ACKNOWLEDGING THE CENTRALITY OF QUANTITATIVE CRIMINOLOGY IN CRIMINOLOGY AND CRIMINAL JUSTICE

Shawn Bushway, University of Maryland
David Weisburd, University of Maryland, Hebrew University

Introduction
Quantitative criminology, defined broadly as the empirical analysis of crime that relies on quantitative methods, has reached a level of maturity that may surprise other social scientists, and even many criminologists. The Journal of Quantitative Criminology, founded in the mid 1980's, is now recognized by the field as one of the top journals in the discipline. There is now a new journal—the Journal of Experimental Criminology—which focuses on specific aspects of quantitative criminology. There has been a sea change in how students are taught, with the vast majority of both undergraduate and graduate programs in criminology now requiring statistics and research methods courses (Bushway and Flower 2002). A simple survey of the last three complete volumes of Criminology (2001-2004) shows that of the 99 articles published, 82% used statistical analysis of quantitative data, with 32% relying on non-linear regression approaches including HLM, trajectory analysis, negative binomial and tobit models.

These latter techniques are now used in criminology as a result of an adoption process referred to as the three “I’s” of quantitative criminology: importation of techniques from statistics or other methodological disciplines like econometrics and psychometrics, introspection in regard to the appropriate use of the technique in criminology, and innovation in the development of new methodological and statistical approaches. In a recent edited book on quantitative criminology (Bushway and Weisburd 2003), we demonstrate that criminologists have not only drawn on sophisticated and cutting edge approaches from other fields, they have also given significant attention to the ways such approaches must be adapted to fit criminological problems. Examples of such introspection include recent symposiums about the relevance of experiments sponsored by the Campbell Collaboration and well publicized debates on the use of linear growth curve models (HLM) vs. group based models in developmental criminology (Eggleston et al. 2004, Nagin and Tremblay 2004). In fact, such introspection is not novel in criminology and criminal justice; it is expected by peer reviewers and journal editors who require the use of new techniques like HLM that are deemed to be more appropriate than earlier methods. Criminology may be seen as comparatively open in its willingness to adopt and implement new approaches. Among the disciplines tracked in a recent survey of social science research methods, criminology is the only field to show a marked increase in the use of experimental designs over the last 40 years (Boruch et al. 2002). Moreover, there are now examples, such as the trajectory models introduced by Nagin and Land, of innovative methods developed specifically for quantitative criminology being exported to other fields.

But statistical methods are not static and one could argue that developments in statistics are growing at an ever faster rate. For example, statisticians continue to develop non-parametric solutions to problems, and statistical computing packages are incorporating new routines to allow for non-parametric estimation, data imputation and error correction. All social sciences face a consistent challenge to import, introspect and innovate in order to better answer the questions of interest to the field. We question whether criminology as a field is giving appropriate attention to the issues that arise in quantitative criminology as new techniques develop and are put into practice by growing numbers of criminologists.

AROUND THE ASC

Sarah Hall Has Retired: As has been noted on the ASC web page, Sarah Hall has retired. Sarah came to work for ASC in February of 1976. She devoted the next thirty years of her life to ASC, and to us as individuals. She was literally the face of the American Society of Criminology for three decades. She was the constant presence within ASC as it grew to the international body that it is today. Sarah underwent surgery this past January and is now recovering. She is presently up and about, and would surely love to hear from you. Please send your letters to Sarah at 2869 Bremen Street, Columbus, OH 43224.

The Florida State University College of Criminology and Criminal Justice is continuing its expansion. Four faculty members will be added in fall 2006: Kevin Beaver, who is earning his Ph.D. at the University of Cincinnati, Brian Stults from the University of Florida, and Patricia Warren from the University of Massachusetts will join the faculty as assistant professors. Sarah Bacon, who is finishing her Ph.D. at the University of Maryland, will join the faculty as a visiting assistant professor.

Florida State University has named Professor Ted Chiricos the William Julius Wilson Professor of Criminology in recognition of his excellence in research, teaching, and service.

Professor Sanja Kutnjak Ivkovich has been promoted to associate professor and awarded tenure in the Florida State University College of Criminology and Criminal Justice. Additionally, Oxford University Press recently published her new book, *Fallen Blue Knights.

Steven E. Barkan (Department of Sociology, University of Maine) has won the 2006 “Texty” Textbook Excellence Award in the humanities and social sciences category from the Text and Academic Authors Association for his Criminology: A Sociological Understanding, 3rd edition (Prentice Hall, 2006).
In the not very distant past, only very sophisticated users could even conduct statistical analysis. However, with modern computers and canned statistical software, calculation is no longer the main barrier to achieving answers. Not surprisingly then, there is a legitimate concern about the proper use of statistical techniques across fields. The ongoing debate about the proper use of something as basic as Null Hypothesis Significance Testing is perhaps the best example of the disconnect between established best practice and common usage in the social sciences (Ziliak and McCloskey 2004; Bushway, Sweeten, and Wilson 2006; Weisburd et al. 2003, Schmidt 1996). Another example is the failure to use appropriate methods to deal with the important (and common) issue of selection bias. In each case the question is not the statistics, but rather how the statistical methods are used. And, in each case, problems develop when researchers apply the "appropriate" technique in a mechanistic manner without truly understanding the underlying structure of the model or estimator in question.

Therefore, while not downplaying the progress that has been made, we believe that more work is needed. The fact that 80% of all articles in Criminology rely on statistical models is a fairly clear statement that statistical techniques are the primary (although not the only valid) means of research in criminology. It is then reasonable to ask if the average researcher in the field has a good enough working knowledge of statistics and its applications in criminology to intelligently conduct statistical analyses and critique the methods used by others. It is not enough to be able to estimate the models in SPSS or STATA. Researchers must be able to understand the fundamental assumptions of these models and evaluate the relative strengths and weaknesses of the different approaches in areas like descriptive analysis and causal modeling.

Statistical and methodological sophistication without a real understanding of the approaches used can lead to a kind of mindless or magical science (Weisburd 2001). While we are strong advocates for sophisticated statistical analysis in criminology, we believe that many papers are written without a good understanding of the statistics or methods employed. This is not a recipe for good science. Moreover, many reviewers of criminological studies do not understand the methodological and statistical issues well enough to fairly evaluate the findings. To fully take advantage of the growing sophistication of criminology as a discipline, criminologists will have to become more sophisticated, which paradoxically might lead to simpler and more understandable research. In this sense it is not enough to include quantitative methods in the core curriculum of criminology programs. We must recognize that statistical and methodological training represent core concerns in the training of criminologists, as central as criminological theory is for the development of the discipline.

We also think that criminology departments need to be more open to hiring explicitly methodological researchers. Sociology departments, which admittedly tend to be larger, have hired statisticians. Many criminologists who pass for methodologists, including the two authors, are not strictly speaking methodologists, but rather sophisticated users of statistics. We believe that the overall quality of both training and research would improve if criminology departments more aggressively recruited methodologists who have an interest in studying crime and the criminal justice system.

Moreover, explicitly methodological researchers could improve the quality of our annual meeting and create more dialogue about appropriate methods in criminology. More generally, we think it is problematic that there is no division of quantitative criminology, and no strong set of panels on quantitative methods at the annual meeting. Other disciplines, such as psychology and sociology, have been much more willing to recognize the importance of research methods and statistics. Such a recognition would serve to improve our annual meeting and the training that we provide to younger scholars through example. As applied researchers, the two authors of this article would greatly value panels that discuss new statistical approaches and research designs as part of a continuing effort to increase our own understanding. We are delighted that the forthcoming ASC meeting in LA will for the first time have two quantitative workshops on the Tuesday before the meeting. The first, entitled "Data Mining From A Regression Perspective" will be led by statistician Richard Berk. The second, entitled 'Beyond OLS: An Introduction to Generalized Linear Models' will be led by David McDowall, the editor of the Journal of Quantitative Criminology. These types of workshops are a standard feature of other social science meetings and provide a wonderful opportunity to learn new techniques as well as interact with fellow scholars on methodological issues. We hope that these workshops become a standard feature of ASC.

Research methods and statistical methods are not static, and it will always be a challenge for researchers in the social sciences to keep abreast of best practices. The issue is whether as a field, we have the necessary infrastructure in place to make sure that we will continue to apply the best possible approaches to the questions of interest in criminology and criminal justice. In this article, we advocate a renewed attempt to focus greater attention on research methods and statistics in criminology. We think that such a focus is critical to advancing our discipline as a social science.

1 The Nagin and Land approach is described in a well known volume in developmental science published by the American Psychological Association, New Methods for the Analysis of Change by Linda M. Collins and Aline G. Sayers (2001). For the best complete description of this approach see Nagin (2005).

2 See the special issue on quantitative methods in the Journal of Economic Perspectives in 2001 for an explicit attempt in economics to educate the broader field about new econometric issues.

THE ALCANY SYMPOSIUM ON CRIME AND JUSTICE

Presented by the University at Albany School of Criminal Justice and the Capital Punishment Research Initiative

The Next Generation of Death Penalty Research:
Priorities, Strategies, and an Agenda

October 6-7, 2006

Social science and legal scholars will explore contemporary death-penalty laws and practices, focusing on the role of empirical research evidence in contributing to changing capital-punishment policies. Held 30 years after the Supreme Court's decisions in Gregg v. Georgia and four other cases that marked the dawning of this country's "modern era" of capital punishment, this Symposium takes place following a generation of experience with modern death-penalty laws. With increasing calls for study commissions to examine the administration of capital punishment, this forum will address public policy issues that invite systematic scholarly examination. A concluding roundtable discussion involving Symposium participants will seek to develop a research agenda that may serve state and national Death Penalty Study Commissions.

