposed host university will provide for activities such as proofreading, copy editing, and managing editor services.

8.2.4.6 Some of the factors considered in selecting an Editor include university resources, release time for the Editor from university responsibilities, and collegial support.

8.2.4.7 Editors submit the names of Associate and Assistant Editors, which include minorities, to the Executive Board for approval. Associate Editors must be members of the Society in good standing.

8.2.4.8 The Society shall place this journal on the web and seek to market this product to a wide readership, beyond the academic community.

It is neither the role nor the function of the Society, as an independent professional association, to resolve disputes between independent authors of papers to be presented at the Annual Meetings. These are private matters that need to be resolved by the authors themselves. If the matter cannot be mutually resolved by the authors prior to the annual meeting in question, the invitation to present will be administratively withdrawn. Such papers may be re-submitted for presentation at future meetings once the dispute is mutually resolved. Is the obligation of senior/lead authors to inform co-authors of any changes in the title and/or listing of authors of papers to be presented at the Annual Meetings. These papers are intellectually and independently owned by the authors, not the Society, and as such the Society has no authorship standing or responsibility. Notwithstanding, the Society does engage in a measure of due diligence in this context by posting paper information and the overall preliminary program on-line. This allows authors and co-authors the opportunity to verify the accuracy of their respective paper entries, and to subsequently contact the lead author if there is a question or concern.

9.4 Board Practice

9.4.1 Annual Meeting Activities. In addition to the activities noted above, other major activities at the Annual Meeting include the following:

A graduate school information booth is to be set up. In addition, at the discretion of the administrative office and the Executive Director, and on a space-available basis, exhibit space is provided for nonprofit, nongovernment journals. Table space is also to be provided for each of the Society Divisions.

9.4.1.2 Employment Exchange. The Employment Exchange provides a forum for employers and employees to meet and discuss professional employment positions in criminal justice and related disciplines.

Contracts may be signed by either the President or the Executive Director, after mutual discussion and coordination.

10.2 By-Laws Provisions

Article 6. Nominations and Elections

Section 1. Nominations. The Nominations Committee shall oversee the development of a slate of candidates for elected office, subject to the approval of the Executive Board. Society members and Nomination Committee members are encouraged to submit nominations, but those nominations must be submitted before the nomination deadline. Only nominations from Nomination Committee members can be considered after the deadline and then only if an insufficient number of nominations have been received and/or an insufficient number of individuals agree to run for office (two candidates for each position, ie., two for President, two for Vice President, and two for each Executive Counselor position). Members of the Nominations Committee may not self-nominate, and cannot be considered as candidates for any elected office. The Chair of the Nominations Committee is to contact those nominated for Vice President and Executive Counselor and ascertain their willingness to run for office. The current Society President is to contact those nominated for President and ascertain their willingness to run for office. Once approved by the Board, the list of confirmed nominees will then be announced to the membership. Non-student members in good standing may then place additional candidates for each office on the ballot if such candidates receive nominations from five (5) percent of the non-student membership in good standing. That petition is due to the Society office by March 15. The Society office will verify the membership status of the petition signatories. The final slate, along with brief biographical information and a statement from each candidate, is to be provided to the membership.

Section 2. Voting. All non-student members in good standing as of April 1 shall be entitled to vote. Voting shall be by secret ballot. The ballot shall include a place for write-in candidates.

Section 3. Election Procedures. The election shall be by ballot, distributed at least twelve (12) weeks prior to the Annual meeting of the Society. The membership will be given up to 45 days to return their ballots. Candidates for President-elect and Vice-President elect each receiving the larger plurality of 40 percent or more of votes cast shall be elected. In the event no person receives this plurality, a run-off election will be held between the two (2) candidates who received the most votes. For Counselors, the three (3) who receive the most votes shall be elected. Should resignation, removal or death require that more than three (3) Counselors be elected, the candidate(s) with the next highest number of votes shall be elected.

Section 4. Elected Officers. Once having been elected to and having served a full term in an elected office (President, Vice President, Executive Counselor), individuals shall not be eligible for reelection to that same elected office. Individuals may, however, stand for election for a different elected office.

10.3 Board Policy.

10.3.1 The Committee shall provide the Board with a list of those nominated, along with the preferred candidates (two (2) for President; two (2) for Vice-President; six (6) for Executive Counselor).

10.3.2 It shall be the responsibility of the Nominations Committee to prepare a report outlining the procedures the Committee followed in obtaining nominations and recommending a slate of candidates to the Executive Board. The Board is to review the report, adjust the slate when necessary, and approve a slate of candidates before the end of the Annual Meeting.

10.3.3 In an effort to reflect the diversity of Society membership, the Nominations Committee should consider the following factors in developing the slate of candidates: gender, ethnicity, geographic region, type of academic institution and/or employment setting, and orientation to the field.

10.3.4 Usually the Nominations Committee does not submit the names of current Board members as part of the slate.

10.3.5 Those nominated must agree to the nomination and be willing to for office, must be active members in good standing at the time of the nomination, and must have been active members in good standing for at least one (1) year prior to nomination.

