Division on Corrections and Sentencing: A Response to the Five-Year Plan Committee

Pat Van Voorhis
Division of Criminal Justice
University of Cincinnati

In the January/February issue of The Criminologist, Todd Clear called upon the ASC Divisions to respond to a number of issues currently facing the Society. This call was part of a larger information-gathering process involving member surveys and invitations for individual responses via letters and emails. At the outset, let me thank the Five-Year Plan Committee for its efforts to open the strategic planning process to broad input from the ASC membership. I am sure my colleagues join me appreciating the committee’s inclusive approach to planning the future of the organization.

I was asked by Doris MacKenzie, President of the Division on Sentencing and Corrections (DCS), to prepare a response. My comments do not represent all members of the Division. As Vice-President and co-founder of DCS, however, I can attest that some of the issues posed in Todd’s article were relevant to our reasons for forming the Division two years ago. The Steering Committee for DCS sought to bring more attention to correctional and sentencing scholarship within both ASC and other organizations. In our experience, much of what we observed in correctional practice was not informed by research, and many highly regarded studies in corrections and sentencing were not impacting agency practices and public policy. We also hoped to serve as a vehicle for bringing corrections scholars together, thereby facilitating networking opportunities and the development of professional and collaborative relationships. We were committed to encouraging involvement of students and younger colleagues in DCS and ASC activities and to supporting their research and professional development.

With the increased size of ASC, as with other scholarly organizations, activities crucial to the maturation of a scholarly discipline run the risk of becoming fragmented, more expensive, and thinly spread. As I note in my comments below, the Divisions can contribute much toward involving their members and forwarding sound scholarship. Even so, clear issues remain for the larger organization. The Five-Year Plan Committee has identified five areas of long-term, strategic concern: 1) public policy presence within ASC; 2) annual meeting quality; 3) inter-organizational relations; 4) intra-organizational relations; and 5) the administrative office.

Public Policy Presence within ASC

Unique among other professional organizations (e.g., American Medical Association, National Education Association, and American Psychological Association), ASC has a history of avoiding policy recommendations and public stands on important issues of crime and justice. Even the White Papers developed by the ASC National Policy Committee carefully note that the papers speak to the ASC membership and not for ASC as an organization. Todd Clear and Julius Debro inform us, in their respective articles in the Criminologist, that this reticence is attributable to...
AROUND THE ASC

STEVEN E. BARKAN, University of Maine, received one of three Outstanding Faculty Awards from the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences at the university.

The Department of Criminology and Criminal Justice at the University of Missouri-St. Louis is pleased to announce that ROBERT J. BURSIK, JR. and SCOTT H. DECKER have been named Curators Professors. Curators professors are lifetime appointments and the highest honor the University can bestow on a faculty member for excellence in research, teaching, and service. Bob Bursik earned the Ph.D. in sociology at the University of Chicago. He taught at the University of Oklahoma for fourteen years, and was chair of the sociology department for four years, before joining the UMSL faculty in 1996. He is editor of the journal Criminology, has served as ASC vice president, and is an ASC Fellow. He is co-author with Harold Grasmick of Neighborhoods and Crime (Lexington, 1993), and his articles on social disorganization, deterrence, and other topics have appeared in Criminology, Justice Quarterly, Journal of Quantitative Criminology, Law and Society Review, and the American Journal of Sociology. Scott Decker earned the Ph.D. in criminology from Florida State University and joined the UMSL faculty in 1977. He was chair of the Department of Criminology and Criminal Justice for more than a decade and won the University’s award for creativity and research in 1990. He is co-author with Richard Wright of Burglars on the Job (Northeastern, 1994) and with Barrick Van Winkle of Life in the Gang (Cambridge, 1996), winner of the Academy of Criminal Justice Sciences 1997 outstanding book award. His research with Susan Pennell and Ami Caldwell on illegal firearms access and use by arrestees was featured in a 1997 NUJ Research in Brief, and he has published widely on gang and youth violence, relationships and motivations in homicide, and criminal justice policy.

DEAN J. CHAMPION, Texas A&M International University, is president of the Midwest Criminal Justice Association. Also, he has been selected to present a paper on Probation in the United States at the, October, 2001 Annual Conference of the Korean Institute of Criminology in Seoul, Korea. Champion published two new books, including Criminal Courts: Structure, Process, and Issues (co-authored with Gary A. Rabe, Minot State University), (Prentice-Hall, 2002); Police Misconduct in America: A Reference Handbook (ABC-CLIO, Santa Barbara, CA, 2001).

ROBERT D. CRUTCHFIELD, University of Washington, was elected to Council Members-at-Large of the American Sociological Association.

BARRY FELD, University of Minnesota Associate Member of the Sociology Faculty and Centennial Professor at the Law School, received the Outstanding Book Award from the Academy of Criminal Justice Sciences for his Bad Kids: Race and the Transformation of the Juvenile Court (Oxford 1999).

PAMELA IRVING JACKSON, Rhode Island College, won the Paul Maixner Award for Distinguished Teaching, for 2000-2001.

VALERIE JENNESS, University of California, Irvine, was awarded the Pacific Sociological Association’s 2001 Distinguished Contribution to Scholarship Award for her work on hate crimes and public policy designed to combat them.

JANICE JOSEPH, Richard Stockton College of New Jersey, is the editor of the forthcoming publication of the new Journal of Ethnicity & Criminal Justice, affiliated with the Minorities and Women of the Academy of Criminal Justice. concerns for dissent among ASC members. Our membership does not speak with a single voice on many such issues. One could also envision concern for maintaining integrity to objective research practice unmarred by political advocacy or product marketing.

The reasons for such a stance are understandable; just the same, we cannot support this position without recognizing its costs. In corrections, these costs are especially poignant. It is no mystery that U.S. punishment policy and the ungrounded correctional panaceas that emerge on a fairly regular basis are largely driven by political whim and fallacious reasoning rather than by sound social science. More regrettably, many practices, many of them violations of human rights, tenaciously sustain themselves in the face of research which clearly recommends against their continued use, e.g., prison overcrowding, boot camps and other intermediate sanctions, truth in sentencing legislation, the death penalty, severe cuts in offender programming, youth in adult courts, and three strikes you're out.

At present the refuting research, most of it conducted by ASC members, gets to larger policy arenas through laboriously slow processes—if at all. Those few ASC members who inform policy do so through very carefully developed relationships with governmental agencies, following years research (usually funded research) and experience. This process is slow, often excludes younger scholars and minorities, and keeps crucial information from policy makers. Small wonder other organizations choose to take policy stands and to develop the organizational structures needed to disseminate information to key receivers. In doing so, they are able to filter the quality of the information they send forth. They develop agency and legislative linkages for ongoing use, and they speak with a more forceful voice than individual scholars. And for sure, sometimes they take a stand because it is simply the right thing to do.

If we cannot take such public positions, perhaps we can do better job of disseminating the work of our members to policy makers. The proposal to adopt a peer-reviewed, policy journal is a constructive step. We also need to revisit ASC's policy of forbidding the Divisions to start their own journals. DCS was one of the Divisions whose wish to adopt a journal was turned down this year. Restricting organizational publications to Criminology ignores the growth of the Society and need to accommodate maturing sub-disciplines. In addition, this policy restricts (though does not prevent) dissemination of theoretically-relevant policy and applied research. There needs to be more room to report and disseminate these important findings.

ASC could also organize a structure for linking policy makers, practitioners and the media to white papers, journal article summaries, and to the scholars themselves. To facilitate technology transfer to non-researchers, we could encourage authors of journal articles to develop policy summaries that could be available over the ASC web sites. Such a practice could honor the diverse array of research and viewpoints currently represented among our members. It would not preclude introducing inquirers to opposing viewpoints.

Annual Meeting Quality:

Executing the annual meeting appears is evolving into a cumbersome task, made worse by the growing size of the organization and members who do not adhere to deadlines and request any number of last minute changes. Yet, many feel that it is the most important thing that we do. Having chaired program committees for two other organizations, I am no stranger to these complications. Just how does one respond to a request to change all the meeting room chairs (in the middle of the conference) because they are too hard? And then there is the occasional participant who insists that conference participants be paid by the organization to present their papers! Or the character who, not reading his mail (nor apparently his program), proceeds to miss his presentation just in time to fault the conference committee for his mistake. I understand that serving on the ASC program committees incurs a significant interruption to our other responsibilities. And then there is the stress of managing the finances against member cancellations, exorbitant hotel charges for reception food, audio-visual equipment and the unexpected. Finally, growing concern for the quality of some panels and papers, limited attendance at some sessions (panelists included) rounds out this list of complications.

These are difficult problems to solve, because conferences are so thinly held together by so many interdependent variables that change to one part of the system easily causes unintended consequences to another. Requirements for a full paper submission rather than an abstract, for example, could result in less attendees and increases in the time needed to begin the process of disseminating research findings. In some cases, such a policy could also penalize scholars engaged in long term studies, who nevertheless could present preliminary findings over the course of the study. I am not of the opinion that presentations necessarily benefit from presenters having a fully-executed papers. Depending on the study, and sometimes on the scholar, many of us may be interested in hearing preliminary results or findings sans paper.
In planning for change, we should guard against those recommendations that could actually increase the time commitments of program chairs, committee members, and ASC staff. Regional conferences, papers rather than abstract submissions, and enforcement of the two-presentation limitation, for example, add to the time needed to finalize the program. Other policies may discourage doctoral students from presenting. Two-session limitations to the number of conference appearances, for example, pose problems to faculty collaborating with their doctoral students while also presenting their own research.

Improving the quality of paper presentations is a potential quagmire. Perhaps we have it right as we are going to have it. People who don't like papers tend to get up and leave; presenters sensitive to this can choose to do a better job the next time. Over time we develop an ability to identify the panels likely to be most stimulating. Perhaps I am overly affected by a decision I made two years ago. Operating under the ridiculous assumption that the more established disciplines or sociology and psychology were better at the conference business than criminologists, I presented at the annual meeting of what some would consider to be a much more prestigious organization than the ASC. I was both surprised and disappointed in the quality of the papers, the dearth of empirical studies, and pervasive no-shows.

Having said this, there may be some unobtrusive directions for change. Todd Clear's idea of categorizing papers submissions according to whether they are fully executed papers, think pieces or the results of quantitative or qualitative research could assist attendees' efforts to select panels. Asking the authors to categorize their own papers (on the submission form) would save program committee members the time of doing so. On occasion, the divisions have been helpful in this regard as they list panels prepared by division members, select already formed panels to feature, or as they prepare their own panels or roundtables. In doing so they can work to span diverse interests. They can also perform a review function of sorts, choosing to feature the work of members who are doing groundbreaking work in their discipline, and assuring that such a selection process recognizes the work of young scholars and minorities. In this regard, I would especially applaud the work of the Division on Women and Crime and the Division on People of Color.

The growing size, complexity, and cost of the conference is an altogether different matter. The need for professional assistance seems obvious. With the exception of Chris and Sarah, the conference is organized each year by a group of amateurs. For us, the shift of skills from the academic and research arenas is phenomenal. Sharing professional staff between the ASC and the ACJS is an intriguing idea, especially for its potential to provide continuity across conferences thereby reducing the replication of past problems and providing guidance to program committee members. Perhaps professional staff could take the place of the conference chair and the local arrangements chair. As suggested in Julius Debro's piece, we might also consider local conference planners to attend to local arrangements and hotel registrations. We still would need a program committee to set up panels and represent the wishes of the membership. It goes without saying that these recommendations are highly dependent upon costs.

The Administrative Office:

How should we organize the growing number of administrative tasks performed by the Society? A number of changes are under consideration—a move, perhaps to Washington, D.C., a merger with another organization for shared office space and administrative functions, and more staff. The additional staff seems the most obvious need given the growth of this organization, and the possibility that the strategic planning process may generate additional organizational priorities.

I am not familiar with Sarah Hall's plans for retirement, but I certainly agree with all of the accolades expressed in reference to her. Few organizations get to know how valuable a committed, hard working, administrator with a long tenure can be. Notwithstanding our expressed gratitude, however, I am concerned that we still may be facing some hard lessons regarding the value of Sarah's contributions to ASC. It will not be realistic to expect to find a leader who will "do the work of many people", carry so much of the institutional memory of the organization, or commit to it for an entire career. The current professional work force is much more transitory, and nobody really should be doing the work of many people. With apologies for not knowing the organizational structure of the current office, an office of this size needs to be deliberately organized for multiple spheres of responsibility, set job descriptions, and record/computerized procedures.

Todd's recommendation for housing ASC in a University with a doctoral program seems most realistic. This decision affords an opportunity to offer assistantships/internships to doctoral students who at the very least can begin their own process of professional networking. The prospect of housing such an office in Washington, D.C. seems exciting. However, this may demand financial resources that could better be devoted to other organizational priorities. Moreover, the policy presence that a Washington, D.C location suggests can be exercised as Julius Debro says from anywhere is the country. This is especially true when we consider that the policy-related work would be performed by ASC members rather than the Washington-based staff.

Inter-organizational Relations

How much additional work should the ASC do to foster formal working relationships with other criminological organizations? A number of the emerging ideas for interaction between ASC and other organizations clearly do have financial and other resource implications for the Society. Questions of whether we share office and staff space with ACJS or another organization, must also be concerned with maintaining the uniqueness of each organizational identity. Even though many ASC members (58%) are also members of ACJS, the two organizations, in my opinion, are very different. I personally value these differences, and would regret a blending of the two organizations. Moreover, ASC has an organizational identity that many of us have a deep appreciation for.

Although many of the members belong to other organizations, there are probably as many reasons for doing so as there are individuals and organizations. Typically, the reasons for collaboration at an organizational level are not as clear as they are at the individual or the divisional level. The Division on Corrections and Sentencing, for example, has plans for outreach to such professional organizations as the International Community Corrections Association, American Probation and Parole, and American Correctional Association, because our research interests and scholarly interests intersect with these groups. Our reasons for doing so, however, would have little relevance to the larger organization. Perhaps most inter-organizational collaborations are best initiated by the Divisions.

There are a few exceptions. First those efforts ASC might make to recognize scholarly collaboration with international organizations would be valuable, because these are not as easily accessed as the professional organizations in our own country. Coffee and other receptions recognize cooperative efforts at a global level and extend appreciation to other groups for their interest and hospitality. Such efforts also introduce members to the prospects of scholarly exchange. Second, collaborations with outside organizations that facilitate the performance of important ASC goals should also receive serious consideration. A joint proposal with the American Association of Doctoral Programs in Criminology and Criminal Justice seems a fitting example. This seeks to co-sponsor summer research internships for minority students.

Simply put, options for inter-organizational collaboration must be viewed case-by-case. Collaborations should serve the mutual goals of both organizations without merging ASC's organizational identity with that of another.

Intra-organizational Relations

It is difficult to imagine a member benefiting from ASC if they feel impeded in their efforts to develop professional relationships or perceive minimal support for their work and limited opportunities for involvement. A few friends along the way would also be nice. I agree with Todd and Julius that the Divisions have contributed much in this regard. Feature panels, workshops and roundtables, social gatherings, student outreach, research recognition, and mentoring activities seem far more effective when member can focus on colleagues with similar scholarly interests. It's simply easier to meet and recognize the scholars who work in ones own sphere of interest than it is to identify them from the larger body scholarship produced by ASC members. We obviously cannot involve every member in the committee structure of ASC, but we can involve far more in the work of the divisions. The Division of Women and Crime is perhaps most commendable in this regard, not only for its impact on ASC, women in particular, but also for fostering the growth of scholarship and policy-relevant research on women. DWC clearly serves as a model for member involvement and outreach.

None of this is to ignore the responsibilities of the larger organization. There is a regrettable aspect to the Divisions when we see research on women and crime or race and crime featured in Division panels rather than integrated throughout, i.e. if we we “let” divisions “take care” of race and gender. Most panels and articles on prison overcrowding, for example, should address race and gender. In this sense “outreach” and acknowledgement begins with our own research and teaching. Inclusion is far more likely to occur in an organization where a critical mass of its membership practices such in their own pedagogy and scholarship.