Among the Featured Presenters:

David C. Baldus, Joseph B. Tye Professor, University of Iowa College of Law
Hugo Adam Bedau, Emeritus Professor of Philosophy, Tufts University
William J. Bowers, Capital Punishment Research Initiative, University at Albany
Richard Dieter, Executive Director, Death Penalty Information Center
Deborah Denno, Arthur A. McGivney Professor of Law, Fordham Law School
David R. Dow, University Distinguished Professor, University of Houston Law Center
Jeffrey Fagan, Professor, Center for Crime, Community & Law, Columbia University
Deborah Fleischaker, Director ABA Death Penalty Moratorium Implementation Project
Eric M. Freedman, Professor, Hofstra Law School
David Garland, Professor, Department of Sociology, New York University
Craig Haney, Professor, Psychology Department, University of California at Santa Cruz
Robert Johnson, Professor, Department of Justice, Law & Society, American University

The Department of Criminal Justice at Fayetteville State University is proud to announce our new Master of Science degree program in Criminal Justice. The program consists of 33 semester hours, with both a thesis and a non-thesis option, and is offered both on campus and online. Our curriculum serves the needs of:

- Criminal justice professionals and researchers who want to advance in their careers.
- Justice advocates who seek to improve the quality of justice in their communities.
- Individuals who want to teach criminal justice at the high school or community college level.
- Students who want a strong foundation for pursuing a doctoral degree in criminal justice.

DIVISION NEWS

DIVISION OF CRITICAL CRIMINOLOGY

CALL FOR PAPERS – CRITICAL CRIMINOLOGY: AN INTERNATIONAL JOURNAL

Critical Criminology is the official journal of the Division of Critical Criminology of the American Society of Criminology. The journal deals with questions of social, political and economic justice. Critical Criminology is for academics and researchers with an interest in anarchistic, cultural, feminist, integrative, Marxist, peacemaking, postmodernist and left-realist criminology. The journal does not limit the scope of the inquiry to state definitions of crime and welcomes work focusing on issues of social harm and social justice, including those exploring the intersecting lines of class, gender, race/ethnicity and heterosexism. The journal is of interest for all persons with an interest in alternative methodologies and theories in criminology, including chaos theory, non-linear analysis, and complex systems science as it pertains to the study of crime and criminal justice. The journal encourages works that focus on creative and cooperative solutions to justice problems, plus strategies for the construction of a more inclusive society.

Manuscripts should be approximately 6,000 to 8,000 words (including tables, illustrations, notes and references). Please send four hard copies of manuscripts, as well as an electronic copy (on 3.5 diskette or on CD-ROM) to Dr. Shahid Alvi, Editor-in-Chief, Faculty of Criminology, Justice & Policy Studies, University of Ontario Institute of Technology, 2000 Simcoe St. N, Oshawa, Ontario, Canada L1H 7K4.

Prior to submission, please access the following URL and follow the posted author’s guidelines.
http://www.criterim.org/journal.htm (NOTE: this link will lead you to the Springer website with links to author instructions.)

For our colleagues outside the U.S. and Canada, electronic submission is available, and should be sent to: Shahid.alvi@uoit.ca.

For markets outside the U.S., please consider working with either Mark Israel, Editor for the Pacific Rim (mark.israel@finders.edu.au) or Joanna Goodey, European Editor (jo.goodey@eumc.eu.int).

Our Book Review Editor, Mindy Bradley, is looking for book recommendations as well as individuals willing to review them. You may contact her at: mwbradl@uark.edu.
DIVISION OF WOMEN & CRIME

CALL FOR PAPERS – FEMINIST CRIMINOLOGY
Editor: Susan F. Sharp, University of Oklahoma

Official Journal of the Division on Women and Crime of the American Society of Criminology

Feminist Criminology – an innovative new journal that is dedicated to research related to women, girls, and crime within the context of a feminist critique of criminology – will unveil its premier issue in January 2006. Published quarterly by Sage Publications as the official journal of the Division on Women and Crime of the American Society of Criminology, this international publication focuses on research and theory that highlights the gendered nature of crime. The feminist critique of criminology incorporates a perspective that the paths to crime differ for males and females. Therefore, research that uses sex as a control variable often fails to illuminate the factors that predict female criminality. Feminist Criminology provides a venue for articles that place women in the center of the research question, answering different questions than the mainstream approach of controlling for sex.

Feminist Criminology features research utilizing both quantitative and qualitative methodology and includes insightful topics such as

- Race, Ethnicity, and Gender Diversity in the Study of Women and Crime
- Cross-Cultural / International Perspectives on Women and Crime
- Women Working in the Criminal Justice Profession
- How Women Offenders Are Treated in the Criminal Justice System
- Women as Victims
- Feminist Theories of Crime

Feminist Criminology welcomes academics, practitioners, and researchers interested in studies that incorporate a feminist critique to the study of gender and crime to submit articles, reviews, or special issues proposals to the editor. Manuscripts involving empirical research, theoretical analysis, and practice-oriented papers will be considered as will essays on teaching, social action agencies, and book reviews on issues of gender and crime. Manuscripts will be peer-reviewed by the diverse and distinguished multi-disciplinary editorial board and should be submitted in electronic format, not exceeding 30 double-spaced typed pages, with a 100-word abstract and a brief autobiographical sketch. Figures, tables, and references must be on separate pages and should follow the format specified in the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association (5th Edition).

Submissions to Feminist Criminology should be sent directly to the editor via email. A $10.00 submission fee, made payable to the American Society of Criminology, should be mailed to: Susan F. Sharp, Ph.D., University of Oklahoma, 780 Van Vleet Oval, KH 331, Norman, OK 73019 Email: ssharp@ou.edu
CALL FOR NOMINATIONS FOR THE 2006
DIVISION ON WOMEN AND CRIME AWARDS

Nominations are requested for the following Division on Women and Crime awards:

Distinguished Scholar Award which recognizes outstanding contributions to the field of women and crime by an established scholar. The contributions may consist of a single outstanding book or work, a series of theoretical or research contributions, or the accumulated contributions of an established scholar. Eligibility includes scholars who have held a Ph.D. for eight or more years.

New Scholar Award which recognizes the achievements of scholars who show outstanding merit at the beginnings of their careers. Outstanding merit may be based on a single book or work, including dissertation or a series of theoretical or research contributions to the area of women and crime. Eligibility includes scholars who held a Ph.D. for less than eight years.

Lifetime Achievement Award which recognizes scholars upon retirement. We inaugurated this award on our 20th Anniversary, 2004. Scholars receiving this award should have an established career advancing the goals and work of the Division on Women and Crime.

CoraMae Richey Mann “Inconvenient Woman of the Year” Award recognizes the scholar/activist who has participated in publicly promoting the ideals of gender equality and women's rights throughout society, particularly as it relates to gender and crime issues. This award will be granted on an ad hoc basis. Nominations should include specific documentation of public service (news articles, etc) and should describe in detail how this person's activism has raised awareness and interest in the issues that concern the Division on Women and Crime. This award was inaugurated in honor of our 20th Anniversary in 2004.

The nominees are evaluated by the awards committee based on their scholarly work, their commitment to women crime as a research discipline, and their commitment to women in crime as advocates, particularly in terms of dedication to the division on women and crime. In submitting your nomination, please provide the following supporting materials: a letter evaluating a nominee's contribution and its relevance to the award and the nominee's c.v. (short version preferred). No nominee will be considered unless these materials are provided and arrive by the deadline.

Send nominations and supporting materials by October 15, 2006:

Awards: Division Awards will be presented at the Division on Women and Crime meeting at the ASC conference in November. The committee reserves the right to give no award in a particular year if it deems this appropriate. Submissions: Please send a letter of nomination describing the nominees contributions, identify the award for which you are nominating the individual (distinguished scholar, new scholar), and make sure that a vita for this nominee reaches the committee in a timely fashion. Self nominations are welcome. Send to: Kimberly J Cook, Chair, Department of Sociology and Criminal Justice, University of North Carolina at Wilmington, 601 South College Rd. Wilmington, NC 28403, or by e-mail: cookkj@uncw.edu

DIVISION ON WOMEN AND CRIME
STUDENT PAPER COMPETITION

Eligibility: Any student currently enrolled at the undergraduate or graduate level.

Paper Specifications: Papers should be of professional quality and must be about or related to feminist scholarship; gender issues; or women as offenders, victims or professionals. Papers must be no longer than 35 pages including all references, notes, and tables; utilize an acceptable referencing format such as APA or MLA; be type-written and double-spaced; and include an abstract of 100 words. Submissions must include verification of student status. Papers by multiple student authors are acceptable. Papers may not be published, accepted, or under review for publication at the time of submission.

Deadline: Papers must be submitted by September 15, 2006 to the Awards Committee.

Judging: The Awards Committee will evaluate the papers based on significance of the topic, conceptualization, analysis (if appropriate) and clarity of the writing.

Award: A winner will be presented a plaque by the Division on Women and Crime at the American Society of Criminology annual meeting in Los Angeles and a $500.00 cash award to the winner of the graduate paper competition and $250 to the winner of the undergraduate paper competition. In cases in which there are multiple authors, the award will be divided among the recipients.

Please provide 4 copies of submissions to:

STUDENT PAPER COMPETITION

Eligibility
Any student who is enrolled on a full-time basis in an academic program at either the graduate or undergraduate level is eligible for the competition. Co-authored papers are acceptable if all authors are students.

Award
The most outstanding submission will receive an award of $200 and the author(s) of the paper will be recognized at the Division’s awards ceremony at the 2006 annual meeting of the American Society of Criminology in Los Angeles, California November 1-4, 2006.

Paper Requirements
Papers directly related to the area of corrections and/or sentencing will be considered for this award. The author(s) of the paper must be a student(s). Entries for this competition are limited to a single submission. The paper may not be submitted to more than one ASC student competition for the same year.

The CRIMINOLOGY format for the organization and preparation of text, citations, and references should be used. Papers may not exceed 7,500 words. The author’s name, department and advisor (optional) should appear only on the title page. The next page of the manuscript should include the title of the paper and a 100 word abstract. Please submit 2 copies of the manuscript along with a letter indicating the author’s enrollment status co-signed by the student’s dean, department chair, or program director. An electronic copy of the manuscript should also be sent to Huebnerb@umsl.edu.

Procedure for Judging Entries
The Division Student Affairs Committee will judge entries based on the following criteria: the significance of the topic; contribution to the area of corrections and/or sentencing; command of the relevant work in the field of study; appropriate use of methodology; and the quality of the writing.