ANNUAL MEETING PROGRAM CO-CHAIRS: JOB DESCRIPTION AND TIME LINES

Primary Responsibility: Appointed by the President-Elect, the Program Co-chairs duty is to develop and then oversee the substantive program for the meetings in conjunction with the President, the Program Committee, and the Executive Office. This includes appointing a Program Committee comprised of Area Chairs and Sub-Area Chairs; hold a meeting the year preceding the relevant meeting with your Program Committee to cover upcoming processes, formulating, comprising, and scheduling all of the presidential plenary sessions; giving a list of sessions that may need special attention with scheduling and attending the annual meetings to ensure that the program unfolds as productively as possible.

Time Line and Specific Duties:

- A. Prior to April Board meeting in the year preceding the relevant meetings, the Program Co-chairs, in consultation with the President, must appoint Area Chairs and Sub-Area Chairs to serve on the Program Committee. The President forwards the complete list of the recommended Program Committee to the Executive Director and Office such that it can be approved by the Board at the April Board meeting (typically due on or before April 15). The list should include the name, affiliation and email for each area/sub-area they will serve as Program Committee member.
- B. Once the Board approves the Program Committee, the Program Co-chairs must send emails to each Area Chair and Sub-Area Chair inviting him/her to serve on the Program Committee, and identifying replacement committee members for those individuals who decline the invitation.

- C. The Program Co-chairs will hold a Program Committee Meeting with your team at the annual meeting, the year preceding the relevant meeting. The ASC office will give you a draft handout to review and edit. The handout will be given at the meeting to include tasks, deadlines, expectations for communications with participants, and various ASC rules including; as per section 6.3.14 of the American Society of Criminology's Policies & Procedures, "Committee members should be members of the Society in good standing during the time they serve". In addition, at the meeting the Program C-chairs can remind the Area and Sub-Area Chairs to organize some panels they would like to see listed within their Sub-Area and have a current ASC membership the year they will serve on the committee. Recognizing that not all of the members of the Program Committee are able to attend the annual meetings, the handout will be emailed to the Program Committee after the meeting from the ASC office.
- D. After each deadline for submissions, the Sub-Area Chairs and Area Chairs will be given access in the submission system and print out instructions to complete their work. Typically, the Area Chairs are given two (2) weeks longer than the Sub-Area Chairs, as they have the responsibility to double-check, confirm, and correct the work of the Sub-Area Chairs under their Area. Area Chairs and Sub-Area Chairs will be given access from the ASC office after the deadlines. At that time they will also be given a printout of instructions to navigate the submission system. They will need to organize the panels within their respective Sub-Areas. If a Sub-Area Chair feels the content of a paper would be a better fit in a different Sub-Area, they are to pass the said paper on to their Area Chair who will in turn contact the Sub-Area Chair who is handling the subject matter where the paper would be a better fit. The Area Chair may even contact another Area Chair per this matter. The Sub-Area Chairs also assess whether the paper's subject matter is germane to the field of criminology. Submissions that do not fit within the realm of our field (broadly defined) are to be sent to the Area Chair for review. If the Area Chair concurs that the paper does not fit within the realm of field of criminology, those papers are to be given to the Program Co-Chairs for review, who in consultation with the Society President, may reject the submission. No submissions can be rejected by the Area or Sub-Area Chairs. Only the Program Co-Chairs, in consultation with the Society President, may reject paper submissions. Sub-Area Chairs should consider all of the unsolicited papers that arrive by the deadline and if accepted, organize them into panels with a maximum of three presentations and a discussant or, alternatively, four presentations and no discussant. There should be a Chair assigned to each panel, if none is listed add a person from the last paper to be presented as Chair. After organizing the submissions into panels, the organizers need to attach a title to each panel and estimate the number of people who may be expected to attend the panel (if useful, Sub-Area Chairs can use the following categories: minimally attended = less than 10; well-attended =11-40; and big hit=41 or more). If Sub-Area Chairs have papers leftover after organizing their panels, they should forward them to their Area Chair as orphans.
- E. While the Sub-area chairs are completing their work, they will transfer "orphan" papers to the Area Chair. These include papers that were submitted to their Sub-area but are an ill-fit with the Sub-area, and papers that do not otherwise fit on the available panels. Area Chairs have the following responsibilities:

1. To deal with orphaned papers in one of three ways:
 - (a) transfer orphaned papers to the Area Chair in their area. The Area Chair will then decide what Area they will transfer it to where it will a better fit,
 - (b) combine orphaned papers such that new panels are created, or,
 - (c) when this is not possible, to transfer the orphaned papers to the Program Co-Chairs
 2. Upon completion of the Sub-area Chairs' work, to double-check and organize the information received from the Sub-area Chairs to ensure that all papers in each sub-area have been placed in a session and all panels are complete and the contact information is complete.
- F. It is imperative that the Area Chairs complete their work by the established deadlines. The Area Chairs double-check and organize the information received from the Sub-area Chairs to ensure that the panels are complete and the contact information is complete, including checking that all titles have been corrected to title font (first letter in each word with a capital letter, except 'and', 'of', 'to,' etc.); combine orphans such that new panels are created and no orphans remain. When this is complete they are to send an email that work is completed.
- G. From the time the Area and Sub-area Chairs have completed their work, the ASC office will continue to facilitate responding queries and complaints of the preliminary program. These will include queries about missing papers and panels, requests for contact information, requests for schedule changes, and complaints about everything from the nature of ones co-presenters to the lack of representation of various constituencies within the ASC to the unacceptable presentation dates and times. The ASC office will contact the President or Program Co-chairs for any emails they feel they need may need extra input. Once the final program is finalized and sent for typesetting (typically September 1).
- H. The Program Co-chairs attend the annual meetings and, while there, respond to any last minute details related to the substance of the program.
- I. In addition to the tasks described above, the duties of the Program Co-chairs include:
1. Develop plenaries in consultation with the President.

