1978 ASC PROGRAM CALL FOR PAPERS

The following is a message from ASC President-Elect C. RAY JEFFERY describing his intentions regarding the 1978 annual program to be held in Dallas, November 8-11, 1978.

The 1978 meeting of ASC will be November 8-11 in Dallas, Texas. The general overall theme for the program is “Criminology: Interdisciplinary and International.” The following statements capture the spirit of the meeting.

“It is possible to trace the development of criminology along traditional lines of biology, psychology, and sociology without much overlapping or integration of these approaches” (Wolfgang and Ferracuti, 1967).

“A blind criminal justice, a deaf forensic psychiatry, and a dumb sociological criminology stand a good chance not only of survival—if they stand together—but also of bettering humanity’s plight” (Mueller, 1969).

“The team that studies the violent individual should include not only brain scientists and clinicians, but also social scientists, criminologists, legal experts, cytogeneticists, and public health specialists” (Mark and Ervin, 1970).

1977 ASC AWARDS

William Amos, President of ASC, recently announced that four major awards will be presented to outstanding scholars and practitioners at the Annual Program in Atlanta in November. Nominees for the various awards were presented to the ASC Board which approved them at the last Board meeting.

The awards and the recipients include:

Sellin-Glueck Award:
SHOLOMO SCHOHAN

This award is given to a person outside the United States who has gained international recognition for contributions to the field of criminology. It was established in 1974.
ASC MEMBERSHIP COMMITTEE REPORT

Effective August 10, according to Harry E. Allen, Chair, the total ASC membership in good standing was:

Regular annual actives  @ $ 25.00 = 1,194
Three-year actives  @ 70.00 = 20
Life member actives  @ 250.00 = 7
Actives  @ 12.50 = 3
Students  @ 12.50 = 456

1,680

Within the membership there are two Honorary and two Emeritus members bringing the total ASC membership to 1,684.

Since the last Membership Committee Report in the newsletter, the following new member applications have been received:

May  —  Actives  @ $25.00 = 31
       —  Students  @ 12.50 = 17
June —  Actives  @ $25.00 = 33
       —  Students  @ 12.50 = 19
July —  Actives  @ $25.00 = 20
       —  Students  @ 12.50 = 11

131

The number of new members recruited during this current drive (November to July) totals 410: 232 actives and 178 students.

Table 1 compares the 1976 and 1977 figures of new members by month:

ASC TREASURER'S REPORT

As an update to the May 6 Treasurer's Report, Harry E. Allen reported that cash-on-hand status of the Society as of August 15 was as follows:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Account</th>
<th>Amount</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Checking Account</td>
<td>$ 1,998.51</td>

</tr>
<tr>
<td>Telephone Transfer Account</td>
<td>5,021.81</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>$15,538.05</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The $6,000 certificate of deposit which matured in April was renegotiated with another savings and loan institution, at a higher rate of interest, into two $3,000 certificates of deposit.

Allen reported the $2,269.22 certificate of deposit represents the dues and Life Member enrollments for nineteen members (five Life Members at $250 each and fourteen three-year memberships at $70 each). He stated he could add to this certificate of deposit at any time, in $1,000 increments.

Allen reported a Telephone Transfer Account had been established with a savings and loan institution for funds which would ordinarily be retained in the checking account. This represents an interinstitution transfer of funds and provides for immediate access, maximum yield on available funds and convenience, consistent with safety.

The savings and loan pays 5.25% per annum on Telephone Transfer Accounts, compounded daily. There are no charges for telephone transfers between the savings and loan and the bank.

A final notice for payment of 1977 membership dues was mailed in June. At the end of August the membership files were purged of those persons who had not renewed their membership and were placed into the "Inactive File."

"The only sensible approach [to sex differences and behavior] ... is interactive in its theories and which transgresses disciplinary boundaries" (Teitelbaum, 1976).

Three general plenary sessions will be organized around:

I. Biology, psychology, and criminology
II. Economics, sociology, and criminology
III. Law, politics, and criminology

The spirit of interdisciplinary analysis has been violated by the division of the meeting into these subject areas, but it is hoped the speakers will transgress disciplinary boundaries in the development of these topics. The program will be divided into plenary sessions, thematic panels, general panels, and workshops. Although the panels and workshops will reflect the general theme of the day, as much latitude will be used in programming as is demanded.

