THE STATE OF CRIMINOLOGY IN CHINA

Liquin Cao, Eastern Michigan University

In the past fifteen years, there has been an increased interest in the study of crime in China. Anthologies were published (Liu, Zhang and Messner, 2001; Troyer, Clark and Rojek, 1989) as well as monographs (Dutton, 1992; Ren, 1997). Journals, such as Crime & Delinquency (1993, Vol. 39, No.3), Journal of Contemporary Criminal Justice (1998, Vol. 14, No. 3), and British Journal of Criminology (2002, Vol. 42. No. 2) also devoted special issues to the subject. This article looks at the historical and political factors that have contributed to the emergence of criminology primarily in China, with some comparisons to areas such as Taiwan, where people use Chinese as their written language.

Historical Development

Criminology was introduced to China as an academic course during the Ten Years of Golden Construction between 1927-1937. Also during this time a number of criminological works from Japan, Italy, and the United States were translated into Chinese and a number of criminological books were written in Chinese. China was then regarded as one of the few non-western countries where sociology, and by extension, criminology, flourished (Freeman, 1962).

During the anti-Japanese War (1937-1945) and the Civil War (1945-1949), not much changed. Criminology was offered as a college course in universities, but did not constitute a separate academic unit. In 1949, communist troops under Mao Zedong swept mainland China. Once established, the communist regime decided that criminology was a bourgeois academic discipline that was irrelevant because crime would cease to exist under the new socialist system. Criminology courses were subsequently dropped from all university curricula by 1957.

After the death of Mao Tse-Tung in 1976 and especially since the new era of Deng Xiaoping’s reform in 1979, criminology began to re-appear in China as a sub-area of study in sociology and law. Research institutes and centers for crime and delinquency were established in all major law universities during the late 1980s and the 1990s. In 1992, the Chinese Society of Criminology was founded. The first president of the society was professor Kang Shuhua of Beijing University, who was one of the veterans of the “Yan-an cadre” and one who had worked hard to form the society. In a nation where the Communist Party is in total control, it was obvious that without his personal position and efforts within the Party, the Society would not have been established. Kang served as its president for two consecutive terms during the following ten years (1992-2002). It was rumored that he was forced out of the position in 2002, not through a popular election, but because of a regulation that no one over age 70 can be president of an academic association. Currently, professor Wang Mu is the President of the Society with a five-year term that ends in 2007.

Criminology as an academic course survived in some universities after Chiang Kai-Shek’s government lost Mainland China and moved to Taiwan in 1949. In 1966, criminology emerged as an independent academic unit at the Central Police University. Hou (2004) argues, however, that for many years since its establishment, criminology remained outside mainstream academia because Taiwan was under Martial Law (1947-1987).

Since Martial Law was lifted shortly before the death of Chiang Ching-kuo, Taiwan has gradually turned into a democratic society. Following these events, the Chinese Association of Criminology in The Republic of China

AROUND THE ASC

HENRY BROWNSTEIN, a widely published expert in criminology, has been named Director of Abt Associates Center on Crime, Drugs and Justice. Dr. Brownstein was formerly with the National Institute of Justice in Washington, D.C., where he served as Director of the Drugs and Crime and International Research Division.

CALVIN R. EDWARDS has been appointed Chair of the newly named Department of Justice, Law and Public Safety Studies at Lewis University. Dr. Edwards completed a 23-year career with the U.S. Department of Justice's Federal Bureau of Prisons, retiring in 1997. He most recently served as an assistant professor of criminal justice at Ferris State University.
Taiwan was founded in 1994. It is an association of professionals and academics for which the government does not provide supervision, and its routine operational activities are financed through membership fees. Each president is elected to serve a term of two years. In 2003, Professor Yang Shulung was elected as its 5th president. The Association’s website is currently only in Chinese. In 1995, the Association began publishing The Journal of Criminology, with editorial offices at the Graduate Program of Criminology at National Chung Cheng University.

What are Criminologists Studying, and Who are “Criminologists”?

The development of criminology is associated with China’s willingness to integrate itself into the international community. Criminology is viewed as one of the tools with which to modernize Chinese society. It came into existence because social order has to be maintained according to internationally acceptable standards. It is not a reaction to emerging urban social problems. As a result, policy-driven research flourishes both in Taiwan and in China while behavior-oriented research is lacking. On top of this policy orientation, nationalism on both sides of the Taiwan Strait obscures serious research of criminal behavior as largely universal behavior.

Criminology, published in 1932 by Li Jianhua, was the most influential textbook in the early years of Chinese criminological history. This book continues to be cited by scholars from both China and Taiwan. Before this book, Lombroso’s work was translated into Chinese in 1922 by Liu Linsheng and apparently it was quite a success because it was reprinted four times (Wei et al., 1998).

Currently, there are probably a dozen criminology textbooks in China, and all are very similar in content. As criminology is considered a foundation course for studying criminal law and corrections, these textbooks are designed for students who will become lawyers or administrators in the future and who will have to pass state examinations. Generally speaking, they are the products of a group’s efforts, involving sometimes as many as a dozen people (see Wei et al., 1998). For a textbook of more than 700 pages (Kang et al., 1992; Wei et al., 1998), there is no reference section at the end of the book and there is no name index or subject index. The few references are in footnotes. This lack of attention to citations may be the result of the general indifference toward intellectual property rights, as well as the fact that there has never been a social science citation index developed in China. In contrast, criminology textbooks published in Taiwan all have standard features of American textbooks. For example, Lin and Lin’s Criminology text of 500 pages has a subject index, a name index, and a reference section that contains citations both in English and in Chinese.

There are also several similarities between textbooks in China and Taiwan. First, there is a strong moralist tone in the study of crime. All textbooks in China condemn crime and level, "blind reviews" of manuscripts are not possible.

In China, most individuals who claim to be criminologists are not trained in the behavioral science tradition or in western countries. Most have law degrees, and teach or practice in the law-related professions. The few who do research similar to that of American scholars do not claim to be criminologists. They identify with traditional disciplines and prefer being called sociologists, psychologists and political scientists.

