HIRSCHI AND WARREN ELECTED OFFICERS OF ASC

Travis Hirschi, University of Arizona, former Vice President of ASC, has been elected President-Elect of ASC, announced Joseph Scott, Executive Secretary. Marquerite Q. Warren, School of Criminal Justice, State University of New York, Albany, has been elected Vice President-Elect.

They assumed offices in these positions at the first board meeting chaired by Harry E. Allen in Washington, D.C. in November. They will succeed to the presidency and vice-presidency, respectively, at the Annual Meeting of the Society in November, 1982.

Elected as Executive Counselors are Malcolm W. Klein, Department of Sociology, University of Southern California, and Harold E. Pepinsky, Department of Forensic Studies, Indiana University. Klein and Pepinsky began their three-year terms on the board in November.

PLANS UNDERWAY FOR 1982 ASC ANNUAL PROGRAM

Harry E. Allen, ASC President, and Israel Barak-Glantz, Program Chair, jointly have announced initial plans for the 1982 Annual Program for the Society, which is scheduled for November 4-6 at the Sheraton Centre, Toronto, Ontario, Canada.

The theme for the meeting will be “Crime and Criminology in the Americas,” and will continue the thrust of the Society’s interest in criminological and criminal justice concerns in North, Central, and South America.

In anticipation of well over 100 panels, workshops, roundtables, and seminars, and approximately 600 participants, Barak-Glantz is announcing a call for papers at this time. He asks that anyone with ideas about the program, those wishing to submit abstracts for papers, and those who wish to organize panels should communicate with him as soon as possible.

The complete program committee has not been formed yet and a
CLASSIFICATION, PREDICTION, METHODOLOGY DEVELOPMENT

Broadly speaking, this program is intended to provide support for studies concerned with our ability to classify objectively and unambiguously, to interpret with clarity the theoretical and operational significances of classification results and to understand with greater accuracy and precision the statistical properties inherent in classification based attempts at prediction of future behaviors. In addition to the classification prediction problem, the National Institute has an interest in sponsoring research generally aimed at improving the precision and accuracy of measures in crime and criminal justice studies, promoting economy and efficiency in study designs, and enhancing the significance and cogency of study conclusions. Researchers are therefore invited to submit proposals for projects intended to develop advances in techniques of measurement and inference or to test other methodological innovations applicable to criminal justice research and evaluation.

All proposals must clearly specify the methodological problem being addressed and the ways in which the authors see the project providing an advance in the current state of the art of criminal justice research and evaluation.

Eight copies of fully executed proposals should be sent to: Classification, Prediction, and Methodology Program, Office of Research and Evaluation Methods, National Institute of Justice, 633 Indiana Ave., NW, Washington, DC 20531.

Future information or a copy of the solicitation can be obtained by contacting Richard Laymon 202/724-8265.

First cycle must be postmarked no later than December 18, 1981, and for the second cycle no later than April 30, 1982.

NOTICE—NOTICE—NOTICE

Full details about the 1981 ASC Annual Meeting will be given in the January issue of THE CRIMINOLOGIST. Reports on the Executive Board meetings, employment exchange, and the annual business meeting will also be published.

— The Editor
The ASC annually publishes the Research Progress Series in collaboration with Sage Publications, Inc. The papers included are selected from among those presented at the Annual Meeting, which was held this year in November in Washington, DC.

A distinguished group of editors reviews the manuscripts and makes selections for approximately four volumes, each devoted to a particular issue or theme. Each volume also includes a substantive introduction by the editor that places the contributions into the context of the issue or theme.

The Series stands as a major dissemination vehicle for scholarly research and theory in criminology and criminal justice administration.

Participants at the 1981 Annual Meeting are encouraged to consider the Series as the source of publication for their papers. To be eligible for consideration, the papers cannot have been published previously or elsewhere.

In order to receive consideration for such publication, participants should send one copy of the paper, no later than January 1, 1982, to:

Michael Gottfredson,
Series Editor
Department of Sociology
Lincoln Hall
University of Illinois
702 South Wright St.
Urbana, IL 61801

Authors will be notified of paper acceptance by February 15, 1982.