It is expected that many of the usual topics of ASC meetings will appear on the program, but special topics cutting across two or more disciplinary boundaries will be pursued. The following are used as illustrative of topics of current interdisciplinary interest to criminologists:

- Genetics and abnormal behavior
- Brain function, neurochemistry, and abnormal behavior
- Alcoholism and the neurotransmitter system
- Learning disabilities and delinquency
- Deterrence: biological, psychological, or social?
- Age, sex, and crime: biological or social?
- Intelligence and crime rates
- Physical environment geography, and crime rates
- Legal and political issues in biomedical research and applications
- Taboo topics in criminological research
- Biological foundations of political processes
- White collar crime: economic, legal, or social?
- The future: punishment, treatment, or?
- Aggression and violence: biology or society?
- Social class and crime: biology, psychology, or sociology?
- Social conflict: Darwin, Freud, or Marx?

 Interested individuals are requested to correspond with C. Ray Jeffery, School of Criminology, Florida State University, Tallahassee, FL 32306, or with Paul J. Brantingham, Program Chairperson, Department of Criminology, Simon Fraser University, Burnaby, British Columbia, V5A 1 S6, Canada, concerning topics or papers to be included on the program.

In your communication, indicate if you wish to (1) present a paper, (2) organize a session (topic?), (3) serve as a discussant (topic?), (4) organize a workshop, or (5) organize an applications session.
LEGISLATION

by Chris Erlewine
Attorney Advisor
U.S. Bureau of Prisons

The following is a status report on significant Criminal Justice legislation pending in Congress:

Federal Criminal Code Revision

S. 1437 — On August 5, 1977, following a series of hearings in June, the Subcommittee on Criminal Laws and Procedures reported S. 1437 to the Senate Judiciary Committee. The full committee is expected to begin work on the massive bill shortly after the August recess.

New Federal Judgeships

S. 11 (McClellan) — A bill to provide for the appointment of additional district court judges passed the Senate on May 24, 1977. The legislation is pending in the House Judiciary Committee where significant amendments are expected.

Magistrate Jurisdiction

S. 1613 (De Concini) — Legislation concerning the jurisdiction of U.S. Magistrates passed the Senate on July 22, 1977. In the House, the bill was referred to the House Judiciary Subcommittee on Courts, Civil Liberties and the Administration of Justice, which has tentatively scheduled hearings for late September.

Prisoner Exchange Treaty and Implementing Legislation

S. 1682 — The Senate ratified the Prisoner Exchange Treaty between the United States and Canada on July 19, 1977, and the United States and Mexico on July 21. S. 1682 (Biden), a bill to implement the treaties, has been reported to the Full Judiciary Committee by the Subcommittee on Corrections and Penitentiaries.

Constitutional Rights of Institutionalized Persons

H.R. 2439; S. 1393 — Hearings have been completed on H.R. 2439 (Kastenmeier), a bill to authorize action for redress in cases involving violation of constitutional rights of institutionalized persons, and markup is expected to begin shortly. Hearings have also been completed by the Subcommittee on the Constitution on companion legislation in the Senate, S. 1393 (Bayh).

ARTICLES FOR CRIMINOLOGY

Donal E.J. MacNamara and Edward Sagarin, co-editors of CRIMINOLOGY, announce that they have accepted a sufficient number of articles to fill the remaining issues under their editorial supervision. New submissions should be addressed to the newly selected editors: James Inciardi and Frank Scarpitti, Sociology Department, University of Delaware, Newark DE 19711.
COMMENTARY

Gangs and Self-Help Groups

By George H. Weber, Acting Deputy Director
Division of Special Mental Health Programs
National Institute of Mental Health

In addition to these landmark books, the number and quality of articles has been exceptionally impressive. Walter Miller's 1958 paper, "Lower Class Culture as a Generating Milieu of Gang Delinquency" is only one among many excellent articles.

These works are more than enough to entitle the gang phenomenon to a high place among the concerns of this country's criminologists. Remember, too, that intervention strategies and procedures have been articulated and implemented to inhibit or reduce the amount of illegal activity engaged in by youth gangs.

