Since 1993, I have served as an advisor to ASC presidents Del Elliott, Jerry Skolnick, Freda Adler, Charles Wellford, Jim Short, and Marge Zahn and their respective boards concerning the selection of ASC annual meeting locations, including recommendations of annual meetings in San Diego (1997); Washington (1998); Toronto (1999); San Francisco (2000); Atlanta (2001); Chicago (2002); Denver (2003); and Nashville (2004). When I assumed this role, the Society was operating on a short-term (3-4 year) timetable for final selection of annual meeting sites. We have since moved to a 7-year timetable to insure the availability of sufficient meeting space and sleeping rooms for our ever-growing annual meeting requirements in the face of intense national competition for available space at large convention hotels (hotels often have no space available at our preferred meeting time, even though we are inquiring seven years in advance!). During the past five years, the hotel industry and the marketplace have undergone significant changes, and since these changes affect site selection and the room rates charged to our members, it seemed appropriate for me to summarize some of the factors that affect site selection, room rates, and other issues related to our annual meetings. These issues include: (1) the site selection process and (2) factors taken into account in selecting a meeting location, including sleeping room rates and the total cost for ASC members to attend our meetings.

With respect to the site selection process, ASC tries to adhere to a three-year regional (East, Central, West) rotation, as reflected in the cities cited above. Once the board has specified the region (and, sometimes, specific cities) for a particular annual meeting, I notify our convention planning consultant at Conferon (a firm that represents numerous professional organizations such as ours) and he contacts potential hotels, notifying them of our meeting requirements and soliciting initial “bids” (non-negotiated room rates and space commitments) for our consideration. Our space requirements are quite substantial these days, and relatively few hotels can meet our needs. For example, at this year’s meeting we had more than 2200 registrants and nearly 450 sessions. We require 1200 sleeping rooms on our peak night; at least 35 simultaneous breakout rooms of reasonable size; space for large plenary sessions; at least 20,000 square feet of space for our book exhibit; and space for social receptions (there were more than 30 such receptions in San Diego), committee meetings, employment exchange, board meetings, registration, ASC division functions, numerous focus group/working group functions, journal editorial board meetings, the Minority Fellowship dance, etc. We also require a large amount of audio-visual equipment, usually more than the hotel has in stock, which requires them to go outside and sub-lease that equipment and pass that cost on to us.

Once we receive the hotels’ responses, we evaluate those and select finalists for on-site visits and final negotiations. Ultimately, I take to the ASC board a report summarizing our options and making a recommendation for the board’s consideration. The final decision to award a contract is reached via a formal vote of the board.

Three major factors must be considered in selecting a meeting site. One is location. We specify the region in which we wish to meet and consider the accessibility of each city by automobile and by air (Is it an airline “hub” or a more expensive city to reach, requiring multiple flights?). This affects both access and cost, since some cities are more expensive to reach than others. This must be factored into the TOTAL cost of attending the meeting. Thus, one might have to consider such tradeoffs as a less expensive room rate vs. a more expensive airplane ticket to get there.

A second factor is the space that we need (both sleeping rooms and meeting space). There are only two ways to obtain such substantial space for a national meeting: (1) book nearly all of the rooms in a very large hotel, thus obtaining all of its meeting space without additional charge or (2) utilize a convention center, with surrounding hotels providing the sleeping rooms. Marvin E. Wolfgang, Professor of Criminology and of Law, was awarded on 10 October 1997 the Cesare Beccaria Gold Medal by the German Criminological Society in Halle, Germany. Beccaria’s essay Of Crimes and Punishments, first published in Italian in 1764, was soon translated into the French, with a Foreword by Voltaire, and into English. Professor Wolfgang has declared Beccaria’s essay the most significant contribution to Western criminal law. It influenced the codification of law throughout Europe and Russia, and had an especial influence on our Bill of Rights because of Thomas Jefferson’s and Benjamin Franklin’s reading of the essay. Professor Wolfgang wrote the Introduction to this new (1996) publication in English of Beccaria’s essay; former Governor Mario Cuomo wrote the Foreword.