Just the same, we are wise to institutionalize approaches to encouraging greater inclusion within the society. The Minority Scholarship, internships, student affairs committees, and new members breakfasts are effective moves in this direction. I also believe that there are directions that program committees can take to assist with the mentoring of students and scholars who are in the early phases of their careers. In the DCS, for example, we attempt each year to organize a roundtable dealing with early career issues. This year, Phil Harris is conducting a round table on grantsmanship, networking and the development of working relationships. We also deliberately organize panels that speak to the career development of all members, e.g., having practitioners speak to scholars about their research needs or discussing an advanced analytical procedure. By design these sessions take on an instructional quality, seeking to address what Julius Debro outlined as “the legacies we leave behind.” There comes a time when it is very important to stand away from the 15 minute crunches through our research findings to show others how we do what we do. We have members among us who do this so very well.

None of this is to say that we can’t do a lot in a less formal manner. How thrilled my doctoral students are to meet a scholar whose work they admire—and then to have that same person ask them about their career and research interests. These exchanges have a larger impact than we may realize, and from my vantage point, I thank those ASC members who take the time to do this.

In closing let me once again thank the Committee for seeking input from the Divisions. I also welcome members who have not joined DCS to consider doing so. This can be done through the ASC website.

PAT VAN VOORHIS
Division of Criminal Justice
University of Cincinnati
P.O. Box 210389
Cincinnati, OH 45221-0389
513/556-5831 513/556-3301 Fax
pvanvoorhis@fuse.net

-------------

COMING TO ATLANTA?

Need help planning your trip?

Visit the ASC Local Arrangements Committee website

http://userwww.service.emory.edu/~adunger

Find information on airlines, hotels, MARTA, sightseeing and activities, the state of Georgia and city of Atlanta, local universities, restaurants, and criminal justice organizations. All in one place at the tip of your fingers!
EASTERN SOCIOLOGY SOCIETY

CANDACE ROGERS AWARD

The Candace Rogers Award Committee invites submissions for this award, given annually at the Eastern Sociological Society meetings, to a graduate student for an outstanding paper on any current social issue. The paper should be in a style suitable for publication in a professional journal and should not exceed 7,500 words or 30 double-spaced pages. The paper may not be previously published or forthcoming in a professional journal. It may not be co-authored, and its author must be a graduate student at the time that the paper is submitted. A student must be a member of ESS at the time the award is presented. Eligible students are encouraged to submit four copies of suitable papers postmarked by October 15, 2001 to the committee chair. No papers postmarked after this date will be accepted for any reason. Send the copies with your address, institutional affiliation, phone number, and e-mail address to:

Professor Rhonda F. Levine
Department of Sociology and Anthropology
Colgate University
13 Oak Drive
Hamilton, New York 13346 rlevine@mail.colgate.edu

A special session will be held at the annual meetings during which award winners will have the opportunity to present their work. In 2002, the annual meetings will be in Boston, March 7-10.

INTERNATIONAL JOURNAL OF COMPARATIVE CRIMINOLOGY (IJCC)

The International Journal of Comparative Criminology (IJCC) is seeking material for our Research Notes section to inform their readers about current, ongoing, and proposed international and comparative projects. We are open to all suggestions and promotional material including information on:

1. STUDY TOURS: Is your department (faculty, staff, students) taking part in exchange programs?
2. CONFERENCES: Notices and commentary on recent and forthcoming conferences
3. PUBLICATIONS: New and forthcoming books, journals, forums (especially online), and exchange flyers are welcome.
4. RESEARCH GRANTS AND FUNDING: Are you aware of funding opportunities or grants received for international and comparative research?
5. GENERAL COMMENTARY: Comments, suggestions, criticisms, and synopses of recent findings and innovations are welcome.

Please send material electronically to: mailto:ishwaran@yorku.ca

Or mail hard copies to: de Sitter Publications
374 Woodsworth Road
Willowdale, Ontario M5L 2T6
Canada

Thank you.

Shivu Ishwaran, Editor
CALL FOR PAPERS

CRIMINAL JUSTICE REVIEW
The Criminal Justice Review is a biannual scholarly journal dedicated to presenting a broad perspective on criminal justice issues. It focuses on any aspect of crime and the justice system, and can feature local, state, or national concerns. Both qualitative and quantitative pieces are encouraged, provided that they adhere to standards of quality scholarship. As a peer-reviewed journal, we encourage the submission of articles, research notes, commentaries, and comprehensive essays that focus on crime and justice-related topics broadly defined. Four copies of manuscripts should be submitted in English, follow APA style, be double-spaced throughout, including references, tables and indented quotations, and cannot be under consideration by another publication. An abstract not to exceed 200 words must be included with submissions. Send to:

Michael S. Vaughn, Editor
Criminal Justice Review
P.O. Box 4018
Georgia State University
Atlanta, GA 30302-4018
404-651-3660; Email: mvaughn@gsu.edu; Web Site: www.gsu.edu/cjr.

INTERNATIONAL CRIMINAL JUSTICE REVIEW
The International Criminal Justice Review is an annual scholarly journal dedicated to presenting system wide trends and problems on crime and justice throughout the world. Articles may focus on a single country or compare issues affecting two or more countries. Both qualitative and quantitative pieces are encouraged, providing they adhere to standards of quality scholarship. Manuscripts may emphasize either contemporary or historical topics. As a peer-reviewed journal, we encourage the submission of articles, research notes, commentaries, and comprehensive essays that focus on crime and justice-related topics in an international and/or comparative context broadly defined. Four copies of manuscripts should be submitted in English, follow APA style, be double-spaced throughout, including references, tables and indented quotations, and cannot be under consideration by another publication. An abstract not to exceed 200 words must be included with submissions. Send to:

Michael S. Vaughn, Editor
International Criminal Justice Review
P.O. Box 4018
Georgia State University
Atlanta, GA 30302-4018
404-651-3660; Email: mvaughn@gsu.edu; Web Site: www.gsu.edu/icjr.

JUSTICE POLICY JOURNAL: The Official Journal of the Justice Policy Institute
The purpose of the Justice Policy Journal is to provide a forum for the publication and discussion of current policy issues related to criminal and juvenile justice. The specific focus of the journal will be on the promulgation of innovative policy ideas and initiatives. Theoretical and historical approaches are encouraged, as long as these are related to current public policy issues. Stipends of $500 will be provided for each article accepted for publication. The overall goal is to provide a professional venue to practitioners, researchers, policy makers and critics on current issues related to criminal and juvenile justice. Each issue will not only have scholarly articles, but also commentaries, news briefs and up-dates on current legislative initiatives. Article submissions should be provided on a disk or e-mail attachment. Include title page, abstract, institutional affiliation, brief biographical sketch and an e-mail address. Send the manuscript to: Dan Macallair, Justice Policy Journal, 1622 Folsom Street, San Francisco, CA 94103; 415-621-5661; journal@jpc.org Scholarly articles should not exceed 30 typed pages (double-space), excluding endnotes, references, tables, etc. An abstract of no more than 250 words must accompany the title page of all manuscripts submitted. We also encourage individuals to submit brief commentaries, reviews of current legislative initiatives, and news briefs. A stipend of $100 will be awarded for the publication of commentaries. The length of these reports may vary, but should not exceed five pages.
CALL FOR PAPERS

CRIMINAL JUSTICE: The International Journal of Policy and Practice
This is a peer-reviewed journal that will include scholarly articles that focus on the policy-making process, current criminal justice policies and practices, and the gap that sometimes exists between policy and practice. It will also include regular features on policy development and national practice initiatives and a book review section. For submission details, contact the following. Regarding papers from Europe, contact Tim Newburn (t.newburn@gold.ac.uk). Regarding papers from Australia, contact David Dixon (D.Dixon@unsw.edu.au). Regarding papers from the Americas, contact Martin D. Schwartz (schwartz@ohio.edu)

JOURNAL OF CONTEMPORARY CRIMINAL JUSTICE
Special Topic: Sexuality, Law, and Justice
The Journal of Contemporary Criminal Justice, an interdisciplinary, peer-reviewed journal, invites manuscript submissions for a special edition of journal on "Sexuality, law, and Justice." Manuscripts focusing on gay, lesbian, bisexual, and transgendered issues in the criminal justice system are especially encouraged. Manuscripts must: be written in English; be typed, double-spaced; have in citations, notes, and references in APA format; and be between eight (8) and twenty (20) pages in length, excluding tables, figures, and references. Three "blind copies" of the manuscript should be submitted for anonymous review. A fourth, complete copy of the manuscript, accompanied by an abstract of 100 words or less and a brief biographical sketch of the author(s), indicating affiliation, research grant numbers, acknowledgments, research interests, and recent publications must also be submitted. The deadline for submission is October 1, 2001, but manuscripts submitted over the summer will receive faster editorial review. Final manuscripts must be submitted on an IBM compatible disk in either WordPerfect (preferred) or Word format. Neither manuscripts nor disks will be returned. Tables, figures, and drawings must be submitted on separate, camera ready sheets. Please send manuscripts to the guest editor of the Journal for this special edition: Henry F. Fradella, J.D., Ph.D., The College of New Jersey, Department of Law & Justice, P.O. Box 7718, Ewing, N.J. 08628; 609/771-2271 Fradella@tcnj.edu

CRITICAL CRIMINOLOGY: AN INTERNATIONAL JOURNAL
This open call requests quality manuscripts pertaining to critical criminology in all its manifestations, including critical legal studies and social justice issues. We welcome qualitative and quantitative methodologies, including non-traditional approaches to data gathering and analysis. Papers should expose and oppose forms of domination that include class, gender, race/ethnicity and sexual orientation — especially in their intersecting and interlocking nature. We encourage works that focus on creative and cooperative solutions to justice problems, plus strategies for the construction of a more inclusive society. All manuscripts are subject to peer review. Papers should be 4,000 to 6,000 words (including tables, illustrations, notes and references) and framed in a manner that would be of interest to an international audience. Book reviews are also welcome and shorter research notes (3,000 words) will be considered for publication. Submissions not from North America or Europe are welcome and can be sent to any editor.

European/Continental Editor: Jock Young, Centre for Criminology, Middlesex University, Queensway, Enfield EN3 4SF, United Kingdom - j.young@mdx.ac.uk
North American Editor: Paul Leighton, Dept. of Sociology, Anthropology & Criminology, 712 Pray Hallard, Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti, MI 48197 - paul@stopviolence.com

For more information see http://paulsjusticepage.com>Critical Criminology Journal

JOURNAL OF CRIME AND JUSTICE
The Journal of Crime and Justice, the official publication of the Midwestern Criminal Justice Association, is a biannual peer-reviewed journal dedicated to the presentation of original empirical works and theoretical commentaries relevant to criminal and social justice. Both quantitative and qualitative pieces are solicited on a broad range of crime and justice related topics. The manuscript should not exceed 30 pages (including tables and references) and must be in APA style and double-spaced. An abstract of not more than 200 words and a $10.00 submission fee (payable to MCJA) must also be included. Send to: J. Mitchell Miller, Editor, Currell College of Criminal Justice, University of South Carolina, Columbia, SC 29208. Correspondence to: Holly Ventura, Graduate Editorial Assistant, University of South Carolina. Email: ventura@gwm.sc.edu FAX 803-7770108.
CALL FOR PAPERS

JOURNAL OF QUANTITATIVE CRIMINOLOGY
The Journal of Quantitative Criminology invites ASC members to submit their research to the journal. JQC publishes papers that use quantitative techniques to address substantive, methodological, or evaluative topics in criminology and criminal justice. While some articles are at the forefront of quantitative methodology, others apply familiar methods to substantively important topics. The Journal emphasizes the use of sound quantitative methods, not methodological sophistication for its own sake. Persons interested in submitting their work to JQC should send four copies of their manuscript to: Journal of Quantitative Criminology, School of Criminal Justice, University at Albany, State University of New York, Albany, NY 12222. Style guidelines and a sample copy are available at the Journal’s web site: www.wkap.nl/journalhome.htm/0748-4518

SOCIODY OF CRIME, LAW, AND DEVIANCE, Volume 4
(Published by Elsevier Sciences)
Violent Acts and Violentization: Assessing, Applying, and Developing Lonnie Athens’ Theory and Research
Edited by Lonnie Athens and Jeffrey T. Ulmer
Sociology of Crime, Law and Deviance is an annual series of volumes that publishes scholarly work in the areas of criminology and criminal justice, the sociology of law, and the sociology of deviance. The series is now accepting manuscripts for consideration for publication in Volume 4. The theme of Volume 4 will be “Violent Acts and Violentization: Assessing, Applying, and Developing Lonnie Athens’ Theory and Research.” Athens’s theory and research largely appears in his books, Violent Criminal acts and Actors Revisited (1997, University of Illinois Press) and the Creation of Dangerous Violent Criminals (1989, Routledge), and was the subject of the popular and controversial book, Why They Kill: Discoveries of a Maverick Criminologist by Pulitzer Prize-winning journalist/author Richard Rhodes (1999, Knopf). We invite theoretical developments, reviews, and critiques of the theory of violentization, and especially empirical research that applies or tests the key concepts and propositions of violentization. Publication decisions will be made based on evaluations by external reviewers and the judgement of the editors. Volume 4 is tentatively scheduled to be published in the fall of 2002. The submission deadline for consideration for Volume 4 is January 10, 2002. Please send all manuscripts to: Jeffrey T. Ulmer, Department of Sociology, 211 Oswald Tower, Penn State University, University Park, PA 16802 Jtu100@psu.edu

POLICE PRACTICE AND RESEARCH: An International Journal
Manuscripts are solicited for Police Practice and Research: An International Journal, which is published in four issues per volume. The Journal presents current and innovative police research, as well as operational and administrative practices from around the world. Articles and reports are sought from practitioners, researchers, and other interested in developments in policing, analysis of public order, and the state of safety as it affects the quality of life everywhere.
The journal seeks to bridge the gap in knowledge that exists regarding the police are, what they do, and how they maintain order, administer laws, and serve their communities. Attention is also focused on specific organizational information about the police in different countries and regions, and periodic special issues are devoted to studying police policies and practices regarding a particular topic or issue.
The editors aim to improve cooperation between those who are active in the field and those who are involved in academic research, as such a relationship is essential for innovative police work. To this end, the editors encourage the submission of articles co-authored by police practitioners and researchers that highlights a particular subject from both points of view.
Submission of Manuscripts
Manuscripts should be no more than 30 typed, double-spaced pages with text presented on one side of paper in English. The manuscripts should be accompanied by an abstract of no more than 100 words, up to six key words, and a brief biographical sketch. For a complete Notes for Contributors, contact: Arvind Verma, Managing Editor, Department of Criminal Justice, Indiana University, Bloomington, IN 47405, USA, or any other member of the Journal team.
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF
Dilip K. Das, 23 Carolanne Drive, Delmar, NY 12054, USA
Tel: (518) 475-1189, Fax: (518) 475-0078 - Email: dilipkd@aol.com or -
State University of New York, Dept. of Sociology and Criminal Justice, Plattsburgh, NY 12901, USA,
Tel: (518) 564-3045, Fax: (518) 564-3333
Email: dilip.das@plattsburgh.edu
CALL FOR PAPERS

JOURNAL OF ETHNICITY IN CRIMINAL JUSTICE
The Journal of Ethnicity and Criminal Justice is affiliated with the Minorities and Women of the Academy of Criminal Justice Sciences. The first issue will be published in spring 2002. This unique multidisciplinary journal will be the only publication that focuses exclusively on crime, criminal justice, and ethnicity. As a peer-reviewed journal, we encourage critical analyses of ethnicity and criminal justice; empirical data on criminal justice and ethnicity; international and cross-cultural perspectives of ethnicity and criminal justice, and articles that explore the broad themes of ethnicity and criminal justice and advance theory, research, and policy in these areas. Four copies of the manuscript should be submitted. The manuscript should be approximately 15-20 pages double-spaced with a one-inch margin on all four sides and should include an abstract of 100 words, a title page, and a brief biographical sketch of author(s). References, citations, and general style of manuscripts should follow the Chicago style (as outlined in the latest edition of the Manual of Style of the University of Chicago Press). References should be double-spaced and placed in alphabetical order. Send all requests and manuscripts to: Dr. Janice Joseph, Editor, Journal of Ethnicity and Criminal Justice, Criminal Justice Program, Richard Stockton College of New Jersey, Jim Leeds Road, Pomona, NJ 08240