Violent Offenders

The Research and Development Program for the Serious Violent Juvenile Offender is a two-part program developed by OJJDP to study intervention and prevention models in caring for the Violent Juvenile Offender.

The National Institute for Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention has primary responsibility for the development of the research design and conduct of the evaluation through its grantee, the URSA Institute.

The goals of the Violent Juvenile Offender Research and Development Program Part I: Intervention are: to test an intervention model for the treatment and reintegration of violent juvenile offenders that is designed to reduce violent crimes committed by youths in the program.

Also, to assess strategies for increasing the capacity of the juvenile justice system to handle violent juvenile offenders fairly, efficiently, and effectively; and to build knowledge about violent juvenile crime and violent youth to aid in the design of future programs aimed at reducing violent juvenile crime. Five test sites have been selected to implement this model.

Goals for Part II: Prevention are: to test promising strategies for the prevention of violent juvenile crime by indigenous neighborhood organizations from communities or neighborhoods with high rates of violent juvenile crime; to increase knowledge and information of factors associated with violent juvenile crime.

Also, to increase concentration of resources and services in target areas to prevent violent juvenile delinquency; and to reduce the rates of violent juvenile crime in the areas and neighborhoods served by the prevention programs.

A request for proposals for Part II will be issued shortly.

Juvenile Justice Issues

The NJJDP provided support to the Academy for Contemporary Problems to conduct national studies of four major juvenile justice issues: (1) out-of-state placement of children; (2) youth in adult courts; (3) grants in aid of local delinquency prevention and control services; and (4) services to children in juvenile court.

Two of the seven reports dealing with major issues in the field of juvenile justice have been completed.

Major Issues in Juvenile Justice Information and Training: Readings in Public Policy includes over 25 articles from leading scholars on topics related to the interstate placement of children, the processing of youth in adult courts, and judicial-executive controversy surrounding the delivery of services to children in juvenile courts.

Services to Children in Juvenile Courts: The Judicial-Executive Controversy is a study of public policy issues associated with the organization and delivery of juvenile court services.

The study examines the constitutionality of judicially operated services for children in juvenile courts; the legal bases for such delivery; a national overview of how services are now organized and delivered; and an in-depth

ASC TO AUTOMATE MEMBERSHIP RECORDS

At a recent meeting of the Executive Board, Charles H. McCaghry, Treasurer, made the following recommendations on behalf of the Finance Committee:

1. The Executive Board should make arrangements for an annual audit of ASC accounts.
2. The Administrative Assistant should explore various options regarding retirement plans for herself and submit a report and recommendations to the Board at the November meeting.
3. The ASC Executive Offices should continue in its plans to automate membership records and word processing capabilities.

With regard to ADP, the Executive Board, at its March 1981 meeting, gave approval for the purchase of a Digital WT/78 word processor and letter quality printer.

As a consequence, the offices are now able to develop automated membership mailing lists in zip code order, store and retrieve information for preparation of a membership directory; and prepare annual meeting programs, printing of the newsletter, and prepare other printed materials for distribution to the membership.

At its November meeting, the Board reviewed developments in these areas, reports of which will be published in the January issue of THE CRIMINOLOGIST.

SIMON DINITZ RECEIVES THREE HONORS

Simon Dinitz, past president of ASC, has recently received several significant honors. He was named one of the five best professors in America by the Council for the Advancement and Support of Education (CASE Award).

He was also elected president of the North Central Sociological Association for 1982-83.

The book contains original scholarly essays by 27 contributors from three different continents. These contributors represent some of Dinitz’s former students and close research collaborators.

assessment of the delivery of these services in six selected States.

Five additional volumes will report on the out-of-the-state placement of children, youth in adult courts, and grants-in-aid of local delinquency prevention and control services. These reports will be released throughout 1981 and will include data collected from courts, social services agencies, and local government in every county of the United States.

ASC MEMBERS: HAVE YOU PAID YOUR DUES?
The Attorney General's Task Force On Violent Crime

The Violent Crime Task Force completed its deliberations on schedule and issued its final report on August 17 setting out 64 recommendations for administrative and legislative measures which it believes should be taken to control violent crime.

