FINAL CALL FOR 1980 ASC ANNUAL MEETING PAPERS
SPECIAL TOURS PLANNED FOR SAN FRANCISCO PROGRAM

In addition to the presentation of scholarly papers, the program committee for the 1980 Annual Meeting of ASC is planning a number of tours at nationally known correctional facilities in the Bay Area, announced Malcolm Klein, Program Chair, and Barry Krisberg, Local Arrangements Committee Chair.

A tour through Alcatraz, a visit to an innovative program for women prisoners at the new Federal Correctional Institution in Pleasantville, and a program at the California State Correctional Facility at Vacaville are among the highlights being arranged.

The 32nd Annual Meeting of the Society will be held at the Sheraton-Palace Hotel in San Francisco, November 5-8, 1980. The theme of the program will be "Myths and Realities Guiding New Criminal Justice Trends."

The program will cover a broad range of topics, including theory, methods, and operations in criminology and criminal justice administration. Special attention will be given to recent developments, concerns, and innovations in the field, said Dan Glaser, ASC President.

Additionally, it is anticipated that various formats will be used for presentations, including didactic seminars, special presentations, colloquia, focused panels, roundtables, workshops, and debates.

It is the policy of the Society that a person may not present more than one paper at the Annual Meeting, although one may be a co-author of other papers. A person may also be a discussant, organizer, or chair of a session in addition to presenting a paper.

Persons interested in participating in the program should communicate their desires immediately, indicating possible role, title and abstract of the paper, or suggestions for the program. Contact Malcolm W. Klein, Department of Sociology, University of Southern California, Los Angeles, CA 90007.

ASC AUTHORS WANTED

At the 1980 Annual Meeting of ASC, a combined book exhibit will once again be a feature of the publishers' and exhibitors' display, announced Harve C. Horowitz, ASC Advertising/Exhibits Representative.

An important aspect of this exhibit is the display of books authored by members of ASC. These are books featured in addition to those displayed by publishers who maintain their own exhibits.

Members who have authored recent books are requested to inform Horowitz of their respective publications so that he can contact publishers to arrange for the book displays.

Send titles of books, publisher, and year of publication to Harve C. Horowitz, 10369 Currycomb Ct., Columbia, MD 21044. Phone (301) 997-0763.

INTERNATIONAL TOUR DATA

The Committee on International Criminal Justice of the Academy of Criminal Justice Sciences is compiling data on the variety of international tours and exchange programs which are currently planned or are ongoing.

A request has been made for information about such programs, including the place, date, cost, credits earned, tour leader, number of years in operation, and address to which applicants may correspond.

Additionally, information is desired concerning the existence of any student or faculty exchange programs.

To submit data or to obtain further information, contact Ronald Sopenoff, Criminal Justice, Brookdale Community College, Lincroft, NJ 07738.

Those persons interested in arranging special institutional, program, or agency visits while in San Francisco should contact Barry Krisberg, NCCD Research Center, 760 Market St., Room 447, San Francisco, CA 94102.

Assisting on the Program Committee are Harry E. Allen, Lois DeFleur, Theodore Ferdinand, Paul Lerman, Sarnoff Mednick, Richard Sparks, Gordon Waldo, and David Wexler.

STUDENT PAPER COMPETITIONS

1980 ASC GENE CARTE STUDENT PAPER COMPETITION

Any student currently enrolled on a full-time basis in an academic program at either the undergraduate or graduate level is eligible to enter this annual ASC student paper competition.

All entries must be empirical and/or theoretical papers related to criminology. Each must be 6,000 words or less, typewritten, double-spaced, on 8½ x 11 paper, using standard format for the organization of such papers and citations.

All entries must be received before June 1, 1980. Since the papers will be evaluated anonymously, author(s) name(s) should appear only on the title page. Three copies of each paper must be submitted.

Papers will be evaluated by a panel of distinguished criminologists based on such criteria as relevancy of the topic, quality of theoretical orientation, methodology, comprehensiveness and interpretation of data, quality of writing, and contribution to the field.

Prizes of $200, $150, and $100 will be awarded, respectively, to the first, second, and third prize winners.

Entries should be submitted to Joan McCord, Dept. of Psychology and Sociology, Drexel University, 32nd and Chestnut, Philadelphia, PA 19104. Awards will be presented at the 1980 Annual Meeting of ASC in San Francisco.

RUTGERS UNIVERSITY

The School of Criminal Justice of Rutgers University announces the 1980 competition for the best undergraduate student paper on critical issues in criminal justice.