Note the early efforts of Clifford Shaw and his associates in Chicago and the efforts of the 1950s and 1960s: Boston's "Midcity Project," the New York City Youth Board's "Street Project," that city's "Mobilization for Youth," and the projects that were patterned after Mobilization in other cities throughout the country. In addition, there was the "Group Guidance Project" of the Los Angeles County Probation Department, the "Ladino Hills Project" designed by Klein in Los Angeles, and dozens more.

No topic in crime and delinquency has provoked greater frustration, however, than the gang. This frustration has stemmed from inability to successfully apply the exceptionally well-developed theory to prevention and remedial programs for delinquents.

It is true that a number of elements must be considered in assessing the ineffectiveness, including: How well (logically and thoroughly) did the actual intervention program operationalize the theory? Was there a logical fit among: (1) the conceptions and variables of the theory, (2) the intervention strategies and procedures, and (3) the specific phenomena on the scene of action, including the actual target population and their milieu? Further, how truly and reliably was the program actually delivered? And so on.

Interpretations of the ineffectiveness of different programs may vary, and they may vary on the same program as seen by different analysts. Depending on a number of considerations, the interpretations have suggested that the theories need to be revised and/or refined, and that the actual programs that would utilize the theory should be improved.

It is also hard to think of any topic in the self-help field, particularly as it focuses on crime and delinquency, which has been less searchingly considered than gangs. Look at the major monographs that have been published: "The Journal of Applied Behavioral Science"—Special Issue on Self-help Groups, Vol. 12, No. 3, 1976, edited by Borman and Lieberman; "Social Policy"—Special Self-help Issue, Vol. 7, No. 2, 1976, edited by Riessman.

Or look at the several books that have been printed, for example: Mutual Aid by Kropotkin in 1972; Support Systems and Mutual Help: Multidisciplinary Explorations, edited by Caplan and Killiea in 1976; Natural Helping Networks by Collins and Pancoast in 1976; and This School Belongs to You and Me by Newmark in 1976.

Yet many of the key conceptions that pervade the self-help literature are not uncommon to the gang literature: natural and spontaneous group formations partially in response to insensitive and closed social institutions, typically organized into small group structures; face-to-face social interactions; common values and attitudes; material assistance and social-emotional support to members of the group; etc.

Moreover, the general function of gangs and self-help group members have some common elements: they come together for mutual assistance, to satisfy a common need, and to overcome common problems.

This is not to suggest that the organization and dynamics of gangs and self-help groups are exactly the same, or that the same concepts can be used interchangeably with gangs and self-help groups. Such would be foolish. However, the point is that it might be fruitful to interface the conceptions that have been used to describe both, to review the experience of each group (as well as the groups within each category) and how they have worked with their problems, to attempt to generate some innovative ways of viewing gangs, and, hopefully, generate more effective strategies and techniques to work with them—or to encourage them to work with themselves.

A special plenary session will be held Wednesday evening on the interface of academic and applied criminology. This session is in response to a feeling on the part of some of the membership that the organization is too academic.

Also, during the three-day meeting, applications sessions will be scheduled to allow for the interaction of practitioner and researcher.

A special program for international scholars will be scheduled as a part of the meeting. Details will be worked out during the coming year.

With your support, this can be a most successful meeting. Please be there and participate as you are able.
NATIONAL INSTITUTE DRAFTS
LONG-RANGE RESEARCH AGENDA

In a major departure from past practice, LEAA’s National Institute of Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice has announced a tentative list of priorities for a long-range research agenda.

Blair G. Ewing, Acting Director of the Institute, recently announced the tentative agenda for future research. A final agenda will be published in the Institute’s program plan, which will be available after October 15, 1977, for the fiscal year beginning on October 1.

The tentative list of priorities includes the following:

(1) Correlates and determinants of criminal behavior
(2) Deterrence
(3) Community crime prevention
(4) Violent crime and the violent offender
(5) Career criminals and habitual offenders
(6) Performance standards and measures for criminal justice
(7) Management and utilization of police resources
(8) Court management
(9) Sentencing
(10) Rehabilitation

These topics do not represent the entire range of research activity the Institute will sponsor, but they will account for the bulk of research funds available to the Institute. The Institute’s total budget for FY 1978 is $21 million, with approximately $12 million to be devoted to research and the remainder to evaluation, program development, training, testing, dissemination, and reference services.

