1. Sellin-Glueck Award Issue – Chris Eskridge

The Board unanimously affirmed changing the criteria of the Sellin-Glueck Award to specify that the award be “given to those who reside outside of the United States for their contributions to international criminology.” Changes to award criteria are By-Laws, requiring two votes by the Board. The first vote had been taken at the April 26, 2003 mid-year Board meeting.

2. Denver Meeting Report (Program Committee) – Denise Gottfredson and Sally Simpson

The Program Committee Chairs distributed an information sheet showing frequency distribution of the 495 sessions for the 2003 meeting by type (35 thematic, 329 regular, 45 roundtable, and 86 poster sessions), as well as a breakdown of the number of each session type by topical area. For the 2003 meetings, a survey evaluation packet was provided in each meeting room for session chairs to provide information about the attendance and quality of their sessions. Although demand was insufficient to contract for on-site daycare for the 2003 meeting, the Program Chairs also reported positive interactions with the Kiddicorps organization and recommended that this organization be considered for future meetings. The Program Chairs also recommended moving quickly toward online submission system and commended Fawn Ngo for her assistance in organizing the meetings.

3. Executive Director’s Report – Chris Eskridge

Chris Eskridge provided background on the current financial reports, cautioning that the third quarter profit and loss statement does not reflect printing costs for several volumes of Criminology. Chris updated the Board on funding for Criminology and Public Policy, preparations and attendance estimates for the 2004 Nashville meetings, Lindsey Jackson’s work on updating the ASC’s web page, and plans and cooperative efforts for the joint Societies of Criminology Key Issues meeting in Paris, May 13-15, 2004.

4. NRC Rankings – Todd Clear

The Board discussed the exclusion of Criminology and Criminal Justice Programs from the National Research Council (NRC) rankings of graduate programs. John Laub and Todd Clear met with NRC representatives in Washington and provided them with information about graduate education in criminology and criminal justice. Todd Clear, on behalf of the Association of Criminal Justice Doctoral Programs, is planning to prepare a position paper for presentation to the NRC on this issue.

5. Duncan/Lott Issue – John Laub and Chris Eskridge

The Board discussed an ongoing debate between Professor Otis Dudley Duncan and Professor John R. Lott, Jr. regarding a 2000 article by Professor Duncan (“Gun Use Surveys: In Numbers We Trust?” The Criminologist Vol. 25, No. 1 Jan/Feb. 2000 pp. 1, 3-7) and Professor Lott’s reply (The Criminologist Vol 25, No 5 Sep/Oct 2000 pp. 1,6). When the ASC was contacted by Professor Duncan to take further action in this matter, John Laub asked Chris Eskridge to investigate Professor Duncan’s allegations and report to the Board. The Board identified the key areas of disagreement and discussed procedures for further ASC investigation into claims of academic misconduct, the status of the official newsletter as an ASC publication that is not peer-reviewed, and the merits of prolonging this debate within the pages of The Criminologist. Henry Pontell, representing the ASC Publications Committee, agreed to draft a statement to the membership on the Duncan/Lott controversy for publication in The Criminologist.

6. Committee Reports: Award Committees

a. Hindelang Award Issue. Tom Bernard, chair of the 2003 Hindelang Award Committee, asked that the Board examine the eligibility criteria for this award. The award criteria specifies that books are eligible if they were “published in the last two or three years” and that the award should be given to the book with the “most influence on criminology research.” The Board discussed the award as an... outstanding book award because recently published books have not yet had an opportunity to influence criminological research. The Board unanimously passed a motion to change the Hindelang Award criteria to read as follows: “The Hindelang Award is given annually for a book, published within three (3) calendar years preceding the year in which the award is made, that makes the most outstanding contribution to research in criminology.”

b. Constitution and By-Laws (Donna Bishop) – The Board discussed a proposal from the Constitution and By-Laws Committee that would limit the term of Service on the Executive Board to two terms for Executive Secretary, Treasurer, and Editor and a single term for other Board positions. By informal custom, terms have been limited in this manner for several decades. No one has been reelected to a previously held position and reappointment of the Executive Secretary, Treasurer, and Editor have been limited to two terms. After some discussion, the matter was tabled to be discussed at the Saturday meeting on November 22, 2003.

j. Publications

Candace Kruttschnitt updated the Board on several Publication Committee matters. She reported that the journal editors would prefer that written materials about the ethics of publishing appear in The Criminologist, rather than the journals themselves. She also noted that those members of the Editorial Board with whom she communicated were generally opposed to issuing press releases for Criminology articles. Sage and Blackwell are both developing proposals that aim to provide full-text searchable electronic access to both journals, a greater library subscription base, and direct access to major abstracting services. The Board discussed the advantages and disadvantages of continuing to publish Criminology and Criminology and Public Policy ourselves and the generally positive experiences that Law and Society Review and the Law and Society Association has had with Blackwell.

k. Criminology

John Laub and Chris Eskridge updated the Board on delays in publication of the May, August, and November issues of Criminology. Rick Rosenfeld pledged to assist in expediting publication and to make University of Missouri-St. Louis faculty available in bringing these issues to press. The Board discussed several alternatives for publication and accepted the following motion: effective November 18, 2003 the Chair of the Department of Criminology and Criminal Justice at University of Missouri-St. Louis be given complete authority to produce the 2003 issues of Criminology as fast as possible, by whatever means necessary, including in-house production and/or seeking assistance from other editorial offices currently producing American Society of Criminology journals. The Board commended Bob Bursik and Jennifer Bursik for their outstanding service.

l. Criminology and Public Policy – Todd Clear reported the receipt of the final large-scale grant from the National Institute of Justice, with the costs of dissemination of the journal to be paid by John Jay College of Criminal Justice for the next year.

m. Representative Report – Christy Visher.
n. Ethics Statement – returned to publication committee.
o. Student Affairs – Ruth Triplett’s report.