In contrast, most criminologists in Taiwan are trained in western societies, such as the United States, Germany, and Japan (Jou, 2004). They appear to conduct similar research as their foreign counterparts, and most of them would consider themselves as behavioral scientists rather than legal scholars or lawyers. Two out of three current directors of graduate programs of criminology, for example, are American trained, Ph.D. holders in criminal justice. The third has a Ph.D. in sociology from Taiwan, but spent several years in foreign countries.

What Lies Ahead?

Criminology developed during the headlong rush into modernization in China and in Taiwan. There is also some evidence that greater social stratification has played an important role in the increase in crime on both sides of the Taiwan Straight (Cao, 1999; Cao and Dai, 2001). The greatest obstacle in applying statistical models to the study of crime seems to be the non-critical reliance on official data. Furthermore, there have been few efforts in the areas of comparative or international criminology (for exceptions see Zhu, 2001; and Turner, Gao and He, 1994). Most efforts are devoted toward localized theorizing in Taiwan and advancing bold hypotheses within the politically tolerable limits of China. Testing theories empirically in China has not received much attention until recently (see Dai, 2003). State secrecy in China is also likely to impede the development of any meaningful comparative research. Nationalism in both China and Taiwan still obscures the search for the causes of crime, and a moralistic tone continues to affect perceptions of crime and policies to address the crime problem.

As with the concept of law, the approach to criminology is different in China. The traditional culture overshadows the practice of the rule of law. In the long history of China, the law has always been a one-edged sword: it protects only the ruling dynasties and emperors. Emperors and the current regime have always been above the law. In democratic Taiwan, this situation is rapidly changing.

Today's China seems light years away from Mao's time of nearly three decades ago. The boom of capitalism has transformed traditional forms of life and has reconfigured the urban landscape. However, the political infrastructure, including the practice of laws, is basically similar. Since Hu Jintao and Wen Jiabao came into power in 2003, there have been signs that the new government is more interested in the rule of law rather than rule by law. The result has been an increased discussion among academics about constitutionalism. In March, 2004, the Constitution of the People's Republic of China was amended to include a clause to protect the right of private property. There appears to be a consensus among scholars, however, that the large number of codes adopted in the past quarter of the century are simply scraps of paper, and that more attention must now be paid to the law in action. If this discussion of constitutionalism can be sustained, it may result in further development of criminology in China.

NOTES

1. I want to thank Professor Melissa Motschall for her assistance in editing this piece.

2. I excluded other areas where Chinese is one of the official languages, such as Hong Kong, Macao and Singapore, because not much research has been done in Chinese. However, the Hong Kong Society of Criminology, founded in 1983, has the longest history of a non-government and civil criminological association in China (http://www.hku.hk/crime/hksoccrim.htm). The official language of the Society is English. The administration of the Society is provided by the Centre for Criminology, the University of Hong Kong (http://www.hku.hk/crime/). Currently, the Department of Sociology at the University of Hong Kong is the only place in Hong Kong and Macau that offers both a master's degree and Ph.D. in criminology. Dr. Roderic Broadhurst plays a key role in maintaining an active criminological program in the Department of Sociology. With my assistance in 2000, the Centre held its first symposium on crime and its control in greater China and it has become an annual event ever since. No criminological center or institute or association exists in Macau or Singapore.

3. The Chinese Society of Criminology is a non-government academic organization only in name. The qualified member pays 100 yuan for their initiation fee (100 yuan = US$12). The Society does not have an annual membership fee and its operational budget is provided by the central government. Meetings are largely subsidized by corporate sponsors and by local governments. The Society does not have its own website or official journal, but it began to publish an annual anthology as a book in 2003 (Wang, 2003). It has been reported that it is easier to gain government permission to publish a book than a journal in China.

SAVE THE DATE!

The Innocence Project, in conjunction with Cardozo Law School and the Cardozo Law Review bring you

Reforming Eyewitness Identification: Convicting the Guilty, Protecting the Innocent
September 12-13, 2004 in New York City

Join us for what promises to be an historic conference exploring the issues surrounding mistaken eyewitness identifications.

Panels include:

* Representatives of the police departments and district attorneys around the country who are implementing and studying Eyewitness Reforms
* Social scientists whose research in areas of blind examiners, fillers, sequential line ups, and other examination techniques should inform best practice.
* Lawyers and judges who will examine and critique the admissibility standard articulated in Manson v. Braithwaite

Help develop ideas for studies and pilot projects to improve identification procedures and practices in the country.

Please join social scientists, law enforcement officials, prosecutors, and defense attorneys, and judges from across the country in this landmark gathering of ideas and practice. You will receive more information as soon as it becomes available, but in the meantime, save the date for a conference that will prove to be a great chance to learn more about an important issue.

AMERICAN SOCIETY OF CRIMINOLOGY
An NGO in Special Consultative Status with ECOSOC

ELEVENTH UNITED NATIONS CRIME CONGRESS

Bangkok, Thailand
April 18-25, 2005

The American Society of Criminology and its members are encouraged by the United Nations to participate in the upcoming Crime Congress. This is the single largest meeting of approximately 3,500 international public policymakers in the field of crime prevention and criminal justice, held every five years since 1955. It is populated by diplomats, ministry officials, and criminal justice administration senior personnel as well as representatives of the Non-Governmental Organizations (NGOs). Three types of sessions are held; High Level Diplomatic Sessions at which Member State representatives speak about progress and problems on the Agenda Items, Workshops organized by U.N. Institutes on specified themes, and Ancillary Meetings run by NGOs on subjects of their own choosing, compatible with the above settled agenda or ‘new and emerging issues’. ASC is permitted to join with others in these Ancillary Meetings, usually by joining with other NGOs in developing a shared theme with diverse perspectives. As one of the very few academically oriented NGO’s this is an opportunity for ASC members to insure that research is brought into the international debate to influence global public policy formulation.