The tentative list of topics will have been reviewed by the Institute’s Advisory Committee in late September. Following that meeting, the list will be put in final form. The Advisory Committee, a 21-member group of distinguished researchers and practitioners, participated in the development of the tentative list.

The topics were selected through consultation with Institute staff, other LEAA officials, and through review of staff suggestions by the Advisory Committee at an earlier meeting.

In addition, approximately 500 persons—including LEAA officials, state and local planning agency staffs, academic and other researchers, and practitioners at all levels—were surveyed for their reaction to the proposed list of broad topics as well as to specific areas of research.

“We believe this initial set of long-term priorities offers a stable and sensible framework for research—both basic and applied—over the next five years and beyond,” Ewing said. “At the same time, we’re mindful of the need for flexibility that is so important in providing a favorable climate for creative inquiry. We anticipate that the long-range agenda will be reviewed annually with our Advisory Committee so that we can refine it as needed.”

NATIONAL INSTITUTE . . . (Continued from p. 8)

Ewing said a summary of the research planned in each area will be outlined in the National Institute's Program Plan for FY 1978. Details on specific projects, including funding levels, will be spelled out in program announcements issued throughout the fiscal year.

Copies of the Program Plan are available from the National Criminal Justice Reference Service, which also maintains mailing lists for program announcements. (To register with NCJRS, please write: National Criminal Justice Reference Service, Box 6000, Rockville, MD 20850.)

The Institute's planning process emphasizes two major points, Ewing explained. "First, we are concentrating on summing up what has been learned from the research the Institute has funded to date. Second, we're attempting to focus on filling major gaps in knowledge, especially in those areas where there is a good probability of accumulating knowledge that can be useful for criminal justice policymakers. Obviously, the agenda we've drawn is not exhaustive. We welcome the comments of ASC members on our long-range priorities and on other research issues that deserve consideration," he said.

There is a total of 584 members on the rolls who are not in good standing: 405 actives and 179 students. Those not in good standing on June 15 were sent a final notice for dues. At the end of August, the membership files were purged of those persons who had not renewed their membership; these were placed into the "Inactive File."

The Committee will continue to send "Inactive File" members one invitation each year to become members in good standing, but will provide no further services until they are again in good standing. This process will be repeated once a year thereafter to allow appropriate allocation of our resources and to permit an annual opportunity for inactive members to again join in the objectives of the Society.

The Committee plans to continue its membership recruitment process. Four thousand letters of invitation were mailed out between July 1 and August 31. If the rate of return from last year (13%) were to be projected for this mail-out, potentially another 520 could be added to the membership roll by November 1. A more conservative estimate might be 300, or a total of new members for the 1976-1977 drive of 677; if the 520 total of new members is reached, the new total would be 897, 13 less than the projected number of new members.
SAGE RESEARCH PROGRESS SERIES IN CRIMINOLOGY

edited by GILBERT GEIS and JAMES A. INCIARDI

Published in conjunction with the American Society of Criminology, this series of concisely edited works reflects notable but previously unpublished writing on topics of current concern to the community of criminologists. Drawn from sessions of the 1976 ASC meeting and other sources, the articles printed here have a topicality and scope that make them ideal for the instructor of criminology, as well as the researcher and practitioner.

POSITIONS—VACANCIES—OPPORTUNITIES

THE CRIMINOLOGIST will regularly feature in these columns position vacancies available in organizations and universities, as well as positions sought by members of the Society. There will be no charge for placing such announcements. For those agencies or persons not wishing to have their identities known, arrangements can be made for a box number and all appropriate inquiries will be forwarded accordingly.

The Professional Employment Exchange will be a regular feature at each Annual Meeting. Prospective employers and employees should register with the Society no later than three weeks prior to the Annual Meeting of the Society. Appropriate forms may be obtained by writing to the ASC offices in Columbus, Ohio.