Deadline: Papers must be postmarked on or before September 1, 2006 to:

ATTENTION AUTHORS!!!

Many classic books in Criminology and Criminal Justice are out-of-print and difficult to access. ASC has been considering ways to make these books more accessible to the field.

Google has recently announced a program aimed at increasing accessibility of books in general. Google is working with several major libraries to include their entire collections in its “Google Book Search.” Users will be able to search on authors, titles, topics, or snippets of content to find books. They will be able to view the full-text versions of books whose copyrights have expired. For works still copyright protected, users will see a few snippets from the book so that they can confirm that the book meets their needs, and they will be directed to information about how to order the book. However, under this program, authors can give Google permission to make the full text of a copy-righted book available so that users can have access to the full text. If such permission is granted, users will pay a fee for immediate access to its full contents. The copyright holder decides if a book should be available online, and what the access price should be.

This service may prove to be a convenient avenue for making books that are important to the field more easily accessible. For more information about the entire project, see:
http://books.google.com/googleprint/library.html

For more information about how to make a copy-righted book available for on-line access, see:

Please Note: Changes to the ASC E-MAIL MENTORING PROGRAM

The ASC email mentoring program has undergone a number of changes, all of them good. For example, we now have a search feature that allows ASC students to search the site for mentors by specialization. So, type in the word theory (for instance) in the search bar and, voila, up pops all the mentors who do theory. Also, the site is more accessible than ever as well as being password protected.

Please examine the web site at http://ascmentor.anomie.com (or access it via the ASC main page). Let me know if you have any suggestions for improvement.

Current Mentors

If you have changed your affiliations, email addresses, or areas of specialization, please let me know and I make the updates. Also, if you want off the list, tell me and I'll remove you.

Call for New Mentors

If you'd like to sign up for the ASC email mentoring program as a mentor, you need only to be an ASC non-student member. The program has been a very rewarding experience for those of us serving as mentors and we always welcome new people. We seek not only university faculty but also those working in research institutes (private or public), practitioners, and administrators in any field related to the discipline of Criminology. Students need mentors from a variety of specializations as well as various ages, races, and genders. Interested? Email me the following:

Name
Affiliation
Email address
Areas of specialization (e.g., women and crime, technology, community corrections, etc.)
Month and year of birth (optional)
Gender
Race/ethnicity

Students

The program is available and free to all ASC student members. We encourage you to make use of our over 80 top-notch national and international experts. The ASC developed the mentoring program in 1994, with the purpose being to link ASC students with experts in the field of Criminology outside their own universities. Students may ask mentors about career choices, research and theoretical issues, personal-professional concerns (such as what it's like to be a minority Criminologist in a variety of work settings).

The ASC Email Mentor of the Year Award

Students, please nominate the mentor who has been most helpful to you via the ASC email mentoring program. I will forward your recommendation to the ASC Board. The award is then delivered at the ASC annual meetings, along with a nice plaque. Please make your nominations to me by September 1 of every year (not October 1, as I said in the last announcement).

ASC Training Seminar: Beyond OLS

A training seminar, conducted by David McDowall, will be held in conjunction with the Los Angeles ASC meetings. The session will be held on Tuesday, October 31, 2006 in room 150C in the Los Angeles Convention Center from 1 pm to 5 pm. The cost is $40.00. One does not need to attend the ASC meetings to participate in this seminar. A course description and registration information follows:

Beyond OLS: An Introduction to Generalized Linear Models

This course is intended for persons who have a basic knowledge of regression analysis and wish to extend their skills to cover a wider range of models. Its target audience is people whose quantitative training largely ended with ordinary least squares. Generalized linear models relax the ordinary least squares requirement of a continuous and approximately normally distributed dependent variable. Generalized linear models include binary logistic and probit models, models for ordinal and multiple category dependent variables, Poisson and negative binomial models, and others. Collectively, they are the backbone of much recent empirical work in criminology and criminal justice. The course will assume that participants have a working familiarity with linear regression but possess little solid experience with models other than ordinary least squares. It will cover general estimation issues and the motivation, structure, and interpretation of several classes of models. It will also consider available software options and provide references for further study. David McDowall is a Professor in the University at Albany's School of Criminal Justice. He has long experience in teaching statistics to criminologists, and he is responsible for the School's PhD statistics sequence. He is the current editor of the Journal of Quantitative Criminology. He can be reached at mcdowall@albany.edu. Registration will be limited to 50. Register at www.asc41.com/olsreg.html.

ASC Training Seminar: Data Mining From A Regression Perspective

A training seminar, conducted by Richard Berk, will be held in conjunction with the Los Angeles ASC meetings. The session will be held on Tuesday, October 31, 2006 in room 150A in the Los Angeles Convention Center from 9 am to 12 noon. The cost is $40.00. One does not need to attend the ASC meetings to participate in this seminar. A course description and registration information follows:

Data Mining from a Regression Perspective

There are a growing number of new statistical procedures that some have called algorithmic. Coming from work primarily in statistics, applied mathematics, and computer science, these techniques are sometimes linked to data mining, machine learning, and statistical learning. With algorithmic methods, there is no statistical model in the usual sense; no effort to make to represent how the data were generated. And no apologies are offered for the absence of a model. There is a practical data analysis problem to solve that is attacked directly with procedures designed specifically for that purpose. Among the great variety of algorithmic approaches, there is a group that depends on combining the fitted values from a number of fitting attempts; fitted values are said to be combined or bundled. The idea is that a weak procedure can be strengthened if given an opportunity to operate by committee. Such procedures often perform far better than conventional statistical techniques and in many cases can be shown to have desirable statistical properties. The purpose of this workshop is to introduce a particularly useful subset of these procedures that can be approached from the same broad perspective as a regression analysis: boosting, bagging, and random forests. If there is time, support vector machines will also be briefly considered. All of the applications will involve criminal justice data sets. The workshop will assume a working knowledge of the generalized linear model. Some familiarity with the bootstrap will also be useful. But the fundamentals can be appreciated with just a practical background in linear regression. The empirical work presented will have been done with programs available in R (which is free). Richard Berk is a professor in the Department of Statistics at UCLA. Professor Berk is an elected fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Statistical Association and the Academy of Experimental Criminology, and has been a member the Committee on Applied and Theoretical Statistics of the National Research Council. Registration will be limited to 50. Register at www.asc41.com/datamine.html.

National Research Council Development

Efforts have been underway for sometime to get the National Research Council to list criminology/criminal justice as a separate field rather than as a subfield of sociology. In their latest taxonomy, the NRC has begun to move in this direction, and has recognized criminology/criminal justice as an emerging field within the social sciences. See: www7.nationalacademies.org/resdoc/Taxonomy_subfields.html
2007 ANNUAL FULBRIGHTERS CONFERENCE IN PANAMA

Fulbright grantees, alumni and friends are invited to the Fulbright Academy's 2007 Fulbrighters in Science Conference. This 3½ day conference will be held in Panama City, Panama in March 2007.

The 3½ day conference will have panels and discussions on many topics, including criminology. Alumni from the region and around the world are involved in the planning. If you would like to propose a panel, please visit the Academy's website.

If you would like to propose a panel, help with the planning or sponsor the conference, please contact us at info@FulbrightAcademy.org. The conference language is English. Situated at Central America's narrowest point, Panama City has been a center for the movement of people and goods between the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans for centuries. The Academy's program will include private tours of parks, scientific research stations, and the Panama Canal.

For more information regarding the 2007 Panama conference, go to: www.fulbrightacademy.org/page/70998

Data Analysis Workbooks for use in your Classroom

Then National Consortium on Violence Research (NCOVR) at Carnegie Mellon University provides various data workbooks for use by students. The workbooks introduce students to data resources available on the web and to basic statistical data analysis techniques. Problem sets in each workbook provide students with an opportunity to apply the techniques to real-world data.

VIOLENCE IN THE U.S. — DATA WORKBOOKS

INTRODUCTION

The Violence in the United States Workbooks provide students with an opportunity to explore various features of violent offending in the United States using a number of national data resources. The aim is to introduce students to data resources available on the internet and provide hands on experience in basic data analysis. Each workbook introduces a violence-related topic, provides links to online data, and provides a series of problem sets based on that data.

Data and analyses are organized around individual violence topics.

COME TO LOS ANGELES!
BY DEBRA BASKIN

I am a proud New Yorker who has lived in Los Angeles for 11 years. Every morning my husband and I wake to the sound of the surf pounding the shoreline and at some point during the day, everyday, we don shorts and sneakers and only rarely, a jacket. Every day has elements of a vacation and if planned well, you will be able to squeeze in some relaxing times, as well. From downtown, you can easily get to the beach, the mountains, shopping districts, cultural events and a couple of different wine countries, one to the north (the one depicted in the movie Sideways) and the other is southeast of LA (Temecula).

It has been said many times that one could surf in the morning and snowboard that same afternoon. LA is a conglomeration of microclimates so bring sunscreen and clothes that layer. The temperatures vary greatly across neighborhoods as well as from daytime to evening. November is a particularly great month to visit, with plenty of sunshine and moderate temperatures.

The conference will be located in downtown LA. This is a great place to enjoy the best of LA. Just walking around you can feel the relaxed atmosphere of a city that is always partially on vacation. You can see the surrounding mountains, get on any of the major freeways without much effort, and enjoy the recent revitalization of the area. There are plenty of places to explore right outside the Hotel door, excellent restaurants, and many of the area's cultural attractions. There are museums, art galleries, heritage sites, archaeologically, architecturally, and historically interesting locations, as well as theater, music, and sports venues. Many tour companies will pick you up or start their tours from the Hotel lobby. The ASC website link for local arrangements has an expanded version of these comments that includes contact information for tours and attractions.

There are wonderful things to do in the immediate environs, as well. Planned well and precluding a traffic accident or road construction, you can get to most places worth visiting in LA in about 30 minutes from the Hotel. The problem is that you will need a car to make the trip in that amount of time. Otherwise, you will have to wind your way through the maze of buses and trains that comprise the LA transportation systems. People do this all of the time and one should not shy away from using LA's public transportation system. Most of the significant routes have stops/stations in the downtown area. But, for ease and convenience, trips outside of the city will be enjoyed more if you rent a car. Taxis are expensive and should be avoided. So, plan your time away from the conference well and a day or two car rental will suffice in order to explore. Ideas for day trips and local amusements are provided in the ASC website; follow the link to local arrangements.