Papers submitted must be typed, double-spaced, not more than 30 pages in length. Two copies of each should be in no later than July 1, 1980. Papers will be evaluated by the faculty at the School of Criminal Justice.

CALLS FOR PAPERS

ILLINOIS STATE UNIVERSITY

The Department of Corrections at Illinois State University is sponsoring an Annual Spring Conference on Corrections, which will be held in Normal, IL, May 1-2, 1980. The theme for the program is "Controversies in Corrections."

The Keynote Speaker will be Richard G. Singer, Professor of Law at the Benjamin Cardozo School of Law in New York. His topic is "Future Trends in Correctional Case Law."

Persons interested in presenting papers, chairing a session, serving as a discussant, or obtaining further information should contact William Hobbs.

PENNSYLVANIA STATE UNIVERSITY—DELAWARE COUNTY CAMPUS

The Delaware County Campus of the Pennsylvania State University announces a call for papers and panel proposals for the Seventh Conference of the Colloquium for Social Philosophy to be held in Philadelphia, May 2-3, 1980.

The theme of the conference is "Perspectives on Urban Crime."

For additional information, contact Stephen P. Lagoy, 25 Yearsley Mill Rd., Media, PA 19063.

INTERNATIONAL CRIMINOLOGY

The final decision has been made to hold the next United Nations Congress on the Prevention of Crime and the Treatment of Offenders, in Caracas, Venezuela, in late August 1980.

Pending further information on precise details, four major international criminology organizations are discussing the feasibility of holding a research and criminal policy meeting the week prior to the United Nations meeting.

In order to prepare for possible American and Canadian participation, a letter of intent or desire to participate, including tentative title and brief abstract, should be sent to Mike Rustigan, Program Chair, International Committee, ASC, Dept. of Administrative Justice, San Jose State University, San Jose, CA 94123.

ASSOCIATION FOR HUMANIST SOCIOLOGY

The Association for Humanist Sociology will hold its annual meeting at Stouffer's Louisville (KY) Inn, October 9-12, 1980. The theme of the conference is "The Political-Economic Implications of the Humanist Perspective in Sociology."

A call for papers has been issued for a session tentatively entitled, "Criminal Justice and Criminal Injustice." Papers should be concerned with criminology, criminal justice, sociology, and/or criminal law.

Send proposals to David O. Friedrichs, Dept. of Sociology/Criminal Justice, University of Scranton, Scranton, PA 18510.
IN MEMORIAM

SHELDON GLOECK

Sheldon Glocck, 83, professor-emeritus of Harvard Law School, one of those after whom the Society's Sellin-Gloeck Award is named, winner of ASC's Vollmer Award, died March 10 in Cambridge, MA.

With his wife, Eleanor Touroff Glocck, who died in 1972, Gloeck wrote several pioneering studies on the causes of juvenile delinquency. The two concluded that family factors, such as parental supervision or the lack of it, were more important in contributing to delinquent behavior than were general social conditions such as or poor neighborhoods.

The Gluecks also developed a set of "social prediction tables" which have been used to identify potential delinquents while still young children. Although frequently studied and often criticized, they persevered in their research and both continued to publish until their deaths.

The Gluecks' major work included Unravelling Juvenile Delinquency, which was published in 1950. It was based on a 10-year comparison of 500 delinquent boys with 500 nondelinquents.

Other important works included Crime and Correction, Criminal Careers in Retrospect, Preventing Crime, Predicting Delinquency and Crime, 1,000 Juvenile Delinquents, Juvenile Delinquents Grown Up, Probation and Criminal Justice, and The Problem of Delinquency.

Gloeck was an adviser to the Chief U.S. Prosecutor at the Nuremberg war crimes trials and later wrote extensively on this subject. He was born in Warsaw, Poland, on August 15, 1896 and moved with his family to the United States when he was 6, growing up in Milwaukee. He was graduated from George Washington University in 1920. He earned bachelor's and master's degrees in law from National University Law School in Washington and obtained a doctorate in 1924 from Harvard.

Gloeck first taught at Harvard's Department of Social Ethics, then moved to the Law School, with which he retained his affiliation until his death.

NCJRS DATA BASE FOR CORRECTIONS AVAILABLE

The National Institute of Corrections (NIC) has announced the expansion of its corrections capability at the National Criminal Justice Reference Service (NCJRS). Through an interagency agreement with the National Institute of Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice (NILECJ), NIC has added a team of experienced corrections personnel to the NCJRS staff to respond to personal inquiries about corrections.