The Dinitz Fund at Ohio State University

The Ohio State University has established The Simon and Mildred H. Dinitz Fund in Criminology in honor of our mentor, former ASC president and OSU professor emeritus Simon Dinitz and his late wife. Over the past 46 years, many ASC members have been, and continue to be, influenced by Sy Dinitz’s scholarly contributions and/or by his teaching, mentoring, and collegiality. Sy’s many contributions to ASC helped build the Society, and he is widely admired and respected by criminologists and other social and behavioral scientists throughout the world. We invite you to contribute whatever amount you think appropriate to The Dinitz Fund, which will help support scholarly research and teaching in criminology at Ohio State. Contributions may be in the form of either checks or pledges (the latter must be a minimum of $500, payable over a period up to 5 years). Checks or pledges should be made payable to Ohio State University - Dinitz Fund (OSU Development Account # 005948) and sent to: The Dinitz Fund, c/o Prof. C. Ronald Huff, Ohio State University, 1775 College Road, Columbus, OH 43210-1309. We appreciate your consideration of this request.

a smaller organization, option #1 above posed no significant problem. Today it does, because only very large hotels can accommodate our requirements, and those hotels tend to charge higher room rates than do smaller hotels with little or no meeting space and small staffs. So, while an ASC member, acting as an individual, might be able to stay in a less expensive hotel for, say, $50 a night, we cannot hold our meetings in such hotels because they cannot even begin to accommodate our space needs. Option #2 (convention center with surrounding hotels) generally means paying rental fees for the use of a convention center (costs that must ultimately be passed along to members in some form; e.g., higher dues, higher meeting registration fees or both) and having our members stay in multiple hotels, making it somewhat more difficult for them to see each other, get to sessions easily, etc. ASC (and ACJS, given its decision to use the Albuquerque convention center in 1998) has now reached a point where we must consider both options. We have simply outgrown most of the large meeting hotels, so that it will be necessary to utilize either (1) multiple hotels and all of their meeting spaces or (2) a convention center/hotels combination. While we might wish fondly for the return of an earlier era of more intimate meetings with all of us staying under one roof and paying low room rates, that ideal is no longer attainable.

The third major factor is the rates for sleeping rooms. I recognize that this is a sensitive issue, given the limited (or nonexistent) travel budgets and the inadequate salaries that constrain many ASC members and our students. For that reason, the ASC board and I always insist on obtaining good value for our members' dollars (including VERY inexpensive rates for those sharing rooms, to accommodate the most price-sensitive members), and any comparison of our rates with those paid by other large organizations. Meeting at the same time of year in the same cities will document our success in that effort. In evaluating our rates, however, members should keep several important points in mind:

1. The hotel industry has undergone substantial change in recent years. Occupancy rates, which were relatively low for many years are now extremely high. Also, rather than seeing new hotel construction, recent years have witnessed mergers and acquisitions. These result in fewer companies controlling the same number of hotel rooms, while at the same time demand for meeting space is at an all-time high nationally. These supply/demand curves translate to significantly higher room rates that are increasing much faster than the overall CPI. For example, in evaluating sites for our 2004 meeting, we considered Orlando/Disney World (initial bid: $175 single/$195 double); Miami ($175 single, $185 double; $100 charge for each meeting room each day; $1.50 per net square foot exhibit rental; and inadequate meeting space); New Orleans ($169 single, $189 double; some space limitations); Philadelphia ($184 single, $204 double); Nashville/Opryland ($145 single, $165 double); and downtown Nashville (free use of convention center as a major incentive; $119 single, $129 double in three hotels). Acting upon my recommendation and demonstrating its commitment to value and access for our members, the board selected downtown Nashville, contingent upon final negotiations aimed at reducing the room rates further. This selection will represent significant value for our members, when the room rates and the free use of the convention center and hotel meeting space (more than 45 breakout rooms, allowing for further growth if needed) are combined with the easy and relatively inexpensive access via either automobile or air (Nashville is a hub city with many competing airlines).

2. ASC has a very low registration fee and a very low dues structure, compared with many other national organizations. It is not uncommon for organizations to charge $250 - $350 for annual meeting registrations, top of $100 or more in annual dues. This must be taken into account when considering the TOTAL cost of attending the annual meeting.

3. Comparison of sleeping room rates must be based on meetings occurring at the same time of year at the same or comparable hotels with comparable meeting space in the same city. Many of our members (including me) belong to both ASC and ACJS, for example, and may wish to compare room rates. However, this is very difficult because the two organizations meet at different times of the year, almost always in different cities. According to a recent newsletter, ACJS is also experiencing difficulties in meeting its space requirements while maintaining a reasonable rate for sleeping rooms.