I should mention that visitors can take public transportation directly from the airport to downtown for a nominal charge. Those who have tried it say that it is easier and more comfortable than waiting for a taxi and paying, on the average, $30-$50, depending on traffic.

ERCES ONLINE QUARTERLY REVIEW

The Online Quarterly Review of Crime, Ethics and Social Philosophy, an interdisciplinary international journal, is the official journal of the European & International Research Group on Crime, Ethics and Social Philosophy (ERCES). ERCES was founded as a satellite of the European Society of Criminology. On account of the specific nature of its missions and objectives, ERCES is committed to set up a structure of organization which shall remain closely in link with the ESC, but acquire progressively relative independence and autonomy. The ERCES-Online-Journal is a quarterly published revue.

The journal is dedicated to investigation & fundamental theoretical discussion of crime and deviance, providing a focal centre for ethics, social philosophy and social theory discussion; in particular it is committed to provide criminologists and deviancy-theorists with fundamental ethical, historical and social philosophical issues. Ethics is thought as a broad range of morals in the various fields of social life - politics, justice and economics. Ethics and social philosophy issues which have received less consideration in contemporary discussions on crime and deviancy than other issues.

The Review seeks submissions on issues that contribute to development of empirical and theoretical knowledge within the field of ethics, crime/deviance and Social Philosophy. The Reviews aims to develop investigation of the relation between norms & values and the relevance of norms and values to social control, crime and criminal justice issues.

Specific foci might be the relation between facts and norms; the ethical, philosophical and religious aspects of crime and deviancy; universals, collective values and multicultural societies, value-systems in pre-modern, modern and late-modern society, social control and political/economical ethics; morally deplorable acts and formal / informal social reaction; crime, laity and religion; common consciousness, social philosophy and justice; history of crime - concepts; history of moral philosophy, of criminology and deviancy-theory.

The Review is a pluralistic, interdisciplinary international journal. It is an inherent part in the interactive strategy of ERCES; the ERCES-site provides authors and lecturers with an interactive round-table discussion.

The access to the ERCES Online Quarterly Review is free. The Revue is a peer-reviewed journal. Considering that the access to scientific knowledge shall be equal for all and free, we are not seeking for subscription fees. But we are pleased to receive donations and / or funds which help to maintain free access and to reach our goals.

All submissions must be in English and submitted electronically (in Microsoft Works, Microsoft Word (6.0 or higher), or Word Perfect format). All submissions and enquiries should be addressed to Thomas Gilly, chief-editor at editorgereces@yahoo.fr Online journal address http://www.erces.com/journal/Journal.htm

The current issue of ERCES ONLINE QUARTERLY REVIEW is online now.

POSITION ANNOUNCEMENTS

THE CRIMINOLOGIST will regularly feature in these columns position vacancies available in organizations and universities, as well as positions sought by members of the Society. A charge of $150.00 with the absolute maximum of 250 words allowed will be made. A charge of $75.00 will be charged to institutional members of ASC to place a position announcement in the newsletter.

It is the policy of the ASC to publish position vacancies announcements only from those institutions or agencies which subscribe to equal education and employment opportunities and those which encourage women and minorities to apply. Institutions should indicate the deadline for the submission of application materials.

To place announcements in THE CRIMINOLOGIST, send all material to: American Society of Criminology, 1314 Kinnean Road, Suite 212, Columbus, OH 43212-1156 Telephone (614)292-9207, Fax (614)292-6767, or e-mail asc@osu.edu. When sending announcements, please include a phone number, fax number and contact person in the event we have questions about an ad.

The Professional Employment Exchange will be a regular feature at each Annual Meeting. Prospective employers and employees should register with the Society no later than three weeks prior to the Annual Meeting of the Society. The cost is $100 to register online at www.asc41.com/employg.html. Dr. Ken Adams (kenadams@mail.ucf.edu) is in charge of the website Employment Exchange.

GEORGE MASON UNIVERSITY invites applications at any rank for up to two tenure-track positions in the Administration of Justice Program (ADJ) for Fall 2007. Requirements: Ph.D. or near completion in a relevant field and record/promise of excellent scholarship and teaching. Senior-level applicants should demonstrate a record of research leadership and external funding. Area of specialization is open, but priority needs are in behavior and impact of criminal law, law and society, and crime/security policy. ADJ is a multidisciplinary program (nine tenure-track and two term appointment faculty) located in the Department of Public and International Affairs (PIA). The program is scheduled to become an independent department in 2007. ADJ enrolls over 600 undergraduates. Masters and doctoral programs in Justice, Law, and Criminal Policy began in fall 2005. The faculty hold doctorates in criminal justice, law, political science, psychology, sociology, and public administration. The ADJ Program is based at the Prince William campus in Manassas, Virginia, 35 miles west of Washington, DC and offers classes at the Fairfax and Arlington campuses as well. For more information visit http://adj.gmu.edu/. Apply with equity/demographic information for position F8677Z on line at jobs.gmu.edu. In addition, applicants should submit a letter of interest, vita, official university transcript, teaching evaluations or other evidence of teaching effectiveness, examples of research publications, and three letters of recommendation. Applicants for full-professor may submit the names and contact information of references in lieu of letters. Review of applications will begin October 1 and continue until positions are filled. Submit applications to: Stephen D. Mastrofski, Administration of Justice Program, 10900 University Blvd. MS 4F4, George Mason University, Manassas, VA 20110-2203. Positions are subject to receipt of funding. George Mason University is an affirmative action and equal opportunity employer. Women, minorities, and persons with disabilities are strongly encouraged to apply.

EASTERN KENTUCKY UNIVERSITY

The Department of Correctional and Juvenile Justice Studies invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professorship. A doctorate in an appropriate social science discipline is strongly preferred at appointment. Exceptional ABDs in such a discipline are minimally qualified and will be considered. A JD alone is not sufficient. Additional required qualifications include demonstrations of: (a) commitment to working closely with students and capacity for effectively teaching undergraduate and graduate courses in adult corrections and juvenile justice; (b) an established record of scholarly productivity, or strong demonstration of an emerging record thereof; (c) successful university, professional, and/or community service; (d) excellence in verbal and written communication as well as in working effectively with colleagues, and (e) either success at developing and delivering online courses or a firm commitment to doing so. Applications must include: (1) curriculum vita; (2) letter expressing interest, describing teaching philosophy, and explicating qualifications; (3) copy of graduate transcript; (4) contact information for three academic references. Submit applications to: Kevin I. Minor, Chair, Department of Correctional and Juvenile Justice Studies, Eastern Kentucky University, 521 Lancaster Avenue, Richmond, KY 40475-3102 (Kevin.Minor@eku.edu). Review of applications will begin October 1, 2006 and continue until the position is filled. Information about the department, college, and university can be found at www.corrections.eku.edu, www.justice.eku.edu, and www.eku.edu respectively. Eastern Kentucky University is an EEO/AA institution that values diversity in its faculty, staff, and student body. In keeping with this commitment the University welcomes applications from diverse candidates and candidates who support diversity.
UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO
The Centre of Criminology and Woodsworth College invite applications for a tenure-stream appointment at the rank of Assistant or Associate Professor to begin July 1, 2007. The Centre of Criminology is an inter-disciplinary graduate Centre for the study of crime, criminal justice, social regulation, and the interaction between law and society, in Canada and internationally. The Centre takes a broad view of criminological and socio-legal research, and welcomes applicants from any field within the social sciences and humanities that relates to its broadly-defined mandate. Applicants should have a completed doctorate at the time of appointment and have demonstrated promise of excellence in teaching and in scholarly research and publication. As the appointment is shared (60% Criminology, 40% Woodsworth College), the appointee will be expected to teach courses in the undergraduate programme in Criminology at Woodsworth College and in the graduate programmes (M.A and Ph.D.) at the Centre of Criminology. Salary will be commensurate with experience and qualifications. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority. The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from visible minority group members, women, Aboriginal persons, persons with disabilities, members of sexual minority groups, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas. Applications should include a covering letter, curriculum vitae, and two article-length samples of written work. Applicants should also arrange for three letters of reference to be submitted under separate cover. All correspondence should be sent to: Professor Richard Ericson, Director, Centre of Criminology, 130 St. George Street, Room 8001, University of Toronto, Toronto, Ontario, Canada M5S 3H1, and all application materials should be received by September 30, 2006. Additional information about the Centre of Criminology can be obtained at http://www.criminology.utoronto.ca or see our profile in The Chronicle at http://chronicle.com/jobs/profiles.10596.htm

UNIVERSITY OF MIAMI
The Department of Sociology is seeking applications for two tenure-track positions, one in Criminology and one in Race/Ethnic Relations, at the rank of Assistant Professor to begin August 15, 2007. The ideal candidates for each position will also be able to make contributions to overlapping programmatic areas, which include Medical Sociology in addition to the two areas named in the open positions. The successful candidates will be expected to sustain an active research and publication agenda, teach in our undergraduate and graduate programs, and show promise for obtaining external funding for their research. The ability to teach statistics/methods at the graduate level is desirable but not required. Applicants must have a Ph.D. in Sociology or a closely related field at the time of appointment. Applicants should submit a letter of application, a curriculum vita, and the names and addresses of three references who can evaluate scholarly achievement and potential. Applicants for the criminology position should send materials to the attention of Roger Dunham and applicants for the race/ethnic relations position should send materials to the attention of George Wilson at the Department of Sociology, University of Miami, P.O. Box 248162, Coral Gables, FL 33124-2208. Review of applications will begin October 1, 2006 and continue until the positions are filled. Women and minorities are especially encouraged to apply. The University of Miami is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer.
Change of Editorship for
Criminology & Public Policy

The American Society of Criminology is pleased to announce that beginning with Volume 7, Issue 1 (February 2008), the new editors of Criminology & Public Policy will be Thomas G. Blomberg and Michael D. Reisig. Following its successful inception under the leadership of Todd Clear and Natasha Frost, the editorship of Criminology & Public Policy will move to Florida State University’s College of Criminology and Criminal Justice. Manuscript submissions will transition to the new Editors in the Spring of 2007.