THE JUSTICE PROFESSIONAL
The Justice Professional is a refereed journal published quarterly by Thomas & Franklin. It is housed at the C.W. Post Campus of Long Island University, Department of Criminal Justice. The Justice Professional publishes articles that deal with substantive criminal justice and criminological issues, inviting both qualitative and quantifiable papers. We welcome all articles relevant to areas of criminal justice as well as areas such as public administration and public affairs. Literature reviews, summary reports of innovative research projects, and research notes are all considered. MANUSCRIPTS: Typewritten, double-spaced manuscripts must be submitted in quadruplicate to: Roslyn Muraskin, Ph.D. Editor, THE JUSTICE PROFESSIONAL, Dept. of Criminal Justice, C.W. Post Campus-Long Island University. 720 Northern Blvd., Post Hall 3C3, Brookville, NY 11548.
An abstract of not more than 100 words, as well as a brief biographical statement describing the authors’ current affiliation and rank should accompany the manuscript along with the article on disk in Word. THE JUSTICE PROFESSIONAL regards submission to the journal as commitment to publish herein. Permission for use of copyright materials is the responsibility of the author. Manuscripts should not exceed 20 typewritten double spaced-pages. All footnotes, references, tables, figures and illustration must be camera ready on an eight and one half by eleven wide paper. Footnotes and bibliographic citations must follow the journal style based upon that followed by the American Psychological Association (APA). Since manuscripts are sent out anonymously for editorial evaluation, the authors’ name should appear on a separate cover sheet. INQUIRIES: 516/299-3146 (phone); 516/299-2640 Fax; muraskin@liu.edu

JOURNAL OF CONTEMPORARY ETHNOGRAPHY
Special Issue on Gender, Crime and (In)Justice
The Journal of Contemporary Ethnography announces a Call for Papers for a special issue on Ethnographic Perspectives on Gender, Crime and (In)Justice. The issue will focus on problems related to gender inequality, situated femininities/masculinities, and their relations to crime, juvenile delinquency, and justice. In addition to traditional topics within criminology and criminal justice, the themes of crime and justice will be considered broadly to include legal, human rights, and labor issues associated with the commercial sex industry and other criminalized activities, as well as issues facing women in prison. As JCE increasingly includes a global perspective, we encourage submissions based on international research.

All papers will be peer reviewed. If you are unsure whether your topic or research is suitable, or are interested in reviewing for this issue, contact the Special Issue Editor, Jody Miller, via e-mail at millerja@msx.umsl.edu or phone at 314-516-5426.

Please send four manuscript copies and a US$10 submission fee (payable to Jody Miller) by December 31, 2001 to: Jody Miller, JCE Guest Editor, Department of Criminology and Criminal Justice, University of Missouri-St. Louis, 8001 Natural Bridge Rd., St. Louis, MO 63121.
CALL FOR PAPERS

HOMICIDE: AN INTERDISCIPLINARY AND INTERNATIONAL JOURNAL
Thomas A. Petee, Auburn University, and Jay Corzine, University of Central Florida, have been appointed as Co-Editors of Homicide: An Interdisciplinary and International Journal for a six-year term, beginning August 1, 2001. For the first three years, the journal’s editorial office will be located at Auburn University; the office will move to the University of Central Florida for the second three years. Authors should submit manuscripts in triplicate to:

Thomas A. Petee, Co-Editor
Department of Sociology
7030 Haley Center
Auburn University
Auburn, AL 36840-5209
Phone 334/844-5018 or 844-2821; fax 334-844-2851; email: peteeta@mail.auburn.edu

Homicide Studies is a publication dedicated to the dissemination of empirical research addressing issues pertinent to the study of homicide. Submissions for review should be empirically based, using quantitative or qualitative methods. Theoretical papers, research summaries and public policy reviews are also welcomed.

5th ANNUAL INTERNATIONAL RESEARCH CONFERENCE
THE NATIONAL INSTITUTE OF JUSTICE'S CRIME MAPPING RESEARCH CENTER

The National Institute of Justice’s Crime Mapping Research Center is presenting its Fifth Annual International Research Conference: Translating Spatial Research Into Practice, a 3-1/2 day conference to address criminal issues in the spatial analysis of criminal justice data. The conference will be held on December 1-4 at the Adams Mark Hotel in Dallas, Texas. Join hundreds in learning about using geographic information systems (GIS) for operation, strategic planning and research.

Presentations and workshops will focus on: Applying spatial analysis to problem oriented policing; Investigating the connection between crime and place; Understanding the offender's behavior; Evaluating the use of GIS in police organizations; Technical aspects of quantitative spatial analysis; Mapping applications in corrections; School Safety initiatives; Mapping applications in rural areas including Indian Country.

The Conference will offer 60 panels and workshops. Presenters include law enforcement managers, crime analysts, geographers, criminal justice researchers, and others. For additional information, (e.g., call for papers) please visit our website: www.ojpc.usdoj.gov/cmrc. Registration will be available on-line at www.njpcs.org/upcoming.htm (by July/August).

ANZSOC 2002 16TH ANNUAL CONFERENCE
"Preventing Crime and Doing Justice"

The 16th annual conference of the Australian and New Zealand Society of Criminology will be held in Brisbane October 1-3, 2002. Hosted by the School of Criminology and Criminal Justice and the Key Centre for Ethics, Law, Justice and Governance at Griffith University, the conference next year will take place at the Sheraton Hotel, located a above Central Station in the heart of Brisbane, accessible directly from the airport by AirTrain.

Confirmation speakers include Tony Bottoms and David Farrington, both from the Institute of Criminology at Cambridge University. In addition, Robert Sampson, from the Department of Sociology, University of Chicago, is among the keynote speakers. A large number of other speakers from Australia and around the world are expected to attend. Highlights of the social calendar will include a dinner at the old Boggo Road jail and a welcome reception co-hosted by the American Society of Criminology.
CRIME AND SOCIAL ORGANIZATION
Volume 10
Elin Waring and David Weisburg, editors
This tenth volume in the Advances in Criminological Theory series is dedicated to Albert J. Reiss, Jr. It focuses on the relationship between crime and social organization that is so central to his work. This focus rejects a view of crime solely as the action of atomistic individuals and sees the criminal justice system as inseparable from its social, political and organizational context. This perspective has had a resurgence in recent years, and this volume brings together some of the most important scholars who have contributed to these developments.
0-7658-0064-7 2001 285 pp. $44.95 / £33.95

THE PROCESS AND STRUCTURE OF CRIME
Volume 9
Robert F. Meier, Leslie W. Kennedy, Vincent F. Sacco, editors
0-7658-0004-7 2000 317 pp. $44.95 / £37.95

THE CRIMINOLOGY OF CRIMINAL LAW
Volume 8
William S. Laufer and Freda Adler, editors
With a foreword by Gerhard O.W. Mueller
1-56000-329-4 1999 535 pp. $44.95 / £37.95

DEVELOPMENTAL THEORIES OF CRIME AND DELINQUENCY
Volume 7
Terence P. Thornberry, editor
1-56000-199-2 (cloth) 1997 359 pp. $49.95 / £41.95

THE LEGACY OF ANOMIE THEORY
Volume 6
Freda Adler and William S. Laufer, editors
Part One by Robert K. Merton
1-56000-125-9 (cloth) 1995 439 pp. $49.95 / £41.95
0-7658-0662-2 (paper) 1999 $32.95 / £27.95

Order from your bookstore or direct from the publisher. Toll free (US only) 1-888-999-6778 or fax 732-748-9801

FORTHCOMING IN 2002
Volume 11 Ronald L. Akers and Gary F. Jensen, editors
Control Theories of Crime and Delinquency
Volume 12 Chester Britt and Michael R. Gottfredson

ROUTINE ACTIVITY AND RATIONAL CHOICE
Volume 5
Ronald V. Clarke and Marcus Felson, editors
1-56000-087-2 (cloth) 1993 418 pp. $49.95 / £41.95

NEW DIRECTIONS IN CRIMINOLOGICAL THEORY
Volume 4
Freda Adler and William S. Laufer, editors
1-56000-046-5 (cloth) 1993 406 pp. $44.95 / £37.95

FACTS, FRAMEWORKS, AND FORECASTS
Volume 3
Joan McCord, editor
0-88738-363-7 (cloth) 1992 337 pp. $44.95 / £37.95

ADVANCES IN CRIMINOLOGICAL THEORY
Volume 2
William S. Laufer and Freda Adler, editors
0-88738-287-8 (cloth) 1990 181 pp. $44.95 / £37.95

ADVANCES IN CRIMINOLOGICAL THEORY
Volume 1
William S. Laufer and Freda Adler, editors
0-88738-182-0 (cloth) 1989 159 pp. $44.95 / £37.95

Visit our web site for online specials
www.transactionpub.com
*individual credit card orders only
CALL FOR PAPERS

The new ASC journal, Criminology and Public Policy, is currently accepting manuscripts for consideration.

Criminology and Public Policy is a peer-review journal devoted to the study of criminal justice policy and practice. The central objective of the journal is to strengthen the role of research findings in the formulation of crime and justice policy by publishing empirically based, policy focused articles. Authors are encouraged to submit papers that contribute to a more informed dialogue about policies and their empirical bases. Papers suitable for CPP not only present their findings but explore the policy-relevant implications of those findings. Appropriate papers (1) empirically evaluate criminal justice policy or practice, (2) provide scientific support for new policies or practices, or (3) review existing research from a policy framework.

Criminology & Public Policy only considers original manuscripts which have not been previously published and are not currently under consideration elsewhere. Manuscripts should be typed, double-spaced and limited to 30 pages, including tables and figures. Style sheets are available upon request. Please submit five hard-copies and one electronic copy of the manuscript, an abstract of approximately 150 words, and a brief biographical sketch of the author(s) including contact information (address, phone number and e-mail), affiliation, recent publications and research interests.
Criminal Justice & Globalization
At the New Millennium

Introduction
ROBERT P. WEISS, GUEST EDITOR

Global Anomie, Dynomie & Economic Crime: Hidden Consequences of Neoliberalism & Globalization in Russia & Around the World
NIKOS PASSAS

The Fight to Reappear
VINCENZO RUGGIERO

The End of the (Mas) Line? Chinese Policing in the Era of the Contract
MICHAEL DUTTON

The Police as Social Change Agents? The Curious Case of Poland’s Transition
GARY T. MARX

Urban Violence & Police Privatization in Brazil: Blended Invisibility
MARTHA K. HUGGINS

America’s One Million Nonviolent Prisoners
JOHN IRWIN, VINCENT SCHIRALDI & JASON ZIEDENBERG

MARC-ANDRE PIGEON & L. RANDALL WRAY

Gene Warfare
RANDALL G. SHLEDEN

“One Thousand Days of Degradation”: New Labour & Old Compromises at the Turn of the Century
JOE SIM

Social Wrongs & Human Rights in Late Modern Britain: Social Exclusion, Crime Control & Prospects for a Public Criminology
EMONN CARRABINE, MAGGY LEE & NIGEL SOUTH

Complexity & Irony in Policing & Protesting: The World Trade Organization in Seattle
PATRICK F. GILLHAM & GARY T. MARX

Enlightenment as Punishment
THOMAS L. DUMM

American Exceptionalism & the Death Penalty
TONY G. Poveda

Constitutive Criminology: Origins, Core Concepts & Evaluation
STUART HENRY & DRAGAN MILovanovic

Send orders to: Social Justice, P.O. Box 40601, San Francisco, CA 94140 or SocialJust@aol.com
ASC Employment Exchange On The Web

The ASC Employment Exchange lists Positions and Candidates on the World Wide Web. You can find the listings by going to the ASC website (www.asc41.com/asceefront.htm). The listings will be updated regularly and will be available through December. The deadline for submission is November 1, 2001. Send your submissions by e-mail to Ken Adams - keadams@lupui.edu (please insert ASC EMPLOYMENT EXCHANGE in the subject line).

Position Listings

Institutions can post their advertisement on the Employment Exchange Web Page for $100 per listing. Do not include payment; you will be billed by ASC.

1. Include in the text of your e-mail message the following information, as you want it to appear in the listing. This information needs to be provided separate from any advertisement that you may send.

   1. Name of Institution / Web Page
   2. Position Title
   3. Areas of Specialization
   4. Application Deadline or Initial Review Date
   5. Contact Person with E-mail Address - (so candidates can communicate with you and arrange for meetings, discussions, etc).

2. Attach or insert a file with a copy of your advertisement (one page limit, please) in a WORD (preferable) or WORDPERFECT file. Web links can be included.

3. Please include billing information (name, address, etc.).

Candidate Listings

ASC members can list their availability for employment at no charge. Include in the text of your e-mail message the following information, as you want it to appear in the listing:

1. Name
2. Degree (type of degree, institution, year)
3. Areas of Specialization (please be brief)
4. E-mail Address / Web Page

Institutions that are interested in your candidacy will be instructed to contact you by e-mail in order to solicit a copy of your vita or other information. This procedure will allow us to handle a large number of listings and will help protect your privacy.
POSITION ANNOUNCEMENTS

THE CRIMINOLOGIST will regularly feature in these columns position vacancies available in organizations and universities, as well as positions sought by members of the Society.

A charge of $150.00 with the absolute maximum of 250 words allowed will be made. The position announcement will also appear on the ASC website: www.asc41.com. The charge will be waived for institutional members of ASC.

It is the policy of the ASC to publish position vacancies announcements only from those institutions or agencies which subscribe to equal education and employment opportunities and those which encourage women and minorities to apply.

Institutions should indicate the deadline for the submission of application materials. The Professional Employment Exchange will be a regular feature at each Annual Meeting. Prospective employers and employees should register with the Society no later than three weeks prior to the Annual Meeting of the Society. Appropriate forms may be obtained by writing to the ASC offices in Columbus, Ohio.

To place announcements in THE CRIMINOLOGIST, send all material to: Sarah Hall, ASC, 1314 Kinnear Road, Suite 212, Columbus, OH 43212-1156. Telephone (614)292-9207, Fax (614)292-6767 or e-mail: asc41@isinfnet.com

When sending announcements, please include a phone number, fax number and contact person in the event we have questions about an ad.

AMERICAN BAR FOUNDATION

The American Bar Foundation invites applications from highly qualified scholars to join its community of resident research fellows. ABF Research Fellowships are continuing, not visiting, appointments. Both rank and field are open. Part-time appointments undertaken in cooperation with area institutions, as well as full-time appointments, can be considered. Candidates must have completed a law degree or a Ph.D. in a relevant discipline. Senior candidates must be able to demonstrate outstanding scholarship; junior candidates must demonstrate outstanding potential. Salaries and fringe benefits (including TIARA-CREF) are competitive with those at leading research universities.

Applications from minorities and women are especially encouraged. The American Bar Foundation is an independent research institute pursuing empirical study of law and legal institutions. ABF research fellows initiate, develop, conduct and publish their own and collaborative scholarly research funded through the ABF's own financial resources or through grants made to individual projects by government agencies and private foundations. The Foundation also provides extensive support services, including research assistance and technical support. Research fellows have full use of the libraries and computer facilities at Northwestern University and the University of Chicago. Research currently underway includes both basic and applied empirical research, undertaken from a variety of disciplinary and interdisciplinary perspectives: anthropology, criminology, economics, history, law, political science, psychology, and sociology.

All applications must include: (1) a cover letter; (2) a 400-word statement of current research activities and future plans; (3) a resume/cv, and (4) copies of the applicant's three leading publications (senior applicants) or other evidence of scholarship (junior applicants). All applicants should also request two referees to forward confidential letters of support directly to the Foundation. Screening of applications will commence immediately and continue until an appointment is made. Applications received before October 15, 2001, will receive full consideration. All application materials and administrative questions should be sent to: Renee Brown, American Bar Foundation, 750 North Lake Shore Drive, Chicago, IL 60611. Email: rjbrown@abfn.org. Inquiries about the research positions should be directed to: Terry Halliday, Chair, Appointments Committee, at hallydab@abfn.org. This announcement may also be found on the ABF website http://www.abf-sociollegal.org.

ARKANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY

The Department of Criminology, Sociology, Social Work, and Geography solicits applications for two tenure track positions in Criminology. One of these positions will be filled at the rank of Assistant Professor while one will be open for advanced Assistants or Associate Professor. The positions are open to any specialization, however preference will be given to generalists who can teach in at least one of the following areas: Corrections, Policing/Law Enforcement, and/or the Courts and Judicial Processes. The Department offers the B.A. degree in Criminology and an M.A. in Sociology with a Criminology track. Successful candidates must show a strong commitment to effective teaching and research. For appointment at the rank of Associate Professor the candidate should have a strong record of research and publication, success in acquiring external funding is a strong plus. A Ph.D. in crimi...
(Continued from page 17)

tively with a wide and diverse range of students. Previous professional experience and interdisciplinary teaching experience are desirable but not required. Background or interest in a related area that will contribute to the development of the Criminal Justice elective curriculum is also desirable. Please send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, three letters of recommendation, evidence of teaching effectiveness (e.g., syllabi and evaluations), a sample of scholarly writing, and graduate transcripts (s) to the Division Chair. Applicants who have additional expertise in other areas of Criminal Justice are requested to include a description of their qualifications and interests within the letter of application. Application review begins immediately. To receive full consideration, please submit all materials by October 15. Position is open until filled. Send materials to: Professor Alan Saltstein, Chair, Division of Political Science and Criminal Justice, California State University, Fullerton, P.O. Box 6848, Fullerton, CA 92834-6848. CSUF is an Affirmative Action/Equal Employment Opportunity/Title IX, ADA Employer. Applications from women and minority candidates are strongly encouraged. Achieving a Climate of Success through Diversity and Equity.

CALIFORNIA STATE UNIVERSITY, HAYWARD

Department of Criminal Justice Administration seeks applications for a full time tenure-track position available 9/02. Review of applications will begin 11/26/01. Position will be considered until filled. Candidates must hold the Ph.D. (or equiv.) degree in Criminal Justice or related field by 9/02. Criminal Justice experience, demonstrated teaching excellence (teaching experience at the university level), and strong research accomplishments/potential preferred. Rank and Salary: Assistant Professor. Salary is dependent upon educational preparation and experience. Subject to budgetary authorization. Primary teaching areas are: evidence, investigation, community relations, crime prevention, and control and corrections. In addition to teaching, all faculty have advising responsibilities, assist the department with administrative and committee work, and are expected to assume campus-wide committee responsibilities. Responsibilities will also include: work with student club, research, and university/community service and representation. Submit letter of application, current vita, most recent publications (no more than 2), graduate transcripts, and three letters of recommendation to Dr. Patricia Zajac, Search Committee Chair, Department of Criminal Justice Administration, California State University, Hayward, 25800 Carlos Bee Blvd., Hayward, CA 94542-3044. Phone (510) 885-3590; Fax (510) 885-2529; e-mail pzajac@csuhayward.edu.

POSITION #02-03 CJA-CORRECTIONS-TT (EOE).

CALIFORNIA STATE UNIVERSITY, LOS ANGELES

Department of Criminal Justice announces two tenure-track, open rank positions; one with a specialty in Policing and one with specialization in the area of Juvenile Justice or Forensic Mental Health. A Ph.D. in criminal justice or related discipline from an accredited institution of higher education. Position 1: A specialization in the area of policing and competence in quantitative approaches preferred. Position 2: A specialization in the area of juvenile justice or forensic mental health with competence in either quantitative and/or qualitative approaches preferred. All candidates must have a record of scholarly activity, demonstrated potential for effective teaching using a variety of methodologies, and demonstrated ability and/or interest in working in a multicultural environment. Appointment at rank other than assistant requires evidence of ability to secure external funding and a consistent record of peer reviewed publication. Doctorate is required for tenure. Responsibilities for both of these positions include development and instruction of courses in the area(s) of expertise at both undergraduate and graduate levels, ability to teach general courses in criminal justice, routine engagement in scholarly activity, participation in University and community service, development and implementation of student assessment plans, development of grant proposals, and provision of student advisement. Review of completed applications will begin in November 5, 2001 and will continue until position is filled. Please send a cover letter and vita outlining teaching, research and grant experiences. We also require three letters of recommendation and an official transcript from the institution awarding the highest degree. Employment is contingent upon proof of eligibility to work in the United States. Send all correspondence to: Dr. Deborah Baskin, Chairperson, Department of Criminal Justice, California State University, Los Angeles, 5151 State University Drive, Los Angeles, CA 90032-8163

CENTRAL CONNECTICUT STATE UNIVERSITY

3 Positions – The Department of Criminology and Criminal Justice.

Position 1: The Department invites applications for a tenure-track position to be filled at the Assistant or Associate Professor level. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. Candidates must have a Ph.D. in criminology, criminal justice, or a related field at the time of appointment (a J.D. without a Ph. D. will not be considered). Experience and credentials above this level may make one eligible for consideration at the rank of Associate Professor. Areas of specialization are open, but preference will be given to applicants having a background in white collar crime and/or administration in criminal justice. Applicants are expected to have a demonstrated ability to teach at the undergraduate and graduate levels as well as conduct and publish scholarly work. Demonstrated success working in a multicultural environment. To apply, send a letter of application, vita, and the names and addresses of three references to Dr. Jennifer Hedlund, Search Committee Chair, Department of Criminology and Criminal Justice, Central Connecticut State University, New Britain, CT 06050-4010.

CENTRAL CONNECTICUT STATE UNIVERSITY

Position 2: The Department of Criminology and Criminal Justice invites applications for a tenure-track position to be filled at the Assistant Professor level. Candidates must have a Ph.D. in criminology, criminal justice, or a related field at the time of appointment (a J.D. without a Ph.

(Continued on page 19)
D. will not be considered). Areas of specialization are open, but preference will be given to applicants who can teach diversity and ethics. Applicants are expected to have a demonstrated ability to teach at the undergraduate and graduate levels as well as conduct and publish scholarly work. Demonstrated success working in a multicultural environment. To apply, send a letter of application, vita, and the names and addresses of three references to Dr. Stephen M. Cox, Search Committee Chair, Department of Criminology and Criminal Justice, Central Connecticut State University, New Britain, CT 06050-4010.

CENTRAL CONNECTICUT STATE UNIVERSITY

Position 3: The Department of Criminology and Criminal Justice invites applications for a tenure-track position to be filled at the Assistant Professor level. Candidates must have a Ph.D. at the time of appointment (a J.D. without a Ph.D. will not be considered). Preference will be given to applicants with a specialization in the areas of substance abuse treatment and addictions. Applicants are expected to have a demonstrated ability to teach at the undergraduate and graduate levels as well as conduct and publish scholarly work. Demonstrated success working in a multicultural environment. To apply, send a letter of application, vita, and the names and addresses of three references to Dr. Raymond Chip Tasfrage, Search Committee Chair, Department of Criminology and Criminal Justice, Central Connecticut State University, New Britain, CT 06050-4010.

Review of all applications will start November 1, 2001 and will continue until the position is filled. For more information about university and the department, visit our website at www.crim.ccsu.edu. Central Connecticut State University aggressively pursues a program of Equal Employment and Education Opportunity/Affirmative Action. Members of all underrepresented groups, women, veterans, and persons with disabilities are invited and encouraged to apply.

COLORADO STATE UNIVERSITY

Department of Sociology seeks two Assistant Professors, tenure track, nine month positions beginning August 15, 2002. Competitive salary. The candidates must have a Ph.D. in Sociology or related social sciences at the time of employment. The Department seeks two criminologists/sociologists with an interest in public policy and/or social change who can teach introductory sociology and can teach among the courses in sociology of law, criminology, and/or law enforcement and society. The Department offers undergraduate, masters and doctoral degrees. The successful candidates should contribute to the graduate and undergraduate programs. Faculty are expected to participate in instruction, develop a program of research and publication, and be active in service. General criminology related research and teaching interests such as demography, deviance, environmental justice, immigration, and social control would be welcomed. Candidates are sought who can work effectively and collegially with a professionally diverse faculty. Applications and nominations will be considered until the position is filled; however, applicants should submit complete applications by November 1, 2001 for full consideration. Candidates should send a letter of interest, a curriculum vita and three letters of reference to Dr. Ronny Turner, Search Committee Chair, Department of Sociology, Colorado State University, Fort Collins, CO 80523. CSU is an Equal Employment Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. O.E.O. office: 101 Student Services. <www.colostate.edu/Depts/Sociology>

EASTERN MICHIGAN UNIVERSITY

The Department of Sociology, Anthropology and Criminology invites applications for a tenure-track position in criminology/criminal justice at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning Fall 2002. Applicants must have a Ph.D. or be ABD from a program in Criminology, Criminal Justice, or Sociology at the time of appointment. Primary consideration will be given to a generalist in criminology and/or criminal justice whose work also ideally reflects an interest in police organization and in general and crime. In addition, those candidates who possess an interest in victimization and/or deviant behavior should apply. Primary consideration will be given to applicants with a completed Ph.D., good teaching skills, and an active research agenda. Send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, and three letters of recommendation to Posting #F0214, Eastern Michigan University, 202 Boone Hall, Ypsilanti, MI 48197. Review of applications will begin November 15, 2001, but will continue until the position is filled. EMU is an AA/EOE.

FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY

The School of Criminology and Criminal Justice invites applications for a position at the Assistant or Associate Professor level. Ph.D. or equivalent is required. Applicants are expected to have a demonstrated ability to conduct and publish significant research or other scholarship. Areas of specialization are open. The appointment will begin August, 2002. Review of credentials will continue until the position is filled. Women and persons of color are particularly welcome applicants. Please send letter of application, vita and the names of three references to Ted Chiricos, Search Committee Chair, School of Criminology and Criminal Justice, Florida State University, 634 W. Call Street, Tallahassee, FL 32306-1127. The Florida State University is an Equal Opportunity Employer, committed to excellence through diversity. FSU complies with the Americans with Disabilities Act and is a public records agency pursuant to Chapter 119, Florida Statutes.

FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY

The School of Criminology and Criminal Justice invites applications for a Distinguished Professorship at the Florida State University. The person appointed to this position must have a national reputation for research and scholarship and a strong agenda for continued research productivity. The successful applicant will participate as a tenured full professor in the School. Areas of specialization are open. The appointment will begin by mutual agreement. Review of credentials will continue until the position is filled. Please send letter of application and vita. to Ted Chiricos, Search Committee Chair, School of Criminology and Criminal Justice, Florida State University, 634 W. Call Street, Tallahassee, FL 32306-11267. The Florida State University is an Equal Opportunity Employer, committed to excellence through diversity. FSU complies with the Americans with Disabilities Act and is a public records agency pursuant to Chapter 119, Florida Statutes.

GEORGE MASON UNIVERSITY

George Mason University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in the Administration of Justice Program (ADJ), located in the Department of Public and International Affairs (PIA) for Fall 2002. Requirements: Ph.D. in hand or very near completion in a relevant field and promise of excellent teaching and scholarship. Area of specialization is open, but priority needs are in international/comparative justice, juvenile justice, law and society, courts, and crime policy. ADJ is a multi-disciplinary program with six faculty, enrolling 400 undergraduates and offering a concentration in PIA’s nationally ranked MPA program. ADJ faculty hold doctorates in political science, criminal justice, public administration, psychology, and law. The ADJ program is based at the Prince William campus in Manassas, Virginia, 35 miles west of Washington, DC. Applicants should submit a letter of interest, vita, teaching evaluations or other evidence of teaching effectiveness, examples of research publications, and three letters of recommendation. Review of applications will begin October 1, but applications after that date will be considered until the position is filled. Submit applications to: Stephen D. Mastrofski, Administration of Justice Program, 10900 University Blvd., MS 4F4, George Mason University, Manassas, VA 20110-2203. George Mason University is an Affirmative Action and Equal Opportunity Employer. Women, minorities, and persons with disabilities are strongly encouraged to apply.

THE GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY.

The Department of Sociology invites applications for a non-tenure track, 3-year renewable position at the Assistant or Associate Professor level, with interests in Criminology and Criminal Justice, to begin in Fall 2002. We seek candidates who demonstrate commitment to outstanding teaching at the undergraduate and graduate levels and research interests in areas related to their teaching. Ideally, candidates will be able to teach courses in criminal law, the judicial system, and related special topics. The candidate will be involved in developing a new M.A. program in Criminal Justice administered jointly by the Department of Sociology and Forensic Science. A candidate must have completed the doctoral degree by the time of appointment. Review of applications will begin on December 1, 2001 and continue until the position is filled. Applicants should submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, three letters of recommendation, and evidence of teaching and research interests to: Criminal Justice Search Committee, Department of Sociology, The George Washington University, 801 22nd Street, NW, Phillips Hall 409, Washington, DC 20052. The George Washington University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer.

GEORGIA STATE UNIVERSITY

The Department of Criminal Justice at Georgia State University seeks to fill a tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level. The position represents a nine-month appointment with annual review and the possibility of summer teaching. Ph.D. in criminal justice or directly related field is preferred. The position must be in hand by the start of employment. Areas of specialization are open, but the Department is particularly interested in applicants with expertise in the following areas: quantitative methods, law enforcement, or court administration. University teaching experience and a demonstrated record of research and publication is required. Responsibilities for the position include the ability to teach undergraduate and graduate courses, conduct research, publish scholarly work, advise students, direct graduate research, and participate in university-related service. Review of applications will begin November 1, 2001; position open until filled. Appointment will begin August 2002. Georgia State University has an enrollment of over 24,000 students and is located in downtown Atlanta with easy access to the state capitol, state and federal courthouses, and many other criminal justice agencies. The Department of Criminal Justice offers degrees at the baccalaureate and masters' levels and is involved in a number of public service and research efforts. Interested applicants should submit a letter of application, vita, and three letters of reference to: Dr. Michael S. Vaughn, Chair, Search Committee, Department of Criminal Justice, Georgia State University, P.O. Box 4018, Atlanta, GA 30302-4018. For further information about the Department, please see our web site at www.gsu.edu. Georgia State University, a unit of the University System of Georgia, is an equal opportunity educational institution and an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer.

ILLINOIS STATE UNIVERSITY - NORMAL/BLOOMINGTON

Department of Criminal Justice Sciences, Position 01472 (Assistant/Associate Professor), tenure track, nine-month position starting Fall Semester 2002. Qualifications: Earned doctorate in Criminal Justice or related area, with an emphasis on criminological theory and research methods. Individuals who are pursuing a terminal degree (Ph.D.) who have reasonable expectations of completing degree requirements, including dissertation defense, by May 15, 2003 will be considered. Candidates seeking Assistant Professor must hold the Ph.D. at the time of application. Candidates for Associate Professor must have a record of scholarship and service which is focused around the primary teaching assignment. In the absence of an established record of scholarship, the accumulation of appropriate skills and abilities to develop such a record of scholarship will be considered for the Assistant Professor position. A record reflecting the ability to teach at the undergraduate/graduate level. Duties: Teach undergraduate and graduate courses that are part of the primary assignment, including Crime and Behavior (Criminological Theory), Research Methods, and the Department's course on "Justice" in
The Criminologist

ISU's General Education Program. We are seeking an individual with interest in developing and teaching a course on "ethics" that can be part of the primary teaching assignment. Develop and maintain a focused agenda of scholarship appropriate to the discipline. Candidates for Associate Professor must have a record of scholarly accomplishments. Participate in the Department's curriculum development process. Demonstrate professional service to the Department, College, University, community, and profession. Salary commensurate with qualifications and experience. Review of applications will begin on November 16, 2001 and continue until the position is filled. Position Start Date: August 16, 2002. To assure full consideration, applicants should submit a letter detailing education and professional preparation for the position, a curriculum vitae, three letters of reference, and official transcripts by November 16, 2001 to: Dr. Thomas Ellsworth, Chairperson, Faculty Search Committee, Department of Criminal Justice Sciences, Illinois State University, Campus Box 5250, Normal, IL 61790-5250. The Department of Criminal Justice Sciences web site can be found at www.ilstu.edu/depts/cjs. For additional information: Telephone 309/438-7626; e-mail: tellswor@ilstu.edu. Illinois State University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action University encouraging diversity.