Ancillary Meetings usually last 90 minutes each, with approximately four presenters and time for discussion with the balance of the attendees at the end. That means a presentation of approximately 15-20 minutes each, made at a slow rate, because of simultaneous interpretation. The audience ranges from 30-100 persons from all over the globe and reflecting the diverse types of attendees. Presentation should be aimed at the non-NGO sector as usually NGO representatives are quite knowledgeable.

In order to facilitate ASC members’ participation the following general information is provided to potential contributors. (Also see www.unodc.org for wider understanding, especially Crime Commission 2004 resolutions E.CN.15/2004/L.3/Rev.1 Preparation for the Eleventh United Nations Congress on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice).

Main Theme: “Synergies and responses: strategic alliances in crime prevention and criminal justice”.

Approved Agenda items (E/CN.15/2003/L.8):

1. Effective measure to combat transnational organized crime
2. Corruption: threats and trends in the twenty-first century
3. Economic and financial crimes: challenges to sustainable development

Workshops:

a. Enhancing law enforcement and criminal justice reform;
b. Strategies for crime prevention;
c. Measures to combat terrorism;
d. Measures to combat economic and computer-related crime

Already Proposed Ancillary Meeting Subjects:
Working Party on Restorative Justice
Working Party in formulation

There is no financial support available from ASC to attend/participate in these meetings, so ASC members are encouraged to seek institutional and/or other external financial support.

Please forward your submission no later than Friday, September 10, 2004 to grosselfinger_un@hotmail.com For further information contact either Dr. Cindy Smith at csmith@ubmail.ubalt.edu or Dr. Nancy Grosselfinger at grosselfinger_un@hotmail.com Each submission will be promptly acknowledged in confirmation of receipt.

FOURTEENTH WORLD CONGRESS OF CRIMINOLOGY

August 6-12, 2005

University of Pennsylvania - Philadelphia, Pennsylvania

Provisional Theme:

REDUCING CRIME AND PROMOTING JUSTICE: CHALLENGES TO POLICY, PRACTICE, AND SCIENCE. THE PHILADELPHIA TRADITION: 1776-2005

Criminologists all over the world are invited to come to Philadelphia in August 2005 and debate major issues in criminology and criminal justice. The venue of the conference is the beautiful campus of the oldest university of the USA, which combines tradition with the most recent conference facilities. The program will provide innovative opportunities for listening and learning, for discussion and debate:

* Special plenary sessions on far reaching global issues, with simultaneous translation.
* Special high level topical and methodological training workshops given by world renowned experts on program evaluation, crime measurement, comparative methodology and crime prevention.
* Roundtables on innovations in criminal justice
* Poster sessions

The organizers offer:

* Discounts for students and all attendees from developing nations
* International Criminology Book Exhibit
* Tour first prison in the U.S., Eastern State Penitentiary
* Social activities designed to provide ample opportunities to meet new colleagues

Please join in the preparations for making the 14th World Congress of Criminology a global and intellectually most vibrant experience. Papers may be delivered in the ISC official languages: English, Spanish and French, or in any other language common to one workshop. We would like to encourage our colleagues to organize sessions and bring their networks to Philadelphia.

WESTERN SOCIETY OF CRIMINOLOGY
February 17-19, 2005 - Honolulu, Hawaii

Theme: “Meeting the Challenge: Translating Research Into Practice”. Deadline for abstract submissions November 1, 2005. See http://www.sonoma.edu/cja/wsc/wscmain.html or contact Program Chair Sue Cote at scote@csus.edu for further information.

CALL FOR PAPERS
1st INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE OF THE EUROPEAN AND INTERNATIONAL RESEARCH GROUP ON CRIME, ETHICS AND SOCIAL PHILOSOPHY (ERCES)
April 21-13, 2005 - St. Petersburg, Russia

CALL FOR PROPOSALS
THE RURAL JUSTICE INSTITUTE AT ALFRED UNIVERSITY
May 18-20, 2005 - Corning, New York
Theme: Crystal Opportunities: Building Resiliency in Youth At-Risk.

The Rural Justice Institute at Alfred University seeks proposals to be considered for the “Crystal Opportunities” conference to be held on May 18-20, 2005 in Corning, New York at the Radisson Hotel. The purpose of this conference is to provide participants with a multidisciplinary approach to programs and resources for developing resilient youth. Included in the conference program will be treatment approaches, service coordination, interventions, prevention programs, and protocol development from programs across the country. The conference is designed for anyone who works with youth including professionals from criminal justice; law enforcement; human service organizations; medical and health services; education; mental health; addiction treatment; clergy and church groups; researchers; and university faculty.

This conference has three tracks—Criminal Justice, School-Based Services, and Community-Based Services.
- The Criminal Justice or law enforcement track includes judicial programs, probation, specialized youth courts, drug courts, services for delinquent youth, school safety officer programs or diversion programs.
- The School-Based Service track includes school prevention programming, treatment services, family, group and individual therapy, and after school programming.
- The Community-Based Service track includes non-profit human service organizations, faith based programs, department of social service programs, health care providers, mental health, and addiction programs.

You are asked to submit a proposal in one of three categories: Workshop, Research Paper or Poster Session. Workshop Presentations are designed to be skill based and or program development focused (1hr 15min). Paper presentations can be descriptive or research based (50 min). Poster Sessions provide a summary of research and allow for individual questions from participants (50 min).

The proposal deadline is October 1, 2004. If interested please send a brief abstract (1,000 words), a brief biography of the presenter(s), and a copy of our proposal form, which can be downloaded from the RJI web site (www.ruraljustice.org) to Sally Dorman, Psy.D., Rural Justice Institute, 6 Sayles Alfred, NY 14802. Electronic submissions can be sent to dormansa@alfred.edu.

RESTORATIVE JUSTICE
PRINCIPLES, POLICY, PLANNING AND IMPLEMENTATION
October 18-22, 2004 - Boston

This seminar is part of a series of programs designed and jointly offered by the Office of Personnel Management's Eastern Management Development Center, the Center for Public Management, Sawyer School and Management at Suffolk and the Center for Restorative Justice at Suffolk University.

“Restorative Justice: Principles, Policy, Planning and Implementation” (RJ-PPPI) offers fundamentals of restorative justice principles and practices within criminal justice administration around the world.