Among the various legislative recommendations of the Task Force are proposals for modification of the Exclusionary Rule; sentencing reform; expanded training for state and local law enforcement personnel, prosecutors and correctional officials; mandatory sentences for use of a firearm in the commission of a federal felony; tightening of arson laws; bail reform; tax disclosure amendments; and handgun controls including a mandatory waiting period and records check in connection with handgun purchases.

The Task Force also recommended a $2 billion federal grant program for construction of state correctional facilities, but it remains to be seen how this recommendation will be received in view of the current emphasis on budget reductions.

It is anticipated that all of these recommendations will be the subject of significant review and debate during the months ahead.

Federal Criminal Code Revision

Once again, a Federal Criminal Code Reform bill has been introduced in the Senate with strong bi-partisan support. This new bill, S. 1630, is expected to receive the vigorous endorsement of the Reagan Administration.

Patterned on S. 1722 of the 96th Congress, the new bill is viewed as somewhat stronger from a law enforcement standpoint, with increased terms of imprisonment and other variations from the 1979 version.

Senate sponsors include Senators Thurmond, Biden, Hatch, Kennedy, Denton, DeConcini, Dole, East, Laxalt, Simpson, and Specter. Given this bi-partisan backing and the increased Administration interest in Criminal Code Reform, there is reason for optimism that the 97th Congress will act favorably on comprehensive revision of the Federal Criminal Code.

Ball

Hearings focusing on pretrial detention have been held on both sides of the Congress in the last few months. In the House, Representative Kastenmeier, the Chairman of the Subcommittee on Courts, Civil Liberties, and the Administration of Justice, who has traditionally been perceived as an opponent of pretrial detention, has held a series of hearings on bail reform.

For the most part, the testimony at the hearings has centered on the issue of pretrial detention. While several bail reform bills have been introduced in the House this year, no single bill has yet emerged as the central vehicle for consideration by the Subcommittee.

The recent Senate bail hearings before Senator Hatch’s Subcommittee on the Constitution have concentrated on S. 1554, a bill whose primary sponsors are Senators Thurmond and Kennedy and which would provide for pretrial detention but would abolish money bond.

S. 1554 has also served as the model for the bail provisions of the new criminal code revision bill, S. 1630. S. 1554’s abolition of money bond appears to be an important element in obtaining liberal support for the bill, but its acceptance by more conservative members is questionable.

In the House, Representative Sawyer has introduced H.R. 4362, which essentially adopts all the provisions of S. 1554 except its deletion of the option of money bond.

There is strong sentiment in both the House and Senate to amend current federal bail laws to permit consideration of dangerousness in the pretrial release decision. If differences in approach to this issue can be worked out, passage of bail reform legislation including some form of pretrial detention may occur in this Congress.

Posse Comitatus and Tax Disclosure Follow-Up

Legislation to expand military support for civilian law enforcement efforts is still pending before a Conference Committee as of this writing. Indications are that the Congress will authorize military authorities to provide expanded assistance to law enforcement, particularly in the area of surveillance of air and sea traffic transporting illegal drugs into the United States.

At present, the Posse Comitatus Act (18 U.S.C. 1385) severely restricts the extent to which military radar and related communications equipment can be used to assist in civilian law enforcement.

Despite the failure of the Senate proposal to include, in the tax cut bill, a provision to facilitate law enforcement access to tax information for use in connection with non-tax criminal investigations and prosecutions, there is still strong support for this concept in the Senate.

Moreover, the House has made a commitment to hold hearings on the issue this Fall. It is anticipated that the Reagon Administration will soon submit its own tax disclosure amendments package to the Congress for consideration. Some fine-tuning of the 1976 tax disclosure restrictions is anticipated during the 97th Congress.

Victim Compensation

Twenty-seven states have programs to compensate victims of crime and proposals for a federal program, or for federal assistance to state programs, have circulated since the 92nd Congress.

The new Federal Criminal Code Revision, S. 1630, proposes a federal victim compensation program funded by the proceeds of criminal fines and civil actions against persons convicted of crime.