Family leave may be taken intermittently when medically necessary.

For purposes of medical leave and family leave (i) a serious health condition means a physical or mental illness, injury, or impairment that involves inpatient care in a hospital, hospice, or residential health care facility, or continuing treatment of supervision at home by a health care provider or other competent individual; (ii) a family member means a person to whom the employee is related by blood, legal custody, or marriage; a child who lives with an employee and for whom the employee permanently assumes and discharges parental responsibility; or a person with whom the employee shares or has shared, within the last year, a mutual residence and with whom the employee maintains a committed relationship.

APPENDIX L

COMMITTEES: CHARGES AND REPORTING SCHEDULES

Each of the award committees should develop a list of nominees. Self and Society member nominations are encouraged. Award committee members cannot nominate individuals for awards given by the award committees on which they serve. Every candidate nominated will be considered, in line with the submission guidelines. Each Committee should request documentation from the nominees; at the very least, obtain a vitae and a brief statement as to why the individuals should be considered to receive the award.

The chair of each award committee needs to communicate the award criteria to all committee members, and discuss the criteria with committee members if necessary. The ranking and voting process articulated in Appendix O, Section 6 is to be used. The chair of the committee must communicate with committee members on procedures and outcomes. If more than one iteration in the ranking process occurs, the results must be communicated to the committee members at each stage. Each award committee is to hold at least one conference call meeting (phone/Skype, etc.) to deliberate the outcome. The final report to the Society Executive Board should include a detailed description of the ranking procedures and decision-making process, along with the final outcome. The report should include:

- A. The names of each committee member, with the chair identified.
- B. The number of individuals nominated by others and the number self-nominated.
- C. A list of those nominated in order of merit, and an explanation of the general procedures used to reach that decision.
- D. A detailed discussion of the ranking and decision-making procedures.
- E. Identification of a single nominee and a justification/reasons for the committee decision.
- F. Any other information that the chair would like to provide, including any advice for future committees.

Generally, a copy of the vitae of the Committee's single nominee should also be included in the materials sent to the Board.

Awards committee members are allowed to vote on candidates who are former or current students, previous or current mentors, and departmental colleagues. However, they also should recuse themselves if they feel they cannot be objective.

Award decisions will be based on the strength of the nominees' qualifications and not on the number of nomination endorsements received for any particular candidate (or manuscript, in the context of the Carte, Hindelang and Petersilia Awards).

When a member of an award committee resigns or is non-responsive, the President may appoint a new member to the said committee.

While a call for nominations will go out from the Society office via a number of venues, award committees are encouraged to solicit nominations, and to particularly reach out to all Divisions and ask for nominations. At least two nominees are required for each award. If an insignificant number of nominations have been received several weeks prior to the nomination deadline, chairs are encouraged to work with their respective committee members and urge them to renew their efforts to solicit nominations, and to contact Division heads and urge them to send in nominations.

Only individuals, not institutions, shall be considered as candidates for any award (except the President's Award for Distinguished Contributions to Justice).

Each Awards Committee Chair is to ensure that individuals are not being considered for awards they have already received (except for the Michael J. Hindelang Outstanding Book Award and Joan Petersilia Outstanding Article Award winners who can receive these respective awards more than once). A complete list of previous Society award recipients is available at www.asc41.com/awdwinrs.html.

The Board will give due consideration to each Committee's nominations for each award, although the Board is not bound by the slate or the nominee of any Committee. If the Board rejects the nominee, the Award Committee may be asked to suggest another nominee. The Executive Board may decide not to give certain awards in any given year.

Current members of the Executive Board shall be ineligible to receive any awards of the Society, including selection as a Fellow, during their term in office. However, if a current Board member is nominated for either the Michael J. Hindelang Outstanding Book Award or Joan Petersilia Outstanding Article Award, their nomination shall be considered during the first year following their service on the Board.

Members of a said award committee are not eligible to receive that said award.

Award committee members cannot nominate individuals for awards given by the award committees on which they serve.

The President formally notifies award recipients.

If possible, the names of the recipients are to be prominently included in the program of the Annual Meeting at which they receive their awards.

The CJRA will help formulate and identify key issues for the Council for the Support of Research and Statistics on Crime and Criminal Justice.

Report –

The CJRA is asked to prepare a report for the Mid-Year and Annual Board Meetings. Typically those reports would be due April 15 and October 15 respectively, with interim reports and recommendations submitted as occasion requires.

1. Insure that audits are undertaken at least once every three to five years, and more frequently if concerns arise which would necessitate more frequent external reviews.
2. Insure that the audits are conducted by a reputable and properly licensed entity.
3. Review the audit and report to the Executive Board.

Report -

This Committee is asked to prepare a report for the Board subsequent to their review of the audit, and at any other time as they deem necessary.