This seminar provides examination of the core principles and assumptions of restorative justice in the context of the institutional, historical and legal parameters of the current administration of criminal justice. Curriculum will address the development and implementation of systems, structures, protocols and practices related to restorative justice including organizational learning and development strategies. Case studies include both U.S. and international restorative justice at the local, state and federal levels within the fields of policing, courts, juvenile justice, victims services, probation, corrections and social services.

Through an intensive mix of classroom lecture, small group discussion and hands-on workshops, participants will come to understand the principles of restorative justice; the process for the design, implementation and management of programs; legal issues; organizational change and development; key stakeholder analysis; and research/evaluation strategies.

Faculty: Course Director: Professor Boyes-Watson, Center for Restorative Justice at Suffolk University

Who Should Attend: senior administrators and policy analysts in the field of policing; juvenile justice; victim services; community courts; corrections; and related fields including violence prevention; child welfare; school discipline and conflict resolution.

Graduate Credit: Students completing the Restorative Justice Issues seminar may be eligible to waive graduate credits in the Suffolk University MPA and MSCJ program at Suffolk University.
IN MEMORIAM

EVELYN A. GILBERT
1952 – 2004

Dr. Evelyn Gilbert was an accomplished Educator, Author and Consultant in the field of Criminology. She obtained both her Masters and Doctorate from Florida State University with a specialization in Juvenile Justice and Law Enforcement respectively. Dr. Gilbert served as a professor most recently at Wiley College in Marshall, Texas. Students also benefited from her expertise during her tenure at the University of North Florida, Bethune-Cookman College, Florida State University, Grambling State University, Auburn University, Alabama State University and the University of Northern Iowa.

In addition to being an author, Dr. Gilbert conducted a number of book reviews and was appointed to the Editorial Board and served as Guest Editor for the American Journal of Criminal Justice, the Journal of Contemporary Justice, The Criminologist and the Roxbury Publishing Company.

Dr. Gilbert also received a number of honors and awards for her accomplishments to include: Unsung Hero Award, presented by the Academy of Criminal Justice Sciences; Beyond the Call of Duty Award, presented by the Daytona Beach Police Department; Who’s Who Among America’s Teachers; and a Certificate of Excellence in Research, presented by Bethune-Cookman College. She served on the Executive Board for the: Southern Criminal Justice Association; Minorities and Women Section of the Academy of Criminal Justice Sciences; Division on Women and Crime of the American Society of Criminology and the Division on People of Color and Crime of the American Society of Criminology.

As a result of her contributions during her earthly life, which included her counseling with juveniles and at risk teens and her community involvement activities, Dr. Gilbert’s efforts to make a positive change will influence others for many years to come.

She leaves to mourn but to cherish her memories a loving and devoted family: One sister, three brothers, nieces and nephews and aunts and uncles.
GIFT FROM JOHN JAY COLLEGE OF CRIMINAL JUSTICE TO THE AMERICAN SOCIETY OF CRIMINOLOGY

Dr. Basil Wilson, Provost of John Jay College Criminal Justice, announces a one-year gift from the college to the American Society of Criminology in the amount of $45,000. The purpose of the gift is to improve the quality of justice policy through broad dissemination of criminal justice policy research. The gift will enable the ASC to send free copies of its journal, Criminology & Public Policy, to criminal justice policy makers around the United States. John Jay College has served as the founding home for the journal, Criminology & Public Policy, and has supported the journal's development with various in-kind contributions since the journal's inception. The gift is in honor of Dr. Gerald Lynch, who retires this year after 28 years as President of the College. President Lynch's career has been devoted to upgrading criminal justice practice through advances in criminal justice knowledge.

ED CHAMBERS, ESTHER HEFFERNAN RECEIVE 2004 JSA AWARDS

Ed Chambers, executive director of the Industrial Areas Foundation, was presented with the 2004 Noam Chomsky Award by members of the Justice Studies Association at its sixth annual conference at Edgewood College in Madison, Wisconsin in June. The Industrial Areas Foundation was founded by the noted 1960s organizer Saul Alinsky and colleague of Chambers and is dedicated to supporting community organizing at the most local level. In 2003 Chambers' new book Roots for Radicals: Organizing for Power, Action, and Justice was published by the Continuum International Publishing Group. In it Chambers says a "radical is a person who searches for meaning and affirms community."

Publisher's Weekly described the book as encouraging reflection about public life and ideals; the gap between the world "as it is" and "as it should be;" self-interest vs. self-sacrifice and other polarities; and how to create actions that not only receive momentary press attention but that are effective. Readers . . . looking for a solid foundation on which to base political action will find much to think about within these pages."

The Noam Chomsky Award is given each year to a person who has been the source of inspiration through her or his commitment to scholarly/intellectual activities related to justice; has been personally active in the promotion of peace and justice; and who lives a life of relative simplicity.

Also at the annual conference, JSA members presented Sister Esther Heffernan, Professor of Sociology at Edgewood College, with the annual JSA Social Activist Award for her work in the areas of peace and social justice for the past 40 years. Recently Esther Heffernan was named a Fellow of the Wisconsin Academy of Arts and Sciences.

2004 INTERNATIONAL COUNTER-TERRORISM OFFICERS ASSOCIATION
2ND ANNUAL CONFERENCE
September 28-30, 2004 - MGM Grand Hotel, Las Vegas, Nevada

Day One: Responding to Terrorist Incidents
Day Two: Protecting Critical Infrastructure
Day Three: The Evolving Face of Terrorism

For further details of the conference, contact ICTOA, 350 Fifth Avenue, Suite 3304 #169, New York, NY 10118, E-mail: info@ictoa.org; www.ictoa.org, or call 212-564-5648.
INTERNATIONAL CONSORTIUM
CRIMINOLOGY ASSOCIATIONS

The First Societies of Criminology Key Issues Conference was held in Paris, France from May 13 - 15, 2004. This was a joint project, involving the efforts of 30 professional societies and associations of criminology. Some 350 persons for more than 30 countries were in attendance. The meeting agenda, paper abstracts, and list of participants can be found at www.asc41.com/paris5.htm.