Next year’s ASC meeting in Washington, D.C., will take place at a beautiful Sheraton Hotel located near the National Zoo and on a Metro stop. ASC members should expect to pay higher rates for sleeping rooms next year, just as ASA members did recently in New York City. These rates reflect the factors discussed above and the intense space competition in large eastern cities. However, the total cost of attending the meeting will also benefit from competitive airfares to a large hub city and inexpensive local transportation. Also, members who are concerned about the price of a single room may wish to consider sharing a room. In San Diego, someone concerned about paying $120 for a room could have had a roommate @ $60 each, or $43 each for a triple, or $35 each for a quad. This option combines reduced cost with the convenience of staying “on site” at the convention headquarters. One final request for the good of the Society: Please decide as early as possible where you wish to stay during our annual meetings and then reserve and hold a room at the convention hotel(s) only if you intend to use it. Last-minute cancellations (many apparently occurred in San Diego) place ASC at risk of substantial penalties if we do not meet our “room block” commitments at the hotels with whom we have contracted. We guarantee a large block of rooms (currently 1200 on our peak night, as previously noted) for your convenience, so your assistance in this matter is most appreciated and will help keep down the cost of your dues and your annual meeting registration fee, since any penalties paid by ASC must ultimately be paid by all of us in some form. Thanks for your help!

Generating Discussion in Large Criminology and Criminal Justice Courses: A Note on Notecards

Many criminology and criminal justice instructors routinely find themselves teaching classes of 100 or more students. It is widely assumed that it is difficult or impossible to generate student discussion in such large classes. But like much taken for granted knowledge, this assumption is unfounded. Through trial and error, I have discovered a simple, inexpensive and remarkably effective way to promote active student participation in large lecture classes.

On the first day of class, I distribute 3” X 5” notecards, instructing students to put their name on the card and return it to me. I begin each subsequent class period by shuffling these cards and asking one of the students to cut the deck. I carry the deck with me during my lecture, asking questions and, in the absence of volunteers, drawing cards randomly to determine who will answer them. After each answer, I replace the card in the middle of the deck. I reshuffle the cards a couple of times during my lecture – more if I have used them a lot, less if I have not.

It would be difficult to overstate how successful this technique has been in creating a lively classroom atmosphere. Although I keep the cards in hand throughout the course, I seldom have occasion to use them after the first 2 or 3 weeks. By that time, many hands go up nearly every time I ask a question and, more often than not, the answer given provokes additional comment and debate among students.

Why does this simple technique work so well? There appear to be several reasons. First, it breaks down student anonymity and the consequent diffusion of responsibility that characterizes most large lecture classes. There are no free riders in my courses. Students know that each of them stands an equal chance of being called on to answer a given question and this helps to keep them involved in the material. Second, the use of randomly drawn cards to choose students rules out the need to rely on subjective selection criteria, thereby avoiding the impression that a particular student has unfairly been singled out for questioning.

A third reason for the effectiveness of this technique is that it strongly encourages regular attendance, a prerequisite for a stimulating classroom atmosphere. In the typical large lecture class, students can pretty well be assured that their absence will go unnoticed. In my courses, however, they can have no such assurance; there is always the possibility that the luck of the draw will result in public exposure. Certainly this happens from time to time. I attempt to deal with such absences humorously, subtly reinforcing the virtues of diligent attendance without duly embarrassing the student concerned who, after all, may have a good reason for not being in class.

When all is said and done, probably the most important reason for the success of the notecard technique is that it is fun for the students. I make a great show of shuffling the cards, choosing a student to cut the deck, and drawing names. Students quickly join into the spirit of the exercise.

None of this is rocket science. However, discovery of this notecard technique truly revolutionized my own teaching and raised my student evaluations substantially. Moreover, several of my department colleagues recently have adopted the technique in their large lecture classes with similar results.

Richard Wright is Professor in the Department of Criminology and Criminal Justice at the University of Missouri-St. Louis. He has a longstanding research interest in the study of active offenders in real life settings and circumstances. His most recent book, co-authored with Scott Decker, is Armed Robbers in Action: Stickups and Street Culture (Northeastern University Press: October, 1997).
Situational Crime Prevention: Successful Case Studies, 2nd Edition
by Ronald Clarke

IN A FEW WORDS: Professor Herman Goldstein said of the first edition "...a superb collection of case studies that goes to the heart of what policing is all about." This popular and groundbreaking book has been substantially revised and expanded. The extensively revised introduction will feature: A revised and extended classification of 16 techniques of situational crime prevention; an expanded discussion of displacement and diffusion of benefits; a discussion of the appropriateness of the evaluative designs employed in the case studies; a discussion of why situational crime prevention projects may fail; fuller consideration of ethical problems.