MEMBERSHIP COMMITTEE

The Membership Committee reaches out to criminology and related disciplines to increase the membership of the Society. The Committee periodically conducts membership surveys, assists in the development of brochures, serves as greeters at the Annual Meeting, obtains mailing lists from other organizations, and contacts a wide variety of academic departments and research institutions in an attempt to solicit more members for the Society. The Committee is encouraged to coordinate efforts with the Student Affairs Committee. Of special importance is the need to maintain a significant measure of gender, racial and ethnic diversity in the society, and efforts should be undertaken to achieve this end.

The Publication Committee's principal role is to oversee the Society's publication activities. For example, it makes recommendations to the Executive Board on such matters as editors, publishers, and publishing arrangements for the journal. The Publication Committee, with Executive Board approval, may commission intellectually stimulating works of major importance. Such works may cover the entire range of intellectual activity in criminology.

Report –

The Committee is asked to prepare a report for the Mid-Year and Annual Board Meetings. Typically, those reports would be due April 15 and October 15 respectively, with interim reports and recommendations submitted as occasion requires.

RUTH D. PETERSON FELLOWS' DEVELOPMENT COMMITTEE

Charge –

The Ruth D. Peterson Fellows' Development Committee will provide a set of activities oriented to enhancing the academic success of recipients of the Ruth D. Peterson Fellowship for Racial and Ethnic Diversity. The specific activities may vary overtime. However, they will include undertakings (e.g., annual professional development workshop, connection with mentors, participation in associated conferences) that help to prepare Fellows for a successful research career by improving their knowledge of how academia works, what makes for a successful research career, expertise in Fellows' areas of interest, integration into the Society and the discipline of criminology, and participation in associated professional networks and organization within and outside of the Society that promote advancements in research on crime and justice and diversity and inclusion in scholarship on this topic.

Report -

The Committee is asked to prepare a progress report for the Mid-Year Board Meeting (typically due April 15), a final report by October 15, and to submit interim reports and recommendations as occasion requires.

LIAISONS TO RELATED SOCIETIES

Charge –

These individuals serve as the Society liaison with various professional organizations that have criminology-related interests. The Liaisons foster communication between the Society and these various professional entities. They are responsible for setting up panels at the meetings of these various organizations when requested, and appraising the Board of these and other relevant activities that would have a bearing on the Society and the field of criminology in general. While various organizations may utilize the Arepresentative@ terminology, Society Liaisons do not represent the Society, nor the Society leadership in the literal sense of the word, ie., they cannot speak for the Society, nor can they enter into any binding agreement on behalf of the Society. Liaisons generally serve a three (3) year renewable term.

Two of the Liaisons have specific duties, as follows:

1. AAAS - This individual is responsible for setting up panels on behalf of the Society at the annual AAAS meetings, and appraising the Board of these activities.
2. United Nations - This individual works with the Society Divisions and individual members to inform them of relevant U.N. meetings, and attends and reports on these meetings. They are also to organize sessions at the Society Annual Meetings that have United Nations Office of Drugs and Crime (UNODC) activity relevance, and/or are of interest to the larger mission of the United Nations. See Appendix N for more details.

Report -

The Liaisons are asked to prepare a report for the Mid-Year and Annual Board Meetings. Typically, those reports would be due April 15 and October 15 respectively, with interim reports and recommendations submitted as occasion requires. In addition, the Liaisons are asked to submit at least one (1) article a year to The Criminologist in which they outline their activities, and inform the Society members of the organizations' activities and meetings.

AD HOC COMMITTEES

Charge -

Ad Hoc Committees are appointed by the Board as needed, with committee composition and terms appropriate to the task.

Report -

Ad Hoc Committees are to report to the Board as directed by the Board.

APPENDIX M

ROLE OF SOCIETY REPRESENTATIVES AND LIAISONS

Society representatives and liaisons are asked:

1. To generally serve as a pro-active ambassador of good will, interacting with the rank and file as well as the organizational leadership of the sister organization. The goal is to build networks to enhance research in criminology and to develop informational exchanges that will be beneficial for the membership in our respective associations and societies.
2. To serve as the Society liaison, and not as an official representative per se. While various organizations and entities may utilize the “representative” terminology, Society liaisons do not represent the Society, nor the Society leadership in the literal sense of the word. They cannot speak for the Society.
3. To carry a number of Society publications and brochures to the meeting of the sister organization, and display them on a table in the Exhibit Hall (these items will be mailed to you by the Society office upon your request). In addition, the liaison should spend some time at the Society table in the exhibit hall (if there is one), and visiting with conference attendees about the Society and what it has to offer.
4. When practical, to serve as the host of a social event sponsored by the Society at the meeting of the sister organization. Check with the Society office before moving forward with this. The Society offices will make all of the advance arrangements for the social event.
5. To consider taking part in some capacity in the formal program of the sister organization’s meetings. Note that as a representative of the Society, you may be asked to participate in a highlighted session.
6. To contact the Society offices from time to time and share contact information and other items that would be of particular interest to the Society Executive Board and the general membership of the Society.
7. To write a small piece for The Criminologist at least once year that details your experience at the sister organization’s annual meeting and/or generally share information that would be of particular interest to the general membership of the Society.

The Society will generally reimburse up to $1,000 in Liaisons' costs related to their work (travel, meeting registration, etc). The two United Nations Liaisons will receive up to $2,000 each.