For further information, contact NCJRS, Box 6000, Rockville, MD 20850 Phone (301) 862-2931.
National Institute of Justice Established

Legislation recently signed by the President establishes the National Institute of Justice, as authorized under the Justice System Improvement Act of 1979.

The new Institute assumes the functions of the National Institute of Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice as well as additional duties. For example, the Act authorizes research and development on aspects of the civil justice system that relate to the criminal justice system. It also specifies research on juvenile delinquency as it relates to the correlates of crime and the disposition of juvenile cases by the criminal justice system.

According to the Act, the new Institute is to "give primary emphasis" to state and local justice systems. In addition to its research and evaluation efforts, the Institute will continue its work in program development, testing and demonstrating criminal (and now civil) justice programs. It will also maintain a balance of basic and applied research—and sponsor both short- and long-term studies, as it has in the past.

The Institute's director will be appointed by the President and approved by the Senate. According to the Act, the Director must have experience in justice research and will have final authority over all grants, cooperative agreements, and contracts awarded by the National Institute of Justice. The statute also authorizes a 21-member advisory board to be appointed by the President.

The Board is empowered to: (1) recommend the policies and priorities of the Institute; (2) create, where necessary, formal peer review procedure over selected categories of grants, cooperative agreements, and contracts; (3) recommend to the President at least three candidates for Institute director in the event of a vacancy; and (4) undertake additional related tasks as the Board deems necessary.

The Act authorizes the Institute to investigate specific topics including correlates of crime and juvenile delinquency, parental kidnapping, victim participation in the criminal justice process, and corrections facilities and programs.

In addition, the Institute is empowered to devote resources toward improving police and minority relations, developing alternatives to judicial resolution of disputes, and investigating the "expeditious, efficient, and fair disposition of criminal and juvenile delinquency cases."

Another part of the Institute's legislation addresses white-collar crime and public corruption. It authorizes the Institute to develop a national strategy, enlisting the cooperation of state and local governments and expanding their capabilities to prevent and combat these crimes.

In addition to the National Institute of Justice (NIJ), the Act establishes the Bureau of Justice Statistics (BJS); the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA); and the Office of Justice Assistance, Research and Statistics (OJARS), all under the authority of the Attorney General.

The directors of NIJ, BJS, and LEAA have final authority over grants or contracts awarded by their units. OJARS coordinates the activities of the other three units.

Institute's Visiting Fellowship Program

Three other scholars were recently awarded Visiting Fellowships for 1979-1980. They are:

Samuel Krislov, Professor and Chairman of the Political Science Department and Adjunct Professor of Law at the University of Minnesota.

Samuel L. Myers, Jr., Assistant Professor of Economics at the University of Texas, Austin.

Thomas J. Pavlak, Associate Professor of Public and International Affairs at the University of Pittsburgh.

Research Proposals Sought

The National Institute of Justice recently published the following solicitations:

—Interdisciplinary Research on the Causes of Crime and Delinquency: An open solicitation that provides an opportunity for researchers to pose and structure their own research questions and contribute to a better understanding of crime causation and prevention.

—Center for the Study of Race, Crime and Social Policy: Proposals are invited for an initial 18-month grant or cooperative agreement to create the Center, which is expected to receive support for up to five years.

The deadline for submission of proposals for both solicitations is May 1, 1980. Potential applicants should write for a copy of the solicitation. Address requests to Program Solicitations, National Criminal Justice Reference Service, Box 6000, Rockville, MD 20850.

Due to the increased expenses incurred in the processing of manuscripts, effective November 1, 1979, Criminology has instituted a processing fee of $10.00 for all papers to be reviewed and refereed. Student members of ASC are exempt. Checks should accompany all manuscripts and be made payable to ASC.
SPECIAL PROGRAMS

A SUMMER SEMINAR ON HISTORICAL AND COMPARATIVE CRIMINOLOGY IN ITALY

The School of Criminal Justice, State University of New York at Albany and the United Nations Social Defense Research Institute will co-sponsor a summer program on historical and comparative criminology in Rome, Italy, June 13-29, 1980.

The program, under the direction of Graeme Newman, will focus on criminal punishment and historical criminology in Italy and the contemporary Italian criminal justice system, and will include guest lectures from Italian and UN criminal justice specialists.

Two credits of study are available, and the program is open to undergraduate and graduate students, faculty, and criminal justice practitioners.