Until March 1, 2007 submit manuscripts to:
   Natasha A. Frost
   Criminology & Public Policy
   College of Criminal Justice (415CH)
   Northeastern University
   360 Huntington Avenue
   Boston, MA 02115
   cpp@neu.edu

After March 1, 2007, submit manuscripts to:
   Thomas Blomberg
   Criminology & Public Policy
   College of Criminology and Criminal Justice
   Florida State University
   Hecht House
   634 W. Call Street
   Tallahassee, Florida 32306-1127

The new Editors are enthusiastic about continuing Criminology & Public Policy's growth as a major publication outlet for research in this area. They will be assisted by an outstanding 21-member editorial board of established scholars. For more details, please visit the FSU College of Criminology and Criminal Justice website at www.criminology.fsu.edu.

INTERNATIONAL ENCYCLOPEDIA INTERNATIONAL SECURITY STUDIES

Professor Michael Palmiotto is looking for contributors for an Encyclopedia on International Security Studies. Contributors who are willing to write on a pool of topics or who have security as a specialty can make suggestions for topics. The encyclopedia will deal with all aspects of security, private, government, political, geo-political, criminological, psychological, natural disasters, home land security, financial security, border security, etc.

Contributors should be individuals who are willing to write any where from 1,000 words to 5,000 words of more. Individuals could contribute more than one topic or collaborate with a colleague. Contributors will receive an honorarium for each topic accepted based on the word count. Individuals willing to contribute to the Encyclopedia on International Security Studies should contact Dr. Michael Palmiotto. His email address is Michael.palmiotto@wichita.edu or telephone him at 316-978-6524.

JOURNAL OF EXPERIMENTAL CRIMINOLOGY NEW!!
The Journal of Experimental Criminology focuses on high quality experimental and quasi-experimental research in the development of evidence based crime and justice policy. The journal is also committed to the advancement of the science of systematic reviews and experimental methods in criminology and criminal justice. The journal seeks empirical papers on experimental and quasi-experimental studies, systematic reviews on substantive criminal justice problems, and methodological papers on experimentation and systematic review. The journal encourages submissions from scholars in the broad array of scientific disciplines that are concerned with crime and justice problems. For more information about the Journal of Experimental Criminology and for Authors’ Instructions, we kindly refer you to the journal homepage at www.kluweronline.com/issn/1573-3750. CRIMINAL LAW BULLETIN NEW!!
West's Criminal Law Bulletin is an authoritative source for guidance and insight from renowned experts on the latest developments and trends in the field. Published six times per year, the Criminal Law Bulletin reports on all of the major federal, state, and Supreme Court decisions in every phase of criminal law. It also has peer-reviewed journal articles devoted to scholarship concerning any and all matters of criminal law, criminal procedure, and criminal/forensic evidence. Additionally, each edition of the journal contains book reviews and a column entitled "From the Legal Literature" which provides a summary and critique of two or three recent scholarly articles concerning a common theme or topic concerning criminal law, procedure, or evidence. The journal is available both in print and electronically on Westlaw, as well as various other databases. Submissions are now being accepted for upcoming "From the Legal Literature" columns. The column is much like a traditional book review, except it reviews recent pieces of legal scholarship rather than books. Submissions may be on any common theme or topic within the broad spectrum of criminal law, criminal procedure, or criminal/forensic evidence. Recent column topics have included reviews such as "Making Sense of the Proportionality Principle and the Eighth Amendment," "Continued Erosion of the Fourth Amendment Rights of Students," "Unraveling Crawford v. Washington in Abuse Cases," "Evolving Issues Under Miranda," and "Competing Views on the Quagmire of Synthetically Restoring Competency to Be Executed." Submissions should begin with a short summary (2-6 double-spaced pages) of the issue or topic being reviewed. Authors should then summarize and critique two or three recent pieces of legal scholarship (usually scholarly law review articles) that address the given issue or topic, preferably from different perspectives. The legal citation style of The Bluebook: A Uniform System of Citation (18th ed., 2005) must be used, and citations should be in footnotes that appear at the bottom of each page, rather than as endnotes. The total length of a "From the Legal Literature" column should be between 16 and 22 double-spaced pages, including footnotes. Manuscripts are only accepted electronically in either Corel WordPerfect® or Microsoft Word® format. Submissions from law students, graduate students, and exceptional undergraduate criminal justice students are encouraged. Send submission to Dr. Henry F. Fradella, the Legal Literature Editor, at CLB_Legal_Literature@cox.net. Please note the spaces in between the words in the email address above are underscores, not blank spaces. Editorial review normally takes less than a month. In the body of the email message transmitting your submission, please include your name, title, affiliation, address, daytime telephone number, and e-mail address.

INTERNATIONAL JOURNAL OF CYBER CRIMES AND CRIMINAL JUSTICE

NEW!

International Journal of Cyber Crimes and Criminal Justice (IJCCJ) is a peer reviewed interdisciplinary journal published biannually and devoted to the study of cyber crime, cyber criminal behavior, cyber victims, cyber laws and cyber investigations. IJCCJ will be both print (published by Serials Publication) and online (open access) Journal. IJCCJ will focus on all aspects of cyber/computer crime. Forms of Cyber Crime, Impact of Cyber crimes in the real world, Policing Cyber space, Cyber-terrorism, International Perspectives of Cyber Crime, developing cyber safety policy, intrusion investigations, information security, Cyber Victims, Cyber offender behavior, Cyber Geography, cyber crime law, Cyber Pornography, Physical Computer Security, Privacy & Anonymity on the Net, Internet Fraud & Identity Theft, Mobile Phone Safety, Online Gambling, Copyright and Intellectual property Law, Detection of Distributed Denial of Service Attacks, Firewall Testing and Digital Forensics. As the discipline of Cyber Criminology approaches the future, facing the dire need to document the literature in this rapidly changing area has become more important than ever before. The IJCCJ will be a nodal centre to develop and disseminate the knowledge of cyber crimes to the academic and lay world. The journal publishes theoretical, methodological, and applied papers, as well as book reviews. All manuscripts must be submitted in APA format. Please follow APA guidelines for Manuscript Preparation, including title page for blind review, referencing, and tables and figures. All manuscripts will undergo blind review by two or more reviewers. Each manuscript must be accompanied by a statement that it has not been published elsewhere and that it has not been submitted simultaneously for publication elsewhere. Authors are responsible for obtaining permission to reproduce copyrighted material from other sources and are required to sign an agreement for the transfer of copyright to the publisher. All accepted manuscripts, artwork, and photographs become the property of the publisher. IJCCJ welcomes articles throughout the year. The IJCCJ encourages quality scholarship articles from relevant academic disciplines as well as from practitioners in the private and public sector. IJCC is receptive to scholarship coming from a variety of theoretical perspectives and methodological approaches. All research should be understood and examined through a transnational perspective. Articles previously published or submitted for publication in any other journal will not be accepted. All articles must be grounded on relevant and recent scholarship in the fields of our interest. The maximum length should not exceed twenty five pages (6000 words), including notes and illustrations. Please avoid footnotes, however, endnotes are encouraged. References in the notes should conform to the mode specified in APA Style. Manuscripts should be submitted as MS Word attachment to the Editor-in-Chief at cybercrimejournal@gmail.com The Editor-in-Chief reserves the right to edit submissions if accepted for publication. Every effort will be made to inform contributors of the outcome of the peer review process in a timely manner. The review process is via e-mail, and should take no more than 4 to 6 weeks with the possible help of selected experts. This process is launched as and when papers are submitted to us. PROFESSIONAL ISSUES IN CRIMINAL JUSTICE (PICJ) NEW!

Professional Issues in Criminal Justice (PICJ), is a newly established quarterly peer-reviewed journal that seeks to integrate the world of the practitioner with that of the scholar. PICJ places a strong emphasis on the professional practice of criminal justice while at the same time demonstrating how academic approaches can benefit the practitioner. With this in mind, both quantitative and qualitative submissions are welcomed. Evaluative research of new practitioner programs (court operation and administration as well as issues facing law enforcement and correctional agencies) are ideal submissions for this journal. Likewise, PICJ includes as a sub-theme, a variety of multinational issues in criminal justice and/or related topics. It is expected that many future volumes will illustrate the professional practice of criminal justice around the globe. PICJ has an established group of reviewers and our dedicated staff members are working to finalize the on-line design elements. At this time, the executive board is currently seeking submissions for this journal. If interested in submitting a manuscript to PICJ, please simply indicate interest and send your manuscript by e-mail as a Microsoft Word attachment to RHanser@kaplan.edu, with an additional hardcopy sent to the editorial office at: Kaplan University ATTN: PICJ/Dr. Gene Scaramella, 550 W. Van Buren, Suite 700, Chicago, Illinois 60607. (312) 777-6437. The submission will be forwarded to the associate editor who will then submit the manuscript for review. Please note that all papers should be submitted in APA format. Manuscripts must not exceed 20 pages in length, including title page, abstract, and references. Potential authors are asked to provide their name, title, affiliation, address, telephone number, and e-mail address. Robert D. Hanser, Ph.D., Editor-in-Chief, (PICJ), Kaplan University, 550 West Van Buren, Chicago, IL 60607, Ph# 312-342-1443, E-mail: RHanser@kaplan.edu

CRIMINAL JUSTICE STUDIES: A CRITICAL JOURNAL OF CRIME, LAW AND SOCIETY NEW!

A Critical Journal of Crime, Law and Society publishes articles that deal with substantive criminal justice and criminological issues relevant to the issues of criminal justice, as well as those that may be outside the field but have relevancy to the topic of criminal justice. We welcome articles from other fields, such as public administration, issues of public policy as well as public affairs issues. Literature reviews, research notes, and summary reports of innovative research projects in criminal justice are also considered. Qualitative and quantifiable articles are sought mainly from academics and researchers in the field. All contributions must be sent on disk with four hard copies (three blind copies) as well as bios of all contributors. Please submit articles to: Roslyn Muraskin, Ph.D., Editor in Chief, Dept. of Criminal Justice, C.W. HOMICIDE STUDIES Special Issue NEW!