INDIANA UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA

Indiana University of Pennsylvania's Department of Criminology invites applications for an anticipated full time, tenure-track, Assistant Professor position to begin Fall 2002. Our Department, which has the largest undergraduate enrollment in IUP's College of Humanities and Social Sciences, offers Bachelors, Masters, and Doctorate degrees. Candidates must have a Ph.D. in Criminology, Criminal Justice, or a closely related social science discipline. ABDs may apply, but we will consider only individuals who can reasonably expect to have their degree in hand by Fall 2001. Area of specialization is open. We are seeking applicants with a strong commitment to teaching at the undergraduate and graduate levels and to pursuing an active research agenda. In order to become a finalist, candidates must communicate effectively and perform well during the interview(s), which may include a teaching demonstration. Applicants are urged to submit copies of publications or writing samples that demonstrate research interests. Applicants should forward a letter of application, a current vita, official transcripts, three letters of reference, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and copies of publications or writing samples, to Dr. David Myers, Chair, Search Committee, Department of Criminology, IUP, Indiana, PA 15705. Priority will be given to applications received by November 1, 2001. No applications will be accepted after December 3, 2001. IUP is an Equal Opportunity Employer M/F/H/V.

LEMOYNE COLLEGE

The Department of Sociology and Anthropology invites applications for a tenure track position in criminology at the rank of Assistant Professor to begin the fall, 2002 pending administrative approval. We are looking for a person with a Ph.D. in sociology or an allied discipline. ABDs will be considered. Teaching experience is required. We are especially interested in candidates also possessing an M.S.W., J.D., or other related degree. The Department's sociology major currently contains a concentration and a minor in Criminology and Criminal Justice and we are presently developing an interdisciplinary major called Criminology and Crime & Justice Studies. Courses that the candidate would be expected to teach including some combination of the following: introductory sociology, criminology, juvenile delinquency, deviance, social welfare, plus other courses that the candidate develops for this program. We will begin reviewing materials October 31, 2001 and will continue until the position is filled. Please send a letter of interest, vita, evidence of teaching experience and effectiveness and names of three references to Lynn McMartin, Director of Human Resources, Lemoyn College, 1419 Salt Springs Rd., Syracuse, NY 13214-1399. Lemoyn College is a private, Catholic, 4-year liberal arts in the Jesuit tradition with a demanding core curriculum and a strong commitment to racial, cultural, and ethnic diversity. We are dedicated to teaching excellence in a student-centered learning environment. Lemoyn College is an EEO Employer and encourages women, persons of color, and Jesuits to apply for employment. Visit our webpage: www.lemoyne.edu

NORTH CAROLINA STATE UNIVERSITY

Professor and Head, Department of Sociology and Anthropology. Ph.D., active research agenda, and scholarly record appropriate for Full professor appointment at a Research university required. The Department is looking for an innovative leader to continue to build the Department's national reputation for research and graduate education and to provide leadership in undergraduate teaching and extension. Our top priorities are creative approaches to enhancing programs in both anthropology and sociology, generating outside resources, and achieving collective success. The Department of Sociology and Anthropology has 33 faculty and offers bachelors degrees in anthropology, criminology, rural sociology and sociology and M.S., M. Soc, and Ph.D. degrees in Sociology. The University is a public, land-grant institution with enrollment of 27,000. It is located in the capital city and Research Triangle. For further information see http://sasw.chass.ncsu.edu/s&s/aahpg.htm. Applicants should send letters indicating leadership experience and philosophy, ideas about program development, and research interests along with a curriculum vitae, and names of five references with addresses and phone numbers. In its commitment to diversity and equity, NC State seeks applications from women, minorities, and persons with disabilities. Screening of materials begins November 1. Send materials to James H. Svara, Chair, Sociology & Anthropology Head Search Committee, Department of Political Science & Public Administration, 215 Caldwell Building, NC State University, Raleigh, NC 27695-8102. NCS is an Equal Opportunity Employer. Individuals with disabilities desiring accommodations in the application process should contact Carol Apperson, Political contact Carol Apperson, Political Science, <apperson@social.chass.ncsu.edu>, 919/515-5074 (voice) or 919/515-7333 (fax).

NORTH CAROLINA STATE UNIVERSITY
The Department of Sociology and Anthropology invites applicants for a tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level for Fall of 2002. A Ph.D. in sociology by July 1, 2002, is required with primary specialization within the field of crime, deviance and social control. Strong preference will be given to candidates with a secondary area of specialization consistent with the strengths of the Department. (See our university web page for further information: http://www.ncsu.edu/) Candidates must show clear promise of outstanding teaching and scholarship. Responsibilities include undergraduate and graduate teaching, active engagement in research, and service. The undergraduate and graduate programs in crime, deviance, and social control are embedded in a sociology curriculum that stresses development in the core areas of sociological theory and analysis. The Department consists of 32 faculty, of which 27 are sociologists, including six with specialties in crime, deviance, and social control. NC State offers competitive salaries, administrative commitment to facilitate research productivity and excellent area amenities.

Formal screening of applicants begins October 2, 2001. Send vita, a statement outlining expected teaching and research agendas, and three letters of reference to: Charles Tittle, Chair, recruitment Committee, Department of Sociology & Anthropology, Box 8107, North Carolina State University, Raleigh, NC 27695-8107. NCSU is an Equal Opportunity and Affirmative Action Employer. For ADA accommodations individuals with disabilities should contact: Charles Tittle (919) 515-3180, e-mail: crtittle@hotmail.com

NORTHERN MICHIGAN UNIVERSITY
Northern Michigan University announces a tenure track Assistant Professor position in the Department of Criminal Justice effective Fall 2002. Persons applying for this position should have a generalist orientation with the interest, and ability to teach law enforcement classes at the undergraduate level. Additionally, preference will be given to those candidates who can demonstrate an ability to teach select courses at the graduate level that could include such topics as: Advanced Criminological Theory, Research Methods, and Discretionary Justice. Experience with student outcome assessment is also desirable. Applicants for this position should have a Ph.D. in criminal justice or a related field along with appropriate professional experience in law enforcement. ABDs will be considered, but Ph.D. is required at time of hire. The Department of Criminal Justice offers a master of science degree, a bachelor of science degree, and several associates degree in criminal justice. In addition, the Department offers a certificate in corrections and provides extensive in-service training for regional law enforcement and corrections personnel. Salary is competitive. Send letter of interest, vita, and the names, addresses, and telephone numbers of at least three professional references to: Paul L. Lang, Ph.D., Department Head, Criminal Justice Department, Northern Michigan University, 1401 Presque Isle Avenue, Marquette, MI 49855 (906) 227-2660. Review of applications will begin November 15, 2001 and will continue until the position is filled.

PORTLAND STATE UNIVERSITY
The Division of Administration of Justice in the Mark Hatfield School of Government at Portland State University seeks a director for its Criminal Justice Policy Research Institute. The director position is for a joint faculty appointment at any rank. The position is a nine months tenure track appointment starting January 1, 2002 with a salary range of $48,000 to $62,000. Priority is given to candidates with a strong record in obtaining research grants from national, private, state, or local levels on criminal justice issues. The position entails teaching three courses across three quarters. A Ph.D. in criminal justice or directly related fields is required. Applicants should submit a detailed letter of application, curriculum vitae, and three reference letters. Interviews start in October 2001. Send applications to: Chair, search Committee, Portland State University, Division of Administration of Justice, P.O. 751-JUST, Portland, OR 97207-0751. PSU is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Institute.

RUTGERS UNIVERSITY
The Department of Sociology, Anthropology and Criminal Justice on the Camden Campus of Rutgers University invites applications for two full-time, tenure-track faculty positions at the Assistant Professor level. The positions offer the opportunity to teach law and/or masters students in criminal justice in addition to undergraduates. Requirements include: 1) Ph.D. in Sociology, anthropology, law and society, criminology, or related field; 2) teaching expertise in one or more of the following areas: criminal justice, policy, organizational behavior, program evaluation, juvenile delinquency, victimology, comparative criminal justice, violent crime, gangs, and/or organized crime; 3) a demonstrable record of research and publication in criminal justice or related fields; and 4) a commitment to teaching excellence. Ability to utilize and teach GIS applications a plus. Send letter of application, curriculum vitae, names of five references, and representative publications to Dr. Drew Humphries, Search Committee, Department of Sociology, Anthropology and Criminal Justice, Rutgers University, Camden NJ 08102-1405. Application deadline is December 3, 2001. The University and Department have a strong commitment to achieving diversity among faculty and staff; qualified women and members of ethnic minorities are encouraged to apply. Learn more about the position and the Department at http://sociology.camden.rutgers.edu.

SAINT LOUIS UNIVERSITY

Saint Louis University, a Catholic, Jesuit institution dedicated to education, research and healthcare, is seeking applicants for the Department of Sociology and Criminal Justice. The full-time tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level begins fall semester 2002. A doctorate in Criminal Justice, Criminology, or Sociology with strong research and teaching skills is required. Saint Louis University is classified as a Research Extensive Institution by the Carnegie Foundation. Teaching and research interests in one or more of the following areas are desirable—Criminal Justice Policy, Criminal Justice System, and Law Enforcement Administration. The Department offers a B.A. in Criminal Justice, a B.A. in Sociology, and a certificate program in forensic science in conjunction with the Departments of Biology and Chemistry and the School of Medicine. Secondary appointments are possible at the graduate level in a number of areas, including Public Policy Studies and Social Service. The Department has working relationships with more than 50 criminal justice agencies and organizations in the Saint Louis metropolitan area. Send an applica-

SOUTHERN ILLINOIS UNIVERSITY, EDWARDSVILLE

Three tenure-track Assistant Professors are sought for a new major in Criminal Justice Studies within the Department of Sociology, starting August 1, 2002. Ph.D. in criminology, criminal justice, sociology, or a closely-related field required. All candidates must have a strong grounding in theory, methods, and data analysis and their application to real-world problems and issues in criminal justice. Successful candidates will have demonstrated teaching and research expertise in one or more of the following areas: policing, corrections, and the judicial process. Secondary areas of expertise must include at least one of the following: public policy, race/class/gender, juvenile justice, criminal law and procedure, and special problems in criminal justice such as drugs, domestic violence, terrorism, white-collar crime, gangs, and guns. Apart from teaching, successful candidates will be expected to develop and maintain an active research agenda, and to participate in the supervision of student interns. The Department of Sociology at SIUE currently has nine full-time faculty members and five teaching adjuncts. For more information about the Department, visit our website at www.siu.edu/SOCIOLOGY/sociology.htm. Letters of interest, examples of written work, curriculum vitae, official transcripts, and three reference letters should be received by November 1 to be included in the first round of applicant reviews. Faculty will be at the ASC Meeting in Atlanta to meet with potential candidates. Minorities and women are encouraged to apply. Send applications to CJ Search Committee Chair, Box 1455, Southern Illinois University, Edwardsville, IL 62026. SIU is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Institution.

UNIVERSITY AT ALBANY

The School of Criminal Justice invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position to begin Fall, 2002. Applications are invited from individuals with research and teaching interests and expertise in areas including, but not limited to, crime, criminal justice systems, information technology in criminal justice, law and society, and research methods. Candidates must have completed a Ph.D. or equivalent degree prior to the position starting date and must have demonstrated potential for excellence in teaching, research, and published scholarship. Review of applications will begin November 13, 2001 and will continue until the position is filled. Candidates should send a letter of application including a detailed statement of their interests and research plans, three letters of reference, and curriculum vitae to Professor Robert Worden, Chair, Search Committee, School of Criminal Justice, University at Albany, 135 Western Avenue, Albany, NY 12222. The School of Criminal Justice has an internationally renowned Ph.D. program, an innovative and comprehensive MA program, and provides a select group of undergraduates the opportunity to earn the BA in criminal justice. Additional information about the School is available at http://www.albany.edu/scj/. The University at Albany is an EEO/AA/IRCA/ADA Employer. This position is contingent on final budgetary approval.

UNIVERSITY OF ALBERTA
The Department of Sociology, invites applications for a tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level in Criminology. We seek a candidate with teaching and research interests in areas such as young offenders and youth justice. Applicants should have a Ph.D. (or expect to complete by July 2002), and provide evidence of excellence in both teaching and research. Appointments will commence July 1, 2002. The floor of the Assistant Professor salary scale is $45,374 (currently under negotiation). The University of Alberta offers an excellent benefits package. In accordance with Canadian Immigration requirements, priority will be given to Canadian citizens and permanent residents of Canada. If suitable Canadian citizens and permanent residents cannot be found, other individuals will be considered. Applicants should submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, and any other supporting materials, and arrange for three confidential letters of reference to be sent by November 1, 2001 to: Dr. R. Sydie, Chair, Department of Sociology, University of Alberta, Edmonton, Alberta T6G 2H4 Canada. Fax (780) 492-7196. The records arising from this competition will be managed in accordance with provisions of the Alberta Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (FOIPPA). The University of Alberta hires on the basis of merit. We are committed to the principle of equity in employment. We welcome diversity and encourage applications from all qualified women and men, including persons with disabilities, members of visible minorities, and Aboriginal persons.

UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS AT CHICAGO
The Department of Criminal Justice at the University of Illinois at Chicago invites applications for a tenure-track position to be filled at the Assistant Professor level starting August 2002. UIC is a Research 1 institution and the largest university in the Chicago area. The Department, which offers B.A., M.A., and Ph.D. degrees, houses the Center for Research in Law and Justice, and has a diverse and interdisciplinary group of faculty with an appreciation of multi-methodological approaches to questions of crime, law, and justice. Candidates should have an earned doctorate in criminal justice/criminology or other related social science discipline by July 2002. Applicants with high potential for excellence in teaching, research and scholarship will be given priority. We seek candidates with: 1) training in and research experience using social science statistics and quantitative methods, and an ability to teach... basic and advanced courses and to mentor M.A. and Ph.D. students on methodological and statistical matters; and 2) a broad understanding of the fields of criminal justice and criminology, with research interests in one or more of the following areas: policing, prisons and/or community-based corrections, criminal justice processes, institutions, and organizational behavior. Applicants should send curriculum vitae and a letter describing their research agenda and teaching experience, three letters of recommendation, and copies of relevant publications to: Professor Michael Malitz, Chair, Recruitment Committee, Department of Criminal Justice, M/C 141, University of Illinois at Chicago, 1007 W. Harrison St., Chicago, IL 60607. For fullest consideration, submit application by November 1, 2001. The University of Illinois at Chicago is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer.

UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND
The Department of Criminology and Criminal Justice, University of Maryland, College Park seeks applications for an Assistant Professor position. The successful candidate should have a record of recognized scholarship and exceptional teaching. Applicants should submit a resume and three references to: Dr. Charles F. Wellford, Department of Criminology and Criminal Justice, 2220 LeFrak Hall, University of Maryland, College Park, MD 20742. For best consideration, applications must be received by November 30, 2001. The University of Maryland is an Affirmative Action/Equal Employment Opportunity Employer.

UNIVERSITY OF TENNESSEE
The Department of Sociology invites applications for a tenure track position at the Assistant or Associate Professor rank beginning Fall 2002. Primary research and teaching interests should be in the areas of criminology and the sociology of law. Applicants with strong statistical skills, a well-established record of research publications or strong potential to develop one, and strong teaching credentials will be given priority. A Ph.D. by August 2002 is expected. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply. Responsibilities include undergraduate and graduate teaching, active engagement in seeking external funding for research, and service related to the mission of the Department and the University. Salary and benefits are competitive. Applicants should submit a letter describing their teaching and research interests, a curriculum vitae, and a list of three persons who may be contacted for references. Material should be addressed to: Search Committee Chair, Dept. of Sociology, Univ. of Tennessee, Knoxville, TN 37996-0940. Review of applications will begin October 15, 2001 and will continue until the position is filled. UTK is an EEO/AA/Title IX/Section 504 ADA/ ADEA Employer.