Child Maltreatment: A Primer in History, Public Policy and Research—2nd edition by Clifford K. Dorne

Revised edition of Crimes against Children. Foreword by Graeme Newman

IN A FEW WORDS: Substantially revised and extended edition of the widely regarded classic on child abuse. "No book comes closer to Dorne's ability to cast child maltreatment into the criminal justice framework, while simultaneously keeping the medical and welfare approaches clearly in view..." from the Foreword.

RECOMMENDED: Excellent text for undergraduate or graduate courses in child abuse, social control, social deviance, child protection, juvenile justice, family studies and domestic violence.

ASC's 1997 Critical Criminology Division Award Winners

Major Achievement Award: Signifying singular contributions to the development of critical criminology scholarship or pedagogy over time; or, contributions of an exceptional recent accomplishment (major scholarship or something exceptionally innovative):

Claire Renzetti
Department of Sociology
St. Joseph's University

Professor Renzetti, a 1996 Fulbright Scholar, has been active in addressing the problem of hate crimes and violence against women for the past two decades. Her books and articles reflect nearly two decades of scholarship intended guide policy and social action. She is editor of the journal Violence Against Women, and author of the path-breaking book Violent Betrayal: Partner Abuse in Lesbian Relationship. She has also been active in the National Clearinghouse for the Defense of Battered Women.

Critical Criminologist of the Year Award: Recognizing a scholar who has symbolized the spirit of the Division in some combination of scholarship, teaching, and/or service within the past year:

Michael Radelet
Department of Sociology
University of Florida

Professor Radelet has been an aggressive opponent of capital punishment for several decades. His four major articles on deterrence and wrongful deaths in the past year, combined with his work in the trenches in opposing the death penalty in Florida and working with families of the condemned, have established him as one of the premier experts on (and opponents of) capital punishment in the U.S. Professor Radelet also has given the Division considerable visibility by making selected papers available on the Critical Criminology homepage. In October of this year alone, his works will be downloaded nearly 3,000 times.
NOMINATIONS FOR ASC FELLOWS

The ASC Fellows Committee invites nominations for Fellows in the Society. This title is available to those members of the Society in good standing who have achieved distinction in criminology. The last meeting of the ASC Executive Board approved the following clarification of this distinction: "The honorary title Fellow" recognizes persons who have made a scholarly contribution to the intellectual life of the discipline, whether in the form of a singular, major piece of scholarship or cumulative scholarly contributions. Longevity alone is not sufficient. In addition, a Fellow must have made a significant contribution to the field through the career development of other criminologists and/or through organizational activities within the ASC."

The names of those who have been awarded the Fellow status will be announced at the 1998 Annual Meeting and the candidates will be acknowledged by the Society with the presentation of a Certificate.

In your nominating letter, please describe the reasons for your nomination and include a copy of the nominees curriculum vitae (or make arrangements to have it sent to the Committee). All materials should be received by March 1, 1998 to:

AMERICAN SOCIETY OF CRIMINOLOGY
NOMINATIONS FOR 1998
MICHAEL J. HINDELANG AWARD
For the Most Outstanding Contribution to Criminology

The American Society of Criminology has established the Michael J. Hindelang Award, to be given annually for a book published during the previous two to three years that makes the most outstanding contribution to research in criminology. To be considered, a book must be nominated by an individual, as opposed to a corporate, member of the ASC. The Committee will not consider anthologies and/or edited volumes. The Award will be presented during the annual meeting of the Society. The Executive Board may decide not to give the Award in a given year.

The Award Committee is soliciting nominations for the Michael J. Hindelang Award. To nominate a book, please send the title of the book, its authors, the publisher, the year of the publication, and a brief discussion of your reasons for the recommendation to the Award Committee. The deadline for receiving nominations is March 15, 1998. Send your nomination to:

RUTH SHONLE CAVAN YOUNG SCHOLAR AWARD
Sponsored by Wadsworth/West Publishing Co.