APPENDIX N

UNITED NATIONS LIAISON DUTIES

Operationally, we ask the United Nations liaison(s) to do the following:

1. Get information about upcoming UN activities/meetings out to the membership via the Society web page and newsletter, and the relevant Society division listserves and newsletters. The liaisons should consider getting a table/booth at the Society Annual Meetings to promote the UNODC activities, the United Nations Crime Congresses. In general, they are to increase the awareness of the Society members as to the activities and functions of the United Nations in the crime and criminology arena.
2. Attend the annual UNODC Crime Commission meetings (usually held in Vienna in April), as the Society representative(s), and acquire an understanding of the most pressing policy-relevant research issues faced by the relevant UN agencies. Prepare a report of the event for the Board, write a piece in the 500 word range for The Criminologist, and pass this same article on to the DIC in particular and other ASC divisions who may have an interest.
3. Organize sessions at the Society Annual Meetings that have United Nations Office of Drugs and Crime (UNODC) activity relevance, and/or are of interest to the larger mission of the United Nations.
4. Collaborate with UNICRI (United Nations Interregional Research Institute) in the preparation of at least one annual publication (ie., UNICRI Research Series on International Crime Issues) based on the paper presentations in one or more of the UN-focused panels held at the Society Annual Meetings (see point 3). This publication will not bear the formal imprint of the Society, but will acknowledge in the Introduction, that the papers were presented at a panel at the Society Annual Meeting.
5. Organize one or more sessions at the United Nations Crime Congresses (held every 5 years). These will not be noted as Society organized sessions per se, but the Society representative(s) will organize them as a service to our members, and as a service to the UNODC.
6. Attend other United Nations meetings of interest as the Society representatives, such as the Alliance meetings in New York City, the ISPAC meetings in Courmayeur, and other UNODC and ECOSOC meetings relevant to our field. Prepare a report of the events for the Board, write a short article for The Criminologist when appropriate, and pass this article on to the DIC in particular and other Society divisions that may have an interest.
7. In general, establish and maintain contact with officials from UNODC and other UN-related offices and branches, as well as with officials from other NGO's who have crime and justice interests.

APPENDIX O

GENERAL COMMITTEE GUIDELINES

1. Introduction

These guidelines include seven (8) sections: introduction, purpose, duties of the chair, duties of the committee, special provisions for award committees, award committee voting procedures, Nominations Committee voting procedures, and year-end reports.

The intent of the guidelines is to provide consistency across committees and continuity within each committee over successive years. The intent is not to impose a rigid structure on committees. However, some structure, such as required deadlines and a year-end report, and some attention to order are required to ensure that the work gets done in a timely and reasonable manner.

2. Purpose

The purposes of these guidelines are to:

- A. Enhance the continuity between different committees of the Society;
- B. Enhance the continuity within each committee over successive years;
- C. Provide incoming committees with an understanding of the work of the committee the previous year and guidance for the current year; and
- D. Create a record of the activities of each committee that will be maintained at the administrative office.

3. Duties of the Committee Chairs

The chair of each committee shall contact each member of the committee prior to the Annual Meeting and shall ensure that each member has agreed to serve on the committee. In the event that a committee member declines to serve and has not informed the President-Elect, it shall be the duty of the chair to so inform the President-Elect, so that the President-Elect may appoint another committee member as a replacement before the Annual Meeting.

The chair shall convene the committee at the Annual Meeting when appropriate. The chair has the responsibility of working with the Society office to set up a time and place to hold the meeting, and to contact each committee member and inform them of the details regarding the said committee meeting.

If the chair fails to set up a time and place to meet at the Annual Meeting, any two (2) committee members, if appropriate, may choose to assemble the committee at the Annual Meeting. They would then have the responsibility to work with the Columbus office to set up a time and place to hold the meeting, and to contact each committee member and inform them of those details.

The chair should take an active, lead role in developing the discussions and activities of the committee.

The chair shall act as the secretary of the committee unless the chair appoints or the committee elects another person.

If a committee member resigns or is non-responsive, the chair is to contact the President, who will then appoint a new member to the committee if need be. This applies particularly to the award committees.

The chair shall prepare and submit the year-end report to the Executive Director, with a copy sent to all members of the committee.

4. General Duties of the Committees

In general, Robert's Rules of Order shall govern committee meetings. However, formalities such as motions to close or limit debate, limitations on the number of times a member may speak, rising to address the chair, seconds on motions, etc. are not required.

Unless otherwise agreed to by general consent, all questions must be put to a vote.

If a committee is asked to write or to review a report, after the paper has been accepted by the committee members, the committee shall adopt it as their report and shall direct the chair or some other person to present it to the Executive Board. When committees are appointed to investigate or to report on certain matters, the report should close with or should be accompanied by one (1) or more formal resolutions that cover all recommendations, so that when the report is made to the Executive Board the only motion required is one to adopt the resolutions. The report may consist simply of one or more resolutions. The preparation of resolutions to carry out the recommendations of the committee is one of the most important duties of the committee.

Each award committee is to hold at least one conference call or live electronic meeting to deliberate the outcome.

5. Special Provisions for Award Committees

Each of the award committees should develop a list of nominees as received from the membership. Self-nominations are acceptable. Award committee members may not nominate individuals for awards given by the award committees on which they serve. Every candidate nominated is to be considered, in line with the submission guidelines. Each committee should request documentation from the nominees; at the very least, obtain a vitae and a brief statement as to why the individuals should be considered to receive the award. In the absence of qualified candidates, award committees may recommend that the award not be given.