Other bills pending before the 97th Congress include H.R. 2855 to provide grants to qualifying state victim compensation programs equal to 50 percent of the cost of compensating victims of state crimes and 100 percent of the cost of compensating victims of federal crimes.

An identical bill, S. 1046, has been introduced in the Senate. Also pending are H.R. 2284 and H.R. 2776. At this time, the approach proposed in S. 1630 seems to have the best prospect for enactment.
POSITIONS—VACANCIES—OPPORTUNITIES

The CRIMINOLOGIST will regularly feature in these columns position vacancies available in organizations and universities, as well as positions sought by members of the Society.

There will be no charge for placing such announcements. For those agencies or persons not wishing to have their identities known, arrangements can be made for a box number and all appropriate inquiries will be forwarded accordingly.

It is the policy of ASC to publish free of charge position vacancy announcements only from those institutions or agencies which subscribe to equal educational and employment opportunities and those which encourage women and minorities to apply.

The Professional Employment Exchange will be a regular feature at each Annual Meeting. Prospective employers and employees should register with the Society no later than three weeks prior to the Annual Meeting of the Society. Appropriate forms may be obtained by writing to the ASC offices in Columbus, Ohio.

MEMBERSHIP VOTES CHANGE IN ASC CONSTITUTION

During the recent balloting by the membership, the ASC constitution overwhelmingly was changed regarding membership in the Society.

In the past, the constitution required that all persons wishing to join ASC had to submit a membership application form and then be approved by a majority of members of the board.

Henceforth, this requirement has been deleted and the payment of dues, along with an application form, will be the only requirements for affiliation.
CALLS FOR PAPERS

Eastern Sociological Society
Papers are being solicited on any topic of sociological interest for the 53rd Annual Meeting, to be held in Philadelphia, March 19-21, 1982.
For purposes of review, submit three copies of the paper, with name and affiliation on a detachable title page, and a 250-word abstract. Papers should not exceed 15 pages.
Send materials to Russell Schutt or Gerald Garrett, Dept. of Sociology, University of Massachusetts, Harbor Campus, Boston, MA 02125.

American Journal of Police
This is a new refereed journal, which is soliciting manuscripts of a theoretical and empirical nature related to all aspects of policing. The first issue was published in October, 1981.
For information concerning manuscript submissions, contact Stephen Brown, Editor, AJP, Dept. of Criminal Justice, East Tennessee State University, Johnson City, TN 37614.
Subscription rates are $17 individual and $22 library or institutional. To order, contact Pilgrimage, Inc., Rt. 11, Box 553, Jonesboro, TN 37659.

AAAS ANNUAL MEETING
SET FOR WASHINGTON, DC

Crime control, genetics, earth science, arms control, evolution, biomedicine, anthropology, and science literacy will be among the fields of inquiry at the 148th national meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science (AAAS), January 3-8, 1982, in Washington, DC.

The meeting will be held at the Washington Hilton and Capital Hilton Hotels. Scientists, engineers, behavior and social scientists, science policymakers, educators, and others interested in science will attend.

"Building Knowledge and Understanding—Enduring Assets of Society" will be the theme of the meeting, where over 160 symposia will feature recent advances in science, medicine, and technology, as well as their applications and significance.

Among the symposia will be those on solar flares; crime control; mathematical ability of men vs. women; air pollution across national borders; commercial genetic engineering; weather on other planets; mechanisms of evolutionary change; support for scientific research in the 80's; torture and medical ethics; and Japanese vs. US productivity.

Nine public lectures dealing with popular aspects of science and the AAAS Science Film Festival, featuring some 50 of the best recent science films, will be included in the program.

The AAAS Annual Meeting Exhibit, displaying new scientific instruments and publications, will run from January 4-7, at the Washington Hilton Hotel.

The AAAS Annual Meeting will be fully accessible to disabled individuals. A "Handicapped Resource Center" will be operated throughout the meeting.

Further information about the meeting is available from the AAAS Meetings Office, 1776 Massachusetts Avenue, NW, Washington, DC 20036.

The American Association for the Advancement of Science, formed in 1848, is the leading general scientific organization in the United States. It currently has some 140,000 individual members and approximately 280 affiliated scientific and engineering societies and academies of science.