This Award will be given to recognize outstanding scholarly contributions to the discipline of criminology by someone who has received the Ph.D., MD, LLD, or a similar graduate degree no more than five years before the selection for the award (for this year the degree must have been awarded no earlier than May of 1992). The Award may be for a single work or a series of contributions, and may include coauthored works.

Those interested in being considered for the award or nominating someone for the Award should send copies of applicant's/nominee's vitae and published works to:

Five copies of all materials submitted in support of a nomination must be received by March 1, 1998. The person selected for the Award will receive a plaque commemorating the Award, one thousand dollars, and up to five hundred dollars towards expenses associated with attending the 1998 ASC meeting.

FELLOWSHIP FOR ETHNIC MINORITIES
Up to $18,000
Deadline: March 15, 1998

Eligibility: The fellowship is designed to encourage African American, Asian American, Latino, and Native American students to enter the field of criminology and criminal justice. Applicants need not be members of the American Society of Criminology. Individuals studying criminology or criminal justice issues are encouraged to apply. The recipient or recipients of the fellowship must be accepted into a program of doctoral studies.

Application Procedures: A complete application package must be received no later than March 1, 1998. A complete application must contain (1) up-to-date curriculum vitae; (2) indication of race or ethnicity; (3) copies of undergraduate and graduate transcripts; (4) statement of need and prospects for financial assistance for graduate study; (5) a letter describing career plans, salient experiences, and nature of interest in criminology and criminal justice; and (6) three letters of reference.

Notification: Award(s) will be made by June 1, 1998.

Applications should be sent to:
Sarah Hall, Administrator
American Society of Criminology
1314 Kinnear Road, Suite 214
Columbus, Ohio 43212

The Society reserves the right not to award the fellowship.
NOMINATIONS FOR 1998 ASC AWARDS

The ASC Awards Committee invites nominations for four major awards, to be presented at the 1998 annual meetings. The awards:

EDWIN H. SUTHERLAND AWARD, which recognizes outstanding scholarly contributions to the discipline of criminology by a North American criminologist. Outstanding scholarly contributions may consist of a single outstanding book or work, a series of theoretical or research contributions, or the accumulated contributions of a senior scholar.

THORSTEN SELLIN & SHELDON AND ELEANOR GLUECK AWARD, which recognizes outstanding scholarly contributions to the discipline of criminology by a non-North American criminologist (i.e., not U.S. or Canadian). The recipient need not speak English; however, his/her work must be available, in part at least, in the English language (either by original publication or through translation).

AUGUST VOLLMER AWARD, which recognizes outstanding contributions to applied criminology (criminological practice or policy). The award may be given for a single major effort or work, a series of contributions, or accumulated contributions to practice of policy.

HERBERT BLOCH AWARD, which recognizes outstanding service contributions to the American Society of Criminology and to the professional interests of criminology.

In submitting your nomination, provide the following supporting materials: a letter evaluating a nominee’s contribution and its relevance to an award, and the nominee’s c.v. (short version preferred).

Send nominations and supporting materials by March 1, 1998 to the committee chair:

Call For Entries

1998 ASC GENE CARTE STUDENT PAPER COMPETITION

We invite participation in The American Society of Criminology Gene Carte Student Paper Competition. These awards are given to recognize outstanding scholarly work of students. Following are the procedures for the 1998 competition.

Who Is Eligible

Any student currently enrolled on a full-time basis in an academic program at either the undergraduate or graduate level. Persons who are previous first place prize winners of this competition are ineligible.

Specifications For Papers

No paper may be submitted to more than one ASC student competition for the same year. Any paper that has previously won any prize in any ASC competition is ineligible for submission to another ASC competition. Papers may be conceptual and/or empirical but must be directly related to criminology. Papers must be typewritten, double-spaced on 8 1/2 x 11 white paper, and no longer than 7,500 words. The CRIMINOLOGY format for the organization of text, citations and references should be used. Authors' names, departments and advisors (optional) must appear ONLY on the title page, since papers will be evaluated anonymously. The next page of the manuscript should include the title and a 100-word abstract. The author must submit EIGHT copies of the manuscript, accompanied by a letter indicating the author's enrollment status and co-signed by the dean, department chair or program director.