The chair of each award committee needs to communicate the award criteria to all committee members, and discuss the criteria with committee members if necessary. The ranking and voting process articulated in Appendix O, Section 6 is to be used. The chairs of the said award committees must communicate with committee members on procedures and outcomes. If more than one iteration in the ranking process occurs, the results must be communicated to the committee members at each stage. Each award committee is to hold at least one conference call or live electronic meeting to deliberate the outcome. The final report to the Society Executive Board should include a detailed description of the ranking procedures and decision-making process, along with the final outcome. The report should include:

- A. The names of each committee member, with the chair identified.
- B. The number of individuals nominated by others and the number self-nominated.
- C. A list of those nominated in order of merit, and an explanation of the general procedures used to reach that decision.
- D. A detailed discussion of the ranking and decision-making procedures.
- E. Identification of a single nominee and a justification/reasons for the committee decision.
- F. Any other information that the chair would like to provide, including any advice for future committees.

Generally, a copy of the vitae of the committee's single nominee should also be included in the materials sent to the Board.

Awards committee members are allowed to participate in the discussion and/or vote on candidates who are former or current students, previous or current mentors, and/or departmental colleagues. However, they should recuse themselves if they feel they cannot be objective.

The Society offices will take the lead in placing a “call for nominees” announcement in The Criminologist (including information regarding award deadlines, requirements, etc.), in the annual meeting packet, and on the Society webpage. If any award committee chair wishes to alter the announcement narrative, they will need to coordinate with the Society offices. If any award committee wishes, they may send the call for nominees to the Society divisions. If this is the decision, the committee is to send that call for nominees to all of the Society divisions.

Award decisions will be based on the strength of the nominees' qualifications and not on the number of nomination endorsements received for any particular candidate (or manuscripts, in the context of the Carte, Hindelang, and Petersilia Awards).

When a member of an award committee resigns or is non-responsive, the President may appoint a new member to the said committee.

While a call for nominations will go out from the Society office via a number of venues, award committees are encouraged to solicit nominations, and to particularly reach out to all Divisions and ask for nominations. At least two nominees are required for each award. If an insignificant number of nominations have been received several weeks prior to the nomination deadline, chairs are encouraged to work with their respective committee members and urge them to renew their efforts to solicit nominations, and to contact Division heads and urge them to send in nominations.

Only individuals, not institutions, shall be considered as candidates for any award (except the President's Award for Distinguished Contributions to Justice).

Each awards committee chair is to ensure that individuals are not being considered for awards they have already received (except for the Michael J. Hindelang Outstanding Book Award and Joan Petersilia Outstanding Article Award winners who can receive these respective awards more than once). A complete list of previous Society award recipients is available at www.asc41.com/awdwinrs.html.

The Board will give due consideration to each committee's nominations for each award, although the Board is not bound by the slate or the nominee of any committee. If the Board rejects a particular nominee, that particular award committee may be asked to suggest another nominee. The Executive Board may decide not to give certain awards in any given year.

Current members of the Executive Board shall be ineligible to receive any awards of the Society, including selection as a Fellow, during their term in office. However, if a current Board member is nominated for either the Michael J. Hindelang Outstanding Book Award or Joan Petersilia Outstanding Article Award, their nomination shall be considered during the first year following their service on the Board.

Members of a said award committee are not eligible to receive that said award.

6. Voting Procedures for Award Committees

This voting procedure was selected both for its simplicity and desirable properties, including its ability to minimize "gaming" (e.g., sabotaging the top-ranked candidates of others by assigning them a very low ranking, as may happen when candidates are ranked from low to high and average rankings are then calculated).

Voting Steps

- A. After committee members have reviewed the nominees (people/books/articles), have a conference call or live electronic exchange in which the Committee Chair opens the floor for discussion of the award and the nominees (e.g., criteria for judging nominees, the top nominees, the case for or against particular nominees, the number of awards that should be given where multiple awards are possible). If a conference call or a live electronic exchange is not possible, have a period in which members can exchange emails regarding the nominees (e.g., a one week period).

- B. Each member then casts a single vote for their top nominee. If a nominee gets a majority of votes, they win. If not, a second round is held with members voting on the top three candidates from the first round. If no one gets a majority of votes, a third round is held with members voting on the top two candidates from the second round. This voting may be done in a conference call or via live electronic exchange (including a live email exchange). If a tie occurs, the Chair will arrange another conference call, or live electronic exchange with Committee members to discuss options (e.g., another round of voting after further discussion of the top candidates, splitting the award).
- C. If there are multiple winners, Step #2 is repeated until all winners have been selected. (Note: There is a limit of three Gene Carte Student Paper Award winners, three Minority Fellowship recipients, and four Fellows.)

Special Circumstances:

- A. If there are a very large number of nominees and the nominees are not easily evaluated (e.g., books, articles), the pool of nominees may first be reduced by having subgroups of the committee evaluate a portion of the nominees – indicating which should be considered by the full committee and which should not (to be considered, a nominee must receive a majority of yes votes from the subcommittee.)
- B. If members believe that none of the nominees (or remaining nominees where there are multiple winners) are deserving of the award in question, they may abstain from voting. Winners must receive a majority of votes from those on the committee.