As a result of this meeting, an International Consortium of Criminology Associations (ICCA) has been organized, with the following goals:

A. Promote the establishment and/or further development of:

1. Academic criminology world-wide, with a goal of seeing vibrant academic departments of criminology in every university in the world.

2. Professional societies and associations of criminology worldwide, with a goal of seeing dynamic societies of criminology functioning in every country of the world (holding annual meetings, publishing journals and newsletters, operating a web page, interacting with other professionals and practitioners, etc).

3. Indigenous, criminological knowledge, with the goal of seeing reputable professional criminological journals published in every country of the world.

B. Hold a bi-annual, focused/theme meeting under the ICCA banner, to both advance the criminological knowledge base, and to enhance the level of professional exchange among criminological associations from around the world.

At the present time, the ICCA web page can be found at www.asc41.com/icca.html. For now, the web page is being hosted by the American Society of Criminology, but the Consortium will soon have its own, free-standing URL.

ACJS EDITOR POSITION

Journal of Criminal Justice Education

The Academy of Criminal Justice Sciences is seeking applications for the position of Editor of the Journal of Criminal Justice Education: An official publication of the Academy of Criminal Justice Sciences.

The Editor Selection Committee of the Academy of Criminal Justice Sciences is accepting applications for the position of Editor of the Journal of Criminal Justice Education. The Editor will be responsible for administering a high quality academic journal for the ACJS membership. The Editor will set editorial policy, select deputy and associate editors, create a peer review system, and manage the journal. Applications must meet the following criteria:

- Demonstrated record of scholarly activity as measured by such indicators as publications in refereed journals, book publication, and research;
- Prior editorial experience as measured by such indicators as editorial responsibilities for other scholarly publications and past experience as a referee, associate, or deputy editor of an academic journal, or other demonstrated editorial experience;
- Earned doctorate or terminal degree in criminal justice or related field;
- Senior (associate professor or above) academic rank at host institution;
- ACJS membership;
- Formal declaration of support from host institution, including release time, space, and other support services the institution will commit to editorship.

Those interested in being considered should provide a formal proposal to the Editor Selection Committee no later than January 7, 2005. The proposal should include:

- Statement of editorial philosophy for the Journal of Criminal Justice Education;
- Statement of applicant’s qualifications, including vita;
- Formal declaration of institutional support;
- A budget including a breakdown of the expenses that will be provided by the host institution and those expected for the Academy.

The Executive Board of the Academy will appoint the Editor for a three-year term. Applications and requests for further information should be directed to:

Jeffery T. Walker
Department of Criminal Justice
University of Arkansas, Little Rock
Little Rock, AR 72204-1099
(501) 569-3083

The Editor’s first issue will be March, 2006 (Volume 17, Number 1). The ACJS Executive Board recently approved a $5,000 stipend for the Editor.

WOMEN & CRIMINAL JUSTICE

WOMEN & CRIMINAL JUSTICE is the only periodical devoted specifically to interdisciplinary and international scholarly research and criminal justice practice dealing with all areas of criminal justice in relation to women. It provides both scholars and practitioners with a single forum devoted to this critical specialty area in the fields of both criminal justice and women’s studies. The journal is refereed and features original research articles from academicians and professionals in the field that reflect its interdisciplinary and international focus. The manuscript should be approximately 20-25 pages double-spaced with a one-inch margin on all four sides and should include an abstract of 200 words, a title page, and a brief biographical sketch of author(s). References, citations, and general style of manuscript should follow the APA style (as outlined in the latest edition of Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association). References should be double-spaced and placed in alphabetical order. Please send 4 copies to: Dr. Donna C. Hale, Editor, Department of Criminal Justice, Shippensburg University, 1871 Old Main Drive, 317 Shippen Hall, Shippensburg, PA 17257-2299.

IN MEMORIAM

MARSON H. JOHNSON
1941 – 2004

Marson H. Johnson, a Criminology instructor and Director of Arts & Sciences at the University of South Florida’s Lakeland campus, died unexpectedly on June 11, 2004 from an aortic aneurysm. Marson was born in Lansing, Michigan. He enlisted with the U.S. Marine Corps after graduating from high school, and upon his discharge, joined the Charlotte, Michigan police force. He began to attend college while employed as an officer, and went on to obtain B.S., M.S., M.A., and Ph.D. degrees from Michigan State University. In 1977, he came to the University of South Florida as an instructor, then moved in 1980 to assume a position with Pan American University in Edinburg, Texas. He returned to Florida in 1982 where he worked as a private consultant and, from 1985-1988, as Assistant Director of the Florida Institute of Law Enforcement at St. Petersburg Junior College. In 1988, Marson was hired to establish a Criminal Justice program (later renamed the Criminology program) and serve as an academic administrator’s at the USF Lakeland campus.

Marson was extremely active in civic affairs in the central Florida region and worked closely with a Lakeland campus Criminal Justice advisory committee to address the educational needs of the region’s law enforcement community. Marson was also a frequent traveler to overseas law enforcement conferences and workshops, including several trips to Eastern European countries and a number of junkets with groups of students to observe the Bahamian National Police. Those close to him describe Marson as fiercely loyal to his family, friends, students, and to his university. He worked countless hours advising and helping students negotiate their college careers. Many first-generation college students enroll on the Lakeland campus, and a good number of them owe their eventual graduations to the dedicated work of Marson Johnson.

Marson is survived by a son, two daughters, seven grandchildren, and two sisters. Before his death, he established the Marson Johnson Endowed Scholarship, donations to which can be made through the University of South Florida.

The New and Improved ASC Email Mentoring Program

...is up and running and awaiting ASC students to make use of our many willing criminologists who can help answer your research, theoretical, and career questions. It is spam-free, thanks to our new password system.

Our mentors represent a range of races/ethnicities, ages, nationalities, and genders. Not to mention, you can choose from practitioners, researchers, and academics. And, very importantly, they have a great number of areas of expertise (women and crime, hate crimes, corrections, etc.), listed on the website. You can find them by going to the ASC main website or by going directly to the ASC Email Mentoring Website:

http://ascmentor.anomie.com

And, dear students, don't forget to nominate your choice for

The American Society of Criminology Mentor of the Year.