Deadline

Papers must be submitted with a postmark on or before April 15, 1998 to:

Celesta A. Alboneti
Department of Sociology
Texas A & M University
Academic Building
College Station, TX 77843-4351
(409) 845-5133
(409) 862-4057 FAX
albon@tamuvm1.tamu.edu

Procedures For Judging Entries

The Student Awards Committee will rate entries according to criteria such as the quality of the conceptualization, significance of the topic, clarity and aptness of methods, quality of the writing, command of relevant work in the field, and contribution to criminology. The Committee's award determinations will be final.

Awards

The 1st, 2nd, and 3rd place papers will be awarded prizes of $300, $150, and $100, respectively and will be eligible for presentation at the 1998 meeting of The American Society of Criminology in Washington, D.C., November 11-14, 1998. The 1st prize winner also will be granted a travel award to the meeting. The Committee may decide that no entry is of sufficient quality to declare a winner. Fewer than three awards may be given. Prize-winning students will be acknowledged at the Annual Meeting Awards Ceremony.

Notification Of Awards

The author(s) of entries selected by the judges for awards will be notified in writing by August 1, 1998.
Washington, D.C.

CALL FOR PAPERS
AMERICAN SOCIETY OF CRIMINOLOGY

Annual Meeting ~ 1998
November 11-14 ~ Sheraton Washington Hotel

THEME: CRIME, JUSTICE AND PUBLIC POLICY:
EXAMINING OUR PAST AND ENVISIONING OUR FUTURE

The 1998 Annual Meeting of The American Society of Criminology will be held at the Sheraton Washington Hotel from Wednesday, November 11 through Saturday, November 14. As we near the new millennium, President Margaret Zahn asks that we use the occasion of our 50th meeting to reflect on the contributions we have made to theory, research and policy. We should likewise capitalize on this opportunity to envision new ways to understand the causes and consequences of crime and to influence the debates over definitions of justice. In this way the ASC will be better positioned to assist national and international initiatives formulated to prevent and control crime.

The 1998 Program consists of five AREAS: 1) explanations and approaches, 2) research methods, 3) institutions of social control and criminal processing, 4) law making, policy & the public, and 5) criminality and deviance. Each AREA includes specific DIVISIONS within which we invite the submission of panels and papers.

Submissions should be made to the CHAIR of the DIVISION you think most appropriate (DO NOT SUBMIT THE SAME PANEL OR THE SAME PAPER TO MORE THAN ONE DIVISION CHAIR). It is essential that EACH AUTHOR'S name, mailing address, telephone number, FAX number, and E-mail address be provided on panel submission forms, abstract forms, and abstracts. We will apply the two appearance rule, so please limit your submissions and acceptance of invitations to participate to no more than two separate panels. Address questions about submissions to the appropriate AREA CHAIR or Matt Zingraff, Program Co-Chair.

ASC members willing to serve as session chairs or discussants should notify an appropriate Division Chair. Your willingness to serve is greatly appreciated but it does not guarantee your program participation.

The FIRM DEADLINE for submissions is March 31, 1998. LATE SUBMISSIONS should be submitted to Matt Zingraff. They will be organized into “Table Sessions” in which groups of scholars present their papers to each other (and others who want to join the table). Table Session participants and paper titles will be printed in an addendum to the program.

SUBMISSION DETAILS

- Submissions must be received by March 31, 1998.

- Please send your submission to just one DIVISION Chair. If the Chair decides another Division is more appropriate for your submission, your forms will be forwarded to the Chair of that Division; you will be notified of this change.

- Each participant is limited to a maximum of two program appearances (chair, presenter, discussant).

- We suggest that a panel include not more than five paper presentations or four papers and a discussant.

- All paper or panel submissions must include an abstract. In submitting your abstract, please limit it to 200 words. The abstract should only briefly note the purpose, method, and results of the study, or the general theme of the paper.

- Please note that the Meeting is in NOVEMBER. Program participants are expected to preregister for the meetings. Preregistration materials will be sent to you by September of 1998. Failure to preregister may result in the removal of a paper from the program.

- The meetings are Wednesday through Saturday. Participants should expect to be in attendance the entire time as we cannot guarantee day and time for panel presentations.

- Please remember to submit only papers that are original and have not been published or presented elsewhere.

The 1998 Meeting will include panel sessions, table sessions, “author-meets-critic” sessions, thematic sessions, and plenary sessions. We welcome suggestions for any of the above as we strive to organize a program that cuts across criminology disciplines, professions and approaches.

We look forward to seeing you in D.C.