THE UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS AT DALLAS
The University of Texas at Dallas invites applications for several tenure-track, rank-open faculty positions. We seek to hire colleagues for a new undergraduate program in Crime and Justice Studies, a M.A./M.S. in Applied Sociology, and a proposed Ph.D. in Sociology (which includes a criminology specialty). We are seeking broadly trained criminologists; areas of specialization are open, but some preference will be given to applicants with a demonstrated proficiency in crime and justice policy. Candidates must hold a Ph.D. in Criminology, Criminal Justice, Sociology, or a closely related discipline. They also must show strong potential or high achievement in teaching, research and publication in the areas of crime and justice policy. Review of applications will begin in late September, but applications will continue to be accepted and review will continue until positions are filled or the search is closed. Candidates should send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, three letters of reference and two samples of written work to: Academic Search #376, The University of Texas at Dallas, P.O. Box 830688, M/S AD 23, Richardson, TX 75083-0688. Inquiries regarding the search may be directed to the Chair of the Search Committee, Dr. Kimberly Kempf-Leonard. For more information on the School of Social Sciences see our web site at: http://www.utdallas.edu/dept/socsci. Indication of sex and ethnicity for affirmative action statistical purposes is requested as part of the application but not required. UTD is an Equal Opportunity/ Affirmative Action Employer.

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO
The Centre of Criminology and Woodsworth College invite applications for a tenure-track joint appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor. The successful candidate will have a doctorate in the social sciences, humanities, or law and research and teaching interests in socio-legal studies. The appointment will be effective July 1, 2002. Applicants should have a completed doctorate at the time of appointment and have demonstrated promise of excellence in teaching and scholarly research and publication. As the appointment is shared (60% Criminology, 40% Woodsworth), the appointee will be expected to teach courses in the undergraduate program in criminology at Woodsworth and the graduate program at the Centre of Criminology. Salary will be commensurate with experience and qualifications. The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community. The University especially welcomes applications from visible minority group members, women, Aboriginal persons, persons with disabilities, and others who may contribute to further diversification of ideas. Applications should include a covering letter, curriculum vitae, and two article-length samples of written work. Applicants should also arrange to have three letters of reference submitted under separate cover. All correspondence should be sent to: Professor Anthony Doob, Acting Director, Centre of Criminology, University of Toronto, 130 St. George St., Room 8001, Toronto, Ontario, Canada MSS 3H1. Closing date for applications is October 15, 2001.

UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN- EAU CLAIR
The Department of Sociology invites applications for the position of Department Chair. The appointment will be tenure and made at the rank of Full Professor or Associate Professor. July 2, 2002 is the desired date of appointment. Ph.D. in sociology preferred. A Ph.D. in Justice Studies, Criminal Justice, or Family Studies will also be considered if the applicant demonstrates a strong academic focus and background in sociology; primary area of specialization is open. Candidates should have a distinguished record of teaching, scholarship, and professional service in the discipline. Effective interpersonal, communication, and administrative skills required. Prior administrative experience is desirable. Responsibilities: Supervise academic programs and manage departmental resources; maintain an active research agenda; represent the department within the university and community; teach undergraduate courses in primary area of specialization. The position of Department Chair includes a reduction in teaching load. Salary: Competitive. Completed applications must include the following: letter of application discussing primary area of specialization as well as administrative philosophy; curriculum vitae; samples of recent published research; evidence of teaching effectiveness; at least three letters of reference of which at least one must be from outside of the applicant's current university. In accordance with university policy, official transcripts will be requested at time of hire. Priority consideration will be given to completed applications postmarked by October 22, 2001. However, screening may continue until the position is filled. Send all materials to: Randall R. Berger, Ph.D., Chair, Department Chair Search Committee, Department of Sociology, University of Wisconsin-Eau Claire, Eau Claire, WI 54702-4004. The University of Wisconsin-Eau Claire is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. Racial/ethnic minorities and women are especially encouraged to apply.

UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN-PARKSIDE
The Criminal Justice Department invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor position to begin August 2002. Areas of specialization are open. Applicants should have evidence of teaching success as well as actual and potential research accomplishments in the field of criminal justice. Candidates should have a D.Crim or Ph.D. in criminal justice, or criminology, preferably; or a closely related field in the social sciences. An ABD applicant who has a firm completion date in 2002 will be considered. Teaching load is three courses per semester. Salary is commensurate with experience and qualifications and is expected to range from $41,000-$46,000. UW-Parkside is primarily an undergraduate university of 3,500 students located in an attractive setting midway between Racine and Kenosha, Wisconsin, with easy access to Milwaukee and Chicago. A representative from UW-P will attend the November meetings of the American Society of Criminology in Atlanta, GA and the American Criminal Justice Society Conference in Washington, DC to meet with potential applicants. Send letter of application describing current research program, a writing sample, vitae, teaching evaluations, and three names of current references (with addresses and telephone numbers) to: Professor Lee Ross, Chair, search Committee, Criminal Justice Department, University of Wisconsin-Parkside, 900 Wood Road, P.O. Box 200, Kenosha, WI 53141-2000; E-mail: lee.ross@uwpx.edu; telephone (262) 595-3416; FAX (262) 595-2471. The position will remain open until filled. Review of applications will begin on December 7, 2001, and applications received after that time may not receive full consideration. The identity of the applicants will be kept confidential before finalists are selected. The finalists' names will be revealed upon request. The University of Wisconsin-Parkside is an AA/EEO Employer celebrating diversity by actively encouraging the inclusion and participation of individuals with different ideas and perspectives that are consistent with our Diversity 2008 plan. To that end, the University is searching for minorities, women, Vietnam-era veterans and disabled persons who are interested and available.

VERA INSTITUTE OF JUSTICE
Applications are available for the 2002 Andrew W. Mellon Foundation/Vera Institute of Justice Postdoctoral Fellowship on Race, Crime and Justice. The fellowship encourages new scholars of diverse backgrounds to work and publish in this important field. One fellowship will be awarded each year for a two-year residency at the Vera Institute in New York. Fellows will receive a $45,000 annual salary plus benefits and a modest research allowance to pursue a scholarly project of their own design. Applicants must have completed doctorate within seven years of applying for the fellowship. Applications are due January 10, 2002. Download information and application at www.vera.org (click on "Advancing Research") or contact Suzanne Mueller, Administrative Director, Research, Vera Institute of Justice, 233 Broadway, 12th Floor, New York, NY 10279; e-mail: smueller@vera.org; fax: 212/941-9407.

WASHINGTON STATE UNIVERSITY
Junior Faculty position. The Sociology Department at Washington State University, pending budget approval, invites applications for a full-time, nine-month, tenure-track position with a specialty in Crime and Deviance to begin in August 2002. The appointment will be at the rank of Assistant Professor. Candidates must have a Ph.D. completed at the time the appointment begins. Qualified candidates will have an excellent record of research and be prepared to teach and mentor both undergraduate and graduate students. Preference will be given to candidates with teaching experience. Applicants should send a letter of interest, a current vitae, samples of written work, and three letters of reference to Chair, Crime and Deviance Search Committee, Washington State University, Pullman, WA 99164-4020. Review of applications will commence October 15, 2001 and will continue until a candidate is selected. Washington State University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. Women, members of ethnic minorities, Vietnam-era or disabled veterans, persons of disability, and persons age 40 and over are encouraged to apply.
WESTERN MICHIGAN UNIVERSITY
The Department of Sociology at Western Michigan University seeks applications for three tenure-track Assistant Professor positions in Sociology for Fall, 2002, pending budgetary approval. The positions require a Ph.D. degree or evidence of imminent award. We are seeking candidates with experience or demonstrated potential for teaching, scholarship, and grant writing, with specialties in the following area: 1) Medical Sociology, with strength in epidemiology or comparative health systems; 2) Criminology, with strength in juvenile delinquency and juvenile justice, and 3) Statistics and Quantitative Methods. Additional substantive areas of interest include Applied Sociology, Feminism, Race and Ethnicity and Social Psychology. Western Michigan University, a student centered research university, encourages applications from underrepresented groups. Send a letter of application, vita, academic transcripts, statement of research agenda and teaching philosophy and three letters of reference to: Thomas L. VanValey, Chair, Sociology Department, 1903 W. Michigan Avenue, Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo, MI 49008-5151. E-mail: vanvaley@wmich.edu. Review of applications will begin September 1, 2001 and will be accepted until the position is filled.

BUENA VISTA UNIVERSITY
Criminal Justice Faculty Sought. Buena Vista University seeks a tenure track generalist position in Criminal Justice at the Assistant Professor level. Qualified candidates will be able to teach a variety of courses in the following areas: introductory level, theory, applications, and within an individual specialty. The ideal candidate will have a Ph.D. or post-master's work in Criminal Justice with practical experience. See position description at: http://ims.bvu.edu/~hr/jobopenings.asp. Buena Vista University—the country’s first wireless laptop university—is located on the shores of beautiful Storm Lake, Iowa with an enrollment of 1,270 residential students. See http://bvu.edu/ Send letter of application, graduate school transcripts, teaching evaluation summaries, and current vita with names of 4 references including their title, address, telephone number, and email address to: Dr. Bruce Ellingson, Associate Dean, Buena Vista University, 610 West Fourth Street, Storm Lake, IA 50588. Review of applications will begin October 15, 2001, continuing until the position is filled. Women and minorities are strongly urged to apply. ADA/EOE

EASTERN KENTUCKY UNIVERSITY: PROGRAM OF DISTINCTION
The Department of Criminal Justice and Police Studies seeks to fill one tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant or Associate Professor, to begin Fall 2002. Responsibilities include teaching courses in both our undergraduate and graduate programs. Our Department offers undergraduate degrees in both Police Studies and Criminal Justice, and a Master's degree in Criminal Justice. Candidates should provide evidence of success or potential for success across all areas of scholarship, i.e., teaching, research and service. A Ph.D. in Criminal Justice or related discipline required; well-qualified ABDs will be considered, but degree must be completed prior to appointment. Salary and benefits are competitive. Letter of application, current vita, copies of graduate transcripts, and contact information for three referees should be forwarded to: Dr. Victor Kappeler, Search Chair, Department of Criminal Justice and Police Studies, Eastern Kentucky University, 467A Stratton Building, 521 Lancaster Avenue, Richmond, KY 40475, (859) 622-1980. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply. The Department of Criminal Justice and Police Studies, with approximately 700 majors and 17 faculty members, is among the largest programs in the nation devoted to Criminal Justice Education. The Masters program currently has approximately 70 graduate students, with 22 of those students supported by graduate assistantships. For more information about our college and department, please visit us on line at www.jus.edu. Review of applications will begin November 15, 2001. Departmental representatives will be available at the AAS meetings in Atlanta to provide further information about the position. Contact Walter DeKeseredy at dekesere@ohio.edu to make arrangements. Ohio University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer.

OHIO UNIVERSITY
Ohio University seeks an Assistant Professor for a tenure-track appointment beginning Fall, 2002-2003. We are interested in persons with expertise in the area of crime and communities/Neighborhoods. We are also seeking to expand our strong M.A. program and to enhance our strong undergraduate offerings, especially in criminology, which is one of the Department's major strengths. Candidates should have the Ph.D. completed at the time of appointment. Ohio University is a Research Extensive institution located 75 miles southeast of Columbus, Ohio. Enrollment on the Athens Campus is approximately 19,500 with additional enrollment of approximately 8,000 on five branch campuses. The College of Arts and Sciences includes 340 tenure and tenure-track faculty members and contains 19 departments, 7 of which offer the doctoral degree. The Ohio University Library is a member of the Association of Research Libraries. Further information about Ohio University is available at the university's web site: http://www.ohiou.edu. Send cover letter, c.v., evidence of teaching effectiveness, and three letters of reference to Walter S. DeKeseredy, Crime and Communities Search Committee Chair, Department of Sociology and Anthropology, Ohio University, Athens, OH 45701-2979. Review of applications will begin November 15, 2001. Departmental representatives will be available at the ASC meetings in Atlanta to provide further information about the position. Contact Walter DeKeseredy at dekesere@ohio.edu to make arrangements. Ohio University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer.
DIVISION NEWS

DIVISION ON CORRECTIONS AND SENTENCING

ATLANTA DCS ACTIVITIES

Wednesday, November 7 1:00-2:30 pm  Roundtable 1: Campbell Systematic Reviews I: The Basics
Wednesday, November 7 2:40-4:10 pm  Roundtable 2: Campbell Systematic Reviews II: Meta Analytic Methods
Thursday, November 8 7:30-9:30 am  Awards Breakfast and Business Meeting
Thursday, November 8 2:40-4:10 pm  Roundtable 3: Implications of Early Childhood Delinquency Prevention Research on Correctional Programs and Interventions
Friday, November 9 2:40-4:10 pm  Roundtable 4: Prisoner Reentry: Emerging Practices and Issues
Friday, November 9 4:20-5:50 pm  Business Meeting
Saturday, November 10 8:00-9:30 am  Roundtable 5: The Early Years in Academe: Grantsmanship, Scholarship, and Charting Your Own Course

***************

DIVISION ON PEOPLE OF COLOR AND CRIME

The DPCC has planned several informative functions to take place at the ASC Annual Conference in Atlanta, GA. In addition to the panels we are co-sponsoring with other divisions, we invite you to join us at our Annual Symposium, Friday, November 9, 2001, in the Monte Carlo Room, located in the Atlanta Marriott Marquis Hotel, 11:20 am – 12:50 pm. The tickets are $25.00 ($15.00 for students). We expect to have Atlanta Police Chief Beverly Harvard as our guest speaker. Please make your reservations early.

Please join us at the Joint Social given by the Division on Women and Crime and the Division on People of Color and Crime. It has proven to be a success every year. I also urge our members and prospective members to attend and participate in our Business Meetings. During these meetings we have the opportunity to discuss the issues and policies that are important to our members.

I look forward to seeing you in Atlanta!

Stephanie R. Bush-Baskette, Chair
Sbushbask@aol.com
850-894-0364

***************

ATLANTA DPCC ACTIVITIES

Wednesday, November 7 1:00- 2:30 pm  Joint DPCC/DWC Session: Women Leadership in Justice Education, Policy and Practice
Wednesday, November 7 2:40– 4:10 pm  DPCC Board Meeting #1
Wednesday, November 7 4:20– 5:50 pm  DPCC Business Meeting #1
Wednesday, November 7 7:30– 9:30 pm  DPCC/DWC Social
Friday, November 9 9:40–11:10 pm  Joint DPCC/DWC Tenure Workshop Symposium and Luncheon
Friday, November 9 11:20–12:50 pm  DPCC Board Meeting #2
Friday, November 9 2:40– 4:10 pm  DPCC Business Meeting #2
Friday, November 9 4:10– 5:50 pm  DPCC Business Meeting #2
DIVISION NEWS

DIVISION ON WOMEN AND CRIME

DWC ISO VOLUNTEERS
The DWC needs people to staff our information table (ideally, in pairs an trios) at the November ASC meeting. We would welcome whatever time you are willing to offer, be it one hour or four. In addition to helping the Division support and reach out to our new, junior or "quieter" ASC members, volunteering offers the following benefits: (1) the opportunity to meet colleagues at other institutions; (2) Visibility (important when one is seeking external reviewers for tenure), and (3) A letter of appreciation provided upon request. A special word to those of you who are more established in your careers: Many people appreciate occasions to meet the people behind the research we know and respect. So please, consider spending an hour or two at the table. In doing so, you will not only provide valuable outreach but will also send a powerful message regarding the importance of collegiality and support. If you are interested in becoming involved in the Division or have ideas about how the Division can better serve you, please contact Dr. Jeanne Flavin at jflavin@fordham.edu or 718/817-3863. Thank you.