Please nominate your choice for the ASC mentor-of-the-year award. Choosing from the ASC Email Mentoring Program list, send nominate someone who has been especially helpful to you. It's easy! Just email me at the address below with your nomination.

Your chosen mentor will receive a lovely plaque at the upcoming ASC meetings. Please make your nominations by October 1, 2004.

Thanks!!!

CALL FOR PAPERS

JOURNAL OF CONTEMPORARY CRIMINAL JUSTICE

Special Issue: Miscarriages of Criminal Justice (August 2005 issue)
The Journal of Contemporary Criminal Justice invites individuals to submit manuscripts for consideration for inclusion in a planned special issue on the topic, Miscarriages of Criminal Justice. The Guest Editor encourages submissions on all aspects of the subject but is especially interested in manuscripts that focus on why miscarriages occur and what can be done about them. Inquiries about the appropriateness of topics should be directed to Robert M. Bohm, JCCJ Guest Editor, via e-mail (rbohm@mail.ucf.edu) or telephone (407-823-5944). All manuscripts will be peer reviewed. Manuscripts should be no more than 25 typed, double-spaced pages including tables, figures and references. Manuscripts must be received no later than January 15, 2005. Please send four manuscript copies, along with the manuscript on disk, to Robert M. Bohm, Department of Criminal Justice and Legal Studies, University of Central Florida, Orlando, FL 32816.

TRENDS IN ORGANIZED CRIME

Trends in Organized Crime offers a composite of analyses and syntheses from a variety of information sources to serve the interests of both practitioners and policy makers as well as the academic community. It is both a stimulus to and a forum for more rigorous empirical research on organized crime, both nationally and internationally. Published four times a year, Trends in Organized Crime is the official journal of the International Association for the Study of Organized Crime (IASOC). It has a distinguished international editorial board. Trends publishes peer-reviewed, academically rigorous research, excerpts significant governmental reports; offers reviews of major new books, and, presents analyses and commentary on current issues in organized crime. Manuscripts must be submitted in English, in electronic form to <finckena@aol.com> as either ASCII, RTF or Word files. For further information, contact the Editor at the above addresses, or at 973-353-3301.

CRIMINAL JUSTICE REVIEW

The Criminal Justice Review is a bimannual scholarly journal dedicated to presenting a broad perspective on criminal justice issues. It focuses on any aspect of crime and the justice system, and can feature local, state, or national concerns. Both qualitative and quantitative pieces are encouraged, providing that they adhere to standards of quality scholarship. As a peer-reviewed journal, we encourage the submission of articles, research notes, commentaries, and comprehensive essays that focus on crime and justice-related topics broadly defined. In addition to an electronic version of the manuscript submitted in either Microsoft Word or WordPerfect, five paper copies of manuscripts should be submitted in English, follow APA style, be double-spaced throughout, including references, tables and indented quotations, and cannot be under consideration by another publication. An abstract not to exceed 200 words must be included with submissions. Send to: Michael S. Vaughn, Editor, Criminal Justice Review, P.O. Box 4018, Georgia State University, Atlanta, GA 30302-4018; 404-651-3688; Email: mvaughn@gsu.edu; Web Site: www.gsu.edu/cjr.

INTERNATIONAL CRIMINAL JUSTICE REVIEW

The International Criminal Justice Review is an annual scholarly journal dedicated to presenting system wide trends and problems on crime and justice throughout the world. Articles may focus on a single country or compare issues affecting two or more countries. Both qualitative and quantitative pieces are encouraged, providing they adhere to standards of quality scholarship. Manuscripts may emphasize either contemporary or historical topics. As a peer-reviewed journal, we encourage the submission of articles, research notes, commentaries, and comprehensive essays that focus on crime and justice-related topics in an international and/or comparative context broadly defined. In addition to an electronic version of the manuscript submitted in either Microsoft Word or WordPerfect, five paper copies of manuscripts should be submitted in English, follow APA style, be double-spaced throughout, including references, tables and indented quotations, and cannot be under consideration by another publication. An abstract not to exceed 200 words must be included with submissions. Send to: Michael S. Vaughn, Editor, International Criminal Justice Review, P.O. Box 4018, Georgia State University, Atlanta, GA 30302-4018; 404-651-3688; Email: mvaughn@gsu.edu; Web Site: www.gsu.edu/icjr.
JOURNAL OF CONTEMPORARY CRIMINAL JUSTICE
Special Issue: Why Study Gangs? (May 2005 issue)
The Journal of Contemporary Criminal Justice invites ASC members to submit manuscripts for consideration for inclusion in a planned special issue on the topic, Why Study Youth Gangs? The Guest Editor encourages submissions on the theoretical significance of studying gangs, definitional issues, and research methodology, as well as empirical findings and interpretations. Inquiries about the appropriateness of topics should be directed to James F. Short, Jr. (CCJ Guest Editor, via e-mail (short@wsu.edu) or telephone (509-335-4707).
All papers will be peer reviewed. Manuscripts should be no more than 25 typed, double-spaced pages including tables, figures and references. Manuscripts must be received no later than September 15, 2004. Please send four manuscript copies, along with the manuscript on disk, to Jim Short, SESRC, Washington State University, Pullman, WA 99164-4014.