FIRM DEADLINE: MARCH 31, 1998
POSITION ANNOUNCEMENTS

THE CRIMINOLOGIST will regularly feature in these columns position vacancies available in organizations and universities, as well as positions sought by members of the Society.

A charge of $50 for up to 125 words and $10 for each additional 25 words will be made. The charge will be waived for institutional members of ASC.

It is the policy of ASC to publish position vacancy announcements only from those institutions or agencies which subscribe to equal educational and employment opportunities and those which encourage women and minorities to apply.

Institutions should indicate the deadline for submission of application materials.

The Professional Employment Exchange will be a regular feature at each Annual Meeting. Prospective employers and employees should register with the Society no later than three weeks prior to the Annual Meeting of the Society. Appropriate forms may be obtained by writing to the ASC offices in Columbus, Ohio.

To place announcements in The Criminologist, send all material to: Angela Patton, Managing Editor, THE CRIMINOLOGIST, Department of Criminal Justice, University of Nebraska at Omaha, 6001 Dodge Street, Omaha, NE 68120-0149. Telephone: (402) 554-2610, FAX (402) 554-2326. E-mail address: apatton@fae.edu

When sending announcements, please include a phone number, fax number and contact person in the event we have questions about an ad. The deadline date for the March/April issue is February 2, 1998.

Announcing the Western Criminology Review
Official Journal of the Western Society of Criminology

The Western Society is pleased to announce the first free scholarly criminological journal sponsored by a professional society, the Western Criminology Review (ISSN 1096-4886). Join us on-line at http://wcr.sonoma.edu. There are easy-to-use forms, no advertising, a hospitable place for scholarship, commentary, review and editorial guidance. Detailed information about the WCR mission, submission guidelines, peer review process, copyright, and related matters are available for both graphical and text browsers.

The Mission of the Western Criminological Review is to provide a venue for the publication and discussion of long-standing and emergent issues in the interdisciplinary field of criminology and criminal justice. Scholarly articles in the field on such wide-ranging areas as theory, methods, data sources, policing, the courts, corrections, the profession, education and related topics are welcome. There will be occasional thematic issues.

How to submit. The WCR is a peer reviewed, on-line journal devoted to the highest standards of scholarship. You have three ways to submit manuscripts to the WCR: send it via postal delivery on a floppy disk; attach it to an e-mail; or transfer it on the Internet by other means (contact the WCR at wcr@sonoma.edu to arrange for this).

Join the WCR e-mail list to learn about forthcoming issues. This is a very low volume list which you can stop at any time. Address your e-mail to LISTSERVE@SONOMA.EDU. Leave the subject area blank. In the message area write SUBSCRIBE WCR-L. If you would like use to add your subscription please e-mail your request to wcr@sonoma.edu.

Questions? Contact the Editor at wcr@sonoma.edu or via postal delivery at Western Criminology Review, CJA, Sonoma State University, Rohnert Park, CA 94928.

CALL FOR PAPERS: Police Quarterly

Police Quarterly, a new journal sponsored jointly by the Police Executive Research Forum (PERF) and the Police Section of the Academy of Criminal Justice Sciences (ACJS) with distribution to members of both organizations, will begin publication in the first quarter of 1998. Gary Cordner, a professor of police studies at Eastern Kentucky University and senior visiting fellow at PERF, will serve as the journal's first editor. Manuscripts are urgently solicited.

Police Quarterly will be a scholarly, peer-reviewed journal. A variety of submissions are solicited, including empirical research, essays, theoretical pieces, comparative analyses, critiques, innovative program descriptions, debates and book reviews.

Detailed guidelines for preparing manuscripts can be obtained by e-mailing the editor (gpcordner@acs.edu). Please submit five copies of your typed, double-spaced manuscript to: Gary Cordner, 467 Stratton, Dept. Of Police Studies, Eastern Kentucky University, Richmond, KY 40475-3131.

Get Published! A common criticism of public education is its lack of relevance in the lives of children. The MicroSociety® program solves this problem by creating a new context for learning: bringing authentic, "real world" experiences into K-8 classrooms. In a MicroSociety program, children collaborate with parents, business people and teachers to create their own miniature societies. MICROSOCIETY, a not for profit 501(c) 3 organization, is looking for people interested in developing real world materials for students. Are you interested in getting published? We need criminologists, bankers, lawyers, small business owners, journalists, scientists, marketers, and more professionals to write about what they do best...their job. You can help us make a difference in the lives of children and get your name in print at the same time.