The seminar price of $1,249 covers the package, exclusive of institutional tuition, lunches, passports, and personal items.

For further information, contact Graeme Newman, School of Criminal Justice, State University of New York, 135 Western Ave., Albany, NY 12222.

CONTEMPORARY ISSUES IN CRIMINAL JUSTICE

The Graduate School of Criminal Justice and the Criminal Justice Research Center at the State University of New York—Albany will sponsor a special symposium, “Abolish Parole?” on April 11, 1980 at SUNY-Albany.

Moderated by Richard Hongisto, Consultant to the Governor’s Staff on Criminal Justice Issues in New York, the program will also include Donald Newman, Dean of the Graduate School of Criminal Justice; David Rudenstein, Cardozo Law School; Edward R. Hammock, New York State Division of Parole; Brian Forst, Research Institute for Law and Social Research; and Vincent O’Leary, President, SUNY-Albany.

SIXTH UNITED NATIONS CONGRESS ON THE PREVENTION OF CRIME AND THE TREATMENT OF OFFENDERS

The Sixth UN Congress concerned with crime prevention and criminal justice will be held in August-September 1980 in Caracas, Venezuela.

Government delegates from all member states of the UN and other representatives, totaling well over 1,000 participants, are expected to attend the two-week Congress, which begins August 25th.

The theme of the Congress is “Crime Prevention and the Quality of Life.” Five major topics have been chosen for discussion:

—Juvenile justice: before and after the onset of delinquency.
—Crime and the abuse of power: offenses and offenders beyond the reach of law?
—Deinstitutionalization of corrections and its implications for residual prisoners.
—United Nations norms and guidelines in criminal justice: from standard-setting to implementation.

LEGISLATION

by Peggy A. Frandsen
Special Assistant to the Director, Federal Bureau of Prisons

The following is a list of ongoing legislation:

Criminal Code Reform: The revision and codification of the federal criminal laws continues mark-up in the House Judiciary Subcommittee (HR 6233). The Senate Judiciary Committee approved S. 1722 with amendments. The ABA supports this bill, with some exceptions.

Grand Jury Reform: This would provide for comprehensive reform of the Grand Jury System. No bills have yet been introduced in the House or Senate.

LEAA Restructuring: S. 241 authorizes and streamlines LEAA funding and establishes a National Institute of Justice within the Department of Justice as well as a Bureau of Justice Statistics. This legislation was signed by the President last December (PL 96-157).

Resolution of Minor Disputes: S. 423 provides federal funds to states to create or improve dispute resolution mechanisms. The House passed this bill with amendments in December and the Senate passed it with amendments last April. The President signed the legislation in February 1980.

Rights of the Institutionalized: HR 1 and S. 10 permit the attorney general to bring suit on behalf of persons confined in state institutions, including prisons. The House passed this bill last May and the Senate Judiciary Committee approved it and passed it in February 1980. It requires exhaustion in prisoners' civil rights suits.

Victims of Crime: HR 4257 and S. 190 provide grants to states for payment of compensation to victims of certain crimes. The House Judiciary Committee approved it with amendments in June. The bill is pending in the Senate Judiciary Subcommittee.

Additional Legislation: The new Speedy Trial Act Amendments were passed in August, and Magistrates' jurisdiction has been broadened.

SPECIAL PROGRAMS . . . (Continued from p. 8)

Special attention will be given to the problem of capital punishment. Additionally, the Congress will examine the impact of the conclusions and recommendations of the 1975 Geneva Congress.

While the United Nations Congress is primarily an intergovernmental program, the Secretary-General has the right to invite experts in the field in their individual capacities as observers, and at their own expense. However, there is no provision for the presentation of scholarly papers, since all debates will focus on the agenda items as presented by the Secretariat.

For further information, contact Gerhard O.W. Mueller, Executive Secretary, Sixth UN Congress of the Prevention of Crime and the Treatment of Offenders, United Nations—DC 1018, 1 United Nations Plaza, New York, NY 10017.
POSSESSIONS—VACANCIES—OPPORTUNITIES

THE CRIMINOLOGIST will regularly feature in these columns position vacancies available in organizations and universities, as well as positions sought by members of the Society.

There will be no charge for placing such announcements. For those agencies or persons not wishing to have their identities known, arrangements can be made for a box number and all appropriate inquiries will be forwarded accordingly.

The Professional Employment Exchange will be a regular feature at each Annual Meeting. Prospective employers and employees should register with the Society no later than three weeks prior to the Annual Meeting of the Society.