POLICE PRACTICE AND RESEARCH: An International Journal
Manuscripts are solicited for Police Practice and Research: An International Journal, which is published in four issues per volume. The journal presents current and innovative police research, as well as operational and administrative practices from around the world. Articles and reports are sought from practitioners, researchers, and others interested in developments in policing, analysis of public order, and the state of safety as it affects the quality of life everywhere. The journal seeks to bridge the gap in knowledge that exists regarding who the police are, what they do, and how they maintain order, administer laws, and serve their communities. Attention is also focused on specific organizational information about the police in different countries and regions, and periodic special issues are devoted to studying police policies and practices regarding a particular topic or issue. The editors aim to improve cooperation between those who are active in the field and those who are involved in academic research, as such a relationship is essential for innovative police work. To this end, the editors encourage the submission of articles co-authored by police practitioners and researchers that highlight a particular subject from both points of view. Submission of Manuscripts: Manuscripts should be no more than 30 typed double spaced pages with text presented on one side of the paper in English. The manuscripts should be accompanied by an abstract of no more than 100 words, up to six key words, and a brief biographical sketch. For complete Notes for Contributors, contact Arvind Verma, Managing Editor, Department of Criminal Justice, Indiana University, Bloomington, IN 47405, USA, Email: averma@Indiana.edu, or any other member of the Journal team.
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF, Dilip K. Das, State University of New York, Dept. of Sociology and Criminal Justice, Plattsburgh, NY 12901, USA, Email: dilip.das@plattsburgh.edu or dilipkd@aol.com TEL: (518) 564-3045, Fax: (518) 564-3333

CRITICAL PERSPECTIVES IN CRIMINOLOGY
Critical Perspectives in Criminology will publish scholarly books and edited volumes that are critically conceived, theoretically animated, integratively focused, and policy oriented. We hope to identify and secure commitments from established authors and emerging talent in the field of criminology, including individuals whose disciplinary base is sociology, psychology, law, philosophy, history, psychiatry, political science, gender studies, and any of the other related social and behavioral sciences. Books in the Series will be aimed at the scholarly community, including library acquisitions and single purchases by academic researchers, as well as classroom adoption in upper division undergraduate and lower division graduate courses. Volumes in the Series will NOT be intended for use as undergraduate textbooks. Questions about the Series or submissions should be sent to: Bruce A. Arigo, Ph.D., Series Editor, Critical Perspectives in Criminology, Department of Criminal Justice, University of North Carolina at Charlotte, 9201 University City Blvd., Charlotte, NC 28223-0001; Barrigo@email.unc.edu - or - Kerry P. Callahan, Acquisitions Editor, University of Illinois Press, 1325 South Oak Street, Champaign, IL 61820; Keryppc@uiuillinois.edu

CRIMINAL LAW BULLETIN
The Criminal Law Bulletin is a journal addressing legal aspects of criminal justice, including policing, adjudication, corrections, and delinquency. The journal welcomes manuscripts by researchers, practitioners, and advanced graduate students. The 2003 volume included articles by James Jacobs, William Bowers, and Hans Toch. Manuscripts of varying lengths (3,000-10,000 words) are published in 6 issues per year. Submissions should be sent on an IBM-compatible disk in WordPerfect or Microsoft Word format, double spaced, with any tables or charts at the end of the copy, and accompanied by a hard copy to: James E. Robertson, Editor-in-Chief & Professor of Corrections, 113 Armstrong Hall, Minnesota State University, Mankato, MN 56001; or, preferably, e-mailed to: james.robertson@mn.edu (please remember to include your name, title, affiliation, address, daytime telephone number, fax number and e-mail address). References and citations should conform to either the Uniform System of Citation (The Bluebook) or the Chicago Manual on Style. The Criminal Law Bulletin is published by West Group and marks its 40th anniversary in 2004.

CALL FOR PAPERS

SECURITY JOURNAL
The Security Journal provides a forum for the debate and analysis of key issues within the field of security. It brings together papers written by some of the world's leading practitioners and academics with the aim of generating new ideas and improving the management and practice of security. The papers will aim to facilitate the exchange of knowledge and good practice, and bridge the various disciplines, professions and countries. The ultimate criteria for a paper's acceptance are that the reader will learn something new from it and that it will advance learning in terms of generating ideas and/or improving practice. Contributors will include policymakers, professionals and academics. The journal will include research-based papers and case studies, as well as papers aimed at developing theory and good practice (3,000 - 5,000 words) and where appropriate, shorter pieces describing work under consideration or in progress (1,000 - 2,500 words). For more information about the journal, please visit the website: http://www.perpetuitypress.com/acatalog/Perpetuity_Press_Security_Journal_22.html. For inquiries concerning submission guidelines and requirements, please contact co-editor Professor Bonnie Fisher at: Bonnie.Fisher@uc.edu

A CRITICAL JOURNAL OF CRIME, LAW AND SOCIETY
The Justice Professional has been replaced by A CRITICAL JOURNAL OF CRIME, LAW AND SOCIETY, a refereed journal published quarterly by Routledge, Francis and Taylor Group. It is housed at the C. W. Post Campus of Long Island University, Department of Criminal Justice. The journal publishes articles that deal with substantive criminal justice and criminological issues, inviting both qualitative and quantifiable papers. We welcome all articles relevant to areas of criminal justice as well as areas of public administration and public affairs. Literature review, summary report of innovative research projects, and research notes are all considered as well. MANUSCRIPT Typewritten, double spaced manuscripts must be submitted in quadruplicate (three blind copies) and sent to: Roslyn Muraskin, Ph.D., Editor, A Critical Journal of Crime, Law and Society, C.W.Post Campus – Post Hall 3C3, 720 Northern Blvd., Brookville NY 11548. An abstract of not more than 100 words, as well as a brief biographical statement describing the author's current affiliation and rank should accompany the manuscript along with the article on disk in Word. A CRITICAL JOURNAL regards submission to the journal as a commitment to publish herein. Permission for use of copyright material is the responsibility of the author. Manuscripts should not exceed 20 typewritten double spaced pages. All footnotes, references, tables, figures, illustrations must be camera ready on an eight and one half by eleven wide paper. Footnotes and bibliographic citations must follow the journal style based upon that followed the American Psychological Association (APA). Since manuscripts are sent out anonymously for editorial evaluation, the authors’ name should appear on a separate cover sheet. Electronic copies are accepted and should be sent to Roslyn.Muraskin@liu.edu.
BOWLING GREEN STATE UNIVERSITY
The Department of Sociology invites applications for an Assistant Professor, tenure-track position in criminology/deviance, beginning in August 2005. The department (http://www.bgsu.edu/departments/soc/) offers doctoral specializations in criminology/deviance, social psychology, demography, and family sociology, and also houses an NIH-funded interdisciplinary Center for Family and Demographic Research (http://www.bgsu.edu/organizations/cfdr/main.html). Candidates must demonstrate excellence in research, including potential for external funding, and a strong commitment to teaching at both the graduate and undergraduate levels. The successful candidate will have the interest and ability to teach courses in several of the following areas: criminology, theories of criminality, juvenile delinquency, deviant behavior, white collar and organized crime, sociology of violence, corrections, sociology of law, and sociology of mental illness. Applicants should submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, three letters of reference, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and examples of written work to: Professor Stephen Cernkovich, Chair, Criminology Search Committee, Department of Sociology, Bowling Green State University, Bowling Green, Ohio, 43403-0231. Applications must be postmarked by October 15, 2004. Bowling Green State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer and educational institution.