7. Nominations Committee Voting Procedures

The Nominations Committee is charged with selecting a slate of two individuals to run for the Office of President, two for Vice-President, and six individuals for the office of Executive Counselor. The voting procedure used to identify the slate is not mandated, but left to the professional discretion of the Committee. Typically a rank-order model of all nominees has been used.

8. Year-End Report

Following the reporting timetable set forth for each committee, the chair shall submit to the Executive Director a report of the work of the committee during the year. At a minimum, this year-end report shall include the following information:

- A. The name of the committee;
- B. The year the committee served;
- C. The names of each committee member, with the chair identified;
- D. A brief synopsis of each of the activities undertaken and each of the issues discussed during the year;
- E. A brief description of any relevant background information as to why the

- issue or activity was undertaken and its significance for the Society;
- F. If the committee dealt with issues, a statement as to whether each issue was resolved and how it was resolved;
 - G. A list of any outstanding issues or activities and any additional issues or activities that the incoming committee should consider;
 - H. Recommendations for handling any unresolved issues or activities.

APPENDIX P

OFFICE POLICIES

1. All Society officials and office staff are encouraged to report any and all irregularities and/or improprieties to the Executive Director and/or any member of the Executive Board, with no repercussions forthcoming to the Awhistleblower.”
2. All financial records and other sensitive documents are to be retained for seven (7) years, and are then to be either shredded or burned.
3. Society officers and office staff are expected to recuse themselves in any potential conflict of interest context that may arise.

4. All reimbursed travel expense requests are to be formally submitted to the Society offices, with accompanying receipts and/or formal documentation. University approved per diems can be utilized in place of receipts with respect to mileage and meals. No entertainment expenses are reimbursed.
5. The Society will not enter into any business relationship with family members of Society officials nor office staff.
6. All Society members are informed that they may opt out of having their names and contact info listed on the Society on-line membership directory.

8. All Society Annual Meeting registrants are informed that they may opt out of having their names and contact info listed on the Society on-line meeting attendee directory.
9. The list of Society Annual Meeting attendees is not sold or distributed to external entities.
10. Due diligence efforts are undertaken by to ensure that the membership management software used by the Society staff is continually in compliance with the General Data Protection Regulations, and Canada's Anti-Spam Laws.

APPENDIX Q

CODE OF ETHICS*

I. PREAMBLE

- (1) Criminology is a scientific discipline and criminologists subscribe to the general tenets of science and scholarship. They also recognize that the discovery, creation, transmission, and accumulation of knowledge in any scientific discipline involve ethical considerations at every stage.
- (2) The Code of Ethics of the American Society of Criminology (ASC) sets forth General Principles and Ethical Standards that provide criminologists with professional responsibilities and conduct in the context of our everyday professional activities, and will serve as guidelines for professional conduct.

- (3) The General Principles contained in this Code of Ethics express the values and ideals of the American Society of Criminology for ethical behavior in the context of the professional activities of ASC members, and should be considered by ASC members in arriving at ethical courses of action in specific situations.
- (4) The Ethical Standards set forth guidelines, written broadly, to apply to ASC members in varied roles. The Ethical Standards are not exhaustive: conduct that is not included in the Ethical Standards is not necessarily ethical or unethical. Ethical standards are not simply determined by whether an action is legally actionable; behavior that is technically legal may still be unethical. The Ethical Standards of the American Society of Criminology must be interpreted in the context of the General Principles and in ways that enhance the credibility of and foster public trust in the profession of criminology.

II. GENERAL PRINCIPLES

- (5) In their professional activities, ASC members are committed to enhancing the general well being of societies and of the individuals and groups within them. Thus, ASC members have an obligation to avoid forms of social injustice such as discrimination, oppression, or harassment in their own work. ASC members also must be careful to avoid incompetent, unethical, or unscrupulous use of criminological knowledge.
- (6) ASC members recognize the great potential for harm that is associated with the study of crime and criminal justice and disclose such potential to all involved in their studies or research. Although some of the work done by ASC members involves risk, ASC members will not knowingly place the well-being of any participant in jeopardy in their professional work. ASC members fully apprise researchers, interviewers, and other staff of potential risks and only involve those who consent once this information has been disclosed.
- (7) ASC members are honest and accessible in their professional dealings with others. They are committed to free and open access to knowledge, to public discourse on findings, and to sharing sources of those findings whenever possible. They do not knowingly present false, misleading or deceptive accounts of their own or other peoples' professional work for any purpose or for any reason.
- (8) ASC members strive to maintain high levels of competence in their work. Such competence includes familiarity with current ideas, literature, and research in the subject area. ASC members recognize the limits of their expertise and undertake those tasks for which they are qualified through education, training, and experience.
- (9) ASC members respect the rights, dignity and worth of all people, including students, research participants, colleagues, crime victims, and those accused or convicted of crimes. They do not discriminate on the basis of age, gender, race, ethnicity, national origin, immigrant status, religion, sexual orientation, gender identification, gender expression, health or physical condition, or domestic status. They are sensitive to individual, cultural, and role differences among people(s). They acknowledge the rights of other people and groups who endorse values, attitudes, and opinions that are different from their own.