The journal Homicide Studies invites manuscripts for a planned special issue on Homicide in an international context. This topic is defined broadly and submissions may include (though are not limited to) cross-national studies, studies comparing two (or a similarly small number of) nations, detailed analyses of homicides in individual nations (not including the United States), meta-analyses or reviews, and very brief summaries of homicide in individual countries or regions rarely examined in the empirical literature. Manuscripts should be 15-20 pages in length and follow the standard manuscript preparation guidelines of the journal (see http://homicidestudies.sagepub.com). Manuscripts must be received no later than September 1, 2006. We prefer to receive manuscripts as Microsoft Word or WordPerfect documents via e-mail attachment. If you are unable to send by e-mail, please send four copies of the manuscript to: William Alex Pridemore, Indiana University, Department of Criminal Justice, Sycamore Hall 302, Bloomington, IN 47405, wpridemo@indiana.edu
CALL FOR PAPERS

CRIME, PUNISHMENT, AND THE LAW

Aim and Scope. Crime, Punishment, and the Law is a refereed international journal published biannually and devoted to the study of crime, deviant behavior, punishment, and the law. The fields addressed in this journal are the social and behavioral sciences, law, criminal justice, and history. The journal publishes theoretical, methodological, and applied papers, as well as book reviews. Of particular importance is the impact of class, gender, race, ethnicity, and religion on crime, punishment, and the law.

Submission of Manuscripts. All manuscripts must be submitted in APA format. Please follow APA guidelines for Manuscript Preparation, including title page for blind review, referencing, and tables and figures. All manuscripts will undergo a blind review. Each manuscript must be accompanied by a statement that it has not been published elsewhere and that it has not been submitted simultaneously for publication elsewhere. Authors are responsible for obtaining permission to reproduce copyrighted material from other sources and are required to sign an agreement for the transfer of copyright to the publisher. All accepted manuscripts, artwork, and photographs become the property of the publisher. An original and four copies of the manuscript, if no more than 25 pages, should be submitted to Venessa Garcia, Ph.D., Editor-in-Chief, Department of Criminal Justice, 305-I Willis Hall, Kean University, Union, NJ 07083, vgarcia@kean.edu. Authors must also submit manuscripts on disk. The disk should be prepared using MS Word and should be clearly labeled with authors' names, file name, and software program.

CONTEMPORARY JUSTICE REVIEW

The editors of Contemporary Justice Review would like to invite its readers, scholars from all disciplines, activists, practitioners of justice, and others interested in issues of justice to submit film reviews for publication in the journal. Reviewers might select any film that deals with issues of justice defined in the broadest sense. This might include films that depict people having their rights, needs, and well-being denied by others—individuals, the state, and corporate institutions. It might also include films that demonstrate how people's needs are met and personal well-being fostered through alternative primary social institutions such as the family, school, and community. Authors might also wish to examine the oeuvre of a particular director, illustrating the extent to which that director's work contributes to a sense of justice as equality, human development, and personal well-being. Or several films might be compared for how they differentially depict people being marginalized and denied voice, or on the contrary, included and listened to. This might involve clarifying the effects of popular culture and the media on how we view certain aspects of justice as important and others not. CJR has a keen interest in offering its readers insights into life portrayed in international films, especially those that bring to light the effects of globalization, oppressive regimes, and nation-state terrorism on the quality of life of individuals, families, schools, the workplace, and neighborhoods. With respect to harm, some of the reviews might deal with how a particular film casts some people as worthy victims—that is, people worthy of our attention—and others as not. Reviewers should keep in mind that the purpose of the reviews is not primarily to offer pedagogical tools to teachers but simply to clarify and expand upon particular aspects of justice within films. However, reviewers might choose to demonstrate how a particular film could be valuable to teachers for use in a classroom to illustrate a particular aspect of justice. The length of reviews should be between 750 and 1500 words. Longer reviews will be considered from time to time as Review Essays. For additional information on review specifications, please contact:

CALL FOR PAPERS

AFRICAN JOURNAL OF CRIMINOLOGY AND JUSTICE STUDIES
The African Journal of Criminology and Justice Studies, a new interdisciplinary peer-reviewed online journal, invites contributions on issues relevant to criminology and justice systems of interest to Africans at home and the African Diaspora globally. Comparative studies or research on related fields, and pedagogical papers on how to develop criminology and criminal justice education in Africa are particularly welcome. The journal accepts research articles, policy analyses, commentaries or brief research notes. Particularly, it encourages articles on innovative theoretical, methodological and policy interventions that deepen the understanding of how to prevent or repair the crimes against humanity that people of African descent have suffered and how to reverse the crisis of over-representation that people of African descent continue to suffer in correctional institutions around the world. AJCJS is published at the University of Maryland Eastern Shore. The length of most articles is 5,000-6,000 words (in double-spaced pages) with a 100-word abstract. Commentaries and research notes should be approximately half this length. Limited number of reviews per issue will also be accommodated. Submission instructions to authors are posted at the journal’s website: http://www.umes.edu/ajcjs/. Publishers and authors who may want to send copies of their books for review should send 4-6 copies directly to the managing editor: Emmanuel Onyeozili, Dept. of Criminal Justice, 3015 Hazel Hall, University of Maryland Eastern Shore, Princess Anne, MD. 21853. For further information, please contact the editor, Biko Agozino at: bagozino@cheyney.edu or bagozino@yahoo.com All contributions should be sent electronically to: ajcjs@umes.edu

SUBSTANCE USE & MISUSE
(Special Issue Concerned with Substance Use Under Conditions of Uncertainty and Trauma)
Substance Use & Misuse is issuing a call for papers for a special issue concerned with licit and illicit substance use in response to conditions of uncertainty and trauma. Broadly defined, conditions of uncertainty may be generated by traumatic historical events, such as: the 9-11 attacks in the United States, the December 2004 tsunami in South Asia and Hurricane Katrina in the U.S., by ongoing armed conflicts such as the Iraqi War and the Middle East conflict, and by forced social displacements such as ethnic cleansings and forced migrations. Of particular interest are papers that consider implications of uncertainty and trauma for substance use(r) intervention, treatment, policies and necessary training for intervention agents in which the focus can range from micro to macro levels, from individuals to systems. There is also an interest in examining the nexus between abstinent behaviors and lifestyles. We welcome both original qualitative, quantitative as well as historical contributions. For full consideration, manuscripts should be submitted electronically to guest editor Dr. Timothy Johnson at: timj@uiuc.edu or Dr. Michael Fendrich at: Fendrich@uw.edu by September, 2006. Substance Use & Misuse (formerly The International Journal of the Addictions) is a peer reviewed journal that has been in publication for over 40 years. It is currently produced by Taylor & Francis. Instructions for authors are available at: www.tandf.co.uk/journals/titles/10826084.asp

JOURNAL OF CONTEMPORARY CRIMINAL JUSTICE
Special Issue: Empirical Studies of Gender Responsive Approaches to the Classification and Treatment of Women Offenders (November 2007) The Journal of Contemporary Criminal Justice is soliciting manuscripts for consideration in a special issue, titled Empirical Studies of Gender Responsive Approaches to the Classification and Treatment of Women Offenders. The Journal is particularly interested in empirical studies of the efficacy of gender-responsive programming and assessments. This would include, but not be limited to, evaluation studies, validation studies of risk and needs assessments, and empirical tests of relevant theories. Patricia Van Voorhis, Emily Salisbury, and Emily Wright, from the University of Cincinnati will serve as guest editors for this special issue. Inquiries about the appropriateness of topics should be directed to Patricia Van Voorhis via email at pat.vanvoorhis@uc.edu or telephone (513 575 2221). All manuscripts will be peer reviewed. Manuscripts should be no more than 25 typed, double-spaced pages including tables, figures and references. Manuscripts must be received no later than March 15, 2007. Please send four manuscript copies, along with the manuscript on disk, to Patricia Van Voorhis, Division of Criminal Justice, PO 210389, University of Cincinnati, Cincinnati, OH 45221

JOURNAL OF CONTEMPORARY CRIMINAL JUSTICE
Special Issue: The Theory and Practice of Racial Profiling (August 2007 issue) The Journal of Contemporary Criminal Justice invites individuals to submit manuscripts for consideration for inclusion in a planned special issue on the topic, The Theory and Practice Racial Profiling. Particular focus will be upon factors relating to the censorship of research data on racial profiling. Assessment of the police handling of matters relating to Hurricane Katrina may also be of some interest. Particular focus will also be upon critical methodological issues on policing, explaining the disparity of racial profiling, political and legal responses to racial profiling, etc. Inquiries about the appropriateness of topics should be directed to Zina McGee, JCCJ Guest Editor, via email at (zina.mcgee@hamptonu.edu) or telephone (757-728-6913). All manuscripts will be peer reviewed. Manuscripts should be no more than 25 typed, double-spaced pages including tables, figures and references. Manuscripts must be received no later than January 15, 2007. Please send four manuscript copies, along with the manuscript on disk, to Zina McGee, Department of Sociology, Hampton University, 246 MLK Hall, Hampton, Virginia, 23668.

JOURNAL OF CONTEMPORARY CRIMINAL JUSTICE
Special Issue: The Theory and Practice of Responding to Terrorism (May 2007 issue) The Journal of Contemporary Criminal Justice invites individuals to submit manuscripts for consideration for inclusion in a planned special issue on the topic, The Theory and Practice of Responding to Terrorism. Particular focus will be upon the effect of terrorism on our justice system -- from policy and legal issues relating to civil liberties during terrorism investigations to policing, prosecution, and punishment of terrorist offenders. Inquiries about the appropriateness of topics should be directed to Brent Smith, JCCJ Guest Editor, via email at (bbs@uark.edu) or telephone (479-575-3401). All manuscripts will be peer reviewed. Manuscripts should be no more than 25 typed, double-spaced pages including tables, figures and references. Manuscripts must be received no later than October 1, 2006. Please send four manuscript copies, along with the manuscript on disk, to Brent Smith, Department of Sociology and Criminal Justice, University of Arkansas, Old Main, Room 228, Fayetteville, Arkansas, 72701.