CALIFORNIA STATE UNIVERSITY FULLERTON
Department of Political Science & Criminal Justice, College of Humanities & Social Sciences — Criminal Justice/ Open Specialization, Tenure-Track
The Division of Political Science and Criminal Justice at California State University Fullerton, invites applications for the position of Assistant Professor (tenure track.) Position: We seek applicants to teach a variety of courses within an undergraduate program in Criminal Justice and courses in the faculty member’s field of specialization. The successful candidate will be expected to contribute to the development of the Criminal Justice elective curriculum and to the integration of innovative teaching technologies into course materials. Assigned time may be available for activities such as instructional research, course development, and departmental responsibilities. Positive tenure and promotion decisions require excellence in teaching as well as research, publication in appropriate peer-reviewed venues, and participation in the broader disciplinary community.
Qualifications: A Ph.D. in Criminal Justice or related field is required. ABD’s may apply but must show evidence that the degree will be completed by the time of appointment. (J.D. or L.L.B. is not sufficient.) Ability to teach a variety of courses within an undergraduate program in Criminal Justice and field of specialization. Preference will be given to applicants who have demonstrated success in effective teaching at the college level.

Candidates should be able to interact effectively with a wide and diverse range of students and colleagues. Background interest in a related area that will contribute to the development of the Criminal Justice elective curriculum is also desirable.
Rank and Salary: The position is at the rank of Assistant Professor, tenure-track. Salary is highly competitive and commensurate with experience and qualifications. Salary is subject to budgetary authorization and any California State University System faculty contract increases. Additional teaching in summer and intersession is often available. CRIMINOLOGY & PUBLIC POLICY is currently accepting manuscripts for publication consideration

One of the most significant challenges facing criminal justice policy makers is to build justice policy in ways that reflect knowledge of the most recent and important crime and justice research. There is a familiar complaint among crime and justice researchers that contemporary policy fails to reflect what we know from research studies. Yet policy makers often object that policy-relevant findings are not accessible in ways that fit the policy development process. As the scope and depth of knowledge about crime and justice increases steadily, the gap between policy and knowledge appears to widen.

The American Society of Criminology’s journal Criminology & Public Policy was established two years ago as an avenue for bridging the gap between scientifically sound, policy-related research and criminal justice policy. The central objective of the journal is to strengthen the role of research findings in the formulation of crime and justice policy by publishing empirically based, policy-focused articles. Authors are encouraged to submit papers that contribute to a more informed dialogue about policies and their empirical bases.

Criminology & Public Policy only considers original manuscripts which have not been previously published and are not currently under consideration elsewhere. Manuscripts should be typed, double-spaced and limited to 30 pages, including tables and figures. Style sheets are available on our website. Please submit five hard-copies and one electronic copy of the manuscript (either as an email attachment or on a floppy diskette), an abstract of approximately 100 words divided into two sections highlighting the ‘Research Findings’ and ‘Policy Implications’ (see style sheet), and a brief biographical sketch of the author(s) including affiliation, recent publications and research interests. Author identifications should only be appear on the title and biographical sketch pages. Manuscripts must be accompanied by a nonrefundable $10 submission fee (payable to the American Society of Criminology).

DIVISION OF CRITICAL CRIMINOLOGY

CALL FOR PAPERS

The editors of Critical Criminology: An International Journal are seeking manuscripts that deal with questions of social, political and economic justice. The journal is for academics and researchers with an interest in the anarchistic, cultural feminist, integrative, Marxist, peace-making, postmodernist and realistic criminology. Critical Criminology also deals with issues that include class, gender, race/ethnicity and heterosexism. It encourages works that focus on creative and cooperative solutions to justice problems, plus strategies for the construction of a more inclusive society. Critical Criminology is the official journal of the Division of Critical Criminology in the American Society of Criminology. Manuscripts should be approximately 6,000 to 8,000 words (including tables, illustrations, notes and references) and framed in a manner that would be of interest to an international audience. Book reviews are also welcome and shorter research notes (3,000 words) will be considered for publication. Three hard copies and a disk copy of manuscripts should be sent to: Barbara Sims, Editor-in-Chief, Penn State Harrisburg, 777 West Harrisburg Pike, Middletown, PA 17057. For those contributors for whom regular mail is a problem, an electronic copy of the paper can be sent to Dr. Sims at bas4@psu.edu. Contributors are encouraged to consult previous issues of the journal for the appropriate citation style and format of their manuscripts.

CALL FOR REVIEWERS FOR MANUSCRIPTS SUBMITTED TO CRITICAL CRIMINOLOGY

The editors of Critical Criminology: An International Journal are seeking manuscript reviewers for submissions to the journal. Individuals should be willing to work with the editors under their policy of ensuring a timely response to authors. If interested, please contact Barb Sims, Editor-in-Chief, at bas4@psu.edu.

NEW BOOK REVIEW EDITOR APPOINTED FOR CRITICAL CRIMINOLOGY

The editors of Critical Criminology: An International Journal, are pleased to announce that Dr. Suzette Cote, California State University, Sacramento, has been named as Book Review Editor for the journal. Individuals are encouraged to contact Sue at scote@csus.edu if they know of a book they would like to see reviewed or to have their names placed on a list of individuals willing to review books identified by Sue.