ATLANTA DWC ACTIVITIES

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Date</th>
<th>Time</th>
<th>Event Description</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Tuesday, November 6</td>
<td>4:00-6:00 pm</td>
<td>DWC Feminist Criminology in Theory and Action</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wednesday, November 7</td>
<td>1:00-2:30 pm</td>
<td>Joint DPCC/DWC Session: Women Leadership in Justice</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wednesday, November 7</td>
<td>4:20-5:50 pm</td>
<td>DWC Executive Board Meeting</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wednesday, November 7</td>
<td>7:30-9:00 pm</td>
<td>DPCC/DWC Social</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Thursday, November 8</td>
<td>7:30-9:30 am</td>
<td>DWC Breakfast Meeting 1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Thursday, November 8</td>
<td>2:40-4:10 pm</td>
<td>DWC Committee Meeting</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Friday, November 9</td>
<td>7:30-9:30 am</td>
<td>DWC Breakfast Meeting 2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Friday, November 9</td>
<td>9:40-11:10 am</td>
<td>Joint DPCC/WC Tenure Workshop</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Friday, November 9</td>
<td>4:20-5:10 pm</td>
<td>DWC Networking Workshop</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

2001 STUDENT PAPER COMPETITION

The ASC Division on Women and Crime announces the 2001 Student Paper Competition which is intended to encourage excellent student writing on matters of feminist scholarship, gender issues, or about women as offenders, victims, or professionals. Any student currently enrolled in school at the graduate level at the time of submission is eligible to enter. Papers must be no longer than 30 pages with an acceptable referencing format such as APA. Papers must contain an abstract of 100 words, be typed double spaced, and submitted on 8-1/2 x 11 paper. Three copies of the paper must be submitted along with verification of current student status. Include contact information in cover letter. Papers must not have been previously published. The DWC Awards Committee will judge papers based on significance of the topic, conceptualization, and clarity of writing. The winner will be presented with a cash award at the annual meeting of the ASC. Three copies of the paper must be received no later than October 19. Please send all papers to: Debra L. Stanley, Chair, DWC Awards Committee, Department of Criminology and Criminal Justice, Central Connecticut State University, 1615 Stanley Street, New Britain, CT 06050. E-mail: stanleyd@ccsu.edu; 860-832-3142; fax 860-645-7745

***************

DIVISION ON INTERNATIONAL CRIMINOLOGY

ATLANTA DIC ACTIVITIES

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Date</th>
<th>Time</th>
<th>Event Description</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Thursday, November 8</td>
<td>9:00-10:30 pm</td>
<td>DIC Board Meeting</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Thursday, November 8</td>
<td>11:20-12:50 pm</td>
<td>Luncheon</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Annual Awards Breakfast & Business Meeting

Sponsored by Wadsworth Publishing/ITP

Thursday, November 8, 2001
7:30 a.m. - 9:30 a.m.
in Marriott’s Shangri-La Room

The Division invites all who are interested in Corrections and Sentencing to attend the event.

Awards will be presented for:
Division of Corrections & Sentencing Senior Scholar
Division of Corrections & Sentencing Junior Scholar
Division of Corrections & Sentencing Student Paper Award

General business meeting to follow.

Breakfast Buffet and beverage service begins at 7:30 a.m.

Tickets: $5.00 in advance/ $7.00 at the door

Tickets may be purchased in advance by MasterCard, Visa or check made payable to ASC. Submit payment to Sarah Hall, ASC c/o Corrections & Sentencing Breakfast, 1314 Kinnear Road, Columbus, OH 43212-1156

Name __________________________________________ Affiliation __________________________________________

Address _________________________________________

MasterCard _______________ Explication _______________

Visa ________________________ Explication _______________
2001 AMERICAN SOCIETY OF CRIMINOLOGY AWARD RECIPIENTS

EDWIN H. SUTHERLAND AWARD WINNER

ROBERT J. SAMPSON

Robert J. Sampson is the Lucy Flower Professor in Sociology at the University of Chicago, Senior Research Fellow at the American Bar Foundation, and Scientific Director of the Project on Human Development in Chicago Neighborhoods. In addition to the long-term study of Chicago communities, he is also engaged in a longitudinal study of crime and life-course adaptation over 70 years in the lives of 1,000 disadvantaged men born in Boston during the Great Depression era. His book with John Laub on this project, Crime in the Making: Pathways and Turning Points Through Life (Harvard University Press, 1933), received the outstanding book award from the American Society of Criminology, the Academy of Criminal Justice Sciences, and the Crime, Law, and Deviance Section of the American Sociological Association. In 1994, Sampson was named as Fellow of the American Society of Criminology. In 1997, he was a Fellow at the Center for Advanced Study in Behavioral Sciences, Stanford, California.

AUGUST VOLLMER AWARD WINNERS

HANS TOCH

JEREMY TRAVIS

Jeremy Travis is a Senior Fellow at The Urban Institute, a non-profit research organization in Washington, D.C. In affiliation with the Institute's Justice Policy Center, Mr. Travis is developing research and policy agendas on crime in community context, new concepts of the agencies of justice, sentencing and prisoner reentry, and international crime. Before joining The Urban Institute, Mr. Travis was the Director of the National Institute of Justice (NIJ), the research arm of the U.S. Department of Justice. He served in this position from 1994, when he was nominated by President Bill Clinton and confirmed by the U.S. Senate, to 2000. Prior to his service at NIJ, Mr. Travis was the Deputy Commissioner for Legal Matters of the New York City Police Department and chaired the New York City Chancellor's Advisory Panel on School Safety. Mr. Travis spent six years at the Vera Institute of Justice, an action research institute in New York City, where he managed demonstration programs on bail reform, judicial decision making, and victim-witness assistance. Mr. Travis has taught courses on criminal justice, public policy, history, and law at Yale College, New York University Wagner Graduate School of Public Service, and New York Law School. He has written and published extensively on constitutional law, criminal law, and criminal justice policy.
THORSTEN SELLIN & SHELDON AND ELEANOR GLUECK AWARD WINNER

MARTIN KILLIAS

Martin Killias received his Ph.D. in sociology of law from the University of Zurich Law School. Before, he studied law, sociology and social psychology at the same University. Having discovered his interest in criminology during his involvement in Marshall B. Clinard's research on crime in Switzerland (Cities with Little Crime, Cambridge University Press, 1978), he joined the SUNY at Albany School of Criminal Justice as a postdoctoral fellow in 1980. In 1982, he moved to the School of Forensic Science and Criminology of the University of Lausanne, Switzerland, where he now teaches methodology and criminal law. Since 1996, he has been teaching criminology at the University of Zurich as well, and since 1984, he serves as a part-time judge in the Federal Supreme Court of Switzerland. Martin Killias has always been involved in comparative research, and particularly in innovative data collection initiatives. He has been involved in the beginnings of the International crime victimization survey (ICVS), in the international self-reported delinquency project (headed by Josine Junger-Tas), and has chaired the Expert's Group in charge of the European Sourcebook of Crime and Criminal Justice Statistics. With his staff at the Lausanne School of Forensic Science and Criminology, he has also been involved in the evaluation of the Swiss heroin prescription trials. Currently, he and his staff are working on the analysis of a survey of 21,000 young Swiss men on self-reported and experienced violence in a biographic perspective. Along with 30 colleagues from all over Europe, he has been associated with the foundation of the European Society of Criminology which he served as the first president.

HERBERT BLOCH AWARD WINNER

LYNNE GOODSTEIN

Lynne Goodstein is Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences and Professional Studies at Simmons College, Boston, MA. She received a B.A. (1970) from the University of Pennsylvania and a Ph.D. (1977) in Social Psychology from the Graduate School of the City University of New York. Prior to coming to Simmons, she served as Director of the Women’s Studies Program and Associate Dean of the Graduate School at the Pennsylvania State University. She has published three books, including The American Prison (1980), and Women and the Criminal Justice System: Original Feminist Readings (2000). Her criminological work deals with inmate adjustment to prison, criminal sentencing, and women and the criminal justice system. Her women’s studies research encompasses multiculturalism in general education, curricular issues, and interdisciplinarity. Her most recent research on women’s studies faculty focuses on organizational structure, models of faculty involvement, and knowledge production. She has been an active member of the American Society of Criminology for over 20 years, presenting papers regularly and serving as president of the Division on Women and Crime and member of the Executive Board. She is currently Treasurer of the Society.

RUTH SHONLE CAVAN YOUNG SCHOLAR AWARD WINNER

JODY MILLER

Jody Miller is Assistant Professor in the Department of Criminology and Criminal Justice, at the University of Missouri-St. Louis. Formerly she was a member, National Consortium on Violence Research. She received a B.S., journalism, Ohio University (1989); M.A., Sociology, Ohio University (1990), M.A., Women’s Studies, The Ohio State University (1991), and Ph. D., Sociology, University of Southern California (1996). She is currently involved in two long-term research projects. The first (with Norm White) is a study of violence against African American girls in urban settings funded by the National Consortium on Violence Research; the second project is a study of the commercial sex industry in Sri Lanka, for which she was awarded a Fulbright in 1999. Her primary research agenda involves the study of female street offenders and the operation of gender within criminal settings, as a means of expanding and refining feminist theories of women and crime.
ASC FELLOW RECIPIENTS

ROLAND CHILTON

Roland Chilton is Professor of Sociology at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst, where he has taught since 1970. He is currently analyzing historical data sets, Uniform Crime Report arrest data, and data from the new UCR, called the National Incident-Based Reporting System (NIBRS). His substantive interests include race, class, and crime; trends in homicide; and the collateral impact of United States drug laws.

GARY JENSEN

Gary Jensen (Ph.D., University of Washington, 1971) is a Professor of Sociology at Vanderbilt University. He is author, co-author or editor of five books, including a textbook on Delinquency and Youth Crime (in its third edition) and has published approximately forty articles, chapters and essays dealing primarily with issues in criminology. He has been Associate Editor of the American Sociological Review, Social Forces, Deviance, Criminology and the Journal of Research in Crime and Delinquency. He is near completion of a monograph, The Path of the Devil: Sociology and the Early Modern Witchcraft, based on research conducted with the support of the National Science Foundation. His most recent publications assess arguments about the impact of the invention of television on homicide and other historical issues involving murder in the United States. Together with Ronald Akers, he is co-editor of a forthcoming volume of Advances in Criminological Theory on Social Learning and the Explanation of Crime.

RAY PATERNOSTER

Ray Paternoster received his Ph.D. degree in 1978 from the School of Criminology at Florida State University. Since that time he has held positions at the University of South Carolina and the University of Maryland, where he is Professor in the Department of Criminology and Criminal Justice. He is also a research fellow in the National Consortium on Violence Research. Ray's teaching and research have been in the areas of criminological theory, quantitative methods, and the death penalty. In recent years, he has been interested in studying static and dynamic processes of delinquency and crime. Currently, he is involved in a comprehensive empirical study of the death penalty in Maryland.

RUTH D. PETERSON

Ruth D. Peterson is Professor of Sociology and Director of the Criminal Justice Research Center at The Ohio State University. She also coordinates the Race/ Ethnicity research program of the National Consortium on Violence Research. She has published on three primary research topics: deterrence and capital punishment, the social context of legal sanctions, and most recently, the interrelationships among social disadvantage, race, and crime. Her latest works are in innovative attempts to account for racial differences in the processes that generate criminal violence, and she expects to make contributions that disentangle race and class effects through her National Science Foundation project on “The Context of Neighborhood Crime: A National Study of Urban Communities.” Ruth has been an active member of the American Society of Criminology, and for her contributions received the Herbert Bloch Award in 1995. Since then she has served as Vice President of the Society, as Chair of the Division on People of Color and Crime, and as an associate editor of Criminology.
MICHAEL J. HINDELANG AWARD
(Award to be announced in November/December newsletter)

********

THE PRESIDENT'S AWARD FOR DISTINGUISHED CONTRIBUTIONS TO JUSTICE

Barry Scheck and Peter Neufeld

"The Innocence Project"

This award is given annually to an individual who, through either a single initiative or over a longer period time, has made significant and distinguished contributions to the cause of justice. The recipient is nominated by the President and confirmed by the Executive Board.

********

ASC GENE CARTE STUDENT PAPER COMPETITION RECIPIENTS

First Prize: AMY L. ANDERSON, Pennsylvania State University
"Individual and Contextual Influences on the Role of the Single Parent Family"

Second Prize: THOMAS D. STUCKY, University of Iowa
"City Institutional Politics, Social Disorganization and Crime for 694 U.S. Cities in 1991"

Third Prize: RYAN KING, University of Minnesota
"Do Peers Matter More When Family Matters Less?: The Dynamics of Family Attachment, Peer Association and Delinquency"

********

ASC MINORITY FELLOWSHIP RECIPIENTS

ALEXES M. HARRIS
University of California, Los Angeles

SANG H. KIL
Arizona State University

CLAUDIA EMILIA LAVENANT
University of California, Irvine
Justice Research in a New Administration

By Chris Ryan
Associate Director for Public Affairs
Consortium of Social Science Associations

Following the bitter end to the presidential election of 2000, Washington operates considerably differently than it did over the past eight years. Except for the National Institutes of Health, which continued on its budget doubling path, the research agencies faced limited support because of the new administration's commitment to its main campaign promises – a major tax cut, increased defense spending, and education reform. In addition, the administration did not seem hurried to appoint a Science Adviser. In May, the President did announce that John Marburger, a physicist and former President of the State University of New York at Stony Brook, would be nominated for the post. And in the Justice arena, the appointment of John Ashcroft as Attorney General elicited concerns about the future commitment of the Department to research and the independence of research and statistics from politics.

After the first 180 days, the President has discovered that passing tax cuts may have been easy – the rest of his agenda has run into problems. Whether this is because of the reaction to some of the President's early decisions, the shift of power to the Democrats in the Senate brought on by Sen. James Jeffords' defection, or the possibility of losing the other House of Congress in 2002, the President is under increasing pressure to seek compromise. In addition, Congress has asserted greater independence on various issues.

Science and Politics

In the criminal justice community in particular, many were concerned about the fate of a study ordered by Attorney General Janet Reno in September, 2000. Having found disturbing racial and geographic disparities in a study of the federal death penalty system, Reno ordered further research to determine whether or not there truly is bias in the system. The study seemed imperiled, however, when John Ashcroft assumed the post of Attorney General. Despite the absence of the planned study, Ashcroft stated there is no racial bias in the administration of the death penalty in the federal system.

In heavy questioning at various hearings, however, Senator Russ Feingold (D-WI), who has shown deep interest in the issue, seems to have elicited a promise from Ashcroft that the study will go forward as originally intended. The National Institute of Justice recently released the solicitation (http://www.ncjrs.org/pdffiles1/niij/st000490.pdf).

Guardians of the Research

On July 24, the Senate Judiciary Committee held confirmation hearings for two nominees for key research posts in the Justice Department: Sarah Hart, for Director of the National Institute of Justice (NIJ), and Deborah Daniels, for Assistant Attorney General for the Office of Justice Programs (OJP).

Some are concerned that Hart, who has worked in Pennsylvania's legal system for over 20 years, lacks the research experience to be effective as the head of NIJ, and may not be vigilant enough maintaining the Institute's independence from the Department. Hart was questioned directly on these issues by Sen. Feingold and assured the committee she has research experience and will release the results of controversial research (e.g., disparities in the Federal death penalty system) whether or not people like what it says.

Hart, who has an undergraduate degree in criminal justice and a law degree, served as a prosecutor in the Philadelphia District Attorney's Office for 16 years and Chief Counsel for the Pennsylvania Department of Corrections, where she provided assistance drafting prison legislation. More recently, Hart served on the Pennsylvania Supreme Court's Appellate Procedural Rules Committee. She has authored several articles on courts, corrections and criminal law.
There is general confidence about the appointment of Daniels at OJP. Daniels was the first director of the Weed and Seed program at the Department. At her hearing, she expressed some support for research-based alternatives to juvenile incarceration.

Prior to her Justice Department experience, Daniels served as U.S. Attorney for the Southern District of Indiana. Before coming to Washington, Daniels was a partner at an Indianapolis law firm. She is a graduate of DePauw University and the Indiana University School of Law.