WOMEN & CRIMINAL JUSTICE

WOMEN & CRIMINAL JUSTICE is the only periodical devoted specifically to interdisciplinary and international scholarly research and criminal justice practice dealing with all areas of criminal justice in relation to women. It provides both scholars and practitioners with a single forum devoted to this critical specialty area in the fields of both criminal justice and women’s studies. The journal is refereed and features original research articles from academicians and professionals in the field that reflect its interdisciplinary and international focus. The manuscript should be approximately 20-25 pages double-spaced with a one-inch margin on all four sides and should include an abstract of 200 words, a title page, and a brief biographical sketch of author(s). References, citations, and general style of manuscript should follow the APA style (as outlined in the latest edition of Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association). References should be double-spaced and placed in alphabetical order. Please send 4 copies to: Dr. Donna C. Hale, Editor, Department of Criminal Justice, Shippensburg University, 1871 Old Main Drive, 317 Shippen Hall, Shippensburg, PA 17257-2299.

CRIMINAL JUSTICE REVIEW

The Criminal Justice Review is a quarterly scholarly journal dedicated to presenting a broad perspective on criminal justice issues. It focuses on any aspect of crime and the justice system, and can feature local, state, or national concerns. Both qualitative and quantitative pieces are encouraged, providing that they adhere to standards of quality scholarship. As a peer-reviewed journal, we encourage the submission of articles, research notes, commentaries, and comprehensive essays that focus on crime and justice-related topics broadly defined. Five copies of manuscripts should be submitted in English, follow APA style, be double-spaced throughout, including references, tables and indented quotations, and cannot be under consideration by another publication. An abstract not to exceed 200 words must be included with submissions. Send to: Richard J. Terrill, Editor, Criminal Justice Review, P.O. Box 4018, Georgia State University, Atlanta, GA 30302-4018, 404-651-3688, cjr@gsu.edu, www.gsu.edu/cjr

WOMEN’S POLICY JOURNAL OF HARVARD, JOHN F. KENNEDY SCHOOL OF GOVERNMENT

It is our great pleasure to announce that the Women’s Policy Journal of Harvard, John F. Kennedy School of Government, following a three-year hiatus, has been re-launched with the goal to publish a third volume in summer 2006. We are excited to resume the production of this important publication and invite you to assist with meeting our publishing goals. The Women’s Policy Journal is a nonpartisan, scholarly review dedicated to publishing interdisciplinary work on policy making and politics affecting women. It is our mission to educate and provide leadership that improves the quality of public policies affecting women with the intention of furthering communities’ economic, social and political empowerment. With the reintroduction of the journal we hope to provide readers with fresh insight into a wide range of policy topics ranging from HIV/AIDS to worldwide poverty to energy and environmental policy. To date we have assembled a dedicated staff and worked to build relationships in the Kennedy School community to ensure that this new volume is published and that the journal is sustainable in the future. In the coming year, we invite you to join the Women’s Policy Journal community. We are currently accepting submissions for Volume 3 and encourage you to submit work of your own or share your suggestions for potential contributors and interview subjects. You may also wish to subscribe or donate to the journal. Please visit our website at www.ksg.harvard.edu/wpj for information on the many ways you can assist the journal. Once again we thank you for your interest in the Women’s Policy Journal and hope that you will join us in this exciting new phase.

JOURNAL OF CRIMINAL JUSTICE EDUCATION (JCJE)
The Journal of Criminal Justice Education (JCJE) is an official publication of the Academy of Criminal Justice Sciences (ACJS). JCJE provides a forum for research and debate of a broad range of issues concerning post-secondary education in criminal justice, criminology and related disciplines. The aim of JCJE is the pedagogical enhancement of criminal justice and criminology higher education. Quality articles that address specific educational, academic, or professional development issues in these areas are encouraged and will be considered for publication. Articles that deal principally with applied training or practitioner concerns unrelated to criminal justice and criminology education are not likely to be considered or accepted for publication. All articles selected for publication will be subjected to peer review. JCJE will also feature book review essays devoted to thematic topics and a small number of individual book reviews per issue. For publication consideration, please submit four hard copies, a $10 check for processing made payable to ACJS, and a cover letter stating the originality of the work to: J. Mitchell Miller, Ph.D., Editor, Department of Criminology & Criminal Justice, University of South Carolina, Columbia, SC 29208.

CONTEMPORARY ISSUES IN CRIMINAL JUSTICE: A PROFESSIONAL JOURNAL (CICJ-PJ)
Contemporary Issues in Criminal Justice: A Professional Journal, is a newly established quarterly peer-reviewed journal that seeks to integrate the world of the practitioner with that of the scholar. CICJ-PJ places a strong emphasis on the professional practice of criminal justice while at the same time demonstrating how academic approaches can benefit the practitioner. With this in mind, both quantitative and qualitative submissions are welcomed. Evaluative research of new practitioner programs (court operation and administration as well as issues facing law enforcement and correctional agencies) are ideal submissions for this journal. Likewise, CICJ-PJ includes as a sub-theme, a variety of multinational issues in criminal justice and/or related topics. It is expected that many future volumes will illustrate the professional practice of criminal justice around the globe. CICJ-PJ has an established group of reviewers and our dedicated staff members are working to finalize the on-line design elements. At this time, the executive board is currently seeking submissions for this journal. If interested in submitting a manuscript to CICJ-PJ, please simply indicate interest and send your manuscript by e-mail to R_Hanser@kaplan.edu. The submission will be forwarded to the associate editors who will then submit the manuscript for review. Potential authors are asked to provide their name, title, affiliation, address, telephone number, and e-mail address. All papers should be submitted in current APA format. Manuscripts must not exceed 20 pages in length, including title page, abstract, and references. Please send to Robert D. Hanser, Ph.D., Editor-in-Chief, CICJ-PJ, Kaplan University, 550 West Van Buren, Chicago, IL 60607, 312-342-1443, R_Hanser@kaplan.edu

CONTEMPORARY JUSTICE REVIEW
The editors of the award-nominated Contemporary Justice Review wish to extend an invitation to all scholars to share your recent work on critical issues of crime, punishment, and justice. Generally we are looking for work that examines the harm that power-based social, political, economic, and religious arrangements cause to human and animal life. This might include work focusing on the gross human rights violations of nation-states as well as globalizing corporate entities; it might as well include a critique of criminological paradigms that support, wink at, or carelessly sidestep such violations of life and human dignity. We are also interested in critical assessments of the media with respect to their narrow-sightedness regarding who is and who is not a victim worthy of the attention of the human community. To what extent do the media target some kinds of persons and groups as singularly criminal while allowing others to their elite claim that they are beyond incrimination? Of course research and theories on alternatives to the criminal justice system such as restorative justice, which have been the signature of CJR, are welcome in all formats. In this regard we are always on the lookout for discussions of alternative social arrangements in the family, school, and workplace, arrangements that prevent violence by taking into account the needs of all involved in those arrangements structurally. We relish different formats as well; in addition to traditional articles and reviews, we invite our authors to address issues of justice in film, protest songs, historical narratives, and interviews. Those interested in submitting work to CJR should contact Assistant Editor, Diane Simmons Williams, at dsw27@earthlink.net for the journal's Managing Editor's Guidelines. We usually prefer articles around 25 typed, double-spaced pages but often enough accept larger pieces when appropriate. One full copy of the submission should be accompanied by a blind copy in anticipation of the reviewing process. Those with questions about the fit between their work and the philosophy of the journal can contact CJR Editor- in-Chief, Dennis Sullivan at dsullivan6@mycap.rr.com or any of the associate editors. We look forward to hearing from you. Incidentally, Contemporary Justice Review is the official journal of the Justice Studies Association (www.justicesudies.org).

CRITICAL PERSPECTIVES IN CRIMINOLOGY

Critical Perspectives in Criminology will publish scholarly books and edited volumes that are critically conceived, theoretically animated, integratively focused, and policy oriented. We hope to identify and secure commitments from established authors and emerging talent in the field of criminology, including individuals whose disciplinary base is sociology, psychology, law, philosophy, history, psychiatry, political science, gender studies, and any of the other related social and behavioral sciences. Books in the Series will be aimed at the scholarly community, including library acquisitions and single purchases by academic researchers, as well as classroom adoption in upper division undergraduate and lower division graduate courses. Volumes in the Series will NOT be intended for use as undergraduate textbooks. Questions about the Series or submissions should be sent to: Bruce A. Arrigo, Ph.D., Series Editor, Critical Perspectives in Criminology, Department of Criminal Justice, University of North Carolina at Charlotte, 9201 University City Blvd., Charlotte, NC 28223-0001; Barrigo@email.uncc.edu - or - Kerry P. Callahan, Acquisitions Editor, University of Illinois Press, 1325 South Oak Street, Champaign, IL 61820; Kerypc@uillinois.edu

POLICE PRACTICE AND RESEARCH: An International Journal

Manuscripts are solicited for Police Practice and Research: An International Journal, which is published in five issues per volume. The journal presents current and innovative police research, as well as operational and administrative practices from around the world. Articles and reports are sought from practitioners, researchers, and others interested in developments in policing, analysis of public order, and the state of safety as it affects the quality of life everywhere. The journal seeks to bridge the gap in knowledge that exists regarding who the police are, what they do, and how they maintain order, administer laws, and serve their communities. Attention is also focused on specific organizational information about the police in different countries and regions, and periodic special issues are devoted to studying police policies and practices regarding a particular topic or issue. The editors aim to improve cooperation between those who are active in the field and those who are involved in academic research, as such a relationship is essential for innovative police work. To this end, the editors encourage the submission of articles co-authored by police practitioners and researchers that highlight a particular subject from both points of view.