To place announcements in The Criminologist, send all materials to:

INTERNATIONAL LIAISON COMMITTEE REPORT

Paul C. Friday, Chair

I would like to take this opportunity to familiarize you with the International Liaison Committee. Our objective is to facilitate greater professional communication between our members and scholars in other countries. The ASC is committed to a broad, interdisciplinary perspective and for the past few years has tried to incorporate a wider, comparative orientation.

The Liaison Committee, unlike others, is not a small group, but is made up of all our members who are interested in international and comparative criminology.

Members who write to the committee requesting information on either a national or research interest are given contact addresses.

Each year at the annual meeting there are scheduled panels on international and comparative criminology. In addition, the 1978 meeting of the Society will carry a definite international perspective and President-Elect Jeffery would like participation from a large number of international scholars. Please feel free to write to him or the Program Chairman, Paul Brantingham, School of Criminology, Florida State University, Tallahassee, FL 32306, with any suggestions or opinions.
REQUEST FOR ASSISTANCE

ASC members who consider themselves Conflict Criminologists, Critical Criminologists, New Criminologists, Radical Criminologists (or any other special brand of criminologists) are requested to submit short definitions (250-500 words) distinguishing their approaches to criminology from what might be called academic, establishment or mainline criminology.

If there is any special word or concept which you think is sometimes (frequently) misused in criminological writing, please submit a short (250-500 word) memo setting forth: (a) the misuse; (b) its correct use.

Send information to: Donal E.J. MacNamara, John Jay College of Criminal Justice, City University of New York, 444 West 56th Street, New York, NY 10019.

NATIONAL CLEARINGHOUSE CREATED

The Law Enforcement Assistance Administration has funded a grant to Search Group, Inc. (SGI) to operate a National Clearinghouse for Criminal Justice Information Systems.

The Clearinghouse will provide free technical assistance to agencies planning or undertaking transfer of criminal justice information systems. In its continuing efforts to promote effective use of national criminal justice resources, SGI has developed an on-line, automated index of such systems nationwide, to be used as a prime Clearinghouse tool.

DELINQUENCY CONFERENCE

Schools and Juvenile Justice, co-sponsored by the Delinquency Control Institute, a component of the School of Public Administration, and the School of Education at the University of Southern California, special conferences bring together education and juvenile justice professionals to address such issues as interagency relationships, training, legal rights and responsibilities, school disciplinary problems, and the school and justice system responses to juvenile delinquency. Registration fee is $230 for one three-day conference and one forum, $75 for those registering just for a forum. The next Conference will be held December 12-15, 1977, in Washington, D.C. Contact: Tanya Grimes, Program Coordinator, Delinquency Control Institute, 3601 S. Flower Street, Los Angeles, CA 90007 (213-741-2397).

VICTIMOLOGY ABSTRACTS

The abstracts of all the papers read at the Second International Symposium on Victimology held in Boston in 1976 have been published in the Spring issue of Victimology: An International Journal.

Reprints containing a summary report on the Symposium written by Edith Flynn and the abstracts are available from Visage Press, Inc., 3409 Wisconsin Ave. NW, Washington, D.C. 20016. ($3.75 prepaid; add $1.00 for airmail).

JUSTICE SYSTEM JOURNAL

The Journal is published in three issues per volume by the Institute for Court Management and is of particular interest to justice system managers.

Articles in the Journal report on empirical research concerning the development of innovative policies in the fields of justice system management and include evaluations of policy changes implemented by judicial, correctional, police, prosecutorial, and defender systems.

Subscription rates are: one-year personal rate, $12.00; two-year personal rate, $22.00; one-year institutional rate, $18.00; and two-year institutional rate, $32.00. Order from the Institute for Court Management, 1405 Curtis St., Suite 1800, Denver CO 80202.

GROUP FLIGHTS TO ATLANTA

Special arrangements have been made for ASC members and their families who reside in the Greater New York City and Washington, D.C., areas to participate in Group 10 flights to the Atlanta Annual Program in November. Unfortunately, arrangements cannot be made for members who reside in other cities.

Those wishing to save approximately $30.00 on the round-trip fare should contact: Discovery Travel Centers, 5530 Wisconsin Ave., Chevy Chase, MD 20015 (301-656-1300).