Juveniles and Justice

The punitive side of juvenile justice legislation in the House is contained in H.R. 863, the Consequences for Juvenile Offenders Act of 2001, which authorizes the Juvenile Accountability Incentive Block Grant (JAIBG) program. The grants would promote graduated sanctions for juvenile offenders and fund juvenile facilities and programs. That bill cleared the House Judiciary Committee in late March, and would authorize appropriations of $500 million for each fiscal year from 2002 to 2004; of that amount, the Attorney General may spend up to two percent on research, evaluation, and demonstration. The Senate will probably not take up its juvenile justice legislation until late summer.

For the position of Administrator of the Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention, the President nominated J. Robert Flores. A graduate of Boston University Law School, Flores is Vice President and Senior Counsel for the National Law Center for Children and Families as well as Legal Counsel to Johns Hopkins University School of Advanced International Studies. He served in the Department of Justice from 1989 to 1997 in the Child Exploitation and Obscenity Section of the Criminal Division.

Budgets

To help pay for the President's sizable tax cut, there was talk of cutting $1 billion from the Justice Department's budget—fortunately, research was spared the axe. The Appropriations Committees of both Houses of Congress approved $54.9 million for NIJ for fiscal year 2002. The drop from FY 2001 reflects only the elimination of an earmark. NIJ still receives funds from other programs; for example, the committees approved $5.2 million to study violence against women, and another $20 million from the local law enforcement block grant for assisting local units to select, develop, and purchase new technologies for law enforcement.

The Bureau of Justice Statistics is set to receive $32.3 million. The House spending bill recommends an increase of $1.5 million for statistical studies of traffic stops by police, deaths in law enforcement custody, and victimization of the disabled, and the conversion to automated data collection of the National Crime Victimization Survey (the Senate bill does not include this language).

While the House provides $297.9 million for juvenile justice programs, about the same as FY 2001, the Senate recommends another $25 million more than the President requested, for a total of $328.5 million.

---

COSSA is an advocacy organization whose mission is to promote attention to and federal funding for the social and behavioral sciences. COSSA is supported by more than 105 professional associations, scientific societies, universities, and research institutes. COSSA serves as a bridge between the academic research community and the Washington policymaking community.

Working closely with ASC, COSSA is at the forefront of efforts to expand our nation's base of knowledge on crime and criminal justice issues. Leaders of ASC serve on the COSSA Board of Directors and Executive Committee.

For more information, contact Chris Ryan, Associate Director for Public Affairs: COSSA, 1522 K St., NW, Suite 836, Washington, DC 20005. Ph: 202/842-3525; chrisryan@cossa.org.
ASC EXECUTIVE BOARD MEETING MINUTES
Friday, Saturday, April 27-28, 2001
Marriott Marquis Hotel, Atlanta, Georgia

1. Meeting brought to order by President Ronald Huff, 3:00 PM. Attending: President Elect Lawrence Sherman, Past President Roland Chilton, Vice-President Todd Clear, Vice-President Elect Christy Visher, Executive Director Chris Eskridge, Executive Secretary Doris MacKenzie, Executive Counselors Cathy Widom, Steve Messner, and Cheryl Maxson, Program Co-Chairs, Valerie Jenness and Richard Leo, and, by telephone, Robert Bursik, Jr., Editor, Criminology. 2. Fee increases: Motion to raise registration fees by $10 for the Atlanta meetings accepted. Motion to raise membership dues $10 and student dues $5 as of January 1, 2002 accepted. 3. Report on Sites for Annual Meetings: St. Louis, Minneapolis, Chicago and New Orleans were considered for 2008. The recommendation is for St. Louis. Discussion of alleged previous racial difficulties involving the Adams Mark and how these difficulties have been addressed. The Board asked Chris Eskridge to advise the officers of the DPCC and the minority affairs committee of the previous allegations and how the hotel has addressed the issues. Possible sites for 2009 are now being considered. Motion that ASC eliminate the site Selection Advisory Committee accepted, since this in now a function of the Executive Director. 4. ASC Representative for the ISC (International Society of Criminology). Motion to ask the newly elected North American Vice-President of ISC, Joan McCord, to act as a conduit for ASC with the ISC, to act as a liaison between ASC and ISC, to coordinate with the ASC Board and to consult with the DIC. 5. The Oral History Project will be relinquished and all ownership rights will be turned over to Wadsworth Publishing Company. 6. The motion that the Executive Director would file papers to have ASC become a credentialed entity within the United Nations accepted. 7. The ASC President has been invited to attend the British Society of Criminology (University of Keele, July 17-20, 2002). ASC will sponsor an “American Coffee” at the meetings. By mutual agreement, the ASC and BSC will no longer pay for rooms for the Presidents of their Societies to attend each other’s Annual Meetings as this has presented some problems. 8. How to use the $5,000 that was contributed to ASC to develop an award for the best Criminology paper of the year was discussed. The Board requested the Executive Director, Chris Eskridge, to work with Todd Clear, Larry Sherman and the contributor to decide how this request could best be implemented. 9. A letter from Alvin Cohn requested that ASC organize a meeting to celebrate the 25th year anniversary of The Criminologist. The Board asked Executive Director Chris Eskridge to tell Alvin Cohn that it would be possible for Alvin Cohn to organize a meeting of current and former editors of The Criminologist at the 2001 Annual Meeting if he is interested. An appropriate room would be reserved by the Program Committee for the event. 10. Constitutional Changes: Motion accepted to change the Constitution to: IV. OFFICERS, E. Treasurer: 1. The Treasurer shall be appointed by the Executive Board for a term of three (3) years. 2. The Treasurer shall serve as the Chief Financial Officer for the Society.” Motion to change the Constitution to: H.”A Division may set dues. Such dues shall be collected and disbursed by the regulations of the Society,” and “A Division shall not enter into contracts. Administrative functions of the Division may be handled by the Central Office, at the Division’s expense.” 11. National Policy Committee Report: a. White Paper from National Policy Committee Report (James Austin). Motion that the report on “The Use of Incarceration in the United States” be used as a model for future reports; however it should not be called a “white paper” but instead a “Report to the American Society of Criminology from the National Policy Committee.” The Board requested the Committee to carefully edit the manuscript to eliminate any reference to “the Society” making recommendations. All recommendations, positions and opinions should be those of the committee and not an official position of the ASC. b. Motion accepted: This year’s National Policy Committee will examine two topics: (1) Juveniles being waived to adult courts and conditions of confinement in juvenile justice and (2) the death penalty. c. Motion to request the National Policy Committee to investigate whether the Society should take a position related to persons nominated to take governmental positions in the U.S. Motion accepted. 12. Report on 2001 Annual Meeting (Valerie Jenness and Richard Leo, 2001 ASC Program Co-Chairs): a.. The deadline for panel submissions was moved up 1 month which caused a problem for some people; however, this deadline works better for the program committee in developing the program in an orderly and timely manner. b. The Program Committee found the CMS Program difficult to use, particularly because there was no manual available. They recommend that a more user-friendly data management program should be provided to future program chairs. c. There was a lengthy discussion of how inclusive the program committee should be about paper submissions. Some of the papers submitted were of very poor quality. The Board discussed how we might take steps to insure high quality papers are presented at the Annual Meeting. One way this could be managed is with the use of a large poster session. Motion that the ASC Board continue to discuss the issue of the quality of paper submissions both at this Board Meeting and in the Fall accepted.

d. The program committee was concerned about what appears to be a general acceptance by many members of the Society of missed deadlines and late submissions. The questions were asked: Should we consider taking a firmer stand on deadlines? Or should we have changing deadlines (e.g., early date panels, later roundtables, later posters)? Motion accepted that the Board support the program committee’s designation of June 5 as the final submission date for paper acceptance.

13. Local Arrangements Committee Report (Robert Friedmann reporting). The Local Arrangements Committee will put information on the web with a link from the ASC website to the local arrangements including information on contact people for those who are interested in local tours. Computer terminals for members to check their email would be prohibitively costly.

14. The ASC Board reappointed Chris Eskridge as Executive Director for a five-year term.

15. Analysis of “No Shows” for Annual Meeting (Ronald Huff/Chris Eskridge). On Wednesdays and Saturdays a higher percentage of people scheduled to present papers on panels do not show up for the panels. Motion accepted: That the ASC President contact people (by mail) who are listed as primary presenters on the program but who do not register for the program and tell them that ASC is disappointed in their absence, encourage them to attend next year, and to ask them for some information about why they did not attend the panel.

16. Awards Reports: Bloch Award Committee report and recommendation of Lynne Goodstein accepted; Cavan Award Committee report and recommendation of Jody Miller accepted; Fellows Award Committee report and recommendation of four nominees (Roland J. Chilton, Ruth D. Peterson, Gary Jensen and Raymond Paternoster) accepted. Motion accepted to ask next year’s Fellows Award Committee to discuss the number of Fellows recommended each year and the number of ASC Fellows as a proportion of the membership and to report to the Board on their deliberations; Hindelang Committee Report will be completed by September 1, 2001; Sellin Glueck Award Committee report and recommendation of Martin Killias accepted by the Board; Sutherland Committee report and recommendation of Robert J. Sampson was accepted by the Board; Vollmer Award Committee report and recommendation of Hans Toch and Jeremy Travis accepted. 17. Proposal for the development of a “President’s Award for Distinguished Contributions to Justice.” Motion accepted: To develop the President’s Award for Distinguished Contributions to Justice and to give President Ronald Huff permission to nominate a candidate for 2001. Proposed wording for the President’s Award to be put in the Policies and Procedures Manual: “PRESIDENT’S AWARD FOR DISTINGUISHED CONTRIBUTIONS TO JUSTICE. This award is given annually to an individual who, through either a single initiative or over a longer period of time, has made significant and distinguished contributions to the cause of justice. The recipient is nominated by the President and confirmed by the Executive Board. In the case of joint efforts, co-recipients may be named.” President Ronald Huff’s recommendation of Barry Scheck and Peter Neufeld “The Innocence Project” for President’s Award for Distinguished Contributions to Justice accepted.

18. Minority Affairs Committee Report. Discussion of an ASC Minority Research Training Proposal. Motion accepted to return proposal to committee with a request that they consider developing an RFP for institutions for minority mentoring programs for undergraduates in criminal justice and criminology.

20. Membership Committee Report. Motion accepted (8 yes, 3 against, 1 abstention): That we request the committee to work with Sarah Hall to summarize gender demographics of ASC members and that they develop a demographic survey to be used to collect information on ASC members. The President is asked to refer issues related to women, people of color and international members to the appropriate Division for comment. The Board requested Chris Eskridge to contact the American Society for Association Executives (ASAE) to investigate whether and how other societies do marketing for new members.

21. Student Awards Committee Report (report submitted by Steven Lab). As of April 10, 2001 they had received only one paper submission for the Gene Carte Student Paper Competition. They will review papers and submit a report to the Board in late May.

22. The 2002 Annual Meeting (Lawrence Sherman/Chris Eskridge). A proposal for 2002 Annual Meeting was presented and discussed. The Theme will be “Re-Inventing Justice: Research, Theory, Innovations and Experiments.” The Program Chair will be William Lauffer and the Co-chair will be Ellen G. Cohn. Research panels, issue panels, thematic panels and poster sessions will be scheduled. The research panels will consist of papers that report results of empirical or theoretical research and will require submissions of a five-page preliminary paper that will be reviewed by the Program Committee.

23. Proposal for a Nobel Prize in Criminology (Lawrence W. Sherman). Discussion of proposal. Motion accepted that the Board ask Larry Sherman to explore the interest of the international criminology community in the possibility of developing a committee to initiate funding possibilities for a Nobel Prize in Criminology. 24. Motion accepted that the Board create a Development committee as of November 2001, with the chair appointed to a three-year renewable term and members of the committee appointed for staggered three-year terms. 25. Motion accepted: That the term of office of the Chair of the National Policy Committee be extended to three years, renewable, with members of the committee serving in staggered three-year terms. 26. Editorial Board Report (Todd Clear). Four Action order items: a. Motion accepted that authors of articles in Criminology be asked to develop the key words for their articles. b. Motion accepted: That the Board give Bob Bursik, editor of Criminology, the authority to seek various formal proposals to electronically publish Criminology and present these proposals to the Board. c. Discussion of issues related to Sage proposal to publish Criminology. Motion accepted that the ASC charge Chris Eskridge, Larry Sherman and Ron Huff to continue the conversation with Sage regarding a contract with Sage, with a plan to arrive at a more workable agreement to present to the Board in November. d. Motion accepted to accept the Joe Christensen, Inc. proposal for a one-year renewal contract for the publication of Criminology. Discussion on adoption of a policy journal. Motion that the ASC work with NIJ to develop a proposal “to bridge the gap between policy research and policy making,” and that some of the funds be used to contract with a publisher for production of a policy-relevant journal. Motion accepted: That the Board authorize the Executive Committee to review a grant proposal to the National Institute of Justice (NIJ), U.S. Department of Justice, for the purpose of funding a policy journal and to authorize an appropriate officer to sign and submit the grant proposal. Motion accepted: That the ASC Board sponsor a policy journal retaining the current editor, Todd Clear, and editorial staff who were given a grant from NIJ to develop such a journal. Motion accepted: That the journal be renamed Criminology and Public Policy. Motion accepted: That the Board authorize Todd Clear to copyright the journal, Criminology and Public Policy, in the name of ASC and print up to two issues of the journal named Criminology and Public Policy pending the receipt of funding of the ASC proposal to NIJ. 27. Motion accepted: that we permit the Corrections and Sentencing Division to offer Division members the opportunity to purchase journals at reduced rates by sending this information to their members with their membership information. 28. Division on International Criminology (DIC). The DIC recommended that the ASC establish a fund of $3,000 a year to encourage members to provide the needed assistance when it is requested. Motion accepted: The President, in consultation with the Executive committee, is authorized to expend ASC funds on an ad hoc basis to support requests from 3rd world nations seeking expert assistance in the area of criminology and/or criminal justice issues. 29. Minority scholarships (Orlando Rodriguez). The President will request the committee to submit a report describing the rationale and procedures for making the decisions for minority scholarships, including copies of resumes.

******************************************************************************

2001 ELECTION RESULTS

President-Elect: JOHN H. LAUB
University of Maryland

Vice President-Elect: CANDACE KRUTTSCHNITT
University of Minnesota

Executive Counselors: DARNELL HAWKINS
University of Illinois at Chicago

MICHAEL TONRY
Castine Research Corporation
ATLANTA MARRIOTT MARQUIS "SOLD OUT"
(only Thursday, Friday and Saturday available)

404/521-0000    1-800-228-9290
404/586-6247 FAX

$135.00/single/double - $146.00 triple/quad
Please be aware, to guarantee your room reservation, the Atlanta Marriott Marquis will charge your credit card for the first room night.

OVERFLOW HOTEL
SHERATON ATLANTA

404/659-6500

$135.00/single/double
Please give them Group #1584 when making reservation.

ATLANTA REGISTRATION HOURS

Tuesday  1:00 pm – 8:00 pm
Wednesday 7:30 am – 6:00 pm
Thursday  7:30 am – 6:00 pm
Friday    7:30 am – 6:00 pm
Saturday  7:30 am – Noon

ATLANTA BOOK EXHIBIT HOURS

Wednesday  1:00 pm – 5:00 pm
Thursday   8:30 am – 5:00 pm
Friday     8:30 am – 5:00 pm

PROFESSIONAL EMPLOYMENT SERVICE HOURS

Wednesday  1:00 pm – 5:00 pm
Thursday   9:00 am – 5:00 pm
Friday     9:00 am – 5:00 pm

MARK YOUR CALENDAR

FUTURE ASC ANNUAL MEETING DATES

2002  November 20-23  Chicago
2003  November 19-22  Denver
2004  November 17-20  Nashville
2005  November 16-19  Toronto
2006  November 1-4   Los Angeles
2007  November 14-17  Atlanta
2008  November 12-15  St. Louis

SUBMISSION DEADLINES FOR POSITION ANNOUNCEMENTS

January/February  Dec. 1
March/April       Feb. 1
May/June         Apr. 1
July/August      June 1
September/October Aug. 1
November/December Oct. 1

The Criminologist

Official Newsletter of the American Society of Criminology

AMERICAN SOCIETY OF CRIMINOLOGY
1314 Kinnear Rd., Suite 212
Columbus, OH 43212-1156
ISSN 0164-0240