Submission of Manuscripts: Manuscripts should be electronically submitted to: Associate Managing Editor Analida Ivankovic, Tel: 1 718.232.2044; e-mail analidai@yahoo.com. Manuscripts should normally be no more than 25 typed pages (Word, Times New Roman, 12 Font, Double-Spaced) in English. The manuscript should be accompanied by an abstract of no more than 100 words, up to six key words, and a brief biographical sketch. For complete Notes for Contributors, one should refer to www.tandf.co.uk/journals or visit www.ipes.info. EDITOR-IN-CHIEF, Dilip K. Das, Department of Criminal Justice, East Carolina University, 333 Rivers West, Greenville, NC 27858, USA; email: dilipkd@aol.com TEL: (802) 598-3680 or (252)328-5559. MANAGING EDITOR: Kam C. THE SOUTHWEST JOURNAL OF CRIMINAL JUSTICE
The Southwest Journal of Criminal Justice (SWJCJ) is now accepting manuscripts for consideration. We are interested in receiving submissions of original work that have not been previously published. Diversity in theoretical and methodological approaches is encouraged as is the submission of policy-related research. The SWJCJ is the online, refereed journal of the Southwestern Association of Criminal Justice, a regional affiliate of the Academy of Criminal Justice Sciences. Authors need not be members of the Southwest Association of Criminal Justice to submit a manuscript for consideration. Previous issues of the journal and submission information are located at http://www.cj.txstate.edu/swacjindex.html. Inquiries may be directed to the editor at jon_sorensen@pvamu.edu.

TRENDS IN ORGANIZED CRIME
Trends in Organized Crime offers a composite of analyses and syntheses from a variety of information sources to serve the interests of practitioners and policy makers as well as the academic community. It is both a stimulus to and a forum for more rigorous empirical research on organized crime, both nationally and internationally. Published four times a year, Trends in Organized Crime is the official journal of the International Association for the Study of Organized Crime (IASCOC). It has a distinguished international editorial board. Trends publishes peer-reviewed, academically rigorous research, excerpts significant governmental reports; offers reviews of major new books, and, presents analyses and commentary on current issues in organized crime. Manuscripts must be submitted in English, in electronic form to jimfinckenauer@comcast.net as either ASCII, RTF or Word files. For further information, contact the Editor at the above addresses, or at 973-353-3301.
CALL FOR PAPERS

JUSTICE POLICY JOURNAL
The Justice Policy Journal is up and running again and better than ever. One of the few on-line journals, it is sponsored by the Center on Juvenile and Criminal Justice in San Francisco, with editorial support from the University of Nevada-Las Vegas. Papers should focus on public policy issues, although other scholarly articles will be considered. Among the topics we are especially interested in include the impact of incarceration policies, prisoner "re-entry," sentencing reform, drug policy, and juvenile justice policies. Review our submission guidelines at http://www.cjccj.org/jpj/submission_guidelines.php. Submissions to the JPJ (Justice Policy Journal) should have a title page, abstract, brief biographical sketch, a statement of research interest and an e-mail address. Send the document via e-mail as an attachment to profrgs@cox.net or postal service on a disk, preferably as a MS Word document, to: Justice Policy Journal, Professor Randall G. Shelden, Editor, Department of Criminal Justice at UNLV, 4505 Maryland Parkway, Box 455009, Las Vegas, NV 80154, tel: 702-895-0251. (Manuscripts that are not submitted electronically will not be accepted.) Manuscripts submitted via e-mail should be sent to JPJ in original word processing format, preferably Microsoft Word. JPJ articles submissions should be prepared in accordance with the either the Modern Language Association or American Psychological Association documentation style for scholarly manuscripts and research papers. For information regarding the desired citation style, authors should consult the appropriate manual. Strict adherence to proper citation style is required. Papers that do not conform to one of the accepted styles will not be accepted.

THE JUVENILE AND FAMILY COURT JOURNAL
The Juvenile and Family Court Journal, published quarterly by the National Council of Juvenile and Family Court Judges, invites article submissions on the many issues facing our nation's juvenile and family courts. The Journal is a peer-reviewed, research-based publication; however, we also invite relevant essays and book reviews. Please contact the editor at (775) 784-6686 or by e-mail at jruffin@ncjfcj.org for writer's guidelines. Submissions should be sent to Editor, Juvenile and Family Court Journal, NCJFCJ, P.O. Box 8970, Reno, NV 89507.

CANADIAN JOURNAL OF CRIMINOLOGY AND CRIMINAL JUSTICE
The Canadian Journal of Criminology and Criminal Justice invites contributions on any aspect of crime or delinquency, or criminal or juvenile justice. CJCCJ has been publishing continuously for almost 50 years, making it one of the oldest scholarly journals in the field. Preference is given to articles with particular relevance to Canada, but the Journal also welcomes comparative studies and work which is of general interest. The journal accepts research articles, research notes, commentaries, and book reviews. The length of most research articles is 20-30 double-spaced pages. Commentaries and research notes tend to be considerably shorter. An editorial decision is normally provided within three months of submission. Instructions to authors and book reviewers and the contents of recent issues are posted at the journal's websites at: http://www.cjcc-acjp.ca/en/cjcc.html and http://www.uptpjournals.com/jour.html?ip=cjcc/cjccj.html. For further information, please contact the editor, Peter Carrington, at: pjc@uwwaterloo.ca

INTERNATIONAL JOURNAL OF COMPARATIVE AND APPLIED CRIMINAL JUSTICE
Now in its 28th year, and newly adopted by the DIC, the International Journal of Comparative and Applied Criminal Justice has provided a forum for scholars, academics, and practitioners who are interested in comparative theory and empirical research in the field. The Journal focuses on two distinct but related concepts. First, papers should be comparative: i.e., comparative analysis of cross-cultural theories of crime, legal systems, policing, courts, juvenile justice, women offenders, and, minority offenders. Second, papers should include policy recommendations for applying research findings to the operations of criminal justice in a given country or region. We invite you to consider submitting your manuscript to this peer-reviewed journal for possible publication. Please send three copies of typewritten, double-spaced original manuscripts not published previously or currently under consideration to Mahesh Nalla, Editor IJCACJ, Michigan State University, School of Criminal Justice, 560 Baker Hall, East Lansing, MI 48824-1118. Guidelines for authors are available at www.cj.msu.edu/~international.

INTERNATIONAL CRIMINAL JUSTICE REVIEW

The International Criminal Justice Review is a quarterly scholarly journal dedicated to presenting system wide trends and problems on crime and justice throughout the world. Articles may focus on a single country or compare issues affecting two or more countries. Both qualitative and quantitative pieces are encouraged, providing they adhere to standards of quality scholarship. Manuscripts may emphasize either contemporary or historical topics. As a peer-reviewed journal, we encourage the submission of articles, research notes, commentaries, and comprehensive essays that focus on crime and justice-related topics in an international and/or comparative context broadly defined. Five copies of manuscripts should be submitted in English, follow APA style, be double-spaced throughout, including references, tables and indented quotations, and cannot be under consideration by another publication. An abstract not to exceed 200 words must be included with submissions. Send to: Richard J. Terrill, Editor, International Criminal Justice Review, P.O. JOURNAL OF CRIMINAL JUSTICE AND POPULAR CULTURE

The Journal of Criminal Justice and Popular Culture is a scholarly, peer-reviewed record of research and opinion on the intersection of crime, criminal justice, and popular culture. The journal is published on-line three times a year and its editorial board includes some of the leading researchers and academics in the field. JCJPJC invites individuals to submit for publication consideration manuscripts and essays (reviews or commentaries) that address any aspect of the intersection of crime, criminal justice, and popular culture. This includes, among other topics, papers that explore the representations of crime and criminal justice in popular culture, the roots of those representations, and effects of those representations, as well as theoretical papers blending the study of crime and criminal justice with that of popular culture (e.g., viewing the two through a shared theoretical perspective). Submissions should be sent electronically to sunycj@albany.edu and should closely follow the formatting requirements stipulated in the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association (5th edition). For more information, please see the journal’s website at http://www.albany.edu/scj/jcjpjc/submit.html.

SECURITY JOURNAL

The Security Journal provides a forum for the debate and analysis of key issues within the field of security. It brings together papers written by some of the world's leading practitioners and academics with the aim of generating new ideas and improving the management and practice of security. The papers will aim to facilitate the exchange of knowledge and good practice, and bridge the various disciplines, professions and countries. The ultimate criteria for a paper's acceptance are that the reader will learn something new from it and that it will advance learning in terms of generating ideas and/or improving practice. Contributors will include policy makers, professionals and academics. The journal will include research-based papers and case studies, as well as papers aimed at developing theory and good practice (3,000 - 5,000 words) and where appropriate, shorter pieces describing work under consideration or in progress (1,000 - 2,500 words). For more information about the journal, please visit the website: http://www.perpetuitypress.com/acatalog/Perpetuity_Press_Security_Journal_22.html. For inquiries concerning submission guidelines and requirements, please contact co-editor Professor Bonnie Fisher at: Bonnie.Fisher@uc.edu

JOURNAL OF SCHOOL VIOLENCE

From playground bullying to mass murder, the Journal of School Violence tracks the causes, consequences, and costs of aggressive or violent behavior in children from kindergarten through twelfth grade. It presents up-to-date research, practice, and theory with a focus on prevention and intervention. The Journal of School Violence offers tested information on such urgent matters as threat assessment, hostage situations, stalking behavior, and teacher safety, as well as articles on longer-range strategic planning. This peer-reviewed journal shows teachers and counselors how to deal with immediate problems and helps administrators and policymakers plan effectively to ensure school security. Four copies of the manuscript should be submitted. The manuscript should be approximately 15-20 pages double-spaced with a one-inch margin on all four sides and should include an abstract of 100 words, a title page, and a brief biographical sketch of author(s). References, citations, and general style of manuscript should follow the AA style (as outlined in the latest edition of Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association. References should be double-spaced and placed in alphabetical order. Send all requests and manuscripts to: Edwin R. Gerler, Jr., Edd, Department of Educational Research, Leadership & Counselor Education, College of Education & Psychology, North Carolina State University, Box 7801, Raleigh, NC 27695-7801; Tel: (919) 515-5975; Fax: (919) 515-6891; E-mail: Ergerler@gw.fis.ncsu.edu or edwin.gerler@ncsu.edu.