- (10) ASC members do not force, coerce, or obtain through manipulation personal favors, sexual activity or economic or professional advantages from any person including faculty, students, research respondents, clients, patients, research assistants, clerical staff or colleagues. ASC members will not engage in workplace harassment, aggression, or bullying of any kind.

III. ETHICAL STANDARDS

- (11) The following Ethical Standards clarify these general principles as ethical courses of action. Individual ASC members should evaluate the ethical requirements of a specific situation, actively seek a range of alternatives, consult with colleagues and experts on the matter, decide on ethical courses of action, and take responsibility for those actions.

A. ASC MEMBERS AS RESEARCHERS

ASC Members Strive to Maintain Objectivity and Integrity in the Conduct of Criminological Research.

- (12) ASC members adhere to the highest possible technical standards in their research, including:
- a. setting forth ex ante the limits of their knowledge and the disciplinary and personal limitations that may affect the validity of their findings;
 - b. fully reporting findings, including relevant null findings contrary to the researcher's expectations, preferences, or conclusions, and fully reporting details of their theories, methods, and research designs that might bear upon interpretations of research findings;
 - c. fully reporting all sources of financial support and other sponsorship;
 - d. completing work according to negotiated time frames.
- (13) ASC members do not accept grants, contracts or research assignments that violate the principles enunciated in this Code, and will dissociate themselves from the research when a violation is discovered and they are unable to correct it.
- (14) ASC members involved in a joint project with others (students, assistants, and other employees) will develop and modify as appropriate mutually accepted, explicit (protected in writing) agreements with respect to the division of work, compensation, access to data, rights of authorship, and other rights and responsibilities. Authorship of a completed research product should reflect the relative contribution of authors. Students are normally the principal authors of work that substantially derives from their theses or dissertation.
- (15) ASC members disseminate their research findings, excluding those likely to cause harm to clients, collaborators or participants, those which violate formal or implied promises of confidentiality, or those which are proprietary under a formal or informal agreement.

(16) ASC members should freely share their data and documentation as a regular practice, so that others may re-analyze or otherwise investigate their work and conclusions, consistent with prior commitments of confidentiality. Parties who use data first gathered or analyzed by other researchers (secondary data) explicitly acknowledge the role and contribution of the original researchers in all presentations and publications related to these data. Authors should supply data and programs when requested, within a reasonable time from the completion of data collection, for archival material.

ASC Members Respect the Rights of Research Populations.

(17) ASC members conform their study design and information gathering techniques to regulations protecting the rights of human participants as outlined by the American Association of University Professors (AAUP) in "Regulations Governing Research On Human Subjects: Academic Freedom and the Institutional Review Board," Academe, December 1981: 358-370. Specifically, they:

- a. comply with appropriate federal and institutional requirements pertaining to the proper review and approval for research that involves human research subjects, materials, and procedures;
- b. do not mislead respondents to purposes for which research is being conducted;
- c. ensure participants' rights of personal anonymity unless they are otherwise waived;
- d. ensure confidentiality of any data not obtained from records open to public scrutiny;
- e. anticipate potential threats to confidentiality, including the Freedom of Information Act, and adopt various means of coding, storing, and maintaining data to protect the confidentiality of research participants;
- f. fully inform potential participants in cases in which they are unable to guarantee confidentiality;
- g. make every effort to ensure the safety and security of respondents and project staff;
- h. obtain informed consent when the risks of research are greater than the risks of everyday life;
- i. take special efforts when individuals studied are illiterate, are mentally ill, are minors, have low social status, are not comfortable or familiar with the language being used in the research, are under judicial or penal supervision, or are unfamiliar with social research and its constraints and purposes.

(18) ASC members do not use their positions as professionals, researchers or faculty, as a pretext for gathering intelligence for any organizations (including consulting firms and nonprofit groups) or governments. ASC members will not consult or use their research in any way that would support espionage, spying, torture and other activities that violate human rights or civil liberties in the US or elsewhere.

- (19) ASC members respect research collaborators' expressed wishes or needs for anonymity.
- (20) Research administrators and chief investigators ensure that access to confidential information is restricted, and to instruct research staff members that the ethical obligations above apply to all members of research organizations (interviewers, transcribers, coders, clerical staff, etc.).

B. PUBLICATIONS AND REVIEW PROCESS

ASC Members are Ethical in their Roles as Editors and Authors.

- (21) ASC members must acknowledge people who contribute to their research and publications. The ordering of authorship and acknowledgments accurately reflects the contributions of participants in the research and writing (except in those cases where such ordering or acknowledgment is determined by an official protocol). ASC members must not list as authors individuals who did not contribute substantially to the research and writing process.
- (22) ASC members must use appropriate citations to identify data and material taken from another person's published or unpublished work, verbatim or otherwise, including methodological techniques such as instruments, scales, and statistical tools.
- (23) ASC members diligently follow the procedures specified by journals when submitting work for publication, including refraining from multiple submission of papers to journals with exclusive submission policies.
- (24) Editors must show respect for the professional integrity of criminologists who submit their work for consideration. They:
 - a. apply professional standards equitably without personal or ideological malice;
 - b. provide prompt decisions to authors of submitted manuscripts;
 - c. abide by commitments to publish manuscripts, and work to publish accepted papers expeditiously.

ASC Members are Ethical in the Review Process.